City, Navy Sign Lease

Squantum Gardens Seen Ready For Seniors By Fall

Mayor James Sheets is now eyeing October as the date for the first senior citizens to begin moving into Squantum Gardens now that the city has signed a formal lease with the Navy.

The signing on Monday will allow the city's plans for senior housing and related facilities at the site to move forward.

"I think that this says to seniors that this is more than just a concept now, it's happened," the mayor said after the event.

On hand for the ceremony were city officials, Navy personnel and about 40 residents of the city. Sheets signed the lease for the city while Rear Admiral Stephen Keith, a Quincy native and commander of Navy air reserve forces, represented the Secretary of the Navy.

With the signing complete, the city can begin moving the first tenants into the 112-unit complex while its seeks permanent ownership, either through a special, no-cost conveyance or a negotiated purchase.

The Quincy Council on Aging will take tenant applications later this summer, and the city will subsequently prepare a list of qualified applicants. The first group of tenants will be chosen by lottery, and Sheets said they should be able to rent the first units in the Naval Terrace duplexes at the site by the first week in October.

Proposed Dog Ban Runs Into Opposition

By MICHAEL WHALEN

More than 75 people attended a City Council public hearing Monday night on a proposed annual ban of dogs from all city parks and playgrounds from April through November.

An overwhelming majority of those in attendance voiced opposition to the ban. The hearing was held in the second floor Conference Room in City Hall Annex due to renovations to the Council Chambers in Old City Hall.

Thirty-one people spoke against the ban and 46 signed in opposition, although a number of those in the latter group were among the speakers. Eight people voiced support of the ban and an additional five signed in favor.

Those in favor said they and their families should not have to deal with problems such as loose canines and dog feces while in a park or playground. Opponents, however, said as taxpayers they have the right, and as responsible pet owners the duty, to exercise their dogs.

The proposal was intro-

Over Moon Island Gun Range

City May Take Legal Action Against Boston

The city is considering taking legal action against Boston to stop the continued use of a gun range on Moon Island, according to Mayor James Sheets.

Sheets would not go into details at press time but said he is consulting with City Solicitor Stephen McGrath on what course of action should be taken. A final decision will be made after the Fourth of July, he said.

The mayor's announcement Tuesday came two days after about 30 Quincy residents protested the continued use of the range. The protest took place not far from where Boston Mayor Thomas Menino was speaking at the opening ceremonies for the Boston Harbor Islands National Recreation Area, the latest addition to the national park system.

Sheets, who was out of the city Sunday, backed the protesters Tuesday.

"I understand and support the protest," said the mayor,

Later Police Detail At Varsity Club

The Quincy License Board Tuesday, changed the police detail at the Varsity Club at 33 Independence Ave., from 8 p.m. to 12 midnight to 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. following complaints from Lois Ferrazzi, an abutter.

The new detail will be in force the months of July and August.

Ferrazzi, representing a neighborhood group in the area, spoke of the gates not being locked after 12:30 p.m . as promised, patrons leaving cars in the parking lot and then returning after 2 a.m., noise from the refrigerator out back 24 hours a day, and the loss of two of her tenants because of the noise.

She urged the board to change the hours of the police detail.

Atty. George Burke representing owner Adams Kessler told the board that Kessler runs a "very fine establishment" and has adhered to all the rules and regulations.

Chairman Joseph Shea admitted he has received complaints from neighbors and has met with Ward 4 Councillor Mike D'Amico as well as those neighbors.

At one point, Ferrazzi and Police Chief Mullen exchanged harsh words about how Ferrazzi was treated on the phone by the police.

She said she was "reluctant to call the police" because of the bad reception she receiveed.

Mullen took exception and said "I don't buy that stuff" and asked Ferrazzi to get the name of the policeman who treated her unfairly and to "get specific when dealing with generalities."

Ferrazzi said her time calling police and the Varsity club is "not time well spent" and called the patrons at the club "basically rowdy people."

Kessler said "we've tried everything to do the right thing." and said he sends employees out to check various things after 12:30 p.m. including the gates. He said cars have been towed after being found at the lot after 12:30 p.m.

Kessler said they used to notify the police when this occurred, but had stopped doing so..

Police Chief Francis Mullen advised Kessler to continue to notify the police and to "make sure you monitor patrons so no one gets overloaded."

Firechief Thomas Gorman, who lives near the Varsity Club said he thought conditions had improved over the last two years and said the parking was better especially since cars were no longer parking at the CVS across the street.

Ferrazzi said her problem was not about parking, but of dumpsters being collected before 8 a.m. and noise in the back of the building in the wee hours of the morning.

Shea questioned Kessler about the locked gates and said the problems at the club was an "ongoing dialogue", stating that in the summer, there are more problems.

The board plans to review the club in 90 days.

Wollaston Beach Reopened For Swimming, Bathing

Wollaston Beach has been reopened for swimming and bathing after twice testing high for fecal coliform counts last week.

On June 25, water samples obtained during testing conducted by the Metropolitan District Commission, which owns the beach, showed fecal coliform counts of 700 at Rice Road and 2,040 at Channing Street. The Quincy Health Department considers samples with counts less than 200 acceptable for bathing and swimming.

The following day, samples obtained during MDC testing showed fecal coliform counts of 3,400 at Sachem Street and 1,380 at Channing Street, although Rice Road dropped to 25.

The Health Department posted signs on the beach after the high fecal coliform counts. However, the signs have since been removed as subsequent testing has resulted in counts below 200 in all areas of the beach.

The next MDC testing was scheduled for yesterday (Wednesday).

City To Receive $40,000 In Water, Sewer Relief

State Rep. Ron Mariano and Quincy Community Action Programs announce that $40,033.35 in water and sewer relief will be made available to low income residents of Quincy.

"One of my priorities as a state representative has been, and continues to be, controlling skyrocketing water and sewer rates. I am pleased to announce that, as a direct result of this state-funded program, over 500 Quincy households will benefit from water and sewer relief," said Mariano.

The program gives income eligible homeowners in Quincy a credit on their water and sewer bill equal to 25 percent of their annual bill, up to a maximum of $200.

Mariano, who serves as vice chairman of the Legislature's MWRA Caucus said, "This initiative was one of the priorities of the caucus and further augments our efforts to provide rate relief to Quincy residents."

Last month, the House was successful in securing $55 million in water and sewer relief for MWRA ratepayers.

who added that the gun range is an "incompatible use" with the new recreation area. Moon Island is one of the 31 islands incorporated into the National Park system.

Moon Island falls within Quincy city limits in Squantum but is owned by Boston. A bridge connects Moon Island to Long Island, which is owned by Boston and is part of Boston.

Menino has said the gun range, which has caused friction between the two cities, cannot be moved because it is used by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Brookline police, Cambridge police and the Navy. He also has said Boston has recently addressed many concerns about the range, including the collection of spent bullets, soundproofing, and tree planting.

On Monday, State Secretary of Environmental Affairs signed off on a final environmental impact statement giving Boston approval to expand the 39-year-old training facility.

Quincy officials, however, including City Councillor Michael Cheney, state Sen. Michael Morrissey and Rep. Michael Bellotti, say the city is on strong legal ground concerning the range. They say Quincy can claim Boston is violating its original deed for the island by allowing federal law enforcement agencies and police from other communities to use the gun range for training.

Cheney also has said the city could appeal to the National Park Service in an effort to turn Moon Island into a recreational area like the other islands.

Meanwhile, the state Legislature is considering forming a non-binding commission to study the best way to manage the island.

Strike At BFI Prevented

An agreement between Browning-Ferris Industries and Teamsters Local 379 reached early Monday night prevented a strike by BFI workers just hours before it was slated to begin.

Employees of the city's trash collector had threatened to go on strike at midnight Tuesday before the pact was reached. BFI is contracted by the city to collect trash from 23,700 households in Quincy.

Union officials said the primary disagreement with the company was over whether workers should continue to be paid overtime for working weekends. After several months of deadlock, both sides have agreed the weekend overtime will continue, they said.

City officials, including Mayor James Sheets, said they had another company lined up to temporarily take over trash collection if the strike took place.

The strike would have affected other communities besides Quincy, including Boston, Canton, Watertown, Belmont, Lexington and Arlington, as well as private trash collection in the Greater Boston area.

BFI, which has been collecting Quincy's trash since the 1970s, will be paid $3.5 million for Fiscal Year 1998, which began Tuesday.

To Protest Violations In Burma

Harold Plans Human Rights Ordinance

By MICHAEL WHALEN

City Councillor Paul Harold is planning to introduce an ordinance that would prohibit the city from purchasing goods or services from companies doing business in Myanmar, also known as Burma.

Harold, who is taking the action at the request of the South Shore Coalition for Human Rights, said he likely will introduce the law in September.

PAUL D. HAROLD

The law will need the support of the majority of the City Council and the signature of Mayor James Sheets.

In March, the council unanimously passed a resolution introduced by Harold condemning the human rights violations in the Asian nation.

On Tuesday, Harold said passing a formal law in protest of those violations is the next step that needs to be taken.

"It's important for all Americans to stand up for American ideals around the world," he said. "This is what the United States has stood for since its founding, and I think it's appropriate that the plans for this ordinance are being announced on the eve of July 4."

Harold said he does not want the law to apply to pension investments, but he plans no other exceptions. Headded that passing such a law would be consistant with the positions of both the state and federal governments.

The list of human rights violations in Burma is considerable.

A 1990 election giving 82 percent of the seats in Parliament to a democratic party was ignored by the military junta. The leader of the pro-democracy party in Burma, Aung San Suu Kyi, who was given the Nobel Peace Prize in 1991, has been placed under "house arrest" by the military for six years.

Local human rights activists have said profits from foreign investments go directly to the Burmese government and lead to forced labor and other human rights abuses. The government also has protected drug dealers who sell 60 percent of the heroin on the world market, and child prostitution in that area flourishes, they say.

Massachusetts has passed the first state law in the country prohibiting the state from purchasing goods or services from companies doing business in Burma. Several cities have passed similar laws.

Harold noted that the United States has placed sanctions on Burma for the same reasons.

Some of the U.S. companies conducting business in Burma are Texaco, Atlantic Richfield, Cluett Peabody, Pan American Enterprises, Servcorp and United Technologies Corp.

Many companies in the United States, however, have pulled out of Burma because of consumer pressure. Among those are Liz Claiborne, Eddie Bauer, Disney, Pepsico, Levi Strauss, Heineken, Amoco, and Macy's.

Apple Computer and Hewlett Packard are among the firms that have pulled out of Burma as a direct result of the Massachusetts selective purchasing law.

SQUANTUM GARDENS lease was signed Monday between the Navy and the city which will allow Quincy to begin preparing for its planned senior citizens facilities at the site. Seated from left are Rear Admiral Stephen Keith, a Quincy native and commander of air reserve forces who represented the Secretary of the Navy; Mayor James Sheets, who signed the lease for the city and Capt. Robert Duetsch, commander of the South Weymouth Naval Air Station. ters, a senior center and medical and homeless facilities also will operate out of Squantum Gardens.

The Navy is giving up the site, as well as the South Weymouth Naval Air Station, in the Defense Department's nationwide base-closure program.

Under the lease, Quincy can operate the 27-acre complex for up to 20 years while a permanent acquisition is being worked out or paid for. That includes a five-year initial term, with up to three five-year extensions.

Not all of the city's plans, including those for the senior center and medical facilities, are allowable under Navy regulations while the site is being leased. However, the city can renovate and improve the existing apartment buildings.

Opponents of the plan, including state Sen. Michael Morrissey, have said the city will end up paying millions of dollars for Squantum Gardens because senior housing is not on a list of automatically-approved local uses for base closures such as industrial development or housing for the homeless.

Sheets and City Council members have disagreed with that notion, however, saying the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Navy will approve a special conveyance, possibly as soon as next year.

New Concept Restaurant Planned At Marina Bay

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Plans for a new restaurant at Marina Bay with a new concept were unveiled Tuesday at the Quincy License Board meeting by owner William S. O'Connell.

At the meeting, O'Connell was requesting a common-victualer-all-alcoholic beverage license.

O'Connell said the 180 seat restaurant to be called The Ocean Club & Raw Bar, 319 Victory Rd, will be distinctive in three ways in that it will be a non-smoking establishment including the bar; no cocktails will be served on the two decks, and the restaurant will feature "food and "not alcohol".

O'Connell said his menu will rely heavily on seafood and not a competitive menu regarding other area restaurants.

Chairman Joseph Shea addressing the parking problems existing at Marina Bay questioned why the Skipper Parking Lot lists only certain businesses.

O'Connell said out of a required 503 parking spaces, he will offer 514 parking spaces. Patrons will be able to use spaces at the Administration Building and then may walk through the lobby after 5 p.m.

The building, now under construction is being built on an existing foundation. The old building was once a boutique, then an electronics company and was razed to make way for the new restaurant.

The two story building will be handicapped accessible with a chair lift to the second floor. It will have two stairways, one for the patrons and a service one.

There were no abutters attending the meeting. Some questions from Squantum resident Mary Collins about the parking were answered by O'Connell.

No vote was taken, but a motion to carry over the hearing until July 15 was voted on. Shea explained that there was not a full board because member Jane Gallahue was on vacation, and the fact that all new liquor licences under law are required to have two meetings.

According to Shea, the liquor license for the city of Quincy are at a max and the only way O'Connell could receive a liquor license was the surrendering of one not used. This was the case of a transfer of a license issued to James Shea Inc. who proposed to construct a restaurant on Ricciuti Drive, but who since has sold the land for a golf course.

Representing O'Connell was Atty. Richard Pierce.

President's Wreath To Honor John Adams

A wreath from the White House will be placed on the tomb of President John Quincy Adams in a ceremony at United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center on Friday, July 11 at 12:15 p.m.

The wreath-laying ceremony marks the 230th birthdate anniversary of the sixth President of the United States who was born July 11, 1767.

Lt. Michael Dewitt, executive officer of the Naval Reserve Center in South Weymouth, will present the wreath on behalf of President Clinton. A Color Guard from the South Weymouth Naval Air Station will present the colors.

Mayor James Sheets, Adams Temple and School Fund Administrator and City Councillor Paul Harold, and Dr. Sheldon Bennett, First Parish minister will give remarks.

A tour of the church and crypt will be offered following the ceremony. The public is invited and admission is free. For more information, call 773-0062 or 773-1290.

Who Will Get The QHA Post?

The big question around town:

Who will get the Quincy Housing Authority executive director's position John (Jake) Comer retired from last April?

There are no official applicants yet because there are no official applications yet.

But a number of names are being mentioned for the appointment whether they have indicated an interest or not. Among them, in no special order:

CHENEY

MARIANO

Councillor Michael Cheney who will be leaving the City Council this year.

School Committeeman Ron Mariano although he has indicated he will seek re-election this year.

WAHLBERG

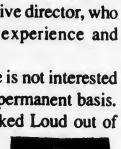
CHRETIEN

Rosemary Wahlberg, Quincy Community Action executive director, who served a number of years on the QHA Board of Commissioners.

Former Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien.

Rhonda Merrill, a long-time supporter of Mayor James Sheets going back to when he first ran for the Ward 4 city council seat.

But there seems to be a name missing.



LOUD

What about Jackie Loud, now QHA acting executive director, who certainly has the experience and qualifications?

She says she is not interested in the top job on a permanent basis.

Comer plucked Loud out of the city solicitor's office 15 years ago and made her his secretary. Five years ago she became assistant director when John Cattaneo retired. Comer often called her "my right arm."

COMER

So far she has said "no" to anyone asking her if she is interested in the job. But she could possibly change her mind. There are those trying to convince her to do just that.

If she did reconsider and got the job, it would eliminate any question of "politics" being involved. Her appointment would be considered a promotion.

The five-member Board of Commissioners will make the final decision from among the applicants. The board comprises Rev. James Kimmell, chairman; Kay Bamford, Christine Cedrone, Frank Kearns and James McDonald.

Three of five votes are needed.

The job pays around $61,000 to start and moves up the salary scale. Comer's salary was $74,000 after 15 years.

The Quincy Housing Authority, now in its 51st year, has had four executive directors--all men.

There's speculation now the fifth one could very well be the first woman.

Want to be an FBI agent? Although the FBI occasionally hires people with special skills in other fields, the basic educational requirement is usually a law degree or a degree in accounting.

WARD 6 IS beginning to look like a political hotbed. A fifth candidate has taken out nomination papers for that ward's council seat.

He's Brian McNamee of Billings Rd., who is 40 and an auditor. His candidacy shouldn't be too much of a surprise, though. He's been attending council meetings for a while now.

McNamee makes four challengers for incumbent Bruce Ayers. The other three are Daniel Dykens, Joseph Newton and Patricia Thorley.

AN EDITORIAL WRITTEN by Rev. John Swanson, pastor of Union Congregational Church, has won a national award.

SWANSON

The editorial entitled "Bumper Stickers" which appeared in the church's monthly publication, "The Newsletter" won the honor recently in Atlanta, GA.

The National Association of Congregational Churches selected it as the best pastor's message in a church newsletter for 1997.

Swanson expressed deep concerns over obscene four-letter bumper stickers travelling around "in your face" on rear bumpers and back windows of cars.

Excerpts of the editorial appeared in this column in April.

Swanson, incidentally, is a former Sun newscarrier.

FOUR OF THE city's political figures could probably put together a quick political caucus any weekend.

TOBIN

Rep. Steve Tobin, his wife, Francine and children recently moved from Virginia Road to Miles Drive.

Close to the homes of Mayor James Sheets, Furnace Brook Parkway; Councillor Tim Cahill, Grenwold Road and Councillor Steve Durkin, Colonial Drive.

"If we got together at a backyard barbecue we'd probably have to post an open meeting law notice," quips Tobin.

WEDDING BELLS rang recently for Chris Bell, legislative aide to Rep. Michael Bellotti, and Kathleen McGillicuddy, executive assistant in the Executive Office of Environmental Affairs.

Bellotti was best man at the wedding in St. Eulalia's Church in Winchester. His father and mother, former Atty. Gen. Frank and Maggie Bellotti, were among the guests.

The bride and groom met at a State House Christmas party two and a half years ago.

THE GOOD OLD Days: Remember when you had to go to Boston to see a panhandler?

Jack Jouett was the Paul Revere of the South, but without the post-publicist. In 1781, he learned of a British plan to capture Thomas Jefferson and rode 40 miles to warn him.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1933 POSTCARD showing a busy Wollaston Beach. The view was taken from the ramp of the Wollaston Yacht Club. People came from miles around to swim here. Built in the twenties, the old seawall provided seating and even a little shade for those not dressed for swimming. Memories Of Quincy

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I remember when Al Pesso had a dance studio for kids at the Wollaston Theatre and we put on a production of "Cinderella." I remember when Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa invited my friend Dennis Ross and I up to his chambers to view a panorama of the Quincy skyline.

I remember when Hillary Clinton spoke at the Thomas Crane Library and her voice echoed and boomed behind me as I walked up the stairs to Presidents Lane. I remember when Reuben and Lizzie Grossman lived near the Parkingway and I remember Reuben's last year when he personally greeted all the members of his synagogue during the high holidays with the aid of a walker.

I remember talking to Harold Davis in front of City Hall when he ran for City Council I remember Luke Sheets playing his guitar and singing for a First Night Quincy audience with his father, the mayor listening in the back row.

I remember when State Street South opened and Mayor James McIntyre gave the opening address. I remember hearing Charles Francis Adams speak about his family at one of the Adams Mansion Carriage House Lectures. I remember watching Martin Luther King's "I Have A Dream" speech at Prof. Edith F. Cove's home on Elm Ave. in Wollaston.

I remember a bunch of us from the Harvard Club of Quincy buzzing around Wollaston Bay in Hal Goodman's speedboat. I remember when Mel King spoke at Central Junior High School's Step Into Society Program. I remember when Miss Jensen, who spoke with an English accent, was our sixth grade teacher at the Cranch Elementary School.

I remember Steve McGrath dropping by the house to say hello to my mother and father when he first started to run for office. I remember reading Joe LaRaia's fictional account of Quincy as a town called "Quarry." I remember when they used to burn trash at the dump on Quarry Street and you could see the smoke rising from the dump as you drove by.

I remember when Kay and Ernie Montilio had a party at their house, their dining room table was always filled with delicious and fattening pastries from their bakery. Taxpayers' Group Backs Parking Plan

July 3-9

By PAUL HAROLD

The Quincy Taxpayers' Association (QTA) endorsed City Planner James Lee's plan expanding off-street parking in the downtown and widening of roads.

However, the QTA called for an expansion of Lee's design by taking all properties along School Street, from Hancock Street to Hancock Court, as far back as the Parkingway. They also wanted School St. to be widened to 80 feet.

Total cost for project was estimated at $1 million.

SHIPYARD LOSES FRIGATE CONTRACT

Cong. James Burke informed shipyard officials that N.Y. Shipbuilding at Camden, N.J. outbid Quincy for the construction of a Bainbridge type nuclear powered frigate. Their bid was $18 million lower than Fore River's.

It was thought Quincy would have an advantage in the bidding since it was building the Bainbridge, the first nuclear powered frigate in the Navy.

In the same announcement, Burke said that while they lost the big contract, Fore River was among five yards earmarked to build a nuclear attack submarine.

ELSIE'S TO OPEN UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Elsie's, a popular North Quincy landmark, was scheduled to open under new management, with a cabaret license issued to the new Beach Ball Lounge.

Alfred O'Connor's new establishment on Quincy Shore Drive was given the license on a 60-day trial basis, with the requirement of making certain repairs and improvements.

Children's Performing Arts Classes At Beechwood

A Children's Performing Arts Class is being offered during July and August at Beechwood on the Bay, 440 East Squantum St., Quincy.

"It is important to motivate children in understanding the value of theater. This can be accomplished by exposing them to theater in a fun and innovative manner," said Sharron Beals, Beechwood's executive director.

The performing arts program runs for two weeks. During the first week of each session, children learn theater arts skills such as mime, dance, line-memorization, musical theater songs, and puppetry. The second week is performance-oriented, with a small play or musical theater production held on Thursday.

Two sessions of the Children's Performing Arts Class are offered: July 8-10 and 15-17 and Aug. 12-14 and 15-17. To register call 471-5712.

Boston Gear's Parent Company Sold

Imo Industries Inc., the parent company of Boston Gear in Quincy since 1987, announces that Imo and United Dominion Industries Limited have executed a definitive merger agreement providing for the acquisition of Imo by United Dominion.

Under the terms of the merger agreement, United Dominion will commence a cash tender offer for all outstanding shares of Imo common stock at a price of $6 per share, net in cash. The purchase price represents a premium of approximately 89 percent over the average trading price of the last 90 days.

Simultaneously with the tender offer for the shares of Imo common stock, United Dominion also will commence an offer to purchase for cash at 120 percent of the principal amount thereof all of Imo's 11 3/4 percent Senior Subordinated Notes due 2006 (of which $155 million are outstanding) and solicit consents from the holders of the notes to obtain certain amendments to the indenture in connection with the merger.

The tender offer for the shares of Imo common stock is conditioned on the receipt of 80 percent of the shares and the tender offer for the notes is conditioned on receipt of a majority of the principal amount of the notes. Each offer is conditioned on the successful completion of the other and certain other customary conditions.

Any shares not purchased in the tender offer will be acquired in a subsequent merger at the same $6 per share net cash price, to be effected as soon as practicable after the completion of the tender offer and the offer to purchase. Any notes not purchased in the offer to purchase will remain outstanding.

Annual Chris Peter Blood Drive July 15

The 13th annual Chris Peter Blood Drive will be held Tuesday, July 15 from 2 to 8 p.m. at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall, Darrow St. (behind Most Blessed Sacrament Church), Houghs Neck.

There will be signs beginning at the Quincy Police Station located at Southern and Sea St. leading to the donor event.

The event, which benefits the American Red Cross, is held in memory of Chris Peter of Houghs Neck who was killed by a drunken driver in September of 1984 at the age of 22. The Blood Drive is run by the Red Cross and sponsored by the Peter family.

Babysitting and homemade goods will be available. Donors are encouraged to make appointments but walk-ins are welcome.

For more information or an appointment, call Charles or Trudy Peter at 471-9586.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT BLISTERS

In years past, when physical labor was a fact of life, everybody knew what to do about blisters. These days, not everyone is so sure. The best treatment is usually to leave the blister alone, cleaning it gently with soap and water and applying a bandage for protection. The skin of the blister acts as a natural barrier to bacteria, and the clear fluid helps a fresh layer of skin to form. If you must pop the blister due to its location, do so with a sterile needle, making a prick on the side of the blister. Press out the liquid using sterile gauze or cotton, and cover with antibiotic ointment and a bandage until it heals.

P.S. Consult your doctor if a blister is accompanied by pronounced swelling, redness or pus at the site.

If you badly blister your hand or foot, be sure to keep the area clean and protected. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we specialize in heart disease. Call me or Dr. Lisa Antonelli at 472-2550. Office hours by appointment. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospitals. You'll find that we care about you and it shows in everything we do.

On July 1st, Fallon Ambulance Started Bringing Its Dedication To Excellent Service To The People Of Quincy.

At Fallon, we're very grateful for having recently been awarded the contract to serve Quincy. We've looked forward to bringing our reputation for community service to your neighborhood. We want the people of Quincy to know that not only will three Fallon ambulances, two for advanced life support and one for basic life support, be dedicated to serving the community 24-hours a day, 7-days a week, but the Fallon family is also here to serve yours.

We'll also be providing EMS scholarships to Quincy students and residents; ongoing city-wide EMS seminars; EMS education classes for seniors; and a 911 educational program for the Quincy school system.

It's all part of our strong community focus and commitment to provide you with the best possible service. Because at Fallon, we're not only your ambulance service company, we're also your neighbor.

Star Market BankBoston End In-Store Banking, Partnership

Star Markets Company, Inc., and BankBoston, NA have announced their decision to terminate their agreement to develop BankBoston in-store branch bank facilities in Star Market stores.

At the same time, it was decided by both Star and BankBoston that the 12 existing BankBoston branches located in Star Market stores would close and the space be returned to Star.

The 12 BankBoston branches are located in Star Market stores in Quincy, Allston, Franklin, Gloucester, Hyde Park, Malden, Milford, Medford, North Reading, Norwell, Plymouth and West Roxbury.

As a result of the merger between former Bank of Boston and BayBanks, Inc., BankBoston currently operates branches in both Star Market stores and Super Stop & Shop stores. The merger prevented the development of a comprehensive network of in-store branches at Star locations. Star and BankBoston mutually agreed to terminate their agreement, allowing Star to develop an in-store branch relationship with a new bank partner or partners.

The branches are scheduled to transition beginning in mid-September and will be completed by early October. Approximately 105 bank employees will be affected, although BankBoston said every effort will be made to redeploy employees within BankBoston. The branches in Star locations will reopen under the banner of a new bank as soon as possible after the branch openings.

Country-Western Program At Sidewalk Festival July 17

The 27th annual Quincy Sidewalk Festival will feature a Country-Western Program Thursday, July 17.

Taking center stage at 5:30 p.m. for the third year in a row will be the nationally-known band, The Blue Hill Kickers. The group has played Las Vegas and won several top honor trophies both as a band and as single vocalists. Several members are composers, and between their own compositions and those from industry writers, they have a breadth of material.

Featured with their performance will be Barry Wood, on-air radio personality, who will offer some line dance demonstration surprise as an added feature.

Many local restaurant will offer special "western" menu items in keeping with the musical entertainment. And in the afternoon, a special children's performer, Calamity Jane, will star in a show based on the concept of "How The West Was Fun." Played by Marianne Donnelly, she will treat her young audience with western games, songs, stories, and simple country dancing.

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association is the sponsor of the event. Additional family entertainment is planned for three days from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. beginning July 17 and continuing through July 19. For more information, call 471-3232.

Nan O'Neil Elected To Sheltering Coalition Board

Nan O'Neil recently was elected to the Board of Directors of Quincy Interfaith Coalition (QISC).

QISC, a nonprofit organization committed to ending homelessness on the South Shore, operates the homeless shelter and day program, Fr. Bill's Place. It also operates a variety of housing-based programs to serve the homeless.

O'Neil, a partner in the law firm of Murphy, Hesse, Toomey and Lehane in Quincy, emphasizes labor and employment law. Her practice includes advising clients on a daily basis with respect to a wide range of employment issues. She also has extensive experience in litigation and arbitration of employment-related disputes, including discrimination and wrongful termination matters, before state and federal courts and administrative agencies such as the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination. O'Neil also represents clients in collective bargaining negotiations.

O'Neil was previously associated with the Boston law firm of Goodwin, Proctor and Hoar and the Chicago law firm of Wildman, Harrold, Allen and Dixon. She is a graduate of Boston College and the Georgetown University Law Center, where she served as Articles and Notes Editor of the American Criminal Law Review and received awards for outstanding work in the study of labor law.

Lori Ann Allen Northeastern Grad

Lori Ann Allen recently received a bachelor of science degree in criminal justice, with a minor in sociology, from Northeastern University.

Allen will continue with graduate studies in January.

She is the daughter of Paul and Margaret Nigro Allen of East Bridgewater, formerly of Quincy.

Mark Sinclair On Colby Dean's List

Mark Sinclair of Quincy has been named to the Dean's List at Colby College for the spring semester.

Sinclair, who graduated this spring with a degree in physics, is the son of Frank and Anna Sinclair of Quincy.

Snug Harbor School Receives $3,070 Grant

The Snug Harbor Community School in Germantown has been given a grant of $3,070 by the Travelers Property Casualty Corporation as part of the company's local contributions program being conducted at its offices throughout the country.

The school will utilize the funds to purchase new computer equipment for its special education department. The computer system will be used to facilitate instruction in reading and math and assist students who have occupational therapy needs in completing written assignments.

During non-instructional time, the computer will be used by the special education staff to complete reports and other paperwork required by federal and state laws.

The selection of Snug Harbor was made by the Foundation Committee representing Travelers Property Casualty Corporation's Quincy office. The initial selection of a local worthwhile organization was made by the company's field office personnel. The school's application was then approved by the Travelers Foundation in New York, the philanthropic arm of Travelers Property Casualty Corporation's parent Travelers Group.

Travelers Group is a diversified financial services company engaged in investment services. Insurance services and consumer finance.

Principal Richard O'Brien, Assistant Principal Allan Osborne, and special education teacher Karen Johnson accepted the check on behalf of Snug Harbor. The school is a nationally-recognized Blue Ribbon School of Excellence.

Bereavement Group Meetings At Hospital

Quincy Hospital's Bereavement Group will begin meeting July 30 and continue for eight weeks on Wednesdays from 2:30 to 4 p.m. at the hospital, 114 Whitwell St.

The support group addresses feelings of helplessness and hopelessness. It is facilitated by Rev. Ann Rearick, certified bereavement counselor and director of pastoral care at Quincy Hospital.

Membership is open to those suffering the loss of a loved one. It is a free service to the community.

Advance registration is required. Call Rev. Rearick at 376-5502 to register or for more information.

CRANK CALLS

When an automobile's starting system cannot exert sufficient power to crank the engine enough to start it, the problem can usually be traced to the battery, alternator, voltage regulator or the electrical wiring that connects these components. The battery's job is to provide electrical power for the starter motor when the ignition switch is turned. The starter motor gear engages the engine flywheel to crank and start the engine. The battery expends a considerable amount of energy each time it powers the starter motor. The charging system, which is comprised of the alternator and voltage regulator, provides current that restores the battery to full charge after it has used its energy to run the starter motor.

HINT: Because the alternator and voltage regulator are usually reliable, any apparent reduction in current should first prompt a check of the alternator belt, which can reduce the current output of the alternator and cause the battery to run down if it is loose.

Open House Meetings Scheduled For New Underground Electric Cables

Preferred Route
The preferred route begins at Dewar Street Substation, and continues along open space next to the MBTA right-of-way and Southeast Expressway right-of-way to and along Victory Road. The route then extends under the Neponset River, through open space at Squantum Point, along Commander Shea Boulevard, and ends at North Quincy Substation.

Alternative Route
The alternative route is the same as the preferred route from Dewar Street Substation to Victory Road. At Victory Road, instead of crossing the river, the route continues along open space to Conley St., Tenean St., and Norwood St. Then it follows the traffic islands on Morrissey Boulevard and crosses the river on the underside of the Neponset River Bridge. From there, it goes down Hancock St. to the North Quincy Substation.

Dorchester to Squantum Route Chosen

Everyone interested in the Massachusetts Electric project is invited to attend the open house meetings in Dorchester and Quincy to learn about the plan, including: Route Selection, Construction Techniques, Scheduling, and more.

Massachusetts Electric officials will be at the meetings to answer your questions and to discuss the plan in detail.

Open house meetings are designed so that you can arrive at any time during the planned schedule, look at the displays, and ask questions of the Massachusetts Electric officials.

You can spend as little as 10 minutes there, or stay for the entire meeting. There will be no formal speech. The meetings are meant to fit your schedule and to answer your specific questions.

   5 p.m. to 8 p.m.

About the Project
Over the past two years, Massachusetts Electric has developed a plan to strengthen the electric grid system for Dorchester and Quincy. This will be achieved by connecting two local substations: Boston Edison's Dewar Street Substation in Dorchester, and Massachusetts Electric's North Quincy Substation on Spruce Street in Quincy.

The new underground cables primarily will improve the reliability of the electric supply in Quincy by providing a second source of electric power. The new cables also can be used to support the electric needs of Dorchester.

Preferred and Alternative Routes
The preferred route was developed after many meetings in Dorchester and Quincy. The community input we obtained has enabled us to select a route that will minimize community disruption and environmental impacts. The route is located primarily on undeveloped land and avoids many city streets, residential areas, and businesses.

As part of our permit filing with the Massachusetts Energy Facilities Siting Board, we are required to submit an alternative to our preferred route. (See the map above.) The alternative route only would be considered if the preferred route is NOT approved.

Filing for Permits
After the open house meetings in June 1997, we will file for permits with the Massachusetts Energy Facilities Siting Board and other agencies. If the project is approved, we plan to begin construction in late1998. The cables would be installed in 1999, with project completion by the summer of 2000.

A Note of Thanks
Massachusetts Electric would like to thank all project participants for their helpful comments and patience throughout the development of the plan. We look forward to working closely with the Dorchester and Quincy communities as the project moves ahead.

Upon request, Massachusetts Electric will provide information about the cable project in languages other than English.

Ayers Announces Bid For Fourth Term

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers recently announced he will seek a fourth term before 250 supporters at a reception at Raffael's Restaurant.

BRUCE AYERS

Ayers, 35, lives with his wife, Maureen, on Williams Street, North Quincy. For the past 15 years, he has been the small business owner of Ayers Handicapped Conversion Center, 440 East Squantum St. The Center converts vans and automobiles to fit the individual needs of the disabled.

"I would like to see government services and institutions maintained at the current level while, at the same time I would insist on fiscal responsibility to keep taxes as low as possible," Ayers said. "I will continue to work closely with the community and will scrutinize proposals by developers and businesses interested to locate in Ward 6. We are morally obligated to ensure the impact on the neighborhood is positive when presented with proposals by businesses and developers desiring to locate in Ward 6."

Ayers cited a number of issues he has faced in working with the community over the years. Ayers, chairman of the Committee on Disabilities, founded the Helping Hands program, a program which offers free home health care equipment to persons temporarily or permanently disabled. He has received many awards in recognition of his work with elders and the handicapped.

"I have worked to secure additional police presence and for strengthening the fire fighting force for Ward 6. The restoration of our parks has been and continues to be a priority along with my priority for improving our schools.

"Working closely with the community and utilizing my business background, we can continue to protect the quality of life issues that make Ward 6 the great area of the city in which to live and work it now enjoys," Ayers said.

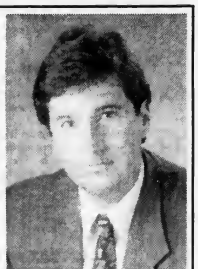
Division Of Registration Pamphlet Available

The Division of Registration's Speakers' Engagement Pamphlet is available, announces state Sen. Michael Morrissey.

"The Division of Registration is offering an opportunity to consumer organizations, schools, government agencies, professional organizations and interest groups to have a speaker from the Division to speak and answer questions about issues concerning licensed professionals," said Morrissey, Senate chairman of the Joint Committee on Government Regulations. "This is a free service and the speakers provide this service on a voluntary basis."



Requests for a speaker must be made at least four weeks before the speaking date.

The pamphlet complements the Division of Registration's "A Consumer's Guide to the Licensed Professions Within the Division of Registration," which was published in May. The Division of Registration oversees the regulatory process of over 45 trades and professions licensed by 32 boards of Registration.

"Both are valuable resources for people to learn about the Division of Registration and licensed professions," said Morrissey.

For copies of the Division of Registration's Speaker's Bureau Pamphlet, or copies of A Consumer's Guide to the Licensed Professions Within the Division of Registration, call Morrissey's office at 722-1494.

THANK YOU

My honest and sincere thanks for making my recent fundraiser a success.

ASK YOUR LAWYER

by Kevin F. O'Donnell
ATTORNEY AT LAW

ASSESSING YOUR CASE

Anyone who suffers a serious injury should take immediate steps to consult with an attorney to find out the legal steps he or she might take. Aside from taking into account the severity of the injury, the lawyer will want to consider the ability of the person who caused the injury to pay a monetary judgment, as well as whether the wrongdoer is liable under the circumstances. These are factors that should be decided by a lawyer. An accident victim who takes the time to mull over his or her circumstances is wasting precious time, during which evidence must be garnered and witnesses should be questioned. If an accident causes a victim to seek medical treatment and/or results in lost time from work, an attorney should be consulted without hesitation.

HINT: Personal injury cases are usually handled on a contingent-fee basis, thereby making litigation more affordable by the plaintiff.

Have you been injured? Call 773-2880 today to schedule a free consultation. Protect your rights and the rights of the loved ones dependent upon you. My dedicated support staff and I will work hard to represent you and settle your case as fairly and as quickly as possible. Our office is conveniently located in the Gridley Bryant Office Condominiums, 111 Willard Street. We don't collect until you do.

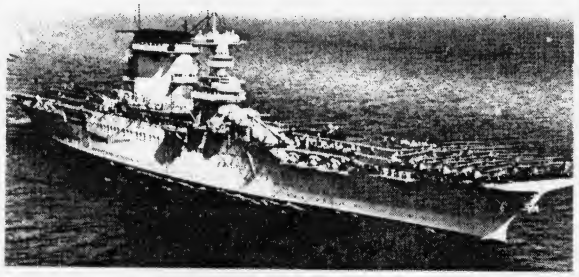
USS Lexington (CV 2) Bell Presented To Town Battle Green



A memento from the Quincy-built USS Lexington (CV 2) now has a place of honor at the Lexington Battle Green in that town.

The bell from the ship's liberty launch was presented to the town by the USS Lexington (CV 2) Association at the recent annual memorial celebration.

Among those at the ceremony were members of the CV 2 Association and the USS Lexington (CV 16) Association.

The CV 2 was launched at the Fore River shipyard Oct. 3, 1927 and commissioned Dec. 14 of that year. The carrier was sunk by Japanese aircraft during the Battle of the Coral Sea May 8, 1942.

Quincy shipyard workers petitioned the Navy Department asking that a carrier under construction there at the time be named the Lexington in memory of the lost Lexington and her crew.

USS LEXINGTON (CV2)

The Navy agreed and the new carrier became the USS Lexington (CV 16).

Mrs. T..D. Robinson who christened the CV 2 was on hand to do the same honor for the CV 16 Sept. 26, 1942 which served with distinction as "The Blue Ghost" with the Third and Fifth Fleets in the Pacific through World War II.

That is the Lexington that Mayor James Sheets had hoped to bring back to Quincy as a tourist attraction but lost out to Corpus Christi, Texas. The heavy cruiser USS Salem, which was also built here, was later obtained by the city from the Navy as the centerpiece of the Naval Shipbuilding Museum.

Members of the CV 2 Association attending the presentation ceremony in Lexington were: Past President Vince Anderson of California, Scott West from Mississippi, Paul Howard, Georgia; Edwin McGlew, New Jersey, Will Connolly, Natick; Joseph O'Donnell, Everett and Joseph Murmama, Rhode Island.

Among the CV 16 Association representatives were Vice-President Charlie Ryberg of Plymouth and Tip Burke of Carver, formerly of Dorchester.

More Than 2,000 Attend

'Best Year Ever' For Annual Blues Festival

The promoter and founder of the fifth annual City of Presidents Blues Festival held Sunday at Veterans Memorial Stadium is calling the event "our best year ever."

Joe Hajjar, owner of the Yard Rock Blues Club in Quincy Point who began the annual concert in 1993, said the show was the most successful of those held to date.

"I thought it went fabulous," said Hajjar, who estimated the crowd at just over 2,000 people. "I thought it was just great."

He said he will not know the final numbers until later in the week but added, "without question, this was our best year ever."

Hajjar said the first-rate entertainment at the festival kept concertgoers enthralled.

"Every band had their moment of spark that excited the crowd," he said. "There was a wide range of (musical) styles represented at the blues festival. I think it's cool to do it that way."

This year's headliner was Mighty Sam McLain. The show also featured Blues Festival veterans Steve Murphy and The Yardrockers, Susan Tedeschi Band, Monster Mike Welch, The Radio Kings, John Putnam & Used Blues, and Madeleine Hall & The Rhythm Hounds with Chris "Stoval" Brown.

Playing the festival for the first time were The Swinging Steaks, The Fat City Band, Young Neil & The Vipers, Paul Rishell & Annie Raines, and Russ Costa.

The festival also included a juried photography and art show presented by the Quincy Art Association (QAA) and Presidential Camera. John Black, a QAA member and owner of Presidential Camera, oversaw that portion of the event.

MONSTER MIKE WELCH, local guitar great, performs at the fifth annual City of Presidents Blues Festival. The event was founded by Joseph Hajjar, owner of the Yard Rock Blues Club in Quincy Point.

Hajjar said he expects as many year 2,500 tickets may have been used this year for the event, including about 250 complimentary tickets given to volunteers, artists, and others.

He also complimented the crowd on its good behavior.

"Not one single person has been spoken to by the police in five years," said Hajjar. "I think that's a sterling record."

Looking ahead, Hajjar said he plans to continue the annual event and will embark on a three-year plan to hold a spectacular Blues Festival in the year 2000 in conjunction with other city celebrations of the new millennium. He noted that he hopes to have a nationally-known artist, such as B.B. King or Bonnie Raitt, headline the show that year.

Proceeds from the festival are earmarked for the City of Quincy to promote tourism and other special events. But although he said the festival lost a total of about $15,000 in its first four years, he stressed that the plan was always to begin making a profit after the first five years.

"How do you add up all the good will you bring together for the show?," he said. "The object of the game always has been to promote the City of Quincy in a positive light. This is not a Blues Festival for Joe Hajjar."

Sponsors of the event included the City of Quincy, Greater Boston Tourism and Convention Bureau, Signature Signs, Stop & Shop, Harvard Pilgrim Health Care, Strawberries, Quincy Telemessaging, The Patriot Ledger, WBOS, WATD, Bank of Boston, Zildjian, Blues Audience and Boston Blues Society.

MORE THAN 2,000 people were on hand to brave the heat and see the fifth annual City of Presidents Blues Festival Sunday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

REAL ESTATE MARKET

Move-Up Buyers Are Dominating The Market

By CAROLE BIAGINI

For years, first-time buyers have dominated the housing market. But not any more.

The biggest demographic segment in the market is now move-up buyers--people who are already homeowners, and who are selling their homes and moving to bigger and better ones.

There are several reasons why this is true. Many of the 76 million baby boomers born between 1946 and 1964 are reaching their peak earning years and they want nicer houses.

Although home prices have been rising, homes are still very affordable in our area. The National Association of Realtors recently reported that nationally, the median income family had 122 percent of the income needed to qualify for a median-priced home. The median is the point at which half the homes purchased cost more and half cost less.

CAROLE BIAGINI

Interest rates are still very reasonable. The Joint Center for Housing Studies at Harvard University reports that when tax deductions are taken into consideration, the average after-tax mortgage burden as a share of income declined from 33.7 percent in the '80s to 22.5 percent at the end of 1995.

The economy is stronger now, and the labor market has improved. This has boosted consumer confidence and encouraged families to buy homes.

Low downpayment, government and reduced closing costs loans have increased the number of first-time buyers. So it's easier for people to find a purchaser for their present home when they want to trade up to a larger one.

The Quincy market is extremely active at this time. If you are now a homeowner and have been considering moving up, this is a good time to do it.

Applications Available For Habitat Homes

Applications are available for three new homes in Quincy for which South Shore Habitat for Humanity will break ground in September.

The homes will be in a new development called "Granite Village" at the end of Bower Road in Quincy Point. Atlantic Development Corp. has donated land for the project and the city also has supported the effort.

A total of eight to 10 new homes will be built in three phases by volunteers over the next two years. The new homes will be two-to-three bedroom, two-story dwellings.

Applications are now being accepted for the first three homes. Applications from families not selected for the first three will be kept on file for the remaining homes. They also be will solicited at other times during the two-year construction period.

Local families who can demonstrate a significant housing and who meet Habitat income and residency requirements are encouraged to apply to purchase the homes. South Shore Habitat will select families on the basis of housing need, income, willingness to partner with Habitat and Quincy residency.

Families will be chosen without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, sex, family status, marital status, age, disability, sexual preference or because part of their income derives from any public assistance program.

Since the homes will be new, construction can be modified within limits to accommodate families with disabilities.

Families will purchase the homes at cost and will receive 20-year, zero-interest financing by Habitat, resulting in a small monthly mortgage payment. Each home is estimated to cost $50,000 to $55,000. The Habitat mortgage principal payment will be about $210 to $230 per month. South Shore Habitat will use the payments to finance future home construction or renovations for other families with housing needs in the South Shore area.

The new homeowners will be responsible for paying property taxes, insurance and for upkeep of their homes. They also will become part of a new neighborhood association that will maintain their common land area.

In lieu of a "cash down" payment, families must complete 500 hours of "sweat equity" time. They will help build the home by working on Saturdays in partnership with volunteers on the construction, landscaping, site cleanup and other tasks. Sweat equity hours can be accumulated by any family member and no construction skills are necessary.

Applications are limited to families who are Quincy residents and have lived in the city at least one year, or have been former Quincy residents for at least two years.

All candidates should meet the following annual gross family income guidelines (extenuating circumstances will be considered): family of three, $17,000 to $24,000; family of four, $17,000 to $25,000; family of five, $17,000 to $27,000; family of six or more, $17,000 to $28,000.

Deadlines for applications is Aug. 22. For more information or to apply, write to South Shore Habitat for Humanity Inc., 28 River St., Braintree, MA 02184 or call 843-9080. Applications also can be picked up at most Quincy churches, the information desk in the Quincy City Hall lobby, and Hibernia Savings Bank, 731 Hancock St. and 63 Franklin St., Quincy.

BETH VENETO of Ginger Betty's in North Quincy puts the finishing touches on a gingerbread house she created for South Shore Habitat for Humanity's recent Annual Auction in Braintree. The event raised more than $18,000 for the organization, which helps provide housing for low-income families. (Sun photo/Tom Gorman)

Youth Ministry Director Attends National Conference

DR. GENE LANGEVIN

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, director of the Quincy-based youth ministry The Way Up, was one of the workshop leaders at "Project Hope," a recent national conference for Christian ministers, missionaries and church workers.

The event, which was held at the American Baptist Assembly in Green Lake, Wisc., focused on the challenge of doing urban ministry and bringing about community change and healing. Dr. Langevin was accompanied to the conference by his sister, Patti Grace Langevin, a minister at a church in Weymouth.

Dr. Langevin, who founded The Way Up 33 years ago, led daily workshops at the conference on his youth program, which serves young people sent to him by the Quincy Juvenile Court.

The program offers teenagers a variety of program options including individual and group counseling, activities such as work projects, reading classes, a teen newspaper, an Art Club, a puppet group, a video and discussion group, a writer's group, singing, cooking, informal recreation, basketball and guitar lessons. It is funded entirely by contributions from churches, church groups and individuals.

One unusual feature of The Way Up emphasized at the conference was that young people referred to the program are encouraged to bring friends with them. As a result, three quarters of the kids who attend the program are not involved with the court at all and may never have been in any trouble which might have taken them to court. Some have came because their parents sent them there.

"We are reaching the intended population," Dr. Langevin said. "We have never sought to be a general community center. Our purpose is much more specific."

The Way Up seeks to implement the ideal of "balanced and restorative justice" in connection with the Quincy Juvenile Court while, at the same time, trying to keep other kids at risk from engaging in delinquency before they start.

Dr. Langevin is a member of the Norfolk County Juvenile Justice Roundtable in Quincy and Citizens for Juvenile Justice in Boston. An American Baptist minister, he is also the pastor of the South Baptist Church in South Boston.

The Way Up is located in the First Baptist Church of Wollaston where a reception was held recently so that the congregation could hear about the conference firsthand.

"What pleased me most about the conference," Dr. Langevin said, "was that this was the first time in my life that I had a chance to talk to so many people at once who could actually put this program into effect almost as soon as they returned to their communities."

He also said that he has already heard from a social worker in Montgomery, Ala., who intends to start the same kind of program there.

Those interested in getting a young person involved in The Way Up can call Dr. Langevin at 268-6669. There is no charge to participate.

Morrisette's Celata Goes For Fourth Win Tonight

Morrisette's Rob Celata, undefeated in three starts, is slated to pitch tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 at Braintree in a battle between the top two squads in American Legion Zone 6 East.

Heading into this week's action, Morrisette and Braintree were tied atop the Zone 6 East standings with 8-1 records.

Morrisette hosted Randolph last night (Wednesday) at 8 and Braintree on Tuesday.

Following the Fourth of July holiday weekend, Morrisette is back in action next Monday night at 8 against visiting West Roxbury. Tuesday at 8, the city's two Legion teams, Morrisette and Quincy, meet for the second time this season at Adams Field.

Next Wednesday at 5:45 p.m., Morrisette travels to Milton.

Last week, Morrisette split two home games against Cohasset.

Celata (3-0) went the distance for the victory in Saturday's 6-2 win over Cohasset. He gave up two unearned runs on five hits, fanned 12 and walked three. In 20 innings, the lefty has compiled 31 strikeouts and a 1.05 ERA.

Trailing 1-0 in the fourth, Morrisette posted three runs. Jim Cunio (two for three) singled home Chad Feetham, John Sullivan grounded out to score Brian Beaton and Bill Walker singled in Cunio.

After Cohasset scored a run to get within 3-2, Morrisette bumped its lead to 6-2 with a three-run sixth. With the bases loaded, Paul Marnikovic ripped a shot to left for a three-run double. Marnikovic tried to stretch the hit into a triple, but was called out on a close play to end the inning.

Celata shut Cohasset down, allowing just one hit

Back On Track, Quincy Sets Sights On .500 Mark

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Winners of three straight and four of its last five, the Quincy American Legion baseball team looked to reach the .500 mark with a victory yesterday (Wednesday) at Milton in a 5:45 p.m. game.

Starting Sunday, Quincy plays four games in four days. Sunday at 5 p.m. at Merrymount Field, Quincy takes on Weymouth in a make-up tilt. Monday at 8 p.m., Quincy is at Braintree. Tuesday at 8 p.m., Quincy hosts Morrisette in the second meeting of the city's Legion squads. Wednesday at 8 p.m., Quincy hosts West Roxbury.

Andrew Byrne went three for four with three RBI and winning pitcher Dennis Palardy struck out nine in Quincy's 8-3 win over visiting Cohasset Monday night. Palardy fired a six-hitter, gave up three runs (one earned) and walked three. His complete game was the third thrown by a Quincy pitcher in as many games.

Also contributing offensively were Pat McGann (two for four, two runs scored), Greg Edgar (two for three, two doubles, two runs) and Steve Wiltshire (walk, fielder's choice, RBI, two runs). Quincy jumped out to a 4-0 lead after one, added two more runs in the third and single runs in the fourth and sixth.

Last Friday, Quincy's Bryan Linskey tossed a complete game six-hitter with four strikeouts and one walk in a 6-3 triumph over visiting Canton. Quincy,

QHS Hockey Hall Of Fame Inducts Five New Members

The Quincy High School Hockey Hall of Fame recently inducted five new members in a ceremony at Sons of Italy Hall in Quincy.

The inductees were Mike Chenette (Class of 1983), Kevin Grogan (Class of 1970), John Prescott (Class of 1973), Scott Richardson (Class of 1980) and Joe Valle (Class of 1963).

The Friends of Quincy Hockey Award was presented to Marilyn Lumaghini and Michelle Stenberg for their dedication and service to Quincy hockey.

Among those attending the ceremony were Quincy High School Principal Lloyd Hill, Athletic Director Bill Walker, QHS Hockey Coach Bob Sylvia, the 1996-97 QHS hockey team, and a number of QHS Hall of Fame members.

Jack Raymer did an outstanding job as master of ceremonies. He provided the audience with an entertaining, informative and sometimes humbling commentary.

In their acceptance speeches, both Prescott and Valle thanked Mario Casali for his inspiration and referred to Casali as their mentor. Grogan spoke highly of Jack Scanlon in his acceptance speech.

QHS Hockey Hall of Fame members Kevin Lewis (chairman), Russ Erikson, George Peachey, Dennis Bertoni and Bob Carroll announced the recipients of The William (Bill) Hutchinson Scholarship, who were Mark Glynn and Matthew Langille.

All hockey players and friends are invited to join the committee for the QHS Hockey Hall of Fame Golf Tournament Monday, Aug. 11 at Furnace Brook Golf Course.

The tournament is held to sponsor The William (Bill) Hutchinson Scholarship Fund. Cost is $75 per person and includes green fees, carts, buffet dinner, prizes and souvenirs. For more information, call Bob Carroll at 472-0107 or Russ Erikson at 773-4010.

Hoop Jam Raises $10,000 For The Veterans House

Second Annual Event A 'Success'

The recent second annual Hoop Jam raised $10,000 to benefit The Veterans House at Fr. Bill's Place, according to Joseph Finn, Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition executive director.

The Veterans House is an "after care" project for formerly homeless veterans to move beyond homelessness and into stable permanent housing.

"This was a definite success and we hope to build on it," said Finn. "We need to get more people to collect pledges, since this is a charity event. I do think it's a fund-raiser with great potential.

"The kids loved it; they had a ball and the sponsors were great. Dave Dinger Ford and NYNEX were good supporters, as were the rest of the sponsors."

In addition to Dinger Ford and NYNEX, other sponsors included Pepsi, which supplied beverages; Roche Brothers, which provided all the food for the cookout following the event; Boston Better Snacks, which supplied snacks and Monadnock Mountain Spring Water, which provided water.

As part of the Hoop Jam, the Quincy High School and North Quincy High School Hall of Famers played an exhibition basketball game, with North Quincy emerging victorious, 67-62.

"It was a well-played game with a lot of action and excitement for the fans," said Guido Pettinelli, who recruited the Quincy High squad.

"A lot of the guys still had the same talent for the game as they did when they were in school," Pettinelli added. "This is the second year we've played this game, and we all had a good time together."

Frank Santoro, who suited up and played in the game, recruited the North Quincy players. Dr. Allan Yacubian paced North with a game-high 17 points. Also contributing to the victory were James "Peter" Fredericksen, Robert "Gus" DeBoer, Jim Ducey, Mark Jellison, Mark Millane, Ted Stevenson Jr. and Eric DeBoer.

Under coach Joe Amorosino, Quincy was led by John Reggiannini, who scored in double figures. Former UMass standout George "Trigger" Burke sank three three-pointers and also scored in double figures.

Other Quincy players who chipped in were Bob McDonald, Bob Furfari, James Rendle, Fred Greer, Jack McWilliam and Robert Pettinelli, the oldest competitor. George Papile was also in attendance but did not suit up for the game.

Costales, Wells, Finn Pace North Boys Track Attack

North Quincy High School boys track athletes Mike Costales, Brian Wells and Jimmy Finn combined for 34 1/5 points to finish seventh overall in the recent spring track Old Colony League meet. The three captains placed first in each of their man events and all three qualified for the Class A State Meet which was held May 31 at B.C. High.

Costales, a junior, threepeated in the 110 high hurdles with a time of 15.2 seconds in the OCL meet. Earlier in the year, he broke the school record (which he owned) with a time of 15.1 seconds. He also stood out at the State Coaches Meet, placing fourth overall with a time of 15.3 seconds. At the Class A State Meet, he was seeded third but an injury in the preliminary round prevented him from competing any further.

Wells, a junior who was picked to finish as the runner-up in the OCL meet, pulled away to finish first with a throw of 44'11" in the shot put. The undersized Wells, showing off his technique, avenged his only loss of the season by defeating Silver Lake's Brian Yeaton. At the Class A State Meet, Wells was seeded 11th and finished ninth with a throw of 44'10". He recorded a personal best with a throw of 45'9" against Weymouth earlier in the season.

A senior, Finn repeated in the javelin with a throw of 184'2" in the OCL meet. The closest competitor's throw came in at 147'1". Finn recorded his personal best this season with a throw of 190'4", just nine feet short of the school record. He also had an impressive outing at the State Coaches Meet, finishing second overall with a throw of 188'9". At the Class A State Meet, Finn finished second with a throw of 183'2", qualifying him for the All-State meet. He finished fifth at the All-State and concluded the season with an eighth-place finish at the New England Championships. He will take his athletic abilities to the University of Connecticut this fall.

Other highlights of the North Quincy boys track team included strong finishes in the OCL meet from Finn (fourth in 100 meter dash), freshman Anthony Heckman (sixth in high jump) and the 4x100 relay team of Heckman, Costales, Finn and junior Adam Drake (sixth- place finish).

The NQ boys also received the team sportsmanship awards of the Old Colony League. Senior captain Jimmy Wan received the individual sportsmanship award and Costales, Wells and Finn all received OCL All-Star honors. Coaching this year's team were Peter Chrisom Jr. and Julie Stockless.

Joe Donahue Speaker At NQHS Track Banquet

The annual North Quincy High School Awards Banquet for track and cross country was recently held at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

Approximately 100 parents, athletes and friends attended and listened to guest speaker Joe Donahue, former Northeastern University assistant track coach.

For spring track, Brian Wells and Kellie Johnston were the MVP's. The coaches' picks were Adam Drake and Kerry Ginty, while Jimmy Finn and Sarah Beston were selected as the unsung heroes.

The winter track MVP's were Mike Costales and Casey Ngo. Tom Chan and Wingsze Yuen were the coaches' picks and Joe Linskey and Jasmine Gonzalez were named as the unsung heroes.

The MVP's for cross country were Lauren Molloy and Jimmy Wan. The coaches' picks were Lynda Wilson and Matt Quinn and the unsung heroes were Carrie Jarvie and Bryan Linskey.

Two Quincy Athletes Attend Track Clinic

Two Quincy athletes attended the recent Joe Donahue Throwers Clinic at Norwell High School.

Stephanie Fiandaca, a sixth grader at Sterling Middle School, and Kahli Dearani, a seventh grader at St. Ann's in Wollaston, both members of the Quincy Track Club, attended the clinic.

Applications Available For 'Twilight Hoop' League

Team applications are available for the 1997 "Twilight Hoop" League to be sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department.

Applications are available at the Recreation Department and at all supervised recreation programs. Entry deadline for the free program is today (Thursday).

The unique feature of the league will be that all participants will have the opportunity to form their own teams.

This middle and high school basketball league will have three divisions of play for boys and girls. High school teams, which may have a player/coach, will consist of players entering grades 9 to 12.

The middle school divisions will be for players entering grades 6, 7 and 8, and will have volunteer coaches assigned by the Recreation Department.

Participants will form their own rosters (not less than eight and not more than 12). Individual players can submit their names to the Recreation Department to be assigned to a team. All games will be played on outdoor basketball courts.

For more information, and persons who are interested in being a volunteer coach, call the Recreation Department at 376-1386 (376-1-FUN).

NQHS Football Alumni Golf Tournament Aug. 22

The second annual North Quincy High School Football Alumni golf tournament is slated for Friday, Aug. 22 at 7:30 a.m. at the George Wright Golf Course in Hyde Park.

For $85 per player or $320 per foursome, each player will receive a shirt, hat, sleeve of Titleist golf balls and a catered meal. Players can take a chance at winning a new car courtesy of Foley Chrysler Plymouth as well as prizes for the top three foursomes, longest drive and closest to the pin. Raffles for various prizes will be held at the dinner.

Last year's tournament drew over 100 players and supporters from the 1940s through members of the 1992 Super Bowl team. Holes and tees sponsored by local businesses are available for $100.

This is a non-profit organization started and run by former NQHS players to lend financial assistance to the school's football program. Space is limited and entry forms must be received by no later than July 15. For more information and sign up sheets, call Sean at 479-2995.

Red Cross Golf Classic July 28

The 12th annual Golf Classic to benefit the American Red Cross will be held Monday, July 28 at 7:30 a.m. at the South Shore Country Club in Hingham. This year's event is sponsored by Johnson & Johnston Professional Inc.

The field will be limited to 144 players. The $125 fee includes greens fee and cart, lunch, awards and prizes. To attend just the lunch, tickets are available for $25 per person. Cost is $100 to sponsor a hole.

Proceeds from the tournament will be used to help maintain the programs and services that the Red Cross provides on the South Shore, including disaster relief, health and safety education, and the Holiday Assistance Program.

South Shore Buick has offered a 1997 Buick Century as a hole-in-one prize for the first person who gets a hole-in-one at hole 8 along with other hole-in-one prizes.

For more information, call Jackie Gardner at the Red Cross office at 770-2600.

ST. JOHN'S L.L.

A's Defeat Red Sox, Win League Title

The Procare Physical Therapy A's are the Quincy Youth Baseball St. John's Little League champions following their 6-2 triumph over the South Quincy Bocce Club Red Sox last week.

Winnning pitcher Mike Chamness and Liam Powers both pitched well, allowing one run apiece in three innings of work. The A's played tremendous defense to preserve the win. John Fennessy capped the A's scoring when he belted a towering home run over the right field fence.

Both teams showed great sportsmanship in a well-played Little League championship game.

The A's players: Anthony Calley, Adam Camerlin, Mike Chamness, Chris and Tom Chernicki, John Fennessy, Ryan Geraghty, Kevin Hanlon, Bonnie Hirtle, Scott Horrigan, Dan Nutley, Steve Ohlson, Liam Powers, Joe and Steve Priscella, and Eric Walgreen.

In the semifinals, the A's rallied from deficits of 3-0 and 6-2 and went on to knock off the Bolea-Buonfiglio Giants, 8-6, in seven innings. The A's made an amazing comeback, scoring four runs with two outs, while they were one out from elimination. John Fennessy pitched two scoreless innings to close out the game and earn the victory.

In the quarterfinals, the A's erupted for six runs in the third en route to an 8-5 victory over the Dairy Freeze Yankees. Liam Powers pitched three shutout innings for the win. The six-run third included hits by Joe Priscella, John Fennessy, Steve Priscella, Scott Horrigan and Ryan Geraghty. The Yankees battled back with five late runs but came up short.

and striking out four over the final two innings to seal the victory.

Last Wednesday, Morrisette not only lost its first game but also its starting left fielder and one of its best hitters, Matt McLoughlin.

During the 13-11 loss to Cohasset, McLoughlin was struck in the face with a pitch and was taken to a Boston hospital, where it was learned he had suffered a broken jaw. McLoughlin, whose jaw was wired shut, will be sidelined for four to six weeks, said manager Ray Cattaneo.

"The kid will come back as soon as he can," said Cattaneo. "He was ready to go Saturday night. He may be back for the playoffs, if we advance a few rounds.

"It's a shame, because he was doing so well and he's such a good kid. It's going to be tough for him to sit there, because he really wants to help the team win."

At the time of the injury, McLoughlin was leading the team in batting average (.577), hits (15), runs scored (13) and was third in RBI (11). In the two at-bats before he was hit by the pitch, he collected two hits, two RBI and scored two runs.

Sullivan, Beaton and Walker chipped in with two hits apiece for Morrisette, which left 12 men on base.

Ryan Herlihy started and held Cohasset hitless through two innings, increasing his hitless inning streak to nine. In the third, however, he gave up five earned runs on six hits, walked two and struck out four.

Herlihy left after three innings with a 9-5 lead. John Sullivan relieved Herlihy and yielded two runs in one inning of work.

Shawn Manning, Morrisette's third pitcher, took the loss as he surrendered five runs (four earned) in less than an inning, turning a 9-7 lead into a 12-9 deficit.

ST. JOHN'S FARM

Pirates, Cable, Family Tire, Reggie's, Orioles Among Winners

The Paul Brodeur Construction Co. Pirates ended the season as they began it, with a thrilling 17-16, come-from-behind victory. The Pirates' Drew Loud recorded his 11th win of the season.

Tom Pasquantonio ripped a clutch double to center on a two-strike pitch with the bases loaded, scoring two runs as the Pirates went on to their 15th victory. Craig Calley tripled, Dave Djerf had two singles and Matt Quigley and Loud belted round-trippers.

Having just lost their first and only game, the Pirates were down seven runs in their last at-bat. They could have packed it in, but these boys showed their true character and refused to close the season a losing note. They left winners.

The Pirates named their All-Star team: Drew Loud, Chris Acoury, Craig Calley, Matt Quigley and Dave Djerf. Steve Moltmon, a hard worker and the Pirates' most improved player, was recently added to the Pirates' All-Star roster. Fans, parents and coaches are extremely proud of the effort and great performance the Pirates provided over this memorable season.

In other action, Continental Cablevision erupted for a six-run first inning and went on to defeat Sweeney Funeral Services, 13-8.

For SFS, Cory Lumaghini, Andrew Dwan, Scott Klotzbeecher, Thomas Power and David Regan hit RBI singles and Patrick Totten, James Mullaney, John Nardone each added a single.

S. Matarazzo Dentistry topped SFS, 9-6. SFS held a 6-5 lead heading into the bottom of the fifth but SMD scored four times to win the game.

Top hitters for SFS were David Regan (two singles, RBI), Scott Klotzbeecher (RBI triple), Thomas Power (single, double) and John Nardone (two singles). Collecting a single apiece were Jonathan Klimas, Patrick Totten, Denny Wright, Cory Lumaghini, Matthew Nardone, Spencer Peterson and James Mullaney.

Family Tire & Auto put together a seven-run fifth inning and went on to defeat Sweeney Funeral Services, 8-3.

For the SFS Dodgers, the hitting stars were Andrew Dwan (two singles, double), Thomas Power (three singles), David Regan (two singles, RBI) and Scott Klotzbeecher, James Mullaney, Matthew Tangherlini, Denny Wright, Lammy Papalombros and Patrick Totten (one single apiece).

In other action, the SFS Dodgers jumped out to a 6-0 lead after half an inning, but the Nation One Mortage Orioles rallied in the later innings to pick up a 22-11 victory.

The Pirates used two five-run innings to take an 11-4 win over S. Matarazzo Dentistry.

SMD erupted for all four of its runs in the first inning. After Eddie Christofano, Kevin Tyron and Tom Nazzaro walked, Marc Hutchins blasted a grand slam. Jason Laura added a single and Carl Morris doubled in the inning.

In a 9-7 win over the SFS Dodgers, SMD scored four runs in the fifth to seal the victory. After two walks and a hit by pitch loaded the bases, Bryan Gilligan belted a bases-clearing triple. Steven Kussman followed with a sacrifice fly that drove in Gilligan for SMD's ninth run.

SMD got on the board first, scoring three times in the second. Following a hit by pitch and two walks, Morris emptied the bases with a line drive triple. The Dodgers rallied to tie the game, 3-3, in the bottom of the inning. SMD's defense prevented the Dodgers from taking the lead with two putouts at home by catcher Bryan Gilligan.

SMD again went ahead with two runs in the fourth on a two-run double by Justin Laura. Tom Nazzaro and Marc Hutchins singled and Tucker walked to set up Laura's clutch hit.

For the second time, the Dodgers came back to tie it, 5-5, with two runs in the bottom of the fourth. SMD then erupted for four runs in the fifth and won the game.

In its final game of the season, Reggie's Oil defeated S. Matarazzo Dentistry, 20-13. Johnny Cameron paced Reggie's offense with two singles and his second grand slam of the season. Joey Reggiannini also belted a grand slam and Steve Connolly (winning pitcher) and Steve McGee each added doubles. Frank Hartel, Reggie's Most Improved Player, collected three singles and Ben Dufrane and James Mullen each had a single.

Defensively, Reggie's Brian McQuinn made a spectacular catch in left to rob SMD of a few runs in the first. Also playing well on defense was Connolly, who made a nice catch and throw to Steve McGee at first for the out. Cameron made a tremendous catch at shortstop and rifled a throw to McGee for an out.

During the season, points were given for bases reached. Rookie seven-year-old pitcher led Reggie's with 35 points, followed by eight-year-old infielder Johnny Cameron with 34, nine-year-old Steve McGee 22 points, eight-year-old Brian McQuinn 19, 10-year-old Lynette Cedrone and rookie Frank Hartel, 15 apiece.

which scored three times in the second and fourth innings, was sparked by the hitting of Byrne (single, double, three RBI), Edgar (RBI single) and Wiltshire (two hits, run).

Holding a 3-1 lead in the fourth, Quincy's defense halted a Canton rally. With two outs, Brendan Ryan attempted to steal home as Linskey pitched to catcher Edgar. Edgar caught the pitch and tagged out the sliding Ryan to end the inning.

In Quincy's 5-2 victory at Canton last Thursday, Dan Toland hurled a complete game three-hitter, fanned three and walked four. McGann (two for four, run), Edgar (RBI single, run), Mike Eddy (RBI double) and Matt Kane (one for three, run, RBI) paced Quincy offensively.

"That was Dan's second quality start in a row, and he's becoming a real solid pitcher," said Quincy head coach Larry Taglieri. "He's kept the team in the game with a chance to win and is getting better every time he pitches."

Last Tuesday, Quincy lost to visiting Milton, 5-2, in nine innings.

TRIPLE A

Local 2222 Upsets P.A.L.

In the first round of playoff action in the Quincy Youth Baseball Triple A League, Local 2222 upset top-seeded Quincy P.A.L., 19-12. Bill Barter went the distance and earned the win, helping his own cause with three hits and four runs scored.

Also chipping in offensively for Local were Frank Boudreau, Paul McLaughlin and Tim Sommers (three hits apiece). Alex Tringale, Ryan Barter, Adam Tringale and McLaughlin played outstanding defense.

In other action, Thrifty Car Rental's Bobby McEvoy went the distance, scattering six hts and striking out five in a 6-4 win over CNA Insurance.

Dan Duval had two hits and Vincenzo Prisco belted a triple to provide the offense for Thrifty. Dave Andronico, Mike Donnelly, Ryan Fandetti, Dan McCabe, Mike Little and Joe Maloney played solid defense.

CNA's Joseph Losi and Robert Richards scored runs and Brian Lee chipped in with a triple.

YOUTH SOFTBALL

Kerri Limo Wins Playoff Opener

After finishing the season at 9-3 and in second place in Quincy Girls Softball's Dorothy Quincy Division, Kerri Limousine won its first playoff game, coming from behind to edge Coffee Break Cafe, 21-20.

Marilyn Power ripped a double in the bottom of the sixth to drive in the game-winning run. Reliever Sheila Lynch came on and slowed Coffee Break down while she and her teammates launched their comeback. Pacing Kerri Limo's offensive attack were Courtney Riley (four for five), Maria McGinness (two for three), Beth Goodrich (two for four) and Lynch (two for four).

Scoring for Kerri Limo were Lisa Schifone (three runs), Courtney Allen (two), Kristen Dwyer (two), Julie Rackauskas (one) and Jackie Reeves (one). Ashley Nee played another tremendous defensive game.

Starting next Tuesday, Quincy Girls Softball will run its first summer softball league for girls ages 10-12.

The games will be played Tuesdays at 6 p.m. at the middle and lower field at Faxon Park.

For more information, call Denise Goodrich at 472-9023 or Bennie Ranstrom at 773-3201.

Quincy Babe Ruth Teams Play In Tourney

Quincy's 13- and 15-year-old teams advanced to this week's action in the EMass Babe Ruth League Baseball Tournament.

Quincy's 15-year-old team, which split its first two tournament games, played Marshfield yesterday (Wednesday) at 5 p.m. at Stella Tirrell Field in Weymouth. If Quincy won, it plays an undetermined opponent next Tuesday at 5 p.m. at Stella Tirrell Field. If Quincy lost, it is out of the tournament.

Quincy's 13-year-old baseball squad, which also split its first two tournament games, played Duxbury Tuesday at Adams Field. If Quincy won, it plays Weymouth Sunday at 9:30 a.m. at Adams Field. If Quincy lost, it is also eliminated.

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought For The Week

This week, we, as a nation and as individuals, celebrate the birthday of our nation. On July 4th, let us take the time to repledge and renew our faith in our country . . .

Born of a revolution, this country began with a pledge: liberty and justice for all. Now . . . more than 200 years later. . . we, the American people, are still striving for these goals. It's easy to find fault . . . but it takes dedication and unity to bring about change, as our forefathers did. We have the freedom now to do it peacefully- Let's celebrate that freedom today and honor our nation for what's been achieved. Then, let's join together . . . with a renewed sense of purpose - to reach our goal.

Today, we sometimes take our rights and freedoms for granted. On this Fourth of July, let us remember that many of our forefathers died for these causes, giving us the gift of a free nation.

A life member of the Savin Hill and Squantum Yacht Clubs, he enjoyed racing in his snow bird class sailboat named "Dutchy." He won several trophies for sailboat racing including the Gallagher Trophy, the Sears Cup, and the South Shore Junior Championship.

He is survived by his wife, Pauline C. (Mede) Taber; two sons, Gordon James Taber of Haverhill and Donald C. Taber of Sharon; two daughters, Carolyn Woodward of Haverhill and Paula F. Clarke of Quincy; a brother, Clifton F. Taber of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; nine grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren.

Burial will be in Milton Cemetery.

Visting hours were yesterday (Wednesday) from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. at the Lydon Funeral Home, 644 Hancock St.

Donations may be made to the Kit Clark Adult Day Health Program, 1500 Dorchester Ave., Dorchester, MA 02122.

Warren H. Pagane
H. P. Hood Fleet Supervisor

A funeral Mass for Warren H. Pagane of Quincy was celebrated yesterday (Wednesday) in St. Agatha's Church, Milton.

Mr. Pagane died June 28 in Quincy Hospital.

He was fleet supervisor at the H.P. Hood dairy company, where he worked for 11 years, and at Grossman's Lumber and Home Improvement. Mr. Pagane retired in 1996 after 32 years of work and continued private fleet consulting until his death.

He had several patented inventions.

Born in Staten Island, N.Y., he attended the Polytech Institute of New York. He enlisted in the Navy before World War II and was discharged in 1949 as a chief petty officer.

A Quincy resident for 49 years, he was an avid sailor in Quincy Bay and Westport.

Mr. Pagane is survived by his wife, Eunice D. Pagane; a son, Frank Pagane of North Carolina; two daughters, Nannette Christiansen and Charlotte Minor, both of California; and several nieces, nephews, grandnieces and grandnephews.

Funeral arrangements were by the Dolan Funeral Home, Milton.

Donations may be made to St. Jude's Research Hospital, P.O. Box 50, Memphis, TN 38101-9929.

M. Ida Belfiore, 91
Worked As Stitcher 10 Years

A funeral Mass for M. Ida (LaBrasseur) Gilblair Belfiore, 91, of Quincy, was celebrated June 28 in St. John the Evangelist in Canton.

Mrs. Belfiore died June 25 at the Quincy Rehabilitation and Nursing Center.

She worked as a stitcher for Sudbury Shoe and Bostonian Shirt for 10 years and retired in 1962.

During World War II, she worked for Farrington Manufacturing Corp. in Jamaica Plain making hand grenade parts.

She was born in Waterville, Maine.

Wife of the late Ralph Belfiore, she is survived by two sons, Henry J. Gilblair of Texas and Norman Gilblair of Canton; two daughters, Glenna Naples and Lorraine Whalen of Quincy; eight grandchildren, and nine great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Knollwood Memorial Park in Canton.

Funeral arrangements were by the Dockray & Thomas Funeral Home, Canton.

Donations may be made to the Vencare Hospice, 900 Chelmsford St., Lowell, MA 01851.

Cerebral Palsy Agency Granted Certification

Thomas Zukauskas, executive director at Cerebral Palsy for the South Shore (CPSS), announces that the agency was granted a full-year certification with distinction from QUEST for its Options Program.

Zukauskas said the honor is the highest level of certification granted by the Department of Mental Retardation. CPSS was in the top 19 percent of all programs surveyed, he noted.

"The certification with distinction really validates the outstanding work of a committed and talented staff who work tirelessly on behalf of people with disabilities," he said.

QUEST is the Quality Enhancement Survey Tool, which measures the quality of support to individuals, its impact and the quality of each of their lives.

Certification is based on administrative organization and how the provider is organized to provide high quality, innovative services, support a positive, self-fulling lifestyle, and protect the rights and well-being of the individual.

CPSS received "Achieved" in all Quality of Life Areas (QLA's) for its Options Program.

Options is a Supportive Living and Personal Care Attendant (PCA) program that enables persons with disabilities to live independently throughout Metropolitan Boston, the South Shore, Southeastern Massachusetts, Cape Cod and the Islands.

Individuals are referred to the Options Program by hospitals, doctors, state and local agencies, community organizations, home care agencies, friends and family.

CPSS, in addition to the Options Program, also provides the Children's Developmental Disabilities Center (CDDC) in Quincy. The center welcomes children from birth to age 8 and is accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities. CDDC is a licensed day care facility.

Five Schools Honored By Cash For Class Program

Five Quincy schools were among 40 honored at the South Shore Plaza in Braintree recently for participating in this year's Cash for Class program.

They are: Beechwood Knoll School, Parker School, Sacred Heart School, St. Ann's School and Wollaston School.

In all, Sally Hertz, the Plaza's marketing director, will award more than $16,000 to the 40 schools.

The Cash for Class program helps area schools raise funds for educational programs. It runs throughout the school year (October to May), during which time South Shore Plaza customers can bring their original sales receipts from any store in mall to the Customer Service Center and have them redeemed for points.

For every dollar spent, the center credits the customer's school of choice with five points. Each point brings the schools closer to winning valuable cash prizes.

The Plaza also offers various incentives for the schools throughout the year by granting bonus points and rewarding the schools who publicize the program up to 10,000 points.

Your Social Security

Change In Living Arrangements May Affect SSI Benefits

By CAROL BOYLE

It's important that you tell Social Security when your living arrangements change so that you will receive the correct amount of Supplemental Security Income (SSI). Your monthly benefit may vary depending on where you live and whether someone else pays for your living expenses.

Generally, you can get up to the maximum SSI payment if you live in your own place, or you live in someone else's residence, but you pay the full cost of your food and shelter.

However, your SSI benefit may be reduced if:

- You live somewhere else and you pay only a part of your share of food or housing costs; or
- You live in a house, apartment or trailer, but someone else pays for your food, rent or mortgage expenses, and other things like electricity and garbage removal; or
- You're in a nursing home or hospital for the whole month and Medicaid pays for over one-half your bills.

Your SSI payment is based on your income, not on your expenses. However ' the cost of living expenses such as food, clothing or shelter that someone else provides may be considered income to you and could reduce your SSI payment. Items you receive that cannot be used for food, clothing or shelter are not considered income and will not affect your SSI payment. For example, we don't count things like small kitchen appliances or a piece of jewelry of modest value that someone gives you.

If you are homeless, you may receive up to the maximum SSI amount payable. But, if you live in a public shelter, you can only receive SSI for up to 6 months out of any 9 months that you live there.

Contact Social Security for more information about living arrangements and how they may affect your SSI eligibility or monthly payment amount

(Carol Boyle is Social Security manager in Quincy.)

Your Horoscope
by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) It's time to think about how best to deal with your debts. Perhaps refinancing or consolidating is in order. Home-based activities are especially enjoyable over the weekend.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Don't let a business delay get in your way early in the week. Later, you receive good news from a close friend. The weekend finds you looking for intellectual and cultural stimulation.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Someone you've always considered to be a mentor and influence on you lets you down. You need to be more understanding. Remember, we're all human beings! Make important phone calls over the weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You need to make some changes in the way you're handling your finances. On the job front, you receive praise and recognition for achievements. Gains are likely by week's end.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Your business week is full of fits and starts, and you feel you can't accomplish anything. One door closes and another opens. Be alert for these new opportunities.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Benefits come through a friendship early in the week. Later, a mental project is time-consuming but rewarding. The weekend favors any activity of a group nature.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You are at a crossroads with a close friend and need to re-evaluate the relationship. You are on the right track, though, concerning your career. The weekend is full of romance.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You're full of questions about home and property matters and need to get some answers from a reliable source. Early socializing is followed by some solitude over the weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Keep that private matter to yourself. Don't confide in a prying friend. Later in the week, you receive happy news concerning a financial matter. Mental activities are favored.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A turning point is likely for those involved in a relationship. Parents face some difficult decisions concerning child-rearing. The evening brings renewed self-confidence.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Your workload is almost overwhelming this week, but you're up to the task. Financial opportunities are on the horizon, so be on the alert. Quiet pursuits are best for the weekend.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You are super sharp mentally and seem to have all the answers. Extra responsibilities arise in connection with a partnership. A unique opportunity is yours for the asking.

DANIEL MAY

Citizens Appoints Two Senior Vice Presidents

Citizens Bank has promoted William Barnes and Daniel May to senior vice presidents of commercial lending on the South Shore and southeastern Massachusetts.

Both Barnes and May have strong ties to their local South Shore communities.

Barnes, a resident of Westport, has more than 20 years of banking experience. During his two-and-a-half years with Citizens, he has succeeded in developing new business for the bank. Barnes will utilize his knowledge of the South Shore's banking needs while working out of Citizens' Plymouth office.

"Bill's experience, innovation and leadership skills have enabled him to excel at Citizens," said Citizens Regional President for the South Shore John O'Connor. "I am confident that he will address his new duties with similar vigor and thoughtfulness. He is an asset to both Citizens Bank and the South Shore community."

May joined Citizens Bank three years ago and since that time has stood out in the commercial banking division by adding to the bank's commercial portfolio. A well-established figure in the South Shore business community, he has developed considerable commercial, mortgage and new trust business for the bank. May lives in Carver and works out of Citizens' Quincy office.

In announcing the new posting, O'Connor lauded May's hard work and enthusiasm.

"Dan has consistently been a top performer in commercial banking," said O'Connor. "We're pleased that we were able to reward him this way. He is certainly deserving of this promotion, and we're pleased that Dan is a member of our team."

Beechwood Tai Chi Classes Begin July 10

Beechwood on the Bay, 440 East Squantum St., Quincy, has included Tai Chi in its collection of summer offerings.

Tai Chi is an ancient Chinese exercise and moving meditation designed to reduce stress and promote a systematic relaxation. Tai Chi exercises develop and maintain a balanced, energized, health mind and body. Many doctors even recommend it to reduce stress and increase exercise.

"In response to a tremendous community request for Tai Chi, we are now offering this new programming," said Sharron Beals, Beechwood's Executive Director.

Beechwood's Tai Chi classes run for six weeks at a time on Tuesday evenings. The next session begins July 10. Pre-registration is required. Interested parties should call 471-5712 to register.

Public Hearing July 16 On Marina Bay Project

The Quincy Planning Board will hold a public hearing on a proposed Marina Bay development Wednesday, July 16 at 7 p.m. in the second floor Conference Room at City Hall Annex.

The proposal has been made by Thorndike Development Corp. of Braintree through its affiliate, M.C. Properties Limited Partnership. A Thorndike plan for 268 condominiums at the same site was rejected by the City Council last year.

The new 152-unit plan calls for 48 single-family homes, 42 townhouses and 62 residential flats to be built on a 20-acre tract off Victory Road. A pedestrian promenade and a village green also are included in the project, which has been dubbed The Landing at Marina Bay.

After the Planning Board holds its public hearing, it must decide whether to give the project a favorable recommendation to the City Council. The council would then hold its own hearing before deciding whether to support or reject the project.

duced by Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin, chairman of the council's Ordinance Committee and Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott, chairman of its Park and Recreation Committee. Durkin said after the hearing the two councillors will take into consideration residents' concerns and work with the Quincy Park and Recreation Board to come up with an ordinance in some form by September.

McDermott said he and Durkin introduced the measure after receiving "numerous complaints" about dog-related problems from school officials and parents throughout the city.

Residents backing the proposal suggested a variety of measures as solutions to problems caused by dogs in parks and playgrounds. Frank Daly of 200 Quincy Ave. suggested that special park areas be set aside for canines.

"Why not a dog park?," said Daly. "Why not? It'd work."

Others suggested strict enforcement of such a law is the key to having it succeed.

"Harsh penalties are what's needed," said David Frazee of 7 Milton Rd. "I'm sick and tired of stepping in dog crap all over the city."

Former Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro also spoke in favor, suggesting that residents should speak to neighbors who are pet owners about adhering to the law.

Also on hand for the meeting were Park Department Executive Director Thomas Koch, Recreation Director Barry Welch and members of the Park and Recreation Board. The board, prompted by Durkin and McDermott, has made its own recommendation: that dogs be banned from all areas of "active recreation" under jurisdiction of the Park Department, which would be somewhat less restrictive than the councillors' original ban proposal.

In addition, School Committeewoman Christine Cedrone said the committee will make a recommendation to the council on the subject by the fall.

Most of those in attendance, however, had a variety of reasons why such a ban should not be passed.

John McDuff of the Quincy Animal League, noting that the city's current pooper scooper and lease laws are rarely enforced, said a new ordinance should not be passed just for the sake of passage.

"Before we pass an ordinance that's a 'feel good' ordinance, we need to see if there's a way to enforce this," he said.

Others suggested that merely enforcing the current laws might be enough, since they already carry fines of $25 to $50.

Phyllis Berlucchi, the city's animal control officer, conceded that the current law dog-related laws are difficult to enforce because of staffing and other reasons. She noted that six of eight cases that she and her only partner work on are related to wild animals such as skunks, raccoons, and others.

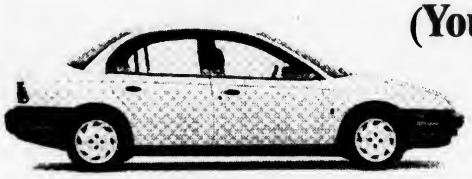
Berlucchi also noted that lease law complaints must be written, but very few residents are willing to identify themselves, another reason the law is so hard to enforce.

Durkin, however, said while it is sometimes difficult to pinpoint which dog running in a park left its feces behind, an ordinance banning dogs would be easier to enforce since the dogs need only be in the park to break the law.

Meanwhile, other opponents said dogs need exercise and that responsible dog owners should not be punished for the mistakes of others.

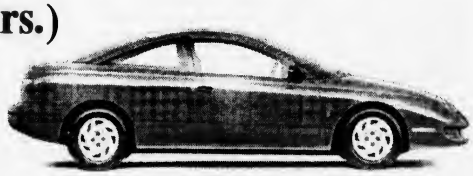
"It comes down to common courtesy," said Pat Anderson of 21 Stoney Brae Rd., who suggested a license fee be established for the use of a special dog area. "The dogs have to run. Everybody should be allowed to use the park. We don't leave a mess behind."

Virginia Hutchins of 57 Walnut St. said a special dog park is "an excellent idea" and suggested that ward captains be appointed to oversee that residents obey dog-related ordinances.



Just about everyone seemed to agree that dogs should be completely banned from school property at all times. Welch, however, noted that there are areas in the city sometimes not thought of as school property that are actually under the jurisdiction of schools.

Durkin said after the meeting he hopes a solution agreeable to all sides can be reached.



"We want to do what's going to be most effective and what's going to work," he said.

HOME OF PRESIDENTS JOHN and JOHN QUINCY ADAMS

A Special Supplement The Quincy Sun Thursday, July 3, 1997

City of Quincy, Massachusetts

Office of the Mayor

Welcome to Historic Quincy

To John Hancock, John Adams and John Quincy Adams, Quincy was home. It was that "remarkable spot" John Adams referred to when he wrote to Abigail from Europe.

Standing on Penn's Hill with her son, John Quincy, watching smoke from the Battle of Bunker Hill, Abigail Adams may have sensed that this "remarkable spot" would produce national leaders and have an impact on American History for centuries to come.

Granite from Quincy quarries would build the great Bunker Hill Monument, a lasting memorial to the battle which began our war for independence. The deep waters of Quincy Bay would provide a safe haven for one of the greatest shipbuilding facilities in America. From granite carrying ships to the great ships of war such as the aircraft carriers, USS Wasp and USS Lexington, the tradition would grow.

With twenty seven miles of seashore on the east and nestled into the beautiful Blue Hills on the west, Quincy with its peninsula communities, has the character of a town, not a City.

Visit the Adams National Historical sites, including the birthplaces of two presidents and their summer home. Enter the beautiful United First Parish Church where the two presidents and their wives are entombed. Visit the USS Salem, the last big gun cruiser built. Walk its decks at the Fore River Shipyard where it was built.

Truly, John Adams was correct when he said of Quincy, "It is a most remarkable spot." I welcome you to Quincy. Enjoy its beauty and history.

Sincerely,

James A Sheets

What Abigail Wanted

John Adams Birthplace Has Original Look

The birthplace of John Adams, second president of the United States, looks like it did when he and his parents, Deacon John and Susanna lived there.

It took on that "as it was" look after a painstaking six-year reconstruction project in the 1980s.

Visitors to the John Adams Birthplace, which peers over the shoulder of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace on Franklin St., South Quincy, can now see more completely how the house looked.

The house is well-furnished and looks like it did when John and Abigail lived in it.

The final renovation touches were to the room where Deacon John Adams made shoes.

The rooms are furnished from the period of Deacon John and his wife and probably reflected her taste. They are furnished not elaborately, but sufficiently to have a lived-in look.

The birthplace was probably built in the late 17th or early 18th Century for less than $1,000 in the pounds of the day and the clapboards were hand-hewn from trees that grew in its fields.

The pine clapboards of the John Adams Birthplace are unpainted and the U.S. National Park Service, which restored the house, insists that based on research the house will remain that way, despite the fact that John Adams was known to have preferred it white.

For more than 80 years they were the little red farmhouses at the foot of Penn's Hill. But research turned up the fact that Abigail Adams, the wife of the second president, wanted them "stone" and white in color.

Since what Abigail wanted, Abigail usually got, in the summer of 1980, the John Quincy Adams Birthplace was repainted to Abigail's taste, the "stone" color determined to be a sort of off-white mixed especially for the occasion from a late 18th Century formula.

The John Adams Birthplace was painted white so that both houses would look as they did in 1807, the year the last Adams lived in them, but later research indicated it was unpainted.

The birthplaces, parts of which date back to the 17th Century, were taken over by the National Park Service on May 1, 1979 after years of semi-neglect due to lack of restoration and maintenance funds.

The John Quincy Adams Birthplace reopened in 1982 for the first time in three years after undergoing a $175,000 rehabilitation faithful to the lives of the prominent family that lived there.

If you close your eyes and give your imagination full rein you can see them now as they were more than 200 years ago.

There is Abigail Adams in the new pink gingham dress. There is the curly-haired infant, Thomas Boylston Adams, bouncing on his father's knee. And there is John Adams, home from the Continental Congress in Philadelphia for the first time in a year, sitting at the table and drinking a cup of tea.

The setting, right down to the pewter plates and candlesticks, is reproduced faithfully in the corner room of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace.

The furnishings of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace are precise reproductions of those that were in the house when the second president lived there. The originals are at the Old House, the Adams National Historic Site, from which they cannot be removed under the ownership agreement with the Adams family.

The most interesting room in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace is John Adams' old law office, in which the elder Adams, James Bowdoin and Samuel Adams drafted the Massachusetts State Constitution, the model on which the U.S. Constitution was based.

The law office is furnished pretty much as John Adams had it.

There is the hutch table on which he wrote the State Constitution; the bookcase filled with books that probably were there in John Adams' day, judging by an inventory of his law library; his old writing desk and two chairs that were copies from those in his second law office in Boston.

Pastels of Abigail and John, originally done in Salem, were photographically reproduced by photographer George Dow and now hang in Abigail's sitting room. The originals are in the possession of the Massachusetts Historical Society.

Abigail's old kitchen cabinet was discovered serving as a bookcase in the Old House.

JOHN ADAMS BIRTHPLACE

The cabinet was reproduced and installed in the kitchen of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace along with copies of the blue china that John purchased when he was emissary to Holland.

The Adams Birthplaces at 133 and 141 Franklin St. are open daily, including Sundays and holidays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. from April 19 to Nov. 10 with guided tours. Last full tour is at 3:15 p.m. Admission is $2 for adults and children over 16, which also includes admission to the Adams Mansion within seven days. Park passes available. Tours should be arranged at the Visitor Center, 1250 Hancock St.

The Adams Cottages

Our Only Father - Son Presidents Born Here

It was the North Precinct of Braintree then, a sprawling tract of woods and farmlands on the gently rolling hills some 10 miles south of the Boston Stone along the winding Coast Road to Plymouth.

Something less than 1,500 people lived in the North, Middle and South Precincts of Braintree in the year 1735 and two of them were Deacon John Adams, 44, farmer and cordwainer, and his wife, Susanna, 26.

Their home was a weathered gray farmhouse with a high peaked roof and attached lean-to kitchen set on seven acres of farmland at roughly Milepost 11 of the Coast Road, just where it turned up the wooded slopes of Penn's Hill toward the Monatiquot River ford.

He was a pillar of his rural community. Mr. Adams was a deacon in the First Parish Church, a lieutenant in the Braintree militia and a town constable with a forceful personality and tact that enabled him to collect taxes from his neighbors.

He was a hard-working farmer whose cider was acknowledged best in town, he worked in leather during the winter months, and he had an eye on an adjoining piece of farmland, 9 1/2 acres owned by the Billings brothers, complete with a farmhouse similar to his own.

Susanna Adams was a Boylston of Brookline, socially a cut above her husband, and perhaps there were moments in the simple house at the foot of Penn's Hill when she thought of the home of her uncle, the noted Dr. Zabiel Boylston of Brookline, whose furniture came all the way from London.

Their first child, a son who was named John for his father, was born in the southeast bedroom of the farmhouse on Oct. 19, 1735. (Old Style). He would become the second president of the United States.

Deacon John purchased purchased the house next door for 500 pounds in 1744 and it was ready 20 years later when young John moved in with his brand new bride, the former Abagail Smith, the preacher's sparkling daughter from the next town of Weymouth.

Their second child, a son who was named John Quincy Adams after his great-grandfather, Col. John Quincy, was born there on July 11, 1767. He would become the sixth president of the United States.

The junction of Franklin St., Independence Ave., and President Ave. in South Quincy is the only place in the country where the birthplaces of two presidents stand side by side in the same city.

The precise age of the two cottages at the foot of Penn's Hill is not known.

When the John Adams Birthplace was retorted by the Daughters of Revolution in 1897, a brick bearing the date 1861 was discovered under the southeast corner, and the house was known to have been occupied by one Joseph Penniman in that year.

And a man named Samuel Belcher was living in the John Quincy Adams as early as 1663, when it was little more than a one-room shack with fireplace. It was built to its present size in 1716, as evidenced by a date brick found in the new fireplace.

According to Henry Adams, grandson of President John Quincy Adams, no member of the family lived in the cottages after 1818, although ownership remained in the Adams family until 1940.

Both houses were restored by the Adams Realty Trust, the John Quincy Adams Birthplace in 1896 at a cost of $1,650 and the John Adams Birthplace a year later at an expense of $515.49.

They were presented to the city of Quincy in 1940 and supervised by the Quincy Historical Society until they were turned over to the U.S. National Park Service in 1979.

The Adams Birthplaces at 133 and 141 Franklin St. are open daily, including Sundays and holidays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. from April 19 to Nov. 10 with guided tours. Last full tour is at 4:15 p.m. Admission is $2 for adults and children over 16, which also includes admission to the Adams Mansion within seven days. Park passes available. Tours should be arranged at the Visitor Center, 1250 Hancock St.

The Presidential Trail

The Adams Birthplaces are an important stop on the newly designated Quincy Presidential Trail, a 10.5 mile route that takes the visitor through the 17th and 18th Century locales associated with the lives of the Adams family.

Historic sites along the trail include the Adams Mansion, Quincy Homestead, Adams Academy, First Parish Church, Adams Crypt, City Hall, Hancock Cemetery, the Adams Birthplaces, Abigail Adams Cairn, First Commercial Railroad, First Ironworks, Col. Josiah Quincy House and Moswetuset Hummock, most of which are described in this supplement.

The Quincy Presidential Trail is a National Recreation Trail, the seventh in the state of Massachusetts and the 625th in the nation.

HISTORIC QUINCY

The City of Quincy has almost everything a city can offer with its brilliant, magnificent shoreline, its National Historical sites, its two colleges and its neighborhoods. It is rich in heritage, natural and human resources – and it is particularly enriched by its unique blend of old and new.

First settled in 1625 at Mount Wollaston and separated in 1640 from Boston as a Town called Braintree, our Quincy was established as a Town of its own in 1792 and incorporated as a City in 1888.

It continues to be one of the finest cities in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. It produced two Presidents of the United States. The mortal remains of Quincy's two most famous sons, Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams lie at the First Parish Church, Unitarian, in Quincy Square. The citizens of this City are very proud of its history and working together, they are ready to meet the challenges they face as they look ahead to the 21st century.

THE ADAMS MANSION

'The Old House'

Summer White House And Home Of 2 Presidents

Josiah Quincy, the one who built railroads around New England and founded the cooperative bank movement in Massachusetts, was in his boyhood a frequent visitor to the mansion where John Adams, the second president of the United States, lived in retirement.

Later, he wrote with wry amusement about Sunday dinner with the aging patriarch of the Adams clan and his wife, Abigail, a dinner that inevitably began with a thick pudding made from boiled corn meal.

"...it being thought desirable to take the edge off one's hunger before reaching the joint," wrote Quincy.

"Indeed, it was considered wise to stimulate the young to fill themselves with pudding, by the assurance that the boy who managed to eat the most of it should be helped most abundantly to the meat, which was to follow.

"It need not be said that neither the winner nor his competitors found much room for meat at the close of their contest; and so the domestic economy of the arrangement was very apparent."

Quincy, as a young Harvard law student, stopped by several times a week in summer to talk and read to the former President. He found the visits delightful. Indeed, the Adams of the cold and austere public mien was never more relaxed than he was at his country home in Quincy.

The original house, a small part of the present building, was built probably in 1731 by Major Leonard Vassall, a wealthy West Indian sugar planter who lived in Cambridge and apparently used it for a summer place.

His daughter, Mrs. Anna Borland, who was a Loyalist during the Revolution, abandoned the house to leave with the British forces when they evacuated Boston in 1776. For a while it was used as a haven for rebel refugees fleeing the war zones.

Mrs. Borland returned to reclaim the house after the Revolution and John Adams, then in Europe as the first American ambassador to London, purchased it for 600 pounds through the good offices of the Cotton Tuffs of Weymouth, his wife Abigail's cousin.

The Adamses were about to return to the United States after seven years abroad and Abigail was concerned that John's books and papers and the furnishings they had acquired in Europe would not fit into their old farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill where they lived before.

The deal was closed on Sept. 26, 1787, and the deed is still on file in the Suffolk County Registry of Deeds in which the Adams purchase is specified as a house, barn and other buildings on seven acres of land with some 76 acres more scattered around the North Precinct of Braintree.

There are indications that Abigail was first disappointed with her purchase. It was a lot smaller than she remembered it.

"In height and breadth it feels like a wren's house," she wrote to her daughter, Abigail, the wife of Col. William S. Smith, "Let Col. Smith come without heels to his shoes or he will not be able to walk upright."

Abigail and John Adams moved into the house, which they named "Peacefield," after his retirement from the presidency in 1801 and lived there until they died.

It was from the "Old House," as the family called it, that John Adams carried on his long and increasingly warm correspondence with his old rival, Thomas Jefferson of Virginia, who had succeeded him in the presidency. In retirement, they became firm friends as they outlasted their contemporaries.

"Thomas Jefferson lives," whispered John Adams as he lay dying in the Old House. He was wrong. Jefferson, in far away Monticello, Va., had preceded him in death by a few hours on the same day.

It was July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

The Old House which served as summer White House for two presidents, was home to four generations of the Adams family, the last, Brooks Adams, dying in February, 1927. It was taken over by the U.S. National Park Service in 1946 to become the Adams Mansion National Historic Site.

The site at 135 Adams St. is open from April 19 to Nov. 10 daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The last full tour is at 4:15 p.m. Admission is $2 for adults and children over 16, and includes admission to the Adams Birthplaces within seven days. Tours should be arranged at the Visitor Center, 1250 Hancock St.

THE FIRST PARISH CHURCH

TOMBS OF PRESIDENTS John and John Quincy Adams and their wives in First Parish Church.

First Parish Church

Where 2 Presidents, Their Wives Are Entombed

In 1949, when the present First Parish Church building, the Old Stone Temple, was 121 years old, it was ruled officially that the church is older than the city itself and the town before it.

It was then that the late historian William Churchill Edwards was called upon to resolve a minor dispute that involved the rounding of the corners of the church lot in downtown Quincy.

"Almost the first subject to which the minds of the early settlers of our country were turned after they landed here was the formation of a church," said Edwards.

The first church in these parts was established as a branch of the Church of Boston in 1636. It became a church in its own right in 1639. The Mount Wollaston section of Boston was incorporated as the town of Braintree on May 23, 1640. Ergo, the church came first!

Quincy's first house of worship, the branch of the Church of Boston, was called the "Chapel of Ease," and if it was neglected by early historians it was because its first pastor, the Rev. John Wheelwright, his sister-in-law, Anne Hutchinson, and others were banished from the Massachusetts Bay Colony for heresy.

The new church, the one that lasted, was gathered by covenant on Sept. 26, 1639, and it was holding services in its third meeting house in 1732 when its pastor was the Rev. John Hancock, father of the bold first signer of the Declaration of Independence. Son John also was a member.

The affairs of the church and the town of Quincy were one and the same until 1824 when church and state were separated in Massachusetts and the Congregational Society was established to handle parochial matters.

The old Hancock meeting house was still standing, although a little run down, on the south lawn of the present church lot in 1822 when former President John Adams deeded the interest from certain of his lands and granite from his pastures to build a stone temple.

It was completed in Greek revival style at a cost of $30,488.56-which was some $3,000 less than architect Alexander Parrish's estimate-and dedicated Nov. 12, 1828, with John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States holding Pew No. 1.

Even before the church was dedicated, the mortal remains of his benefactors, John and Abigail Adams, were transferred to tombs in the crypt of the church and, in 1852, the bodies of John Quincy Adams and his wife, Louisa, joined them.

It is the only church in the United States in which two Presidents are buried. The only other church in which a President is buried is the Episcopal Cathedral in Washington, D.C., where President Woodrow Wilson is entombed.

An active Unitarian Universalist Church, it is open to the public for tours daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Monday, Nov. 10. Admission is $2; those under 16 are admitted free. For further information, call 773-0062 or the church office at 773-1290.

Why We Pronounce It 'Quin-zee'

Why do we pronounce Quincy "Quin-zee" when just about everyone else in the country refers to it as "Quin-see?"

There are 19 other Quincys in the U.S., but they pronounce it "Quin-see."

Can they be right and we be wrong?

Not according to Quincy's late city historian, William C. Edwards who never budged an inch whenever the argument ever came up. And it still comes up.

The reason we pronounce it "Quin-zee" is very simple.

"That's the way the Quincy family pronounced it," he used to explain.

"The original Quincy family which settled here at Mount Wollaston pronounced it 'Quin-zee,' including Col. John Quincy after whom Quincy, Mass.—the first Quincy—was named in 1792."

Colonel Quincy was the great grandfather of sixth President John Quincy Adams.

Apparently, all 19 other Quincys in the U.S. were named after John Quincy Adams.

And, apparently the early settlers of those communities thought John Quincy pronounced it John "Quin-see."

Anyway, that is how Edwards explained it.

Seems like a sound argument.

Quincy Was Almost Hancock

If some of the early settlers had their way, you would be living in the city of Hancock today instead of the city of Quincy.

Quincy, like George Washington, was born on Feb. 22.

On Feb. 22, 1792, the General Court of Massachusetts passed an act incorporating the North Precinct of Old Braintree as the separate town of Quincy.

But, just before that, quite a few of the residents wanted the new town named after native-son John Hancock instead of Boston-born Colonel John Quincy.

Colonel Quincy, who had represented Old Braintree in the General Court, was the great-grandfather of President John Quincy Adams.

Many people today think Quincy was named after the sixth President but the honor actually goes to his great-grandfather.

John Hancock, who was born in the North Precinct, was governor of Massachusetts when the General Court passed the act incorporating the new town as Quincy. He signed the act the following day.

But at the first town meeting of the new town in May, a petition was presented to change the name from Quincy to Hancock in honor of the patriot and first signer of the Declaration of Independence. The move was finally defeated after a stormy verbal battle.

Opponents argued that Hancock was still alive and that the honor should go to a distinguished-but-deceased-person.

JOHN HANCOCK

Colonel Quincy met those requirements. He was both distinguished and deceased.

He had represented Old Braintree in the General Court from 1717 to 1741, 12 of those years as Speaker of the House. He died in 1767 at age 77, two days after John Quincy Adams was born.

Quincy became a city June 11, 1888.

But a lot of people will go right on thinking Quincy was named after John Quincy Adams.

Wife, Mother Of Two Presidents

Abigail Adams' Unique Distinction

Abigail Adams has a unique place in history as the only woman to be the wife of one president and the mother of another.

And, she nearly became the grandmother of a vice president.

Her husband, John, was the second president from 1797 to 1801 and her son, John Quincy, the sixth from 1825 to 1829.

A grandson, Charles Francis Adams, ran unsuccessfully for vice president on the Free Soil ticket in 1848.

Sadly, Abigail did not live to see her son become president. She died in her 74th year Oct. 28, 1818 seven years before.

Although she is traditionally remembered as the wife of one president and the mother of another—an honor shared by no other woman—she was more than that.

She was a remarkable woman on her own and one ahead of her times.

Born in neighboring Weymouth Nov. 11, 1744, the daughter of Rev. William Smith, a Congregational minister and Elizabeth Quincy Adams, she had no formal schooling.

But through tutoring by her father and mother and reading, she became a well-known writer of letters that have served to help chronicle American history.

She was an early advocate of women's rights as attested in one of her famous letters to her husband who was often away. She wrote:

"In the new code of law which I suppose it will be necessary for you to make, I desire that you remember the ladies and be more generous and favorable to them than your ancestors.

And, she strongly added:

"Do not push such unlimited powers into the hands of the husbands. Remember, all men would be tyrants if they could."

She was a brave woman, too. She was often left alone for long periods of time to care for the children and run the farm at the foot of Penn's Hill while her husband was away in the service of the fledgling country.

Early in their marriage, he was in France trying to develop strong ties with that country and she sailed to meet him in Paris. They had not seen one another in five years.

John and Abigail Adams were the first president and first lady to occupy the White House. When Adams took office as the second president succeeding George Washington, March 4, 1797, Philadelphia was the nation's capital. John and Abigail moved into the White House in November, 1800. It was called the President's Palace at that time.

No fancy airs about her. She won a special spot in White House folklore by hanging her laundry in the East Room. She was being practical. Many of the rooms had not been finished when they moved in and the East Room was one of the warmer and better ones for drying wet clothing.

Adams and Thomas Jefferson were close friends and worked together to produce the precious Declaration of Independence. But they had a falling out and became political enemies.

Jefferson ran against Adams in his bid for re-election to a second term and defeated him. Adams was so bitter he refused to stay in Washington for Jefferson's inaugural in 1801 and came home to Quincy.

Abigail became a peacemaker through letters to Jefferson and thanks to her efforts the two former presidents reconciled in their later years.

Both succumbed July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, Jefferson a few hours before Adams.

Unlike Abigail, Adams lived to see his son, John Quincy Adams, elected sixth president in 1824.

John and Abigail were married 54 years and it was a happy union despite frequent and long separations in the early years.

Abigail was the woman behind two men—a husband and son who encouraged and helped them in their distinguished service to their country on their way to the Presidency.

She, her husband, her son and daughter-in-law, Louisa Catherine are entombed in the crypt at United First Parish Church.

A bronze statue of Abigail and John Quincy was erected this year just a few feet away.

It was created by noted sculptor Lloyd Lillie and commissioned by the Quincy Partnership, a group of active community business leaders.

The very spot from which she now looks out onto Quincy Sq. is where she walked when the area was an open field.

SIX QUINCY FIRST Ladies participated in the unveiling of Abigail Adams statue beside historic First Parish Church in June. The wives of six mayors, from left, are Mrs. Shirley Tobin, Mrs. Sheila McIntyre, Mrs. Patricia Hannon, Mrs. Louise LaRaia, Mrs. Joann Sheets and Mrs. Sandra McCauley.

At Quincy Homestead

John Hancock's Declaration Of Love

An aura of romance surrounds the stately old house that is set back in the trees from the corner of Hancock St. and Butler Rd., on the banks of Furnace Brook.

There is the wallpaper with its blue cupids and pink flowers that was imported from France for the wedding of Dorothy Quincy, the vivacious daughter of the house, to Quincy-born John Hancock, a patriot on the run with a price on his head.

There are the words "You I Love and You alone," addressed by Hancock to his beloved Dorothy and scratched on a window pane with his diamond ring just before he fled to Lexington on the eve of the Revolution.

And there are the secret chambers and passageways, used, it was said, to hide fugitive patriots during the Revolution and, at an earlier date, even certain Englishmen fleeing a charge of regicide in the death of King Charles I.

Parts of the house were built in 1685 by Col. Edmund Quincy, the second of the name, on land that was granted to an earlier Edmund in 1638. The major part was built in 1706 by Edmund the third. (There were six Edmunds in all, four in a direct line; two nephews.)

The house was the social center of old Braintree during the regime of the fourth Edmund, largely because he sired five beautiful daughters around whom swirled a whole future generation of judges, generals and merchant kings.

The undisputed belle of the household was Dorothy, the coquettish youngest of the eight Quincy children, whose troth was soon plighted to John Hancock, the wealthy young businessman from Boston who was already becoming known as a leader of the rebels.

Tradition has it that they were to have been married in the north parlor of the Quincy homestead with its French cupid wallpaper when Revolution intervened and John had to flee with the British on his heels.

Eventually, they were wed Aug. 28, 1775, at the home of Thaddeus Burr, uncle of Aaron Burr (later Vice President of the United States) in Fairfield, Conn.

After the Revolution and the death of Edmund the fourth in 1788 the old house passed from the Quincy family. The Hancocks wanted nothing to do with it. Their only son, John George Washington Hancock, was killed in a skating accident at age 9 while on a visit in 1787.

The house was acquired in 1904 by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames, who restored it with vintage furniture, utensils and clothing, and gave it to the state with the proviso that the Dames continue to run it.

Thomas Crane Public Library

A Romanesque Architectural Beauty

He came to Quincy as a boy of 7, grew to young man hood on a farm in Quincy Point, learned the granite-cutters' trade, and left at the age of 26 to win fame and fortune in stone in New York City.

That was the last Quincy saw of Thomas Crane for half a century until one February day in 1880, five years after his death, when his son, Albert, appeared with $20,000 with which to build a memorial — preferably a library — to his father.

"My father always retained a strong feeling for the town of Quincy," was his only explanation.

Albert Crane himself chose the man to design the building, Henry Hobson Richardson, grandson of the English scientist Dr. Joseph Priestly and the foremost architect of the day.

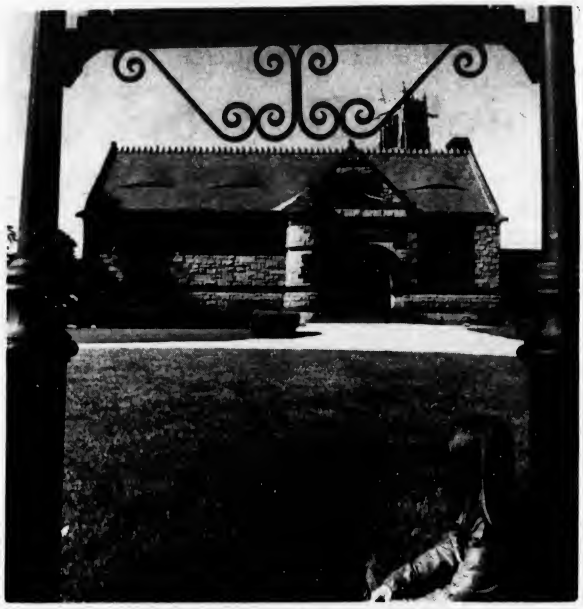
His reputation was so formidable that he was able to tell Crane, "I cannot guarantee that the building, when completed, shall conform to (your) ideas of beauty and taste," and still get the job.

Richardson's Romanesque building, which now houses the reference section of the library, was dedicated on May 30, 1882, with the principal oration delivered by Charles Francis Adams, Jr., chairman of the Board of Trustees.

It was Adams who gave the library its name. Albert Crane wanted it to be "The Quincy Free Public Library." Adams insisted on "The Thomas Crane Public Library."

"Who's giving the building?" asked Albert Crane.

"You are, but you wouldn't have if it hadn't been for me," said Adams, who was used to having his way around Quincy, and that was that.



President John Adams' modest collection of books was housed in the library until 1893, when it was discovered that in 11 years only two persons, one of them Charles Francis Adams, Jr., had asked to see them. They were then transferred to the Boston Public Library.

At the start, Richardson's magnificent building was all but hidden behind a grain store, a hotel, an office building and four homes that lined Washington St.

Albert Crane, however, was a persistent man and, by the time he died in 1917, he had purchased and torn down all the buildings, leaving a broad expanse of open space to enhance the library.

But before the lawn could be seeded, World War I intervened and, in a burst of patriotism — "Food will win the war," they said — the area was planted with potatoes, tended by an expert brought in from Maine. The experiment failed.

"There wasn't a potato in the lot that was anywhere near as large as a golf ball," said Mayor Joseph L. Whiton. The harvest was donated to the poor farm.

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Albert Crane also put up $64,000 to build the Spear St. wing of the library in 1907-08 and the Crane family gave yet another $164,000 for the free standing addition, built in 1936, that now houses the stacks and the children's section.

The Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., is open to the public, free of charge, Monday to Thursday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Friday and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. It is closed on Saturdays during July and August.

The YMCA is a great place to go for any kid. For some kids, it's the only great place to go.

The truth is, because of family problems or low incomes, a lot of kids can't afford the opportunities to go places and be with adults who can give them the caring attention that they need.

That's why the YMCA is so important. We give kids the positive experiences they need to grow up prepared for happy and productive lives. But we always run out of money before we run out of kids.

Support the place that supports kids and families. The YMCA

DOMED CEILING of the United First Parish church, cut with classic Greek lines, emphasizes the size and beauty of the church. The dome and the crypt of Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams and their wives combine to make the "Church of Presidents" one of the most awe inspiring sights in Quincy.

HANCOCK CEMETERY in Quincy Square is the resting place of the early settlers including Rev. John Hancock, a minister of the First Parish Church and father of patriot John Hancock.

Quincy Quiz

What was the role in Quincy's history of "Thomas Morton of Clifford's Inn, Gent.?"

Answer:

Thomas Morton, dubbing himself the "Lord of Misrule," took control of the Mt. Wollaston settlement in 1627, changed the name to Merry Mount, erected a maypole and cavorted with the Indians until the Pilgrims of Plymouth and the Puritans of Boston put an end to such carrying ons.

What was the role in Quincy's history of Francis L. Souther?

Answer:

Francis L. Souther was a member of the Hancock Light Guards, Fourth Massachusetts Regiment, who was killed at the Battle of Big Bethel on June 10, 1861, the first Union soldier to die in combat in the Civil War.

Adams Academy

On Site Of John Hancock's Birthplace

ADAMS ACADEMY, now home of the Quincy Historical Society.

By modern standards, the board ing house at the corner of Hancock and Depot Sts. had all the aspects of a genteel prison.

Residents were forbidden to leave between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. They could not enter or leave at any time exept by the hall door. They were banned from pool halls and bars. Smoking materials also were forbidden to them.

In exchange for good behavior, plus tuition ranging from $75 to $150 a year, they were given the best prep school education of the day, for they were students at Adams Academy, which flourished from 1872 to 1907 in Quincy.

The academy was a gift of John Adams, the second President of the United States, who always had his checkbook ready to fill the spiritual and educational needs of the citizens of his beloved Quincy.

The trust fund, nourished by "rents, profits and emoluments" from certain Adams-owned properties, was set up in the Adams will of 1822, but it was not until 1869 that the fund was deemed larege enough to start construction.

The location was specified by Adams himself as the corner of Adams and Hancock Sts., site of the birhthplace of his childhood friend, John Hancock, the first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

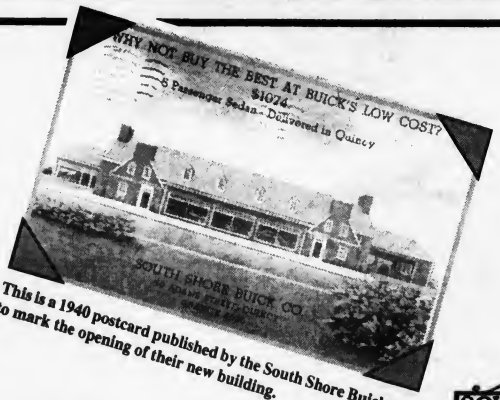
The doors opened to the first students, 24 of them, on Sept. 4, 1872. Five years later, the academy reached a peak enrollment of 154 with an international student body—25 from Quincy, four from Washington, D.C., 125 from14 states, two from England and one from Chile.

It had one of the earliest prep school football teams, too, recording a tie with the Resolutes of Boston on Oct. 21, 1876, a scant seven years after Princeton and Rutgers played the first college game. It whipped Andover three times from 1877-79.

The admissions catalogue specified that applicants be "well prepared in the usual studies of good grammar school" and warned that "no pupils are desired to give them a collegiate education."

The best known headmaster was Dr. William Everett, once acclaimed as one of the seven smartest men in the world. He ran the academy with a firm hand from 1878 to 1893 and again from 1897 to 1907. From 1893 to 1897, he was a U.S. congressman from Lynn.

Dr. Everett, an amiable if sometimes waspish eccentric, was widely known as the man who hated Abraham Lincoln. He had reason. His father was Edward Everett, whose masterful oration at Gettysburg was over-shadowed by Lincoln's notes scribbled on the back of an envelope.



It was Dr. Everett, who signaled the passing of Adams Academy—and many other 19th Century classical prep schools—at graduation exercises in 1907 when he said that "unless someone comes forward and planks down $50,000, the academy will be closed."

Nobody did and on June 22, 1907, the Adams Academy officially closed its doors.

The building today is occupied by the Quincy Historical Society, which maintains a museum and research library in the old classrooms as well as an expanded gift shop.The museum and gift shop are open all year, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. For Saturday hours, call 773-1144. It is closed Sunday and holidays. There is a $1 fee for non-members; children age 12 and under are admitted free.

First Iron Works

Steel Industry Born Here In 1644

It failed after nine years of effort and since failure was anathema in a growing America, perhaps that is why the site and even the memory of the first commercial iron blast furnace in the United States was lost for so long.

It flourished, if that is the word, from 1644 to 1653 on the banks of the Mount Wollaston River in a section of Old Braintree called, "the Woods." It left is name on the river, now Furnace Brook in West Quincy.

Iron was an important commodity in Colonial Massachusetts, particularly for nails and pots and pans. Unfortunately, iron utensils had to be imported from England, a costly process for the penny-wise colonists.

With this in mind, John Winthrop Jr., son of the governor of the Massachusetts Bay colony [Did someone cry "Nepotism?"], went to London and formed the "Company of Undertakers for the Ironworks in New England." He, of course, was the local agent.

The Company gave Winthrop a thousand pounds of capital and a work crew of indentured servants, many of whom ran away when they heard they were going to the wilds of America. Jail was better than that!

When, after a search from Maine to Plymouth, he decided to locate in Quincy, Winthrop was also granted 3,000 acres of land, with subsidiary land rights elsewhere in the colony, and a 21-year monopoly.

The operation was deemed of such importance that the iron workers were given exemption from militia duty, this at a time when war was imminent with the Narragansett Indians and with Ninigret, the sachem of the Niantics.

The first iron was turned out in 1644, but young Winthrop was fired the next year to be succeeded by Richard Leader. It is interesting to note that one of America's earliest magnates toiled for a salary of 100 pounds a year.

The ore from which iron was blasted on the banks of Furnace Brook came from the swamps and bogs. It was not a high quality product. Water power from a dram thrown across the Brook was inadequate. Quincy iron ore proved to be more expensive than the imported kind.

The Company of Undertakers appealed for fresh money in 1646 and apparently there were enough investors ready to send good money after bad because the furnace was still in operation in 1650 when the Scotch Prisoners arrived.

The Scots were rugged Highlanders, soldiers in the army of the future King Charles II who were captured in the Battle of Dunbar. They suffered the fate common to most 17th Century prisoners of war.

Cromwell shipped 272 of them to New England, cheap labor in an effort to make Quincy iron works a paying proposition. It didn't work. The Company of Undertakers went bankrupt in 1653 and "the Woods" went back to the bear and the deer.

Meanwhile, with the same Richard Leader as agent, construction began on a second iron works on the North Shore in Saugus in 1646. When it was completed in 1650 it was recognized as the first integrated iron industry in America.

The remains of the John Winthrop Jr. Blast Furnace are located in Hall Cemetery on Crescent St., West Quincy.

Josiah Quincy House

Lookout For Spying On British Ships

Abigail Adams stood with her great-uncle, Col. Josiah Quincy, in a window of his mansion overlooking Wollaston Beach and watched the tall masts of 170 ships stand slowly out to sea. It was March 17, 1776. The British were evacuating Boston.

But even in triumph there was tragedy.

Aboard the departing ships were more than 1,000 Loyalists, Americans who had chosen King above country, and one of them was Abigail's cousin, Samuel Quincy, the Colonel's only remaining son, an avowed Tory.

"I take a long farewell," his sister, Hannah, wrote to him for one last time. "Let it not be published that a brother of such brothers fled from his country. Can you expect to walk uprightly now? Can you take fire in your bosom and not be burned?"

Two of Col. Josiah Quincy's sons had died young. Now he had no more.

But there was no time for regrets. The work of revolution had begun. The second floor of the house at what is now 20 Muirhead St., Wollaston, was a lookout from which the 66-year-old Colonel spied on British ship movements for his friend, Gen. George Washington.

A few months before, Col. Quincy watched the Royal Governor, Gen. Thomas Gage depart and he scratched on a pane of window glass the reminder: "Oct. 10, 1775, General Gage sailed for England with a fair wind."

This time he remained in the window for three days as the British tall ships moved restlessly about the Harbor as if reluctant to leave. Finally, on March 20, the last of them passed through the roadstead and out to sea.

The mansion in Wollaston reached full social flower under the aegis of the Colonel's grandson, the third Josiah, the "Great Mayor" of Boston, president of Harvard and Congressman, who called it "Tranquillia" and used it as his summer home.

It was there that the Marquis de Lafayette visited one Sunday afternoon after dinner with his friend, ex-President John Adams at the Adams Mansion. He carried flowers from the Adams garden for Mrs. Eliza Susan Quincy and her five attractive daughters.

The house was built in 1770 by the old Colonel himself, the first in a line of six Josiahs. It was said that, while most families passed their line from sire to son, the Quincys went from 'Siah to 'Siah.

But, while there were six Josephs and innumerable Edmunds, the city was named for yet another member of the prolific family — Col. John Quincy, the great-grandfather of John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States.

JOSIAH QUINCY HOUSE

The Josiah Quincy House is open to the public from June 1 to Oct. 15, Saturday and Sunday 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tours are conducted on the hour and the last tour begins at 4 p.m. Visits may be made at other times by appointment. Admission is $2, children and seniors $1.50, children 5 and younger free. All Quincy residents and SPNEA members are admitted free.

How Many Miles From Boston?

Stone mile markers across Hancock Street from each other indicate that the traveler is both 7 1/4 and 10 miles from Boston. And both are correct.

The 10-mile marker was placed on the Old Coast Road, one of the oldest highways in the United States still in existence, which went from Boston to Plymouth in 1639 by way of inland Milton.

The 7 1/4-mile marker was raised after the first bridge over the Neponset River was built in 1803, creating the Neponset Turnpike, which is today Hancock St. in North Quincy and Wollaston.

Abigail Adams Cairn

The Smoke Could Be Seen Over Bunker Hill

Abigail Adams was awakened at dawn in the farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill by the sound of far-off guns. All through the sweltering morning of June 17, 1775, as she hustled about with the chores, the dull boom of cannon intruded on her consciousness.

Riders on the Coast Road to Plymouth, stopping at the farmhouse for a drink of water, told her of a great battle underway on Breed's Hill in Charlestown.

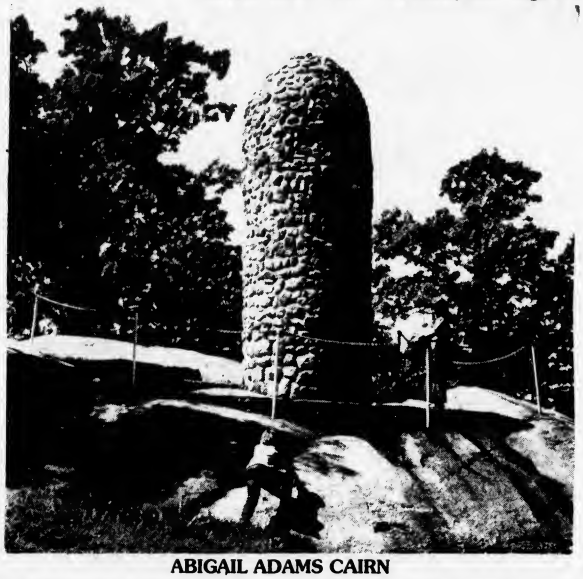
One of them brought word that Dr. Joseph Warren had been killed in the fighting and little Abby, age 10, burst into tears, and John Quincy, nearly 8, felt bewildered and sad, for Dr. Warren was the Adams family doctor in Boston.

In the afternoon, Abigail could stand it no longer. Taking Abby and John Quincy by the hand, she walked up the Coast Road to the top of Penn's Hill and climbed up on the rocks for a better view.

The panorama of the Bay, a shimmering blue in the sunshine, spread out before them, the tiny houses on the three hills of Boston and, beyond, the black smoke rising in billows.

"Good God," exclaimed Abigail, "they are burning Charlestown!"

The scene etched itself forever in John Quincy's memory.



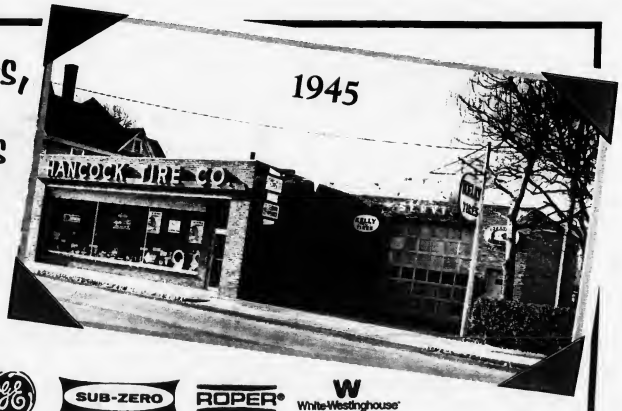
The early days of the Revolution were times of turmoil in Old Braintree and its North Precinct, which was later called Quincy.

Abigail's husband, John, was away most of the time at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, leaving 31-year-old Abigail to manage the farm and look to the needs of four small children: Abigail, John Quincy, Charles, 5, and Thomas Boylston, 3.

There were days of alarm as the British, penned up in Boston by the brand new Continental Army, foraged up and down the coast for supplies. Refugees from occupied Boston and the inner towns of Dorchester and Roxbury sometimes slept in the kitchen and in the fields.

As the wife of a member of Congress, Abigail was a center of attention. The house on the Coast Road was a favorite stopping place for travelers to Plymouth. Politicians up from Philadelphia made it a point to stop by for a visit with John Adams' wife.

Abigail was invited to visit Gen. George Washington's headquarters at Winter Hill. The aristocratic Washington was suspect among New Englanders. He was a Virginian; he was an Anglican; and, it was said, he held slaves. But John Adams liked him and Abigail was soon charmed.



ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN

One day, young John Quincy came home to find his Uncle Elihu melting down Abigail's pewter spoons in the kitchen to make bullet molds. He looked at his mother and she looked back at him and something indefinable passed between them.

"Do you wonder," wrote the sixth President of the United States some 68 years later, "that a boy of 7 who witnessed this scene should be a patriot."

In 1896, where the old Coast Road (now Franklin St.) meets Viden Rd. atop Penn's Hill, a stone cairn was built to mark the spot where Abigail and young John Quincy watched the Battle of Bunker Hill. It is open to the public and free of charge.

John Quincy Adams:

The Old Flame Still Burned

The old man's bitterness glowed from every word as he penned them in his diary on June 17, 1843, the day the Bunker Hill Monument was dedicated.

"What a name in the annals of mankind is Bunker Hill! What a day was the 17th of June, 1775! And what a burlesque upon them both is an oration upon them by Daniel Webster!"

The old man despised Webster as a turncoat to his own heritage, one whose compromises had sold out to slavery.

"The ideal associations thundering cannon, which I heard, and the smoke of burning Charlestown, which I saw, on that awful day .. How could I have witnessed all this at once, without an unbecoming burst of indignation.

"Daniel Webster is a heartless traitor to the cause of freedom; John Tyler [the President] is a slave-monger. What have these to do with the Quincy granite pyramid on the brow of Bunker Hill?

"I stayed home .. "

The old flame still burned in John Quincy Adams at 75.

A MARKETPLACE flourished on the grounds of Adams Academy in the early 1900s. The Academy, now the home of the Quincy Historical Society, was then headquarters for the Boy Scouts.

Seat Of Government For 153 Years

Daniel and Hannah French deeded the land to the town of Quincy for $1,000 with the stipulation that it "shall not be used for any other purpose than as a place for a Town House and for the said Inhabitants."

And, with a few minor transgressions of that vow, the solid structure of Quincy granite on Quincy Square has been just that for the past 153 years, the nerve center of government for the town and then the city.

It was the great hall on the second floor that the popular John Quincy Adams II, grandson of a President of the United States, held forth as town moderator for many years and, with his brother, Charles Francis Adams Jr., gave informal direction to town affairs.

One of the earliest ordinances passed by the first City Council on March 8, 1889 was the adoption of the City Seal emblazoned with the four most significant dates in Quincy's history:

1625, for the first settlement on Mount Wollaston; 1640, for its separation from Boston as the town of Braintree; 1792, for its separation from Braintree as the town of Quincy; and 1888, for its incorporation as a city.

CITY HALL

Designed by the architect Solomon Willard-who received $280 for drawing up the plans and superintending construction for five months-the City Hall was completed and occupied for the first time on Nov. 1, 1844.

It cost exactly $19,115.93 to build, including 88 cents to John Briesler for lead to seal the chimney.

In 1979, when a 3 and one half story reflective glass addition was built behind the old City Hall, the cost was $1.9 million.

John Adams 'Father'

U.S., State Constitution Both Born Here

Quincy, birthplace of John Adams, John Quincy Adams and John Hancock, also has claim to the birth of the U.S. Constitution.

The seed for this precious document was planted here.

The U.S. Constitution was modeled after the Massachusetts Constitution which was written by John Adams, Samuel Adams and James Bowdoin in the law office of the John Quincy Adams birthplace in Quincy.

There is every reason to believe that John Adams did not want to go the Massachusetts Constitution Convention in Cambridge in 1779.

He had arrived home only seven days before on the French frigate La Sensible after nearly 18 months in Paris helping to negotiate a commercial and military alliance with France. He was in such a rush to get home that he apparently landed the day before La Sensible reached Boston by rowing ashore from Nantasket Roads.

He missed his wife, Abigail, terribly, and she him.

"One was angry, another was full of Greif, and the third with Melancholy, so that I burnt them all," he wrote to her from Passy on Dec. 18, 1778, listing his complaints with her most recent letters. "If you write me in this style I shall leave of writing intirely, it kills me.

"Am I not wretched Enough, in this Banishment, without this? What Course shall I take to convince you that my Heart is warm? I beg you would never more write to me in such a strain for it really makes me unhappy."

"How lonely are my days?" she wrote on a Sunday evening, Dec. 27, "How solitary are my Nights? How insupportable the Idea that 3000 leigues, and the vast ocean now devide us—but devide only our persons for the Heart of my Friend is in the Bosom of his partner."

Somewhere on the vast ocean the two letters passed each other.

Paris and the dissolute court of Louis XVI held small appeal to the Puritan in John Adams, even when his closest everyday companions were Dr. Benjamin Franklin, still with an eye for the ladies at age 73, and the swashbuckling Capt. John Paul Jones, half patriot, half pirate, who had just taken command of the leaky old East Indiaman he had renamed Bon Homme Richard.

The American colonies, newly reborn as the United States of America, were going through the most dismal period of the War for Independence. Inflation was rampant: butcher's meat, a dollar to eight shillings a pound; flour, fifty dollars a hundredweight. The news from the fighting front was of death, privation and horror.

Like many Braintree wives whose husbands were away at war. Abigail Adams was forced into the unaccustomed role of head of the household, a function she filled with determination.

"I cannot avoid sometimes repining that the gifts of fortune were not bestowed upon us, that I might have enjoyed the happiness of spending my days with my partner," she wrote, "but as it is, I think it my duty to attend with frugality and economy to our own private affairs; and if I cannot add to our little substance, yet see to it that it is not diminished."

She abstained from drinking black market tea, allowing herself one tiny complaint: "I should like a little green (tea), but they say there is none to be had here. I only wish it for a medicine, as a relief to a nervous pain in my head to which I am sometimes subject."

John Adams attended the opening session of the Constitutional Convention in Cambridge on Wednesday, June 1, 1779. On Saturday, he was named to a committee of 30 to prepare the declaration of rights and the constitution. On Monday, the committee delegated the task to a subcommittee of three, John and Samuel Adams; and James Bowdoin.

Thus it was that John Adams wound up in the law office of his home at the foot of Penn's Hill, paired with his firebrand cousin, Sam, and his ailing friend, James Bowdoin, to write a Constitution of the United States.

The patient, hard-working John Adams, of course, did most of the work.

"I was by the Convention put upon the Committee—by the Committee upon the subcommittee—and by the subcommittee appointed a sub subcommittee—so that I had the honor to be principal Engineer," he wrote to his friend, Edmund Jennings. Payroll records indicate that he was paid 90 pounds for his work.

The so-called "Adams draft" of the Massachusetts Constitution was accepted by the Convention with a few alterations but by that time John Adams was long gone back to Europe, this time to help negotiate a treaty of peace with Britain and serve as America's first minister to London. He did not see the farm at the foot of Penn's Hill again for another eight years.

But he was immensely heartened by these words from the pen of his ever-loving Abigail, written on Oct. 15, 1780:

"Our Massachusetts Constitution is read with admission in New York and pronounced by the Royal Governor as the best republican form he ever saw." Quincy Adams Birthplace, Franklin St., Quincy.

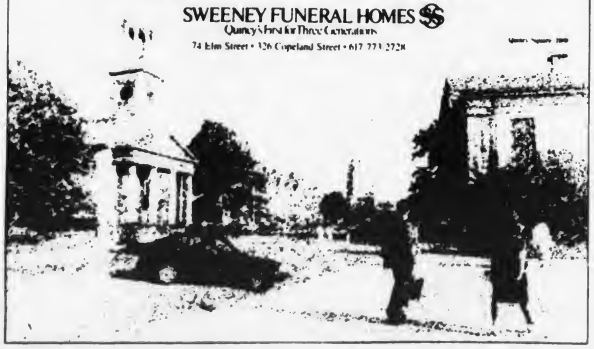
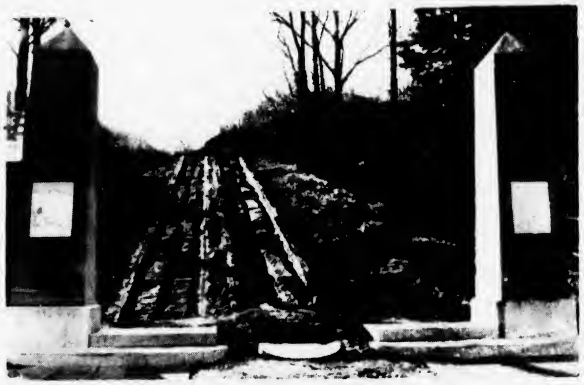
A Third Generation Continues Our Traditions.

Quincy has changed a great deal since Sweeney Funeral Home was established in 1917. But, it's nice to know some things will never change. Like the observance of traditional values and customs.



At Sweeney Funeral Homes, older residents are quick to notice the subtle reminders of yesteryear, such as the grey gloves our funeral director still wears. Like the characteristic top hat and tails that our founder, Dennis Sweeney, wore over 30 years ago, they reflect our Tradition. One that has been built on a dignified and instinctive concern for the city's bereaved families for three generations.



Today, our founder's grand-nephew, Dennis S. Sweeney has continued the family's philosophy of maintaining a beautiful, home-like atmosphere.

And like his namesake, who started pre-arrangements in the 1940s, Dennis believes in helping residents to plan for the future. Pre-planning means that this financial decision is not left for a family to decide while they are attempting to cope with a major personal loss. It's a difficult time, a time when family members are least able to make the wisest choice.

Sweeney Funeral Homes has been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions for over 70 years. Call Dennis Sweeney at (617) 773-2728 for a free consultation. There's no time like the present.

THE GRANITE RAILWAY

The Granite Railway

First Commerical Railroad In U.S.

It was the darndest looking contraption that many among the distinguished gathering had ever seen.

Each of the three wagons had four wheels, six and one half feet in diameter, surmounted by a smaller gear wheel which was used to raise and lower the cargo platform that was slung low between the wheels.

It rode on foot-high wooden rails, topped by iron plate, which rested on stone sleepers or cross ties, placed eight feet apart and firmly supported on crushed granite to a depth beyond the frost line.

On Saturday, Oct. 7, 1826, the wagons were laden with 16 tons of the finest Quincy granite and the opening day guests were properly amazed when a single horse moved the whole thing with ease more than three miles to a special wharf on the Neponset River.

The granite blocks, a particularly hard and weather-resistant stone capable of taking a brilliant polish, were en route to Charlestown, where they were building a monument to the Battle of Bunker Hill.

The Granite Railway, the first such commercial venture in the United States, was built specifically to transport stone for the Bunker Hill Monument.

That it became successful, and a model for others around the country, is a tribute to three vastly dissimilar men, the engineer Gridley Bryant, the architect Solomon Willard and the financier, Colonel Thomas Handasyd Perkins.

Bryant was 27 at the time but already an engineer of note. He invented the eight wheeled railroad car and, when a fellow named Ross Winans of Baltimore sued to establish a patent on it, Bryant was able to prove his claim to the satisfaction of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Willard, then 43, was a great bear of a man, gentle, obliging, industrious. Frivolity, it was said, was alien to him and he was never known to run. He could be crotchety, too. He was a carpenter turned wood-carver, turned stone-carver and, finally architect.

Perkins was the autocratic, 52-year-old merchant king of Boston who was said to have been offered the post of Secretary of the Navy by President Washington and turned it down with the observation that he owned more ships than the Navy.

It was Perkins who lobbied the Railway's charter through a puzzled and obstinate State Legislature, which had never been called upon to incorporate a commercial railroad before. It was Perkins who financed it, too, largely with his own money.

Even in its early days, the Granite Railway was a tourist attraction of some magnitude.

Daniel Webster, who used to stop off for a pick-me-up in Quincy en route from Boston and Washington to his home in Marshfield, viewed it and decided that it would never succeed because of the frost that would form on the rails in the winter.

The President of the United States, a local boy named John Quincy Adams, visited in August, 1827, got caught in a thunderstorm and took shelter in a shed where Willard's stone-cutters were hacking away at monument granite.

A group of visitors were riding up the Railway's incline in an empty car on July 25, 1832, when the chain broke and catapulted them over a 40-foot cliff. One was killed in what may have been the first railroad fatality in the United States.

The Granite Railway Co. survived until 1870, some 27 years after the Bunker Hill Monument was finished, when most of its track was taken over by the Old Colony Railroad, which in turn became a division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford.

Today much of the roadbed, over which freight moved commercially on rails for the first time in America, is buried under the macadam of the Southeast Expressway.

The old Railway incline has been restored and is located at the dead end of Mullin Ave. in West Quincy. It is open to the public year around, 24 hours a day. There is no admission charge.

QUINCY RECYCLING PROGRAM PAYS OFF

Quincy's recycling and leaf composting programs are great for several reasons.

First of all, recycling and composting preserve precious natural resources.

Second, several recyclable items and leaves are now BANNED by state law from Massachusetts landfills and incinerators.

Third, every ton we recycle and compost saves the city $47.30! That's how much the city pays Browning-Ferris Industries (B.F.I.) for trash disposal.

Fourth, the leaves we have been composting are being used to cover the city's old landfill. THIS YEAR ALONE we will save $125,000 because we won't have to buy as much dirt.

Fifth, the city's contract with B.F.I. requires B.F.I. to share with us the revenue they receive from the sale of recycled items. In just the last three months alone, Quincy has earned $31,000. This is because the value of recycled paper is currently very high.

To take advantage of all these benefits, Quincy residents are STRONGLY encouraged to participate in the city's recycling program. Please do what you can for the environment, and to save Quincy a great amount of money. For more information about the Quincy recycling program, please call 770-BINS.

Hancock Cemetery

Patriots, Early Settlers, Intrigue Buried Here

Henry, the first Adams in Quincy, is buried there. So is the Rev. John Hancock, father of the first signer of the Declaration of Independence. And Colonel John Quincy, for whom the city is named.

But of all the 800 graves in the Hancock Cemetery, the Old Burying Ground of Colonial Quincy, most intriguing is one marked by a tombstone bearing this cryptic epitaph:

"Erected to the memory of John R. Grieve: Died Nov. 12, 1850, age 22 years, and Hannah Banks, his wife, died Nov. 12, 1850, age 15 years. Both of Zanesville, Ohio. Deluded by the writings of A.J. Davis."

The mystery of John and Hannah has never been fully solved.

They came to Quincy in 1850, not as man and wife, but as male cousins, John Green and George Sands. They obtained work in a shoe factory but rarely left their lodgings on Elm St., spending long hours reading books on spiritualism.

Co-Workers thought that George Sands looked frail, almost effeminate. It was widely suspected that "he" was a girl. A scheme was devised to test the theory.

One day at lunch one of the shoe workers tossed George an apple. A man would catch it by closing his legs; a woman by spreading her skirt. Guess what "George" did!

Humiliated, John and Hannah never went back to the factory. Nor did they ever return to the house on Elm St. Their frozen bodies were found next spring by rabbit hunters on Penn's Hill, locked in a loving embrace.

Several months later, the father of John Grieve arrived from Ohio to bury the young couple. It was he who directed the words to be chiselled on the headstone. He explained no further.

A.J. Davis was never identified for sure. But Andrew Jackson Davis, a spiritualist, hypnotist and faith healer, was then practicing in Boston.

Among the belongings found in the Elm. St. lodgings were these words, written by 15-year-old Hannah Banks:

"To the oppressed and downtrodden, to the suffering and afflicted, I would cry out...Death is only an event, only a circumstance in the eternal life experience of the human soul. Death is simply a birth into a new and perfect state of existence."

Not far from the grave of John and Hannah is a tomb bearing words that cry out of an earlier injustice:

"Three precious friends under this tombstone lie

"Patterns to aged, youth and infancy.

"A great mother, her learned son, with child.

"The first and least went free. He was exiled.

"In love to Christ, this country, and dear friends.

"He left his own, cross'd seas and for amends

"Was here extoll'd, and envy'd all in a breath,

"His noble consort leaves, is drawn to death,

"Stranger changes may befall us ere we die,

"Blest they who will arrive eternity.

"God grant some names, O thou New England's friend.

"Don't sooner fade than thine, if times don't mend."

The tomb with its hidden message contains the family of the Rev. Leonard Hoar, third president of Harvard College, a man too liberal for his times.

He was forced by the General Court of the Massachusetts bay Colony to resign at the instigation of religious opponents and jealous colleagues for permitting Harvard to "languish and decay." Eight months later, in November 1675, he was dead at 45.

In 1975, the same General Court, now of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, righted the 300-year-old wrong done to the Rev. Mr. Hoar by "proclaiming and confirming his innocence of any misdeeds while president of Harvard College."

The cemetery, on Hancock St., Quincy Sq., next to City Hall, is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

'First Ladies Of The Skies'

Amelia Earhart, Harriet Quimby Had Quincy Ties

Abigail Adams is not Quincy's only "First Lady." The city also has ties to two "first ladies" of the skies: Amelia Earhart and Harriet Quimby.

Earhart, the country's most famous aviatrix, who disappeared in the Pacific on an around-the-world flight in 1937 took flying lessons here in the 1920s. Her disappearance is still an intriguing mystery more than a half-century later.

Quimby, although not as well known, actually was the first woman to earn a pilot's license. She flew here and died here in a tragic Airmeet crash.

A resident of Medford at the time, Earhart was one of five stockholders in the Dennison Airport established on a nine-acre marshland tract at Quincy Shore Drive and East Squantum St., North Quincy.

The Beechwood Community Life Center is now located on part of the site across from historic Moswetuset Hummock where the Moswetuset Indians settled and from which the name Massachusetts is derived.

Earhart flew on the first official flight from Dennison Sept. 30, 1927. She took flying lessons here and flew regularly here throughout 1927 and 1928.

She demonstrated the Kinner aircraft and was a strong advocate of women's rights.

She later bought a Fokker monoplane from Commander Richard E. Byrd—who would become the famed North Pole explorer—and flew it across the Atlantic, the first woman to accomplish that feat.

Byrd was stationed at the Squantum Naval Air Base which adjoined the Dennison Airport and today is the Marina Bay area.

Quincy's first Aeromeet held in 1910 marked the beginning of New England's aviation history. The 1910 meet coincided with the country's first air show held in California. Other Quincy meets followed in 1911 and 1912.

Harriet Quimby, the first woman to fly the English channel in 1911—the weekend the Titanic sank—came to Squantum to compete in the third Aeromeet in 1912. And met a tragic death.

HARRIET QUIMBY

AMELIA EARHART

On July 1, she took off from the Harvard Aviation Field on East Squantum Street for a 27-mile demonstration flight out to the Boston Light. As her Bleriot turned around the Light and headed back, the plane nosed down and plummeted into Dorchester Bay. As a horrified crowd watched, Quimby's passenger, William Willard, manager of the Aeromeet, and then Quimby, fell from the plane into the harbor waters. The plane nosed over on impact. And was undamaged. Both Quimby and Willard were killed.

Fifteen years later in 1927 the Dennison Airport, Quincy's first and only commercial airport was founded with two 1,800-foot strips. It had a brief life span of 14 years on marshland leased from the U.S. government by Harold T. Dennison, a Quincy architect.

The airport's stucco hangar and office building became a landmark until it closed in 1941. It is now the site of the Aviation History Info Center at the Beechwood Life Center.

In an era when most women were not employed or career-oriented, Earhart and Quimby were quite unique.

Both were educated, employed, and self-sufficient with multiple community, career and public roles. Neither were suffragettes or active feminists, but both were gifted, courageous and tireless women—promoting and demonstrating equal rights for women. Both were published journalists and photographers. Both met timely and tragic deaths.

The historical significance of our site has prompted study, information gathering, research and collections of early aviation photos and artifacts. Quincy's Aviation History Info Center evolved from two years of community meetings and wonderful help from aviation history buffs, journalists, aviation historians, and interested community folk. Our understandings, learning, activities and collections focus upon the history of our site where aviation in New England began.

Aviation History meetings are open to all. On July 22 at 7 p.m., the center will celebrate the birth of Amelia Earhart and on Sept. 10 at 7 p.m., the first Squantum Airmeet. Advance registration is necessary.

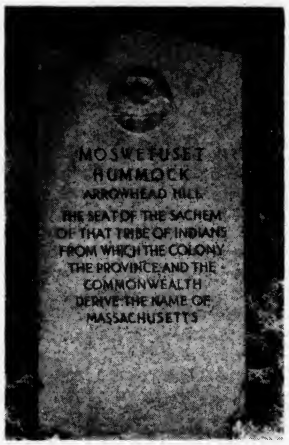
BEAUTIFUL VIEW of Boston's skyline is from Squaw Rock area of Squantum. At right is the Myles Standish Cairn erected in 1895 to commemorate his visit here Sept. 30, 1621—the first recorded visit of white men to this locality. He was guided across the bay by Tisquantum or Squanto who became the early settlers' friend and benefactor. Squantum was named after him.

Moswetuset Hummock

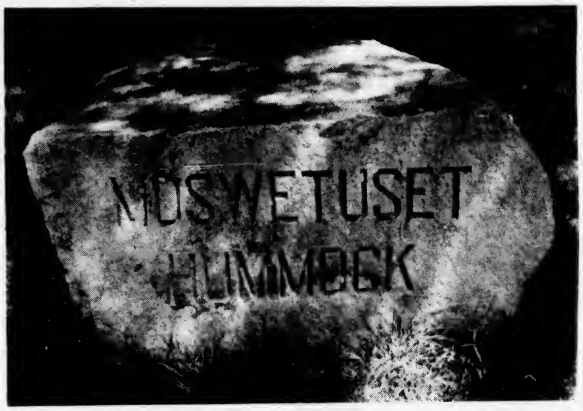
'Birthplace Of Massachusetts'

The Indians saw it was a hill (wetuset) shaped like an arrow head (mos) so they called it "Moswetuset" and when English tongues got through mangling the word it came out "Massachusetts," which became the name of the bay and then the state.

The little wooded hillock near the junction of East Squantum St. and Quincy Shore Drive was once the seat of the sachem Chickatabot, who comes down through the pages of Quincy as a rather pathetic figure.



He was the chief of the Moswetuset Indians, a once great tribe that occupied the coast north of Plymouth.



A few years before, under the great sachem Nanepashemet, the Moswetuset had been able to field some 3,000 warriors for a war with the Nanepashemet was killed.

Then came the plaque.

In two years the mighty Moswetuset were all but wiped out. No more than 60 of them were left to till their fields on the banks of the Neponset River. Sachem Chickatabot fled his home on the hill in Wollaston and took refuge on Moswetuset Hummock.

That was the situation in 1621 when Capt. Myles Standish landed from a shallop with an exploring party of Plymouth Pilgrims that included the Indian guide Squanto (or Tsquantum), whose name was given to the peninsula that stuck out in the bay.

MOSWETUSET HUMMOCK

The tragic Chickatabot died not long after the Pilgrims' visit and we was succeeded as sachem by his son, Josiah Wampatuck, a boy who knew a good deal when he saw one.

Wampatuck sold what was left of his virtually deserted tribal lands to a group of whites for 12 pounds, 10 shillings. The lands included most of what is today the city of Quincy and the towns of Braintree, Randolph and Holbrook.

Moswetuset Hummock, identified by a marker stone and maintained in its natural state, is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

Duchess Of Windsor Once Lived Here

The Duchess of Windsor is a name in Quincy's more modern history.

She lived here in Wollaston while married to a young Navy lieutenant stationed at a Naval air school in Squantum in 1917.

The Massachusetts Naval Militia had a training field in what is now the Marina Bay area which was taken over by the First Naval District as an air training school.

Assigned the head of the air school at the site which later became the Squantum Naval Reserve Air Base was Lt. Earle W. Spencer.

He was married to the former Wallis Warfield who later would become the Duchess of Windsor when King Edward VIII abdicated his throne in 1936 "for the woman I love"—a woman twice divorced.

Some thought the king should be allowed to marry her and keep his title as long as she did not become queen. But stronger opposition prevailed and he stepped down.

They were married on June 3, 1937.

While here, she and Spencer lived in a second-floor apartment on Davis St. in Wollaston.

Legend has it that her Wollaston neighbors thought she was somewhat snobbish.

They nicknamed her "The Duchess" never dreaming that one day she would really be one.

USS Salem: A Wonderful Family Experience

The USS SALEM is one of Quincy's newest tourist attractions.

Built at Quincy's renowned Fore River Shipyard, she became the Flagship of the United States Navy's Sixth Fleet during the Cold War years in the 1950s.

The SALEM is over 700 feet long and carries the heaviest automatic main battery guns in any warship of any navy. As the most powerful gunned warship in the fleet, she was a bulwark of democracy in the Mediterranean and the Caribbean Seas.

She carried a crew of over 1,600 men and traveled at a cruising speed of 35 knots. Today, visitors can tour the Main Deck, Number 3 Turret, a 5 mount, Admiral's and Captain's Bridges, and other sources of interest. Scheduled guided tours by today's uniformed crew will take guests through the Second Deck where they can see how the SALEM's crew lived and worked.

Of special note are the crew's gallery and bake shop, the barber shop, where one could get a haircut when the barber was on duty and the machine shops where the actual work is done to restore the ship. Real sailors will want to see the CIC (Combat Information Center), the nerve center of the ship where she was controlled and fought from; Engine Space Number 1, where her powerful battleship class propulsion system drove her through the sea; and her berthing compartments, where Sailor and Marine lived their lives. A well-stocked Museum Shop is on board in the ship's store where Salem hats, tee shirts, souvenirs and gifts can be purchased.

Senior citizens, school groups, and Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts as well as other organizations are welcome and can reserve tour times in advance if desired. The ship is available for overnight encampments and special activities.

The quarterdeck and other large spaces aboard the ship can be rented for parties, corporate meetings, dinner functions and other uses. An Operations Specialist can arrange for catering and other amenities to make the SALEM a great place to have a function. Tours are available daily, but large groups (20 or more) should make advance arrangements.

There will be period Motion Picture Films and the ever-present "training films" showing on board, as well as plenty of hot coffee.

Spring, summer and fall are the sun times aboard the ship, and with her awnings rigged, you will be transported to some of the SALEM's many ports of call. The Massachusetts Military Research Center will be open for research and viewing its extensive collection of armaments, uniforms, and memorabilia.

USS SALEM

The SALEM at the United States Naval Shipbuilding Museum Museum is a wonderful family experience for all. Visit history-rich Quincy, home of two U.S Presidents, the Granite Industry, and the First Commercial railroad and have a memorable time.

The U.S. Naval Shipbuilding Museum is located at the Fore River Shipyard on Wharf St., Quincy. (Access is the same as Harbor Express boat).

The SALEM is open Sunday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (last tour at 4 p.m.) Admission is $6 for adults, and $4 for senior citizens and children. Children ages 3 and younger are free.

Flat-heeled shoes or sneakers are recommended. Parking is free.

For more information, call the Museum at (617) 479-7900.

Despite Delay In Opening

Sheets Sees No Setback At Shipyard

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Mayor James Sheets said this week the recently-announced rescheduling of the planned startup date of the Fore River shipyard in Quincy Point is no setback and nothing to be concerned about.

Sheets said Tuesday the announcement last week by Greek shipbuilder Sotirios Emmanouil--the man who hopes to build ships at the yard--that he now plans to lay the keel for his first vessel next spring, instead of this fall, is no reason for people to think the shipyard will not be reopening.

"The process has taken longer than we thought it would, but there's no new hitches or anything," said Sheets. "I don't even look at it as a setback. I'm still fully confident that we're going to build ships."

Sheets said the main reason for the delayed shipyard opening is that the U.S. Maritime Administration (MARAD) still has yet to decide whether to give Emmanouil $240 million in federal loan guarantees for the construction of six tankers.

Sheets said MARAD has continued to raise detailed, technical questions about the construction costs for the first vessel. Still, he added, federal Transportation Secretary Rodney Slater has assured him that the shipyard reopening ultimately will be approved.

The mayor noted that the process also has been delayed became some officials with whom Emmanouil has needed to discuss his project in Washington, D.C. have been away on vacation.

Over Gun Range On Moon Island

City Still Mulling Legal Suit

The city might file a lawsuit against the City of Boston within two weeks to stop the continued use of a gun range on Moon Island, according to Mayor James Sheets.

Sheets, who first announced last week that legal action might be taken, said at press time Tuesday a final decision would be made after City Solicitor Stephen McGrath returned from vacation yesterday (Wednesday).

"It will probably be filed within two weeks, if it happens," said the mayor.

On June 29, about 30 Quincy residents protested the continued use of the range. The protest took place not far from where Boston Mayor Thomas Menino was speaking at the opening ceremonies for the Boston Harbor Islands National Recreation Area, the latest addition to the National Park system.

Sheets was out of the city on the day of the protest but has since backed the residents, saying the gun range is an "incompatible use" with the park system.

Moon Island falls within Quincy city limits in Squantum but is owned by Boston. A bridge connects Moon Island to Long Island, which is owned by Boston and is part of Boston.

Menino has said the gun range, which has caused friction between the two cities, cannot be moved because it is used by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Brookline police, Cambridge police and the Navy. He also has said Boston has recently addressed many concerns about the range, including the collection of spent bullets, soundproofing, and tree planting.

Last week, State Secretary of Environmental Affairs signed off on a final environmental impact statement giving Boston approval to expand the 39-year-old training facility.

Quincy officials, however, including City Councillor Michael Cheney, state Sen. Michael Morrissey and Rep. Michael Bellotti, say the city is on strong legal ground concerning the range. They say Quincy can claim Boston is violating its original deed for the island by allowing federal law enforcement agencies and police from other communities to use the gun range for training.

Cheney also has said the city could appeal to the National Park Service in an effort to turn Moon Island into a recreational area like the other islands.

Meanwhile, the state Legislature is considering forming a non-binding commission to study the best way to manage the island.

Marine Pipeline Study City Hall Topic July 31

The Braintree-Weymouth Marine Pipeline Study will be the topic at a meeting held by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority Thursday, July 31 at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The study is evaluating the possibility of constructing a marine pipeline in the Fore River to substitute for a portion of a deep rock tunnel that would carry wastewater from a new intermediate pump station in North Weymouth to Nut Island in Quincy.

The meeting will include a presentation on the preliminary field investigations conducted for the study in May or June. The study is part of the Braintree-Weymouth Relief Facilities Project, which will provide new sewer relief facilities for communities in the region.

For more information, call Gary Webster at MWRA Public Affairs, 242-6000, ext. 1182.

Quincy 2000 To Present Signage Program To Council

The Quincy 2000 Corporation will seek the City Council's endorsement of the proposed Quincy Center Directional and Interpretive Sign Program Monday, July 14 at 6 p.m. in the second floor Conference Room at City Hall Annex.

At that time, a presentation will be made by Quincy 2000 and Sasaki Associates.

According to Quincy Center Development Coordinator Bruce Arons, one of the key recommendations of Quincy 2000's Quincy Center Action Plan is an improved system of directional, educational and interpretive signage. He said establishing a comprehensive visitor wayfinding and orientation system is needed to provide a better definition of the Center. Sasaki Associates is the urban planning firm hired by Quincy 2000 to design the directional signage system for Quincy Center.

Quincy 2000 Executive Director Joseph Mannarino added, "Sasaki Associates environmental graphic designers are highly experienced in the planning, design, and implementation of directional signage systems. Quincy 2000 is very pleased with the proposed concept developed for Quincy Center. The proposed signage system is colorful and blends Quincy's rich past with its bright future."

The wayfinding system being presented to the council includes the Quincy Center identification logo, highway trail blazers, directional signs, district gateways, parking lot/garage identification, pedestrian orientation kiosks, and a pedestrian directional system.

From Big Dig Project

City Hoping To Get Fill For WQ Golf Course

Plans for a golf course on the West Quincy-Milton line may soon receive a necessary boost from the Massachusetts Highway Department.

Mayor James Sheets said this week he is hopeful the city will hear very soon from the state agency about needed fill from the Big Dig project in Boston that will allow the golf course plans to proceed.

"We're still optimistic we're going to get the dirt from the Big Dig," said Sheets. "I think we're going to be very successful."

Sheets said the project requires between 4 million and 5 million cubic yards of fill for the approximately 300-acre site. The project will include a 27-hole golf course--18 holes in Quincy, nine in Milton--as well as walking trails and a number of recreational fields.

Sheets said Quarry Hills Associates, the firm designated by the city to develop the golf course, has put in bids for the fill although he could not offer an amount. Milton and Concord are among the other communities seeking dirt from the project.

After monitoring the situation closely, the mayor said he believes the Highway Department is getting ready to do something with the fill.

"They're beginning to stockpile a lot of fill," said Sheets. "They're going to make some decisions soon."

If the city obtains the fill, the golf course can proceed. Sheets said Quarry Hills Associates has a 50-year lease to operate and manage and site at no cost to the city, and in addition, Quincy will receive 10 percent of the proceeds from the golf course.

Interest Rates For College Loan Program Announced

The 1997-98 interest rates for the MassPlan Loan Program have been set at 7.5 percent fixed and 6.57 percent variable.

The announcement was made recently by state Rep. Ronald Mariano and officials from the Massachusetts Educational Financing Authority (MEFA), a non-for-profit state authority. The rates are among the lowest interest rate college loans available.

The MassPlan is a 15-year loan and has no application fees, no federal red tape, and no penalty payment charge. The MassPlan fixed loan rate is 7.5 percent (APR 8.13 percent) with a monthly payment of $9.63 per $1,000 borrowed and the variable loan rate is 6.57 percent (APR 7.18 percent) with a monthly payment of $9.09 per $1,000 borrowed.

"The MassPlan offers families the peace of mind that they found a low-cost solution for managing the cost of their child's college education," said Mariano. "As a not-profit state authority, MEFA uses tax-exempt financing which provides a competitive advantage over other alternative loans, including federal college loans. By securing such low loan rates, the savings are passed onto families."

A further advantage of the MassPlan is the availability of the Home Equity Option. When a MassPlan loan is secured with the Home Equity Option, interest may be tax-deductible with an effective rate that may be as low as 5.18 percent. For example, on a $10,000 loan, assuming a 31 percent tax bracket, savings may be as high as $2,153 over the life of the loan and an estimated effective rate after interest deduction would be 5.18 percent. This could mean substantial savings for homeowners depending on the amount borrowed.

The MassPlan Loan Program, administered by MEFA, is designed to help families who do not receive enough financial aid from traditional sources and who need assistance financing college costs. The MassPlan is offered to families through a partnership among the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, MEFA, and over 75 participating Massachusetts colleges and universities.

Firm Affiliated With Suspended Probation Officers Investigated

Norfolk County District Attorney Jeffrey Locke is continuing a criminal investigation into the finances of a non-profit company associated with four Quincy District Court probation officers who were suspended with pay last week.

Locke, reached by telephone Tuesday, said the investigation is ongoing but would not comment further.

"The investigation is continuing with the assistance of the court and the probation department," he said. "Beyond that, it would be inappropriate for me to comment."

Placed on administrative leave with pay by State Probation Commissioner Donald Cochran last week were Chief Probation Officer Andrew Klein, First Assistant Probation Officer Kevin Conlon, Assistant Chief Bruce Carr and Probation Officer Howard Crossman.

Locke is investigating Citizens for Better Community Services Inc., a non-profit firm in which Klein, Conlon and Carr are corporate officers. Officials said the company has provided low-cost urine testing to probationers for a $5 fee for the past several years.

Crossman observed the probationers as they provided urine samples, according to officials.

The investigation was launched because of questions about the company and what happened to the $5 fee probationers paid for the tests, officials said.

Atty. Chris Muse, legal counsel for Service Employees International Union Local 254--of which Conlon, Carr and Crossman are members--has said the three men should be returned to work unless there is evidence of wrongdoing. Muse said last week if state officials do not show they had just cause to suspend the officers he will file grievances.

But Cochran, the state probation officer, has said the paid leaves are not punishment and he is unaware of any wrongdoing. The officials were removed, he said, to preserve public confidence in the court until the investigation is concluded.

Two Residents On J&W Dean's List

Meeting On Human Rights Abuses In Burma

U Win Maung, a Burmese dissident living on the South Shore, will be featured speaker at a public meeting at the United First Parish Church in Quincy Square Tuesday, July 15, at 7:30 p.m.

He will describe the current situation in Burma and the wide range of human rights abuses being carried out by the brutal military regime there.

Simon Billenness, coordinator of the New England Burma Roundtable, will describe selective purchasing laws which have been passed by Massachusetts and several cities to prohibit the purchase of goods and services from companies doing business in Burman.

City Councillor Paul Harold has indicated that he will introduce such an ordinance in the Quincy City Council.

The program is being presented by the Quincy Committee on Burma and the South Shore Coalition for Human Rights.

Work To Be Completed Sept. 14

Council Chambers Undergoing Renovations

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The City Council Chambers at City Hall won't look too familiar to anyone who passes through them in the next couple of months.

The chambers, which are undergoing extensive renovations, currently appear to be a mere shell of what they used to be and won't be restored to normal until September.

Council President Peter Kolson, who pushed for a council vote backing the renovations, said he is pleased with the progress of the work.

"I think it's utterly remarkable," he said.

At Kolson's suggestion, the chambers are being renovated to resemble as closely as possible how they appeared in 1888, the year Quincy officially became a city.

"I think that helps add to the historic character of the city," he said. "It's absolutely true that City Hall belongs to the citizens of Quincy. It's their place, and we want it to be something they can be proud of."

Kolson noted that the work currently being done is the "first phase" of the renovations and will include interior changes such as a new ceiling, carpeting, and non-stationary seats that can be removed in the event of a presentation that requires considerable space.

A second phase, which includes changes to the "mechanical parts" of the chambers including the roof, windows and heating system will be done subsequently and completed in about two to three years, he added.

Kolson said in all, the work will cost about $230,000, and the city will pay for part of it with bond money and funding from its "free cash" (cash reserve) account. He added, however, that the Massachusetts Historical Commission already has contributed $40,000 to the project and city officials hope to get more money through other grants and planned fundraisers.

The architect for the project was John M. Sheskey and Associates of Quincy. Kolson said construction is being done cooperatively by Paul J. Rogan Co. Inc. of Braintree and the Quincy Department of Public Works.

Chi Man, civil engineer for the DPW, said while on the job last week that the project is proceeding as scheduled.

"The schedule is looking very good," he said. "We don't anticipate any problems. Our target date is Sept. 14 to have everything (in the first phase) complete."

Man added that he looks forward to the final results.

"It's going to be beautiful, that's all I can say," he said.

CITY COUNCIL CHAMBERS at City Hall appear to be a shell of what they used to be due to current renovations. The work is scheduled to be completed in September.

Cause Of Blaze At Fire Chief's Brother's Home Still Unknown

The cause of the fire that caused $160,000 damage to the home of Fire Chief Thomas Gorman's brother and sister-in-law last Saturday is still under investigation.

Daniel Gorman, 52, and his wife Jan, 47, were in an upstairs bedroom when the three-alarm fire broke out about 2 a.m. in their home at 45 Neponset Rd.

Neighbors came to their assistance by calling the fire department and helping them out of the house. Firefighters quickly arrived and extinguished the fire by 5 a.m.

Also arriving at the scene at the same time was the Gormans' son, Dan Jr., an off-duty Quincy firefighter who was called to the scene by a neighbor.

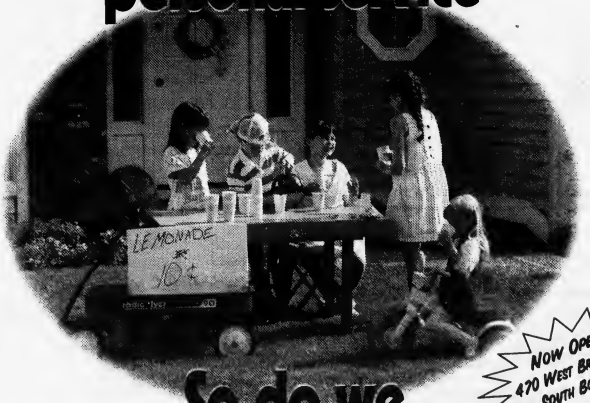
The blaze, in addition to the damage it caused to the Gorman's home, burned Jan Gorman's car and damaged the siding of the houses on each side of the burning building.

Fire Lt. Paul Daley said the cause of the blaze is still under investigation but that it may have been caused by careless disposal of smoking materials near the front porch.

Chief Gorman, however, said the state fire marshal ultimately will determine the official cause.

The chief added that he was "startled" to learn the fire was at his brother's home.

"At first, on my way there, I didn't have an exact address," he said. "But when I whipped around the corner of Neponset Road, I kind of had a gut feeling something was wrong.



"They (his relatives) were very lucky. It's a nice, tightly-knitted neighborhood, and I appreciate the support the neighbors there gave them."

Social Security Facts

Fewer than 12 percent of older Americans today fall below the poverty line; without Social Security that number would be nearly 50 percent.

Today, the average monthly benefit for a retired worker is about $745; for that worker with a retired spouse, the amount is $1,326.

The median income of working America is $38,000. For older Americans, the median income is just $18,000.

About 22 million Americans are involved in the care of about five million older Americans, helping them to live independent lives outside of institutions.

Twelve percent of the caregiving population is 65 or older. Women represent 75 percent of the caregivers in the U.S., but husbands are by far the older caregivers, with 42 percent age 75 or older.

Since the Social Security program was enacted in 1935, the portion of the population surviving to 65 has risen from 60 percent to 80 percent. The portion surviving to 85 has risen from 10 percent to 30 percent.

By 2050, the population 85 and older will be 258 percent larger than in 1980. By 2050, 12 percent will live to 100.

Today there are about 33 million Americans over the age of 65, representing one in eight individuals. More than 9 out of 10 are receiving Social Security benefits or are eligible to receive them.

(This list was provided by the Social Security Office in Quincy, Carol Boyle manager.)

This Week In History

On July 13, 1787, the Continental Congress adopted the Northwest Ordinance, which determined government of the Northwest Territory north of the Ohio River, west of New York; 60,000 inhabitants could get statehood and were guaranteed the freedom of religion, given support for schools, and slavery was prohibited ... July 10, 1797, the U.S. frigate, United States, was launched in Philadelphia ... July 11, 1804, after a long and bitter political rivalry, Vice President Aaron Burr shot Alexander Hamilton in a duel in Weehawken, N.J.; Hamilton expired the next day ... July 14, 1853, Commodore Matthew C. Perry of the United States Navy was received by the Lord of Toda, Japan, and negotiated a treaty to open Japan to U.S. ships ... July 7, 1862, the Land Grant Act was approved, providing for public land sale to benefit agricultural education; this eventually led to the establishment of state university systems ... July 13, 1863, draft riots began in New York City in protest of a provision allowing monetary payment in place of military service ... July 8, 1896, in a stunning demonstration of his incredible oratory skills, William Jennings Bryan delivered his "Cross of Gold" speech at the Democratic Convention and won the presidential nomination as a result

... July 12, 1967, race riots began in Newark, N.J. ... July 12, 1974, John D. Gillis Not Running

You can scratch John Gillis from this year's city council at-large race.

The popular former city clerk now a Norfolk County commissioner says: "I've decided not to run."

Gillis had been considering running for the council at-large seat that Michael Cheney is leaving.

GILLIS

He was holding off on a final decision for word on the fate of county government. If Norfolk County was abolished his commissioner's post would be gone with it. He would then run for the council.

But Norfolk County has been spared the legislative axe for awhile, at least and could be safe for three or more years.

Three counties were not as fortunate. Debt-ridden Middlesex was abolished earlier this month. Hampden and Worcester will be gone next year.

The other counties, including Norfolk, will have to submit charters requiring legislative approval.

"Norfolk County is in pretty good shape," says Gillis. "And we have to work to keep it that way. That is why I want to concentrate on the county's future and not divide my time serving on the council."

If Gillis had run for the council it would have set the stage for a good old fashioned political horse race.

The field would have been four major candidates and two others seeking three council at-large seats. At this writing there are now five candidates: incumbents Tim Cahill and Paul Harold, former Mayor Frank McCauley, Greg Hanley and Sabina Kavanaugh Stenberg.

If Gillis had gotten in, voters would have seen it as a battle between him and McCauley for the Cheney seat.

And who would have won: the former mayor or the former city clerk?

Intriguing question but now, no answer.

WILL HISTORY REPEAT itself?

In 1977, three of the nine elected to the City Council were Paul Harold and Frank McCauley, both at-large, and Dan Raymondi, Ward 2.

HAROLD

RAYMONDI

That year, McCauley vacated his School Committee seat to run for the at-large council seat Arthur Tobin left to oppose Mayor Joseph LaRaia.

This year, 20 years later, it's almost the same setting with Harold seeking re-election at-large and Raymondi to the Ward 2 seat.

Bellotti Office Hours Begin Friday

State Rep. Michael Bellotti announces he will hold weekly office hours in Quincy starting Friday.

Bellotti will hold office hours every Friday between July 11 and Aug. 15 from 1 to 4:30 p.m. in the second floor Conference Room in City Hall Annex.

Bellotti invites all residents to come and visit and voice their concerns with him in regards to his role as state representative.

He is also available daily at the State House by calling 722-2582 or at home at 479-0111.

And this time, McCauley once again is leaving the School Committee to run for an open council at-large seat. That's the one Mike Cheney is stepping down from.

TRACY WILSON, a candidate for the School Committee, was recently admitted to the Massachusetts Bar at a ceremony in Fanueil Hall.

WILSON

Tracy, who lives on Tirrell St., North Quincy, is employed at the Benjamin Healthcare Center in Boston where she specializes in labor, employment and contractual issues. She plans to open a general law practice.

LINDA TRACY, candidate for the Ward 3 council seat, has a birthday fundraiser coming up Saturday, Aug. 2, 1 to 4 p.m., at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center. Music by a swing dance band. Tickets are available at the door or by calling 328-6134.

SPEAKING OF Tracy Wilson and Linda Tracy, there could be some confusion on the part of voters over the similarity in their names. Even though they are running for different offices.

There was such confusion back in 1971 when Paul Harold and Harold Davis were running for different offices, and, in fact, different elections.

Harold was a candidate for state representative in a special state election and Davis was a candidate for school committee in the city election both the same year.

Some voters mixed up Davis' first name with Harold's last name.

And some could very well confuse Tracy's last name with Wilson's first name this year.

THERE ARE NOW six intended candidates for School Committee just one shy of the seven needed for a preliminary election if all fire their nomination papers.

The six: Incumbents Jo-Ann Bragg, Ron Mariano, Kevin Coughlin, Dennis Dockham, Mike McFarland and Tracy Wilson.

THINKING OF RUNNING for office? Not much time left to make your move. Last day you can take out nomination papers is Tuesday, July 29. And the deadline for filing them is 5 p.m. that same day.

STORK REPORT: Rep. Michael Bellotti and his wife, Gayle, have a new little constituent, their second child and first son.

BELLOTTI

Philip Michael weighed in at 7 1/2 pounds Sunday night at Norwood Hospital. A daughter, Colleen, is 2.

The new arrival makes the 21st grandchild for former Atty. Gen. Frank and Maggie Bellotti.

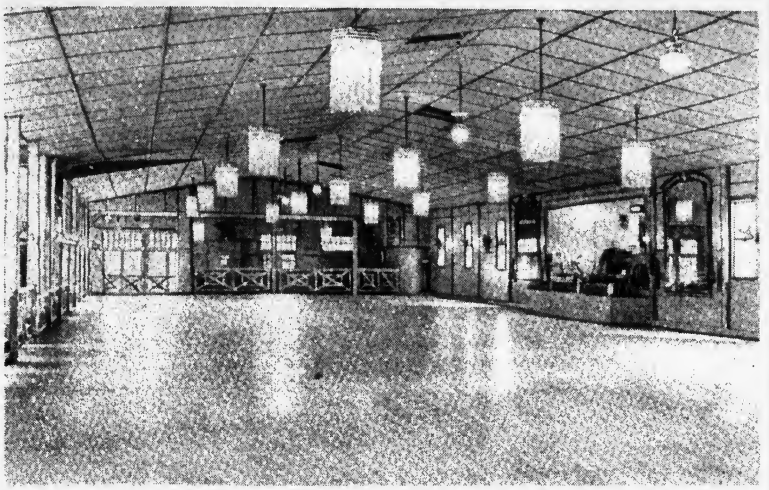
WARD 6 COUNCILLOR Bruce Ayers must have endeared himself to the women at the recent Squantum Neighborhood Association road race.



AYERS

The committee had No. 1 set aside from him and No. 2 for his wife, Maureen.

Ayers gallantly gave Maureen his No. 1 and took her No. 2. (But he finished ahead of her.)

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1920 POSTCARD showing the interior of Taylor's Summer Ballroom at the end of Sea Street in Houghs Neck. The alcove for the musicians was between the large mirrors on the walls on the right. Windows all around allowed for the cool ocean breezes to circulate the air. This building later became a bowling alley and then Dimarzios roller skating rink. Today it is the site of a park.

Not The Place For Serving Alcohol

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As someone who has worked for the State Department of Mental Health since 1972, I have seen hundreds of clients who on top of all their other troubles were suffering from a nasty disease called alcoholism.

I'm sure most of us know either friends, neighbors, co-workers or family workers who may have had this disease or continue to struggle with it. Many young people today who are substance abusers started off with booze before moving on to bigger and more dangerous drugs.

I was displeased with city license officials who have decided to allow the serving of alcohol during the upcoming 27th annual downtown Sidewalk Festival July 17, 18 and 19. The licensing board voted 4-1 to authorize Shooters Club Cafe to serve beer in an open-air cafe on Cliveden St. during the festival. Patrons will also be allowed to buy mixed drinks at the inside bar and carry them in plastic cups outside to the open-air cafe.

The only member of the licensing board to shoot down this idea was Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue. Why was she the only dissenting vote?

Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association which sponsors the festival says her group supports the outdoor cafe. However, Steve Ward from Impact Quincy doesn't believe alcohol belongs at a family event like the Sidewalk Festival.

Ward asked the question, "What kind of message are we sending our young people?" Personally, I believe Ward is correct. The sale of alcohol at the festival runs counter to city efforts at alcohol education.

I don't believe in banning alcohol. We tried that once and it was a failure. It is legal to drink if you're the right age. Alcohol is all around us. Many folks don't even consider it a real drug which it most certainly is. Better that events like Quincy's Sidewalk Festival keep the alcohol inside.

Too many folks still don't get it and perhaps this explains why only the health commissioner made what I believe is the right decision. Hey, there's a time and a place for a beer or mixed drink but the Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival is neither the time nor that place.

QCPBA Did Not Apply For Sidewalk Festival Liquor License

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Thank you for your consistent accurate reporting of the City of Quincy's License Board meetings. Some recent reporting elsewhere regarding a liquor issue at the June 24 meeting gave a slightly incorrect impression.

At this meeting the license board granted a request from Jim Pansullo of Shooters for a well-controlled extension of their business area to outdoors from 4 to 11 p.m. during the Sidewalk Festival dates. Shooters, located at Cliveden and Ross Way, is also a member of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association. This outside arrangement is not unusual but rather similar to several other businesses that extend their areas to include outdoors during the summer months annually.

As a member of our association, Shooters deserves the same support for their effort as other members who might sell less controversial products or services.

The area that the QCPBA has licensed for their event is exclusively on Hancock Street, from Granite to School, and the association has no license for the serving of alcohol within this area. Any member must, as did Shooters, apply for a license to serve alcohol on their own.

I would like to note, however, that at the same meeting on June 24, with no opposition, the South Quincy Bocce Club was given a one- day license for beer and wine at their annual Italian Festival. And on May 27, De Rosa Enterprises was given a two-day beer and wine license for a Summer Concert/Festival Fundraiser for the USS Salem.

It concerns us that the implications of some reporting suggest that this year, our 27th annual event, would be a less family-oriented atmosphere. We expect this year's festival to be the best ever with continuous entertainment suitable for the entire family.

Received 'Excellent Education' In Citizens Police Academy 6

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank and commend Officer Bob Hanna and the Quincy Police Department staff for the excellent education on the Citizen Police Academy 6.

Within a 10-week course (one night a week), we covered a wide range of topics, including my favorite, "Friday Night Ride Along" and the "Braintree Rifle Range." Two thumbs up!

This course was packed with information and knowledge, giving the average person a look at a very difficult job, a job which I know I couldn't do. However, I'm very pleased to know of the quality we have.

Officer Hanna, thank you for taking the time to show us this quality. Q.P.D., keep up the good work!

McArthur Plans Visit To Quincy

By PAUL HAROLD

Gen. Douglas McArthur planned a July 25 visit to Quincy as part of a two-day Boston swing.

The announcement was made in New York City by Sen. Charles Hedges who was part of a six-man legislative delegation who met there with McArthur.

46 Years Ago

Details for the visit were still being worked on, but it was expected that the general would arrive at South Station at 4 p.m. and motorcade to First Parish Church to visit the Adams tombs. From there he would travel to the State House to address a special joint session of the House and Senate.

En route he was scheduled to stop in front of the Adams Mansion to shake hands with Mrs. Frank Harris, custodian of the site and the widow of Col. Harris who was a comrade in arms of McArthur.

HEALTH CENTER DEDICATED

The new health center was dedicated this week with ceremonies coordinated by city Health Commissioner Richard Ash.

It was noted that the Quincy facility was unique, as the first of its kind in New England and only the second in the nation.

Among those speaking at the dedication were Mayor Thomas Burgin, City Manager William Deegan, DPW Commissioner Charles Herbert, and clergymen Rev. Victor Sawyer, Rev. Stephen Moran and Rabbi Jacob Mann.

CITY SELLS WATER TANK BY MISTAKE

The legal department was taking steps to recover ownership of the $15,000 standpipe on Breakneck Hill, West Quincy, which was sold by mistake to Joseph Grossman.

Grossman recently bought five lots of city-owned land for $225, only to find out later that the transfer also included the city's 200,000-gallon water tank

Grossman told the city to "fix things up." He offered his cooperation to the city to regain ownership.

Beechwood Amelia Earhart Birthday Celebration July 22

The Aviation History Info Center at Beechwood on the Bay, 440 East Squantum St., will hold a 100th birthday celebration in honor of Amelia Earhart Tuesday, July 22 at 7 p.m.

Aviator John Griffin, 90, former chief pilot and manager of Northeast Airlines, will be guest speaker. He will share his thoughts on aviation history and his personal remembrance of Earhart, who was in Quincy from 1927-28 when she flew the first official flight at the Dennison Airport (now Beechwood) and was an airplane sales representative and a Dennison stockholder.

Griffin was 5 years old when he attended the 1912 Boston-Harvard Airmeet in Squantum. A native of Quincy, he graduated from Northeastern University with a degree in electrical engineering in 1917. He learned to fly at Dennison, where he met Earhart. He began his own flying school in 1932 and also worked for Northeast Airlines, which checked Earhart's plane prior to her famous around-the-world flight.

Griffin has received numerous honors and distinctions, including the Aero Club of New England's Cabot Award, and has trained thousands of pilots through personal and corporate efforts. He also has served in an advisory capacity to Congressional committees and the FAA.

Advance registration for the July 22 event is necessary. All are invited. To reserve a place, call 471-5712.

The New Life Drama Company will present "Celestial City" Saturday, July 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the Quincy High School auditorium.

The show is an original full-length musical based upon the life of English Puritan John Bunyan and his classic work "The Pilgrim's Process."

Tickets are $10, $7 for senior citizens, and $5 for children under 12. To order tickets, call (508) 369-0061.

Two YMCA Camps Reopen

Two camps affiliated with the South Shore YMCA recently reopened for the summer.

June 29 marked the 69th year of Camp Burgess, an all-boys camp, and the 37th year of Camp Hayward, Burgess's all-girl sister camp. Both camps, located in Sandwich, offer girls and boys ages 7 to 15 a complete summer camp experience.

The two-week programs, which run through the end of August and will host over 1,400 kids, consist of a variety of different physical and personal activities developed to strengthen leadership and communication skills in the campers.

Water skiing, sailing, arts and crafts, tennis, climbing and rope courses, horseback riding, and rollerblading are some of the activities both camps offer. They are carefully supervised by experienced counselors, and a fully-staffed medical facility is available if needed.

YMCA's Camp Burgess and Camp Hayward, as well as Great Escapes for Teens (adventure trips offered to teens ages 12 to 17), are all located at 75 Stowe Rd. in Sandwich. For more information, call Bruce Netherwood at (508) 428-2571, or June Blair at the South Shore YMCA, (617) 479-8500.

Cruise To Benefit Beechwood July 16

"Cruise The Bay," an event to benefit Beechwood on the Bay, will be held Wednesday, July 16.

Boarding will take place at 6:30 p.m. at Marina Bay. Departure will be at 7 p.m.

Tickets are $20 per person, $30 per couple and must be purchased by Friday. For more information, call Beechwood at 471-5712.

Ward 5 Community Association Cleanup, Cookout July 12

The Ward 5 Community Association will hold its first Cleanup and Cookout Saturday, July 12.

Volunteers are sought to help clean up areas of Merrymount Park at 9 a.m. A "Volunteer Appreciation Barbeque" at the Beechwood Knoll playground will follow at noon. The Quincy Police Athletic League has agreed to assist in the cookout by providing grills and other cooking equipment. Volunteers will be treated to hot dogs, ice cream, and sodas.

Volunteers should report to the basketball and tennis court area on Fenno St. in Merrymount Park at 9 a.m. Instructions and supplies will be given at that time. Volunteers of all ages are welcome and encouraged. The City of Quincy's Park Department has agreed to offer the necessary support to make the cleanup effort possible.

"Regardless of whether you play ball, take in a game, or enjoy a quiet walk down the footpaths and trails that span from Merrymout Park to Black's Creek, this is one of the most popular social and recreational areas in Quincy. Our aim is to keep it that way," said Ward 5 Community Association President Doug Gutro.

"Through community activities like this cleanup and cookout, we hope to rekindle the community spirit in Ward 5 by bringing people together, rolling up our sleeves, and working on projects that make a difference to the people that live, work and play here," added Gutro.

The Ward 5 Community Association was formed this year to help build community spirit and cohesion, provide information to residents, and augment city services. This will be the first major event of the association and new members and volunteers are welcome.

Meetings are held on the second Monday of every month at the Beechwood Knoll School. The next meeting will be held July 14 at 7 p.m. and will feature a speaker from the Department of Public Works discussing current construction projects in Ward 5.

Coughlin Testifies In Support Of Proposed 'Lizzie Law'

Kevin Coughlin of Quincy, assistant chief probation officer with the Middlesex Probate and Family Court, testified recently before a Joint Committee on Judiciary at the State House in Boston considering legislation which has come to be known as "Lizzie's Law."

The Family Court is the court of original jurisdiction over matters this legislation would address.

On Aug. 3, 1995, 3-year-old Lizzie Thompson witnessed her father Charles Thompson brutally murder her mother, Andrea "Holly" Thompson. Now despite the fact that Charles Thompson was convicted of first-degree murder and was sentenced to life imprisonment without parole, he wants the courts to compel his daughter Lizzie, against her wishes, to visit him in prison twice a month and to take his phone calls once per week.

Coughlin advocated passage of the legislation which would prohibit court-ordered forced visitation where a parent is convicted of first-degree murder of the other parent.

"The ultimate act of domestic violence," Coughlin said, "requires the ultimate restriction on exposure of the surviving children to the perpetrator of that most heinous crime."

The intent of the legislation is to protect not only children like Lizzie, but also their families as well who continue to be victims of the murderer's ability to reach beyond the jail cell.

Quick action is expected by the Judiciary Committee, so that the legislation may be taken up, passed, and on the governor's desk before the Legislature breaks for the summer July 15.

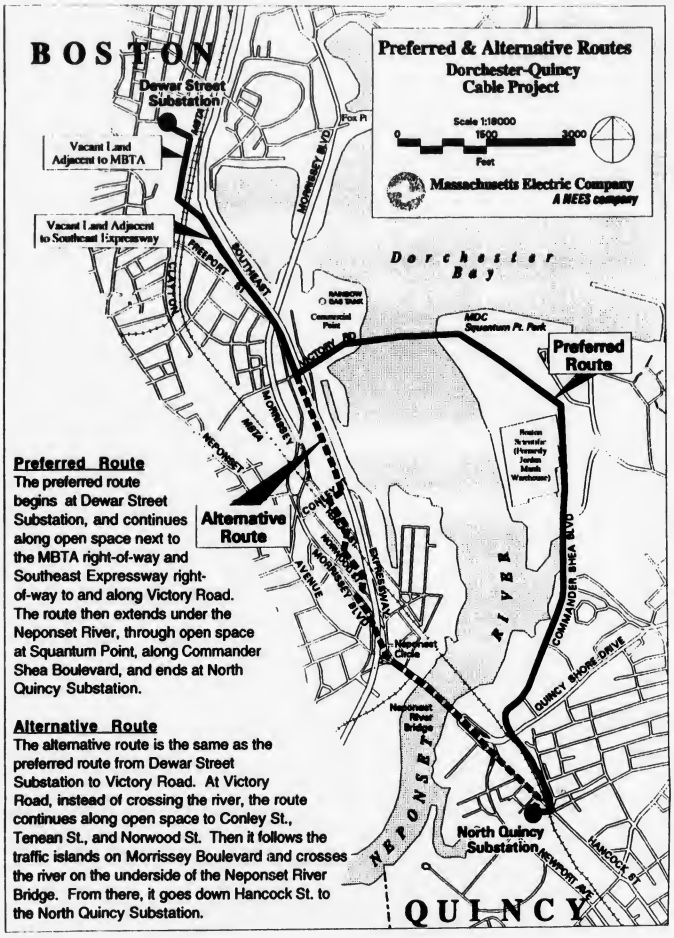
ASK YOUR LAWYER

by Kevin F. O'Donnell
ATTORNEY AT LAW



INJURY TO YOU AND YOUR PROPERTY

The law that addresses the different types of liabilities that exist when an individual is injured through the fault of another has its roots in common law, which is unwritten law based on custom that was handed down to the United States from England. In addition to this, there are state and federal statutes that protect certain personal rights, including the right to enjoy freedom and property without interference from others. In the event that these rights are violated and a person suffers bodily injury or property damage as a result, then he or she can remedy the situation by entering into a mutually agreed upon settlement or by bringing a lawsuit against the person(s) who caused the damage.

HINT: The three types of harms for which an injured person has the legal right to recover damages are- those caused by negligence, those caused by intentional acts, and those caused by commercial products and goods.

Oftentimes, the best service an attorney performs is action that keeps his client out of court. However, if a settlement cannot be reached and a court room is the only recourse left to pursue justice, you should have the services of a lawyer not only knowledgeable in the court room, but also comfortable with trial procedures and the judicial system. If you've been injured, call 773-2880 for a free consultation. We're located at Gridley Bryant Office Comfortable with Condominiums, 111 Willard Street.

Open House Meetings Scheduled For New Underground Electric Cables

Preferred Route
The preferred route begins at Dewar Street Substation, and continues along open space next to the MBTA right-of-way and Southeast Expressway right-of-way to and along Victory Road. The route then extends under the Neponset River, through open space at Squantum Point, along Commander Shea Boulevard, and ends at North Quincy Substation.

Alternative Route
The alternative route is the same as the preferred route from Dewar Street Substation to Victory Road. At Victory Road, instead of crossing the river, the route continues along open space to Conley St., Tenean St., and Norwood St. Then it follows the traffic islands on Morrissey Boulevard and crosses the river on the underside of the Neponset River Bridge. From there, it goes down Hancock St. to the North Quincy Substation.

About the Project

Over the past two years, Massachusetts Electric has developed a plan to strengthen the electric grid system for Dorchester and Quincy. This will be achieved by connecting two local substations: Boston Edison's Dewar Street Substation in Dorchester, and Massachusetts Electric's North Quincy Substation on Spruce Street in Quincy.

The new underground cables primarily will improve the reliability of the electric supply in Quincy by providing a second source of electric power. The new cables also can be used to support the electric needs of Dorchester.

Preferred and Alternative Routes
The preferred route was developed after many meetings in Dorchester and Quincy. The community input we obtained has enabled us to select a route that will minimize community disruption and environmental impacts. The route is located primarily on undeveloped land and avoids many city streets, residential areas, and businesses.

As part of our permit filing with the Massachusetts Energy Facilities Siting Board, we are required to submit an alternative to our preferred route. (See the map above.) The alternative route only would be considered if the preferred route is NOT approved.

Filing for Permits
After the open house meetings in July 1997, we will file for permits with the Massachusetts Energy Facilities Siting Board and other agencies. If the project is approved, we plan to begin construction in late1998. The cables would be installed in 1999, with project completion by the summer of 2000.

A Note of Thanks
Massachusetts Electric would like to thank all project participants for their helpful comments and patience throughout the development of the plan. We look forward to working closely with the Dorchester and Quincy communities as the project moves ahead.

Upon request, Massachusetts Electric will provide information about the cable project in languages other than English.

For more information call Massachusetts Electric in Weymouth during business hours at 617-774-1672.

Dorchester to Squantum Route Chosen

Everyone interested in the Massachusetts Electric project is invited to attend the open house meetings in Dorchester and Quincy to learn about the plan, including: Route Selection, Construction Techniques, Scheduling, and more.

Massachusetts Electric officials will be at the meetings to answer your questions and to discuss the plan in detail.

Open house meetings are designed so that you can arrive at any time during the planned schedule, look at the displays, and ask questions of the Massachusetts Electric officials.

You can spend as little as 10 minutes there, or stay for the entire meeting. There will be no formal speech. The meetings are meant to fit your schedule and to answer your specific questions.

Arts In The Parks Begins Third Season July 17

Mayor James Sheets announced that the third season of the Arts in the Parks program will begin Thursday, July 17 at O'Rourke Playground in West Quincy.

The Arts in the Parks show will travel to six different park locations throughout Quincy this summer. The Arts in the Parks, currently sponsored by the Quincy Park and Recreation Board, was founded by City Councillor Michael Cheney in 1995. All shows will begin at 6:30 p.m. and will last approximately two hours.

The family-oriented show is free and will feature the following entertainment:

Mixed Emotions, a singing group comprised of teenagers from the Riverside Theatre Works that feature an array of Broadway show tunes;

Watson Reid and Americana, a seven-piece band that blends folk music, country, jazz and blues music for toe-tapping, hand-clapping musical enjoyment;

Doctor Stardust, a well known juggler who combines his juggling with education for an entertaining and informative show.

The schedule:

Thursday, July 17 - O'Rourke Playground (West Quincy)

Tuesday, July 22 - Beechwood Knoll Playground (Wollaston)

Thursday, July 24 - Wendall Moses Playground (Squantum)

Tuesday, July 29 - Perkins Field (Merrymount)

Thursday, July 31 - Fore River Field (Quincy Point)

Tuesday, Aug. 5 - Bishop Field (Montclair)

Those attending the show are encouraged to bring their own lawn chair or blanket to sit on. The Recreation Department, in conjunction with the Park Department, will provide refreshments for the audience.

In the event of inclement weather, tune in either Quincy Access Television (Ch. 3) or WJDA radio (Am 1300) for cancellation notices.

"It is a pleasure to be able to provide an evening that an entire family can enjoy. The acts scheduled for this year's Arts in the Parks provide a wide variety of entertainment that we feel will appeal to people of all ages and tastes. Combining the entertainment with the beautiful atmosphere of our renovated parks makes for one of the finer evenings of family enjoyment available to Quincy families," said Recreation Board chairwoman Michelle Lydon.

400 Attend D'Amico Community Policing Night

Ward 4 City Councillor Michael D'Amico recently hosted the first-ever "Community Policing Night" on the grounds of the Amelio Della Chiesa Early Childhood Center in South Quincy.

More than 400 local residents in attendance were treated to a barbecue and a first-hand look at law enforcement innovations such as speed radar equipment, police motorcycles, mounted horse patrol units, and more.

With Police Chief Francis Mullen sharing the platform, D'Amico officially announced that two full-time foot patrol officers will be installed in South and West Quincy this November.

"Our partnership with the city police force has never been stronger than it is today," he said. "This event is a great show of neighborhood unity."

D'Amico cited crime statistics that indicate a marked decrease in gang activity in the Brewer's Corner neighborhood due to the Quincy Police Department's Special Operations Division.

He also noted that the crowd in attendance represented record volunteer participation in the Ward 4 Crime Watch he created last year and reiterated his commitment to providing the police with the most up-to-date tools in combating crime and giving residents the knowledge of crime prevention.

Bellotti Receives Award For Diabetes Legislation

State Rep. Michael Bellotti recently received the American Diabetes Association's Diabetes Advocacy Award in recognition of his accomplishments in promoting diabetes awareness by authoring and sponsoring diabetes legislation.

Bellotti authored and sponsored House 2127, An Act Relative to Certain Insurance Coverage for Diabetes Outpatient Self-Management. The legislation requires insurance companies to provide coverage for equipment, supplies, and diabetes self-management training and education for the treatment of insulin-dependent diabetes (Type 1), insulin-using diabetes, gestational diabetes, and non-insulin diabetes (Type 2).

Under the current draft of legislation, insurance companies will also provide medical insurance therapy. Bellotti's bill has the support of over 80 other legislators.

Last month, the Insurance Committee of the Massachusetts House of Representatives reported favorably on House2127. The bill's report, accompanied by Senate Bill 639, An Act Relative to Insurance for Blood Glucose Strips for Diabetics, comes in the wake of the American Diabetes Association's recent announcement that lowered the guidelines for determining Type 2 (non-insulin) diabetes.

Through Bellotti's initiative, Massachusetts is now on its way to joining states like Florida, Maine, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, West Virginia and Wisconsin, which have already passed comprehensive diabetes insurance coverage.

In Massachusetts, the total cost of diabetes (including direct medical care and indirect costs of lost productivity) is approximately $2.2 billion. Bellotti's legislation provides for preventive diabetes care, which will result in significant cost savings while improving the health of people with diabetes.

By providing the over 40,000 people in Massachusetts living with diabetes access to insurance coverage for managing diabetes, the bill, when passed into law, will save the Commonwealth over $880 million and will save the United States over $40 billion, according to Bellotti.

"Your neighborhood bank!"

15 BEACH STREET • QUINCY, MASSACHUSETTS 02170-2899 • TLEPHONE 617/471-0750

Dear Colonial Federal Customer:

Beginning on Monday, July 7, the main office of Colonial Federal Savings Bank, 15 Beach Street, next to the Wollaston Post Office, will begin a parking lot expansion, renovation and beautification. This is scheduled to take three weeks to complete and may cause a temporary inconvenience for our customers. Please accept my apology in advance. Be assured Colonial's employees will continue to service you efficiently with both courtesy and respect.

As President of Colonial Federal, I take great pride in the appearance of the Bank, and the additional parking will make banking even easier for our customers.

Sincerely,

ROBERT GUARNIERI
President and CEO

Rent Grievance Board Director Facing Eviction

Jane Reikard, executive director of the city's Rent Grievance Board, has a problem she sometimes helps others with: she is facing eviction from her Burgin Parkway apartment.

Reikard, who has headed the Grievance Board for 22 years, said at press time that she, her husband Lloyd and their dog were to be evicted at noon today (Thursday).

However, on Tuesday she filed a stay of execution in Superior Court in Dedham to block the action. She hoped the stay would be effective today. If successful, she and her husband could be granted up to a full year to find a new home because they are senior citizens, she said.

Reikard, a 17-year resident of the apartment, said the landlord first notified her he was terminating her tenancy in November 1995. Because she and her husband are tenants-at-will, the landlord's actions taken as part of the "no cause" eviction were not illegal, she said.

Reikard and her husband have remained through legal action. She said although she initially lost the case in Superior Court, she asked that it be sent to the Appeals Court where it is still pending.

Reikard said because the case is still in court, the landlord should not have sent her an execution paper last Thursday telling her she would be moved out of her apartment today.

Reikard, whose job is to mediate disputes between tenants and landlords, said, "I know it will be hard for me to find a (new) place because of my job." She added that because of her position, and the fact that Quincy's apartment vacancy rate is less than 1 percent, she and her husband would consider staying at Father Bill's Place, the city's homeless shelter, if necessary.

Reikard said Lloyd, who is ill, is her biggest concern. She said she also is worried about their 8-year-old shih tzu, Tai Chi, although she has found a temporary haven for him at the home of Linda Stice, executive director of the Mayor's Commission on the Family.

Reikard said she is also concerned about her neighbors, a number of whom depend on her as a "big sister" who looks after their apartments when they go on vacation.

Quincy Business Council Holds 'Buttonhole' Reception

Hibernia Savings Opens New Branch Office

The Hibernia Savings Bank has opened a full-service branch office at 470 West Broadway, South Boston, at the site of the former Flanagan's Supermarket, announces Chairman and CEO Mark Osborne.

The new branch features seven teller stations, three customer service stations, two ATMs, two night depositories, safe deposit boxes and offers free bank by mail. It is fully handicapped accessible and has ample free parking.

A Premium Savings Account yielding 5 percent interest with a minimum $10,000 balance is being offered to customers in honor of the new branch opening.

Operating hours are Monday through Wednesday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Thursday and Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The South Boston location is the bank's ninth branch office and the fifth to open in the last two years.

"We are delighted with the opportunity to serve the residents and businesses of South Boston," said Osborne.

HEART DISEASE: EARLY INDICATORS

You can get the most accurate cholesterol test available, carefully count your risk factors, and still not know whether you are headed for heart disease. Short of having an angiogram, a procedure that involves surgery and some risk, there has been no sure way of measuring damage in the heart's arteries. However, there is hope now that several simple tests may go a long way toward changing that situation. The first is a test that has been used for some time in diagnosing and tracking a number of medical conditions: ultrasound. When directed toward the carotid arteries in the neck, which are close to the skin surface, ultrasound can picture any thickening of artery walls. A simple check of blood pressure in the arms and lower legs may confirm poor circulation. An echocardiogram and electrocardiogram can help complete the diagnosis.

P. S. Patients with early warning signs of vascular problems may be three times more likely to develop heart disease.

If you have a history of heart disease in your family, it is wise to receive the close monitoring of a physician skilled in making accurate diagnoses of these problems. We keep up with the latest research in these areas, so have a lot to offer. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, Dr. Lisa Antonelli and I are here to serve you. We are at 700 Congress St., Quincy. I am affiliated with the Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospitals. Call 472-2550 for an appointment. Zoning Board Grants Permits For Marina Bay Senior Campus

The Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) voted unanimously last week to issue decisions granting special permits for construction of a Senior Bay Living Campus on Lots 24a and 24b at Marina Bay.

In granting the permits, the ZBA recognized that the lots are mapped within a Federal Emergency Management Agency flood area and that the development's subsurface utilities and foundations will be constructed in a manner that is flood-proofed.

The ZBA vote clears the way for Peter Gordon and The Newton Group to proceed with their plans to build the first two buildings of the Marina Bay Senior Living Campus.

"This approval by the Zoning Board of Appeals comes after months of careful engineering review and demonstrates that our plan to develop the Marina Bay Senior Living Campus is environmentally responsible," said Peter Gordon, president of the Marina Bay Skilled Nursing and Rehabilitation Center Inc. "We are pleased that the board recognized that the utilities and foundations of our development will be designed in a flood-proofed manner, and that the construction of the buildings, parking lot and general landscaping will have no negative impact on the area."

The Marina Bay Senior Living Campus will provide seniors a broad range of residential living options and the security of access to a continuum of health care services ranging from short-term rehabilitation and home health care to the availability of long-term care.

Kevin's At Heritage Opens Friday In Downtown

Kevin's at the Heritage, a 120-seat restaurant complete with a 40-seat cafe-style lounge, 80-seat tablecloth dining room, and private function room will open its doors Friday.

Kevin's will serve contemporary American cuisine, fine wines and handcrafted microbrews. The 7,000-square-foot restaurant is located at 1495 Hancock St., Quincy Center--the site of the former Bank of New England.

Proprietor Kevin Cadigan has over 20 years' experience in restaurant management and was former vice president and general manager of Jimmy's Harborside. He left the well-known Boston establishment to pursue his dream of opening and owning his own restaurant.

"The South Shore and Quincy in particular is hungry for an exciting new restaurant with affordable prices," said Cadigan. "I plan to provide a full dining experience complete with lunch and dinners with a flair for flavor and detail, an extensive wine list, and an upscale yet casual, fun-filled atmosphere."

A sample of entrees include grilled marinated swordfish, Gulf shrimp and sea scallops, filet mignon and porterhouse steak, escalopes of veal, and sauteed Moroccan chicken breast. Kevin's also features a wide array of appetizers such as corn fried oysters, deep-fried stone crab cakes, escargot baked with garlic butter, and roasted portabello with gorgonzola.

Kevin's also is planning a number of events in its special function rooms such as wine education seminars, cigar night smokers, microbrew nights and other social gatherings. The restaurant began construction in January.

For more information about Kevin's, call 328-7000.

QCA Homebuyer's Workshops Start July 22

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc., an approved MHFA first time homebuyers counseling agency, will hold First Time Homebuyer's Workshop series beginning July 22, and continuing July 24 and 30.

All four workshops will be held at The Roche Brothers Supermarket, community room, 101 Falls Blvd., Quincy.

Attendance at all four workshops is mandatory to qualify for the many different mortgage options available through the Mass Housing Finance Agency, Soft Second Programs and other financing options.

Agenda will be comprehensive and individualized. The focus will be on different aspects of the homebuying process, including how to locate a property within budget, how to make an offer, and determining the best mortgage program.

Advance registration is required and space is limited. Fee is $36 per household.

For more information and registration forms, call Debbie Kidd, housing coordinator, 479-8181 x115.

This workshop is sponsored by the City of Quincy and the Department of Housing and Community Development.

New Home Repair Book Available

Leaking faucets, broken window panes and cracked walls are just a few of the common problems that try the patience and pocketbooks of homeowners and renters.

Most of these problems are too small to justify calling in a contractor. So they remain undone and a constant source of inconvenience and irritation.

However, a new book by a nonprofit consumer group, shows that most of these repairs are easier than they appear to be and within the ability of almost anyone. The book presumes that the reader has no knowledge at all about doing home repairs. It provides simple step-by-step, clear, precise directions, with hundreds of illustrations that can make a person who considers himself "all thumbs" into a competent do-it-yourselfer. It's the next best thing to having an in-person expert do the work.

For those who are novices, the book starts with a picture of each tool, nail and screw necessary and an explanation of how and when they are used.

What to look for in diagnosing a repair problem, the tools and particular materials needed to fix it and how to go about it all are simply stated with easy-to-understand drawings.

In addition to faucets, window panes and walls, the book has information on simple electrical repairs, how to fix screens and storm windows, plumbing and masonry repairs and even instructions on hanging pictures and shelves.

The book is designed to save a person money on repair bills. In fact, many of these jobs can be done in less time than it requires to locate a competent repairman willing to do the work.

"Small Home Repairs Made Easy" can be obtained by sending $5.95 (plus $1.50 postage and handling) to Consumer Education, 1980 Springfield Ave., Maplewood, NJ 07040.

More information can be found on the World Wide Web at http://www.planet.net/cerc or E-mail at cerc@planet.net.

LEGION BASEBALL

McLoughlin Gets O.K. To Play

Morrisette In Zone 6 East Driver's Seat

By LIAM FITZGERALD

One of the leading contenders for the American Legion Zone 6 East title, Morrisette battles Quincy Friday at 8 at Adams Field in the third and final meeting between the city's two Legion squads.

Heading into this week's games, Morrisette and Braintree were deadlocked in first place with 10-2 records.

Following Friday's tilt, Morrisette plays Saturday at 1 p.m. at Weymouth. Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at Adams Field, Morrisette will play an exhibition game against the AAU 16-year-old All-Star team. Next Monday at 5:45 p.m. Morrisette visits Canton and next Tuesday at 5:45 p.m., Morrisette is at Milton.

Yesterday (Wednesday) at 5:45 p.m., Morrisette played at Milton. Tuesday, Morrisette took on Quincy.

Morrisette picked up its 11th win of the season Monday night as Mark Kelly and Paul Marnikovic combined on a three-hitter for a 4-1 triumph over visiting West Roxbury. Kelly (3-0) pitched six innings, allowed one earned run on two hits, struck out six and walked two. Marnikovic hurled a scoreless seventh for the save.

Tony Bernazzani pitched valiantly in defeat, going the distance and striking out 10. He yielded four hits (all in one inning), four runs (two earned) and four walks.

West Roxbury got on the board in its half of the first, when Jesse DeForge singled home Greg Rockwell. However, Kelly allowed just one one other hit, a one-out single by Tim Cullen in the fourth.

"I was just trying to throw strikes and let the defense do the job behind me," said Kelly. "I feel pretty good about how I'm pitching right now. I have no fear when I go out there. When you start to worry, that's when you start to get shaky."

Morrisette's offense provided Kelly with all the run support he would need with a three-run second inning. With two outs, Erik Fagan drove in Ray Cattaneo, who reached on a fielder's choice and advanced on a Chad Feetham single. With Marnikovic up, Feetham scored the eventual winning run on a wild pitch. Marnikovic then singled in Eric Wirtz.

The winners added a fourth run in the sixth without the benefit of a hit. Feetham led off with a walk, was sacrificed to second by Bill Walker, went to third on a fielder's choice by Wirtz and scored when Fagan's fly ball to right was dropped.

Last Thursday, Morrisette was one out away from knocking off host Braintree, but could not close it out. Leading 4-3 in the bottom of the seventh, Morrisette's Rob Celata struck out the first two batters, then walked the next batter and yielded three consecutive hits as Braintree rallied for two runs and a 5-4 win.

Celata (3-1) yielded seven hits and four earned runs, struck out eight and walked four. Chris Bregoli (two for three, RBI), Cattaneo (two for three, RBI) and Walker (triple, RBI) provided the offense for Morrisette.

In a 15-1 triumph over visiting Randolph last Wednesday, Morrisette's Ryan Herlihy (3-0) fired a complete game three-hitter with eight strikeouts and three walks. Morrisette's penchant for the big inning continued as it erupted for seven runs in the second and six more in the third to build a 13-0 lead.

Among the key offensive contributors were Brian Beaton (two for five, four RBI, two runs scored), Jim Cunio (two doubles, three RBI, two runs) and Celata (three for three, double, RBI, run).

Last Tuesday's matchup between the leading contenders in Zone 6 East, Morrisette and Braintree, was a scoreless pitchers' duel through three innings.

In the fourth, Morrisette's potent offense woke up and posted a five-run outburst, followed by a four-run fifth and seven-run sixth en route to a 16-9 victory over visiting Braintree.

Marnikovic sparked Morrisette's 12-hit attack, going three for four with five RBI and scored a run. Sullivan (two for four, triple, two RBI, three runs), Celata (four for five, RBI, three runs) and Wirtz (one for four, four RBI, run) also belted key hits. Fagan added two RBI and scored two runs.

Feetham earned his first victory in relief of Kelly, who departed after going four and two-thirds innings, giving up five runs (all earned) on three hits.

Injury update: Morrisette left fielder Matt McLoughlin, who suffered a broken jaw June 25 when he was struck in the face with a pitch, has been cleared by doctors to resume his playing duties, Morrisette Manager Ray Cattaneo said Tuesday.

"The doctors told him on Monday he could go back to work and gave him the O.K. to play by the end of the week," he said. "We're having a special helmet made to cover the whole side of his face where his jaw was broken. It'll probably look like a hockey goalie's mask."

Cattaneo added that McLoughlin may return to action Sunday in the exhibition against the AAU squad.

"He's anxious to get back and we're all anxious to see him come back because he'll do nothing but help us down the stretch," he said. "It'll be great to have him back for the playoffs. I didn't think he'd be back this soon, but he's made a great recovery."

Sleiman To Represent U.S. On Tour du Monde Wrestling Team

Ally Sleiman, a 1992 graduate of Quincy High School where he was a state wrestling champion, was recently selected to the 1997 University National Greco-Roman World Tour du Monde Team.

The announcement was made by USA Wrestling, the national governing body of amateur wrestling. Members of the U.S. team earned their spot by placing at a national tournament and through a stringent selection process conducted through the National Wrestling Office.

Sleiman, who competes at 152 pounds, was named to the team after taking first-place honors and receiving the outstanding wrestler award at the Southern Plains University Regionals in Kansas in May. In the Greco-Roman Championship finals, Sleiman pinned Brent Holland of Missouri in 4:19.

A former All-American wrestler at Southern Connecticut State University and currently a coach at the school, Sleiman will represent the U.S. for the first time in international competition.

The U.S. team is scheduled to travel to Zakopane, Poland today (Thursday) and will take on the German and Polish national teams Saturday. The highlight of the tour will be competing in the University World Greco-Roman Championships July 17-19 in Opole, Poland.

Those wishing to make donations to help offset the cost of Sleiman's tour are asked to send their contributions to USA Wrestling, 6155 Lehman Drive, Colorado Springs, CO 80918.

Quincy Babe Ruth Squad Wins Two Tourney Games

After opening the EMass Babe Ruth League Baseball Tournament with an 8-7 loss, Quincy's 15-year-old team came back with a pair of victories.

Last Tuesday against Marshfield, Quincy battled back after falling behind, 5-1, after four innings. Quincy scored five runs in the fifth and five more in the sixth to win, 11-6. The hitting attack was led by Shawn Boostrom (three hits, walk) and Adam Goodrich (two for three, three RBI). Matt O'Mahoney tripled and Brian Deptula belted a three-run home run. Joe Tower was the winning pitcher and T.J. Bell got the save.

In earlier action, Quincy came back from a 4-3 deficit to defeat Hingham, 7-4. Dan O'Toole of Quincy pitched four innings of shut out relief, allowing only one hit to pick up the win. Adam Goodrich and Joe Tower had two hits and two RBI each to pace Quincy's offense. Jody Bravo and Brian Deptula also had two hits apiece.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

Kiwanis, Rotary, Jaehnig Triumphant

Kiwanis erupted for an eight-run first inning and went on to defeat Colonial Federal, 12-3, in recent Quincy Youth Baseball Junior League action.

Winning pitcher John Mateu fired a six-hitter with nine strikeouts and helped his own cause with a double. Other offensive standouts included Eric Ranstrom (double, two singles), Mark Tucker and Nick Puopolo (two hits apiece), Mike O'Mahoney (double) and Shaun Gibbons, Brian Lynch, Ryan Kirby and Billy Dwyer (one hit apiece). Kirby was solid defensively behind the plate and Chris Sheehan made a great stop at third.

For Colonial, Hawko belted a double and Chris Trietti, Ryan Farnham, Dan Reggiannini, Corey Piazza and Richardson each collected a single. Cox was Colonial's defensive star at third. John Santon, who fanned one, took the loss.

In other action, Kiwanis knocked off the Lions, 7-3, behind the pitching duo of Eric Ranstrom and Mark Tucker. Ranstrom and Tucker each pitched three innings and combined to allow five hits and strike out 11.

Ryan Conley (three singles), John Mateu (two singles) and Mike O'Mahoney (two singles) sparked Kiwanis offensively. Bunt singles by Brian Lynch, Ryan Kirby and Ranstrom also helped Kiwanis put runs on the board. Conley played a strong game at shortstop, making three sparkling plays.

Tagged with the loss was Mallo, despite striking out 11 for the Lions. Matt Germaine hit a double and Leo Ahern and Brett Martinson turned in solid overall performances.

George Phipps ripped three doubles and drove in two runs, leading Rotary over Keohane's, 10-5.

Also contributing offensively for Rotary were Steve Pizzi (two for three, double), Malcolm Lynn (double, two RBI) and Brian Pyer (two singles, three RBI). Winning pitcher Chris Livingstone was excellent in only his second outing, scattering six hits along with two walks and five strikeouts.

Rotary's defense was outstanding, led by Pizzi, Lynn, Pyer and James Spellman. Craig Keenan made a tremendous catch in deep center field to rob Kevin O'Connell.

For Keohane's, Chris Dolbeare belted a two-run homer and added a single. Kevin O'Connell doubled in a run and Ryan Donahue collected two singles. Mike Dunbar made two excellent catches in left.

In other action, winning pitcher Craig Keenan tossed a complete game (two walks) and helped his own cause with two RBI in Rotary's 9-6 win over Quincy Police. Five walks and two hit-by-pitches helped stake Rotary to a 4-1 lead after one inning.

Other offensive standouts for Rotary included Chris Jacobs (two RBI) and George Phipps (one RBI). Chris Livingstone, Mike Delahoyde and Brian Pyer added singles. Livingstone had an excellent defensive game. Rotary turned two double plays to halt any Police offensive threats.

For the Police, Paul McAteer and Dan Coughlin each had an RBI double, Magaldi doubled and had two RBI and Adam O'Hara singled in a run. McAteer struck out seven in relief of losing pitcher Billy Shaw.

The Jaehnig Club woke up from a 3-0 deficit to upend Colonial Federal, 12-4. Kyle Carmody got out of a bases loaded, no out situation in a super second inning relief outing to keep the game close. Mike McLaughlin's backhanded snag of a hard grounder was the key defensive play.

Jeff Butts had three hits, including a bases-loaded double, and knocked in six runs for the Jaehnig Club. Patrick O'Brien collected three hits, one a long double. Dave Jaehnig was two for two and struck out the side in the fifth. Patrick Maxey struck out two of the three he faced in the sixth.

Bryan Donovan, Mark Tobin and Steven Kelley each had key bunt singles to spark the offensive comeback for the victors. Derek Keezer (double), McLaughlin (double), David Buttomer and Carmody also hit safely as the Jaehnig Club pounded out 15 hits. John Fitzgerald and Ben Kelleher continued their hustling defensive play.

Ryan Farnham smashed a triple and a single to pace Colonial's offense. Corey Piazza doubled, Chris Trietti singled and Nick Malvesti, Mike McGonagle and Dan Reggiannini also played well.

BABE RUTH

Granite City, Morrisette Winners

Granite City Electric picked up two victories in recent Quincy Youth Baseball Babe Ruth League action.

In a 7-4 triumph over Golden Print, Granite City was paced offensively by Matt Holt, Paul Markarian, Matt Millerick, Joey Flynn and Jake Dugas. Defensively, Holt played a strong game behind the plate. Chris Conte earned the victory on the mound.

For Print, Brian Deptula, Jeff Nabone and Brett Keyes turned in solid efforts.

In a 10-2 win over Quincy Police, Paul Markarian tossed a one-hitter for Granite City. Markarian and Joey Flynn sparked the offense with a triple apiece. Leading the Granite City defense were David Gorman, Tom Hughes and Matt Millerick.

Morrisette improved its record to 10-6 with a 9-3 win over Golden Print. Chris Doherty pitched a complete game victory, allowing three runs on eight hits, fanning four and walking three. Pacing the Morrisette offense were Josh Smith (3 for 4), Doherty (3 for 4), Billy Miller (3 for 4), Billy O'Brien (2 for 3, 3 RBI) and Kris Kamborian (double, 2 RBI).

Defensive standouts for the winners included Brenden Bowes, who gunned out three runners trying to steal second, and Jessie Winter at third and O'Brien at first combining for 10 putouts.

For Print, losing pitcher Fitzpatrick yielded three hits and nine walks and struck out eight in 4 2/3 innings. Matt Reggiannini came on and finished with four strikeouts (including the side in the sixth), one walk and allowed two hits. Vinnie Trietti (3 for 3) and O'Connell (2 for 3, double) led Print offensively. Matt Petit was outstanding defensively at second.

In an 8-4 triumph over Quincy Police, Morrisette erupted for an six-run eighth inning and held on for the win. Chris Doherty's three-run double in the eighth turned out to be the game-winning hit. In relief of Jessie Winter, Keith Doherty came on in the seventh, allowed two hits and two walks and struck out three to pick up the victory.

Top offensive players for the winners were Josh Smith (single, double, RBI), Brenden Bowes (two singles, 3 RBI) and Keith Doherty (two singles).

For the Police, losing pitcher Chris Lockhead came on in the eighth and gave up four hits and three walks. Starter Freddy Botts went seven innings, yielded six hits, struck out six and walked one. Alibrandi and Currie each had two singles for Print.

In a 7-2 win over Local 1139, Morrisette collected five runs in the sixth on five straight hits. Winning pitcher Keith Doherty struck out 10 (including the side in order "looking" in the seventh), allowed two hits and went the distance. Hitting stars included Jessie Winter (3 for 4, run), Brenden Bowes (single, double, RBI, run), Chris Doherty (single, double, run), Josh Smith (double, run) and Billy O'Brien (two singles, run).

For Local, Todd White gave up 11 hits, two walks and struck out five. Chris Wilson and Mark Maher each collected a single.

YOUTH SOFTBALL

ServiceMaster Wins City Championship

ServiceMaster, which captured the Dorothy Quincy League division title with a 9-2 mark, went on to win the city softball championship with a victory over Kerri Limousine. Alyssa Hawksley was named the outstanding player of the championship game and the game ball was presented to Nicole Lewis.

The ServiceMaster squad, which went undefeated through the playoffs, displayed remarkable teamwork and supported each other throughout the season.

ServiceMaster's pitching staff was comprised of Meghan Chagnon, Christina Conley, Alyssa Hawksley, Rachel Sorensen and Rebekah Sorensen. Doing the catching were Christine Perry and Joan Ranstrom. Covering the bases and the outfield were Beth Bloomer, Samantha Farina, Meghan Holt, Nicole Lewis, Julia McGuingle, Cassie Hurd and Susan Spring.

Though Kerri Limo came up short in the championship game, the team gratefully thanked its sponsor, Wayne McCulley of Kerri Limousine. McCulley had a limousine ready and waiting and chauffered the team around town to McDonald's and back to their homes, lifting the girls' spirits following the game.

In the semifinals of the playoffs, Kerri Limo advanced to the championship when Sheila Lynch smacked her second homer in the sixth inning to break a tie against Harvard Community Health.

Lynch (four for four, double and triple), Julie Rackauskas (three for three), Marilyn Power (three for four) and Courtney Allan (three for four) swung hot bats for Kerri Limo, as did Beth Goodrich, Lisa Schifone, Maria McGinness, Ali Ciccariello and Courtney Riley.

Defensively, Ashley Nee, Kristen Dwyer and Jackie Reeves played exceptionally well and pitchers Schifone and McGinness held off a powerful Harvard Health squad.

Comets Fall To Braintree

The Quincy Comets, a 16 and under girls softball team, lost to Braintree, 20-19, in a game at Lakeside Park in Braintree last week.

After the Comets rallied from an eight-run deficit to take a 19-17 lead, Braintree scored three runs in the bottom of the seventh to win the game.

The Comets started their comeback in the fifth, sparked by Katie Heffernan's three-run double, which followed base hits by Sheila Foley, Caitlin Powers and Kathleen Hester. Heffernan also singled home two runs in the sixth to cut the deficit to 17-12.

In the seventh, the Comets erupted for seven runs and went ahead, 19-17. Taking advantage of several walks, Quincy scored the go-ahead runs on Rachel Bonanni's bases-loaded single. Bonanni was also a defensive star behind the plate.

TRIPLE A

Local 2222 Advances To Finals Against D.A.R.E.

Bill Barter went the distance and had two hits and scored two runs as Local 2222 eliminated Locker Room from the Quincy Youth Baseball Triple A playoffs, 10-4.

With the win, Local advanced to Tuesday's championship game against undefeated Quincy D.A.R.E. Local needed to win Tuesday and yesterday (Wednesday) to win the Triple A championship.

Frank Boudreau had a strong game going four for four and making several good plays in the field for Local. Joe Norris and Paul McLaughlin collected three hits apiece to help spark the offense and Adam Tringale played a solid defensive game.

Ian Jorgenson and Rich Churchill had two hits apiece to lead the offense for Locker, which concluded an impressive season.

Girls Soccer Camp Opens July 14

The Quincy Recreation Department is accepting registration for its Girls Soccer Camp, to be held July 14-18.

Registration will be taken on a first come, first serve basis at the Recreation Department, 100 Southern Artery, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The focus of the camp will be on the fundamentals of soccer. Children will receive instruction from high school coaches as well as local high school players. Lectures, demonstrations, individual and team strategies will also be covered.

The camp, under the direction of Paul Bregoli, head coach of girls' soccer at North Quincy High School., is open to girls 8-14 years of age. The camp will be held at Perkins Field (Merrymount School), from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Cost is $32.

For further information, call the Recreation Office at 376-1386.

Pre-registration forms are available at all of the Massachusetts Bay Yacht Clubs in the South Shore area or Boston, or by calling Don McGilvray at 328-5730.

The regatta will host 1,000 sailors from Canada to Florida. Classes of sailboats expected to race include N10, Optimist, Laser, International and Club 420, One Design 14, Hustler, Tornado, Thunderbird, Mercury and Vanguard 15 as well as the ocean racing PHRF boats.

Barra Finishes Fourth At Judo Tournament

Christopher Barra of 99 Bigelow St., Quincy, coming off a fourth-place finish at the Liberty Bell tournament in Philadelphia, Pa., recently competed at the 25th annual Am-Can Challenge in Buffalo, N.Y.

Competing in the 15-16-year-old boys 143-pound weight class, Barra lost in the medal round when he was out-gripped and thrown well by the tough Japanese champion. The loss came after all but four of the top 24 players were eliminated. A 15-year-old sophomore at North Quincy High School, Barra was disappointed to settle again for fourth place in a major tournament, but is developing a strong regional reputation.

Barra used his favorite harai goshi technique, a sweeping leg/hip throw to win a match. His other wins came on the mat with grappling and strangling holds.

Competitors from all over the United States, Canada and many foreign countries participate in the event.

This month, Barra will compete in the USJ1 National Jr. Olympics in Indianapolis, Ind., and in August at the Jacksonville Open in Florida, another invitational tournament.

Barra studies at the "L" Street Judo Club in South Boston

300 Attend Beverly Reinhardt Retirement Testimonial Dinner

Bertoni Golf Tourney Sept. 8

The ninth annual Bertoni Golf Tournament will be held Monday, Sept. 8 at 8 a.m. at the Halifax Country Club.

The tournament is the primary fund-raiser for the Quincy Visiting Nurses Association, a private, non-profit home health care organization that has provided health services to the community for over 90 years. Funds raised through the tournament help Quincy VNA provide free care to patients in need of medical assistance in their homes.

Entry fee is $100 per golfer. Prizes will be awarded throughout the day. An awards luncheon follows the tournament at about noon.

For more information, call Julie Spadea at 472-2828.

Loud, Seadogs Beat The Heat

Drew Loud of Quincy notched his second victory as the South Shore Baseball Club Seadogs knocked off the Worcester Heat in recent AAU regional action.

Displaying pinpoint control, Loud walked just two, gave up two singles and a double while pitching a complete game. He also collected two hits and a stolen base as the Seadogs improved their record to 3-3-1.

Loud is also the starting shortstop for the Seadogs. His first win came against East Greenich, R.I., when he closed the game with a stellar performance, giving up only two runs in the final three frames. Loud singled and ripped an RBI double to deep center to help lead the Seadogs to the win.

The Seadogs will head to Kansas City, Mo. to compete in the AAU Championship Tournament finals in the 10 and under division Aug.1-8.

Daniel O'Connor Completes Air Force Course

Air Force Airman Daniel T. O'Connor has graduated from the financial services apprentice course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Wichita Falls, Tex.

Students were taught principles and procedures for preparing input and operating equipment in a mechanized disbursement system. Fund accounting, military pay, and travel payments were emphasized.

O'Connor is the son of Elizabeth and Thomas F. O'Connor of 61 Vane St., North Quincy, and is a 1996 graduate of North Quincy High School.

Michael O'Brien On Colby Dean's List

Michael P. O'Brien of Quincy has been named to the Dean's List for the spring semester at Colby College in Waterville, Maine.

A Milton Academy graduate who is majoring in economics and Spanish, he is the son of William and Constance O'Brien.

QYH Golf Classic Aug. 20 At Presidents Golf Course

The Quincy Youth Hockey Golf Classic, benefitting Quincy Youth Hockey, will be held Wednesday, Aug. 20 at 8 a.m. at Presidents Golf Course in Quincy.

A total sellout of 144 amateur participants is expected. Cost is $85 per person and includes greens fee, golf cart, dinner at Cathay Pacific, raffle entry and prizes. South Shore Buick has offered a 1998 Buick as a hole-in-one prize.

Sponsors are being sought for each hole, at a cost of $100 each. A sign indicating the sponsor's name will be displayed at the hole. Donations and/or raffle prizes will also be gratefully accepted.

For more information, call Rick Fitzpatrick at 328-1367; Al Grazioso, 472-2994; Ed Faherty, 472-8724; Bill Richardson, 471-6758; or Janet Riley at the office.

DAMPENING QUALITY

The term "shock absorber" may not be an apt one for the so-named suspension component. In fact, it is the springs that actually absorb the road shock transmitted through the tire, wheel, hub, and spring mount. However, it is the function of the more accurately named damper to control the spring's oscillations. Once they are damped, the tire is able to stay in contact with the road surface under most conditions, resulting in a more comfortable ride, precise handling, efficient braking, and smooth acceleration. When the damper wears out, the spring oscillates at will, taking the tire with it. Periodic replacement of the dampers (shock absorbers) alleviates a bouncy ride, poor handling, and skittish tire behavior.

HINT: While it is generally thought that gas-charged dampers give a stiffer ride than hydraulic dampers, it depends on the application and how the suspension was originally designed.

If your car's ride is getting bumpy or it's handling poor, bring it to the ASE Certified professionals at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO before serious trouble results. We use the AllData CD-ROM based system for the very latest in maintenance and service bulletins for all makes of cars. Plan to trust your car's care to our experienced technicians. Our friendly staff will answer all your questions here at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (843-1550). We're "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Sheriff's Office Receives $13,607 Block Grant

Sheriff John Flood announces the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office and Correctional Center has received a grant totaling $13,607 from the U.S. Department of Justice's Bureau of Justice Assistance.

The Local Law Enforcement Block Grant (LLEBG) was designed by the United States Department of Justice to provide funds to aid in the reduction of crime and improvement of public safety. Grants are offered to qualified jurisdictions throughout the nation. The allocation of funds is determined by the respective town, county, or state crime rate statistics complied annually by the Bureau of Justice Statistics.

Prior to dispersing the grant monies, the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office must establish an advisory board made up of representatives from groups with a recognized interest in criminal justice and crime. This board, must include a representative from: the sheriff's office, prosecutors office, local court system, local public school system, local non-profit educational, religious or community group active in crime prevention or drug use prevention or treatment.

The sheriff's office hopes to utilize the funds in part for procuring equipment, technology and other material directly related to basic law enforcement functions. The remaining portion would be used for enhancing security measures in and around schools and around any other facility or location that the unit of local government considers a special risk for incidents of crime.

Yiu Wong On UMass Dean's List

Yiu F. Wong, 15 Bower Rd., Quincy, was named to the Dean's List for the spring semester at the University of Massachusetts at Lowell.

He is an electrical engineering major.

DiPisa Elected Trustee Of Mass. Hospital Assn.

Ralph DiPisa, CEO of Quincy Hospital, has been elected to the Board of Trustees of the Massachusetts Hospital Association (MHA).

Founded in 1936, MHA is a non-profit organization that represents the collective interests of hospitals and health systems in Massachusetts. The 28-member board sets policies and priorities for the association.

DiPisa, of Medfield, has been CEO of Quincy Hospital since 1994. He came to Quincy from Brockton Hospital, where he was executive vice president and chief operating officer. Prior to that, he held several positions at St. Anne's Health Care System Inc. in Fall River.

DiPisa received his B.S. in health services administration from Providence College and his master's degree in health care administration from George Washington University. He is a member of the American College of Health Care Executives, a member and past president of the Health Care Management Association of Massachusetts, and a board member of the Massachusetts Council of Community Hospitals.

Your Horoscope by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You'll be going out more often for good times in the weeks ahead. Some will begin a new romance. Work interests are a priority this week. Avoid a weekend dispute.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Expect a very busy and productive period at work in the weeks ahead. This week, however, a co-worker may be difficult. The weekend brings happy socializing with friends.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Partnership interests will be highlighted in the weeks ahead. A financial negotiation could break down, causing you to make alternative plans. Accent study this weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You'll be making important investment decisions in the coming weeks. Meetings with those in high places is favored this week. A money matter concerns you over the weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Major travel will soon be on your agenda. Career interests are highlighted this week, but one person fails to get back to you. Avoid being drawn into a quarrel this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Company from out of town may want to visit when it's just not convenient for you. Your career is a major focus in the weeks ahead. The weekend favors socializing with family members you haven't seen in a while.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A group activity will play a pivotal role in your life in the weeks ahead. A career matter could have you at wit's end early in the week. The weekend is conducive to study and mental interests.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Surprise developments this week could change a business plan. A research project captures your attention for some time to come. The weekend promises good old-fashioned fun!

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You begin a cycle this week of greater self-confidence and initiative. Common sense brings you gains in business. You are called upon to compromise with a close tie this weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Overall, it's a good week for reaching agreements with others. However, self-insistence could impede harmony later in the week. Major shopping is likely for the weekend, but watch expenses.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) The travel bug has bitten and you're busy making plans this week. It's also a good time for meetings with bankers and real-estate people. Do your best to avoid an argument about money this weekend.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Dealings with agents and advisers are favored. Some of you are busy making future educational plans. You face major domestic decisions over the weekend.

P. Edward Comi, 95
Drive-In Theater Pioneer

A private funeral service was held Sunday for P. Edward Comi, 95, a retired motion picture engineer who co-founded the first drive-in movie theater in New England.

Mr. Comi, who lived in Milton and was a former resident of North Quincy, died July 3 at Milton Hospital.

The service was held at the Hamel, Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, Adams St., Quincy. Arrangements were by the Cremation Society of Massachusetts.

Mr. Comi, who lived in North Quincy from 1940 to 1960, and a partner established the drive-in theater in the 1930s off Bridge St. in North Weymouth which is now the site of a shopping mall.

The drive-in was the first in New England and believed to be only the third in the country. The drive-in concession business probably started there, too.

A son, Paul D. Comi, former movie and television actor now owner of a flavored coffee business in California, recalled:

"Someone came to my father and his partner and asked if he could sell hot dogs and popcorn.

"They were a little reluctant but gave their permission with the condition he didn't bother the people in the cars. And the concession business became a major part of it all."

Mr. Comi was the owner of Massachusetts Theater Equipment in Boston.

Mr. Comi, who was born in Montpelier, Vt. and attended Vermont schools, was a member of the Motion Operators Union, the Montpelier Elks, and the Masonic Lodge of Euclid.

He was the husband of the late Mary (Morizzi) Comi. In addition to his son, Paul Comi, who lives in San Marino, Calif., he is survived by a son, Alfred S. Comi of Milton; a daughter Diane Canelias of Stoughton, seven grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought For The Week

Someone once said that conscience is the fellow who sits on the throne of your soul and calls out the danger signal when your life craft sights icebergs. Conscience is the pilot of a man's hope toward success. Conscience is the pilot of a man's hope toward success. Conscience is the busy signal sign that halts a man just as he is about to do what he ought not to but wants to . . .

The choice which conscience imposes upon us is often hard to endure. It is easy to do evil and frequently very hard to do right. No matter what effort or self-deception is made, sooner or later the inner conflict of conscience must be faced.

A troubled conscience is not always convenient, but it is often the only element in life which absolutely guarantees rescue from despair. Sometimes conscience speaks in a whisper . . . at other times it yells loud and clear. . .

"Cowardice asks, Is it safe? Expediency asks, Is it politic? Vanity asks, Is it popular? but Conscience asks, Is it right?"

Application Grant Number:
M-97-DC-25-0214

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:

On or about July 27, 1997 the City of Quincy and the Town of Weymouth will request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release Federal HOME funds under the National Affordable Housing Act of 1990 (PL 101-625) (as amended) for the following projects:

A. First Time Homebuyers - Quincy - $35,000
Assist income-eligible buyers with below-market interest rate mortgages, down-payment assistance, and a portion of closing costs. Available for properties purchased in the City of Quincy and the Town of Weymouth.

B. Moderate Rehabilitation - Quincy - $198,260.00
Assist income-eligible homeowners to access moderate rehabilitation loans and grants. Available the City of Quincy and the Town of Weymouth for income-eligible residents.

C. Community Housing Development Organization (CHDO's) and Rental Acquisition/Rehabilitation
- Quincy - $137,180.00 Weymouth - $167,400.00
Acquisition and support of rental housing projects and moderate or substantial rehabilitation of existing structures for multifamily rental use.

The reason for the decision not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement are as follows:
The projects qualify for categorical exclusion under 24 CFR 58.35.
Environmental reviews for these projects have been conducted by the City of Quincy and are available for public examination and copying at the Department of Planning and Community Development, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, MA 02169.

RELEASE OF GRANT FUNDS

The City of Quincy and the Town of Weymouth will undertake the project described above with HOME funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). The City of Quincy a the Town of Weymouth are certifying to HUD that the City of Quincy and the Town of Weymouth consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision making, and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect the certification is that upon its approval, the City of Quincy and the Town of Weymouth may use the HOME funds, and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) of 1969 and other environmental responsibilities listed in 24 CFR Part 58. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is on one of the following bases: (a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the Chief Executive Officer or other officer of the City of Quincy and the Weymouth Board of Selectmen, (b) that the City of Quincy and the Town of Weymouth Environmental Review Record for the projects indicated omission of a required decision finding, or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process, or (c) another Federal agency has submitted written comments pursuant to Section 309 of the Clean Air Act or Section 102(c) of NEPA. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58), and may be addressed to HUD, Boston Federal Office Building, 10 Causeway St., Boston, MA 02222-1902. Objections to the release of funds on bases other than these stated above will not be considered by HUD. No objection received after 15 days from the date of request for funds listed above will be considered by HUD.

A petition has been presented in the above captioned matter praying that the last will of said decedent be proved and allowed and that PAUL T. HILLNER of FLORENCE in the County of HAMPSHIRE be appointed executor named in the will without surety on the bond.

If you desire to object to the allowance of said petition, you or your attorney should file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before 10:00 in the forenoon on July 30, 1997.

In addition you should file a written statement of objections to the petition, giving the specific grounds therefore, within thirty (30) days after the return day (or such other time as the Court, on motion with notice to the petitioner, may allow) in accordance with Probate Rule 16A.

WITNESS, David H. Kopelman, Esquire, First Justice of said Court at Dedham, this sixteenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and ninety-seven.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN
(Never Known to Fail)

Oh most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, Fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, Assist me in my necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my mother. Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth! I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein you are my mother. Oh Mary conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3x) Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3x) Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light roads so that I can attain my goal. You who gave me divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the favor is granted.

County Conservation District To Provide Camp Scholarships

The Norfolk County Conservation District is providing two free overnight camp scholarships for children ages 8-14 to attend the 4H Camp Farley Outdoor Education Center.

The center covers 32 acres located on Mashpee-Wakeby Lake in Mashpee, one of the Cape's largest bodies of fresh water. The scholarships will be available in August.

The 4H Farley Outdoor Education Center was founded in 1934 and named after George L. Farley, the first Massachusetts state 4H club leader. Camp Farley's programs are designed to educate and develop youth in acquiring life skills of problem solving, communication, decision making and leadership.

Programs are conducted in cooperation with the University of Massachusetts Cooperation Extension Agency and the USDA. The camp is accredited by the American Camping Association.

Those interested should send a one-page letter on "Why I Would Like To Go To Camp" to the Norfolk County Conservation District, 400 Main St., Walpole, MA 02081, Attention: Bette Duquette.

Deadline date to apply is Friday, June 20. Scholarship entries are open to Norfolk County residents only.

ANNUAL DINNER recently was held for the Massachusetts Association of Mental Health (MAMH), a private, non-profit citizens-based organization devoted to ensuring quality treatment and services to people with mental health. Among those in attendance were, from left, Quincy Hospital Director/CEO Ralph DiPisa; Charles Barker, state secretary of administration and finance; and Robert Griffin of the Quincy Hospital Board of Managers. Barker received MAMH's 1997 Friend and Leader Award.

Six Residents On Stonehill Dean's List

Six Quincy resident have been named to the Dean's List for the spring semester at Stonehill College.

They are:

Abigail Anastasi, junior, highest honors; Suzanne Sullivan, junior, high honors; Michael D'Amico, senior; Christine DiPaolo, junior; Erin Mawn, sophomore, and Tara Murphy, junior, all honors.

"Sometimes their clock is different down there (Washington)," said Sheets. "It's all part of the democratic process."

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi, whose ward includes the shipyard, voiced similar sentiments.

"Every indication I have from talking to the mayor's office and others is that the project is alive and well," said Raymondi. "I still remain very hopeful and optimistic that we'll soon be employing 1,500 to 2,000 people at the shipyard."

But Councillor-at-Large Paul Harold, who has consistently criticized Emmanouil for not providing enough financial information about his project to the City Council, did not seem surprised about MARAD's caution about granting the federal loan guarantees.

"MARAD is asking the same questions I've been asking from the very beginning: his financial capacity to run a shipyard of this size, and also the relation between his financial contribution and the monies being put in," said Harold. "Everyone in Quincy wants it to work out, including me, but the bottom line is the financing."

Emmanouil, owner of Swampscott-based Massachusetts Heavy Industries, expects to lay the keel for the first double-hulled vessel in the spring of next year. Originally, he wanted to do so this November.

Emmanouil already has been granted more $54.5 in guarantees from the federal government and millions more in state, city and private funding to purchase and modernize the shipyard, which has been closed since General Dynamics left 11 years ago.

In addition, the City Council has granted Emmanouil a five-year, 100 percent tax abatement for the site.

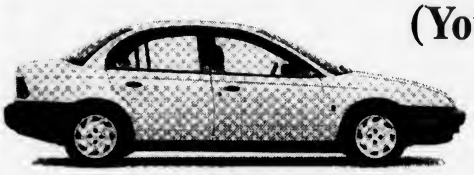
Without the second set of MARAD guarantees, however, he will not be able to secure commercial loans for labor, steel and other construction costs for the $322 million project.

Sheets and other officials have said the initial contracts are expected to create at least 1,000 new jobs and the shipyard could eventually employ as many as 2,000 workers.

Massachusetts Heavy Industries already has received more than 800 job inquiries to date, including applications and phone calls from interested workers, according to officials.

A spokesman for Massachusetts Heavy Industries said the shipyard startup date also was delayed because the clearing of old buildings at the site did not begin until May--two months later than originally scheduled.

The demolition and installation of robotic welders and other equipment will take about eight to nine more months, which means the first keel would be laid around March, the spokesman added.



Sheets said Tuesday, however, he believes it could happen as early as February.

Council Passes 4.4M Bond Package

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The City Council has passed a $4,410,000 bond package submitted by Mayor James Sheets for improvements to public buildings, roadways and sidewalks, and other city projects.

The council approved the package of six separated bond issues Monday night after each was explained briefly by Department of Public Works Commissioner David Colton.

Sheets first told The Quincy Sun about his plans to send the bond package to the council last month.

The six bond issues in the package are:

•$1.25 million for the remodeling, reconstruction and/or repairs to various public buildings. The work includes new windows for the Atherton Hough School, ventilation/heating repairs at the Sterling and Central middle schools, renovations to the City Council Chambers at City Hall, ventilation repairs at several of the city's fire stations and security upgrading at City Hall, schools and other buildings that will include new locks, camera equipment and more.

The school repairs are part of a planned 10-year school renovation program that could cost the city more than $50 million to upgrade the city's 18 public schools.

•$1 million for road and sidewalk improvements throughout the city.

•$490,000 for engineering services related to the planned Quincy Center Concourse.

•$900,000 for various departmental equipment including a new street sweeper, trucks and more. In all, the amount includes $700,000 for the DPW and $200,000 for the Park Department.

•$70,000 for the construction of seawalls and dikes.

•$700,000 for the construction and reconstruction of municipal outdoor recreational and athletic facili-

New Commission To Be Formed

Community Policing Law Passed

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi's proposed ordinance to establish a Community-Oriented Policing and Problem-Solving (COPPS) Commission has been passed by the City Council.

The council voted 7-2 in favor of the ordinance Monday night. Councillors-at-Large Paul Harold and Timothy Cahill voted against forming the 20-member commission, which is designed to assist community police officers with their duties by working in conjunction with the Quincy Police Department.

Harold and Cahill said forming such a commission is unnecessary, saying the police department already does an outstanding job fighting crime.

"I still see it as a potential danger for second-guessing police work. I don't see that there is a need for this," said Harold, who added that he has heard "very little support" for the ordinance from police officers with whom he has spoken.

"I see this as an unnecessary layer of government," said Cahill. "I see good intentions turning bad."

Raymondi and his supporters, however, said community policing is designed to prevent crime from happening, rather than merely fighting crime that already has occurred, and that the commission will be a help to community police officers.

"This ordinance puts community into community policing," said Raymondi, "and community policing is a pro-active approach to crime."

"This is just another tool," said Council President Peter Kolson. "It's another

Piercing Shop Receives Eight-Day Suspension

Body Xtremes, the controversial body piercing shop in North Quincy, has received an eight-day suspension from the city for violating an ordinance regarding the piercing of minors without parental consent.

Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue said at press time that Mik Miller, owner of the shop at 414 Hancock St., was served a suspension notice when he opened his establishment Tuesday at noon. As a result of the suspension, which officially began at 4 p.m. last Friday--the day of the illegal piercing--the shop will closed through this Saturday, she said.

Gallahue added that the notice on Miller's certificate of registration was served on Tuesday because Body Extremes is closed on Mondays.

The commissioner said the suspension is the result of the piercing of a 17-year-

Possible Contamination

Penn's Hill Concerns Over Old Water Tank

Residents of Penn's Hill have raised concerns about possible contamination coming from a recently-dismantled 71-year-old water tank in their neighborhood.

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi and officials from the city's public works, health and fire departments, as well as Weston and Sampson Engineers of Peabody, held a meeting Tuesday at Roche Bros. Supermarket in Quincy Point to address neighbors' concerns about the issue.

Raymondi said high lead levels have been found in soil in the area and testing will be conducted to determine if the base of the now-dismantled water tank is the source.

"People have a right to be concerned," he said. "I'm very concerned about it.

Raymondi said soon after he was elected Ward 2 councillor in 1995, he held a neighborhood meeting on water pressure and quality in the Penn's Hill area, "which traditionally has been a problem." At his request, the Department of Public Works agreed to update a citywide study on water pressure done by Weston and Sampson about 10 years ago. The study results are due in September.

Raymondi said he learned one of the DPW's recommendations in the study was to dismantle the water tank, which is located next to the Abigail Adams Cairn and has not been used in at least five years. Coincidentally,

180-Seat Marina Bay Restaurant Gets License

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The Quincy License Board Tuesday, voted unanimously to grant a common victualer all-alcoholic license to William O'Connell, owner of The Ocean Club & Raw Bar, 319 Victory Rd. at Marina Bay prompting questions from Ed Kane, owner of Waterworks.

While the Quincy License Board was reviewing O'Connell's request focusing on the parking, Ed Kane asked the board where the people were that opposed his request last year.

The 180 seat establishment will be strictly a non-smoking one. And a state of the art sprinkler system, the first of its kind on the boardwalk.

When Kane was proposing Waterworks last year, scores of abutters were always in attendance at the meetings.

Recalling a long list of "red herrings", Kane spoke about the $40,000 he spent on sound equipment because of complaints about the noise from the music.

He spoke of many "lies" circulating about him concerning conservation, zoning and said of one abutter, "no matter what I do he just doesn't want us there."

He reminded the license board that in order to open Waterworks last year, the board ordered him to construct a new parking lot. Kane said it cost him $300,000 to construct the lot on the left hand side of the circle to accomodate 508 cars. However, in observing the lot, Kane said there are only about "40 cars parked there" mostly by his own employees.

Kane said he had lunch with O'Connell and while he said "more is better at Marina Bay," he still questioned why people were not at City Hall asking about parking as they did when he proposed his plan.

Kane said it was "unfair" to be the only one participating in the parking program.

Chairman Joseph Shea asked Kane to "highlight all of this in a letter so we can refer to it when we have to."

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers said while he thought O'Connell's plan would be a "nice addition to the Marina - fits in with the criteria" he said while there is "adequate" parking, it is not managed properly and suggested a parking committee.

O'Connell said he would be "pleased to have a key role" in managing the parking.

Traffic Engineer Jack Gillon said the parking situation with short-term signage could show an improvement for the rest of the summer, but on a long term basis, it would probably have to wait until next year.

Gillon said the plan should be to improve the recognition of the parking lots and to take note of employees who do not use the lots they are assigned to.

The board also voted to transfer the license formerly owned by James Shea, who was proposing a restaurant on Ricciuti Drive, but has since gave up the license and sold the property.

O'Connell said he hopes to open his restaurant before Labor Day.

Atty. Richard Pierce represented O'Connell.

License Board Briefs

The Quincy License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting.

•Granted a request from Aslanis Seafoods, Inc., 151 Penn St. a one day beer and wine license for an outdoor summer employee party, to be held in the parking lot Aug. 2 from 12 noon to 6 p.m.

•Granted a request from Steven Cobban of Quincy Motor Sports, 119D Parkingway for a repair shot license for motorcycles and watercraft.

•Granted a one day permit for a family outing at Nickerson Post, 20 Moon Island Road July 27 from 12 noon to 6 p.m.

•Continued a hearing from Eight Ball Billiard Parlor, 1585 Hancock St. for an entertainment license and to physically alter their premises by increasing 6,887 square feet to 13,500 square feet. Board members told owner George Pepdjonovic they would take a "second look" at the situation before voting.

•Continued a hearing from Richard Colarusso owner of Richard's Used Cars who requested a Motor 11 license at 17 West Howard St. Board members told Colarusso, that there is no room at that site, and that they would issue his license at a different site.

•Rescheduled until July 29 a hearing regarding Marina Bay Taxi, 86 Sumner St. following complaints from neighbors. Shea read a letter from Atty. Kevin Burke, representing owner Basel Tawfik who said they are seeking a new location.

•Granted permission to Quincy Lodge of Elks, 254-256 Quarry St. to change their Bingo night from Monday to Wednesday night.

Squantum Gardens Plan Approved By Council

A plan by the Quincy Council on Aging and Mayor James Sheets to utilize Squantum Gardens as the new home of a number of senior facilities has received the final green light from the City Council.

The council unanimously approved the project Monday night. Plans call for senior housing, a medical center, assisted-living facilities and a senior center. A senior citizen van service already is operating from Squantum Gardens, and a transitional housing program run by the Mayor's Commission on the Family is in the process of moving into the site.

Two weeks ago, the city and the Navy, which owns the property, signed a formal lease that also is integral to the plan.

The Council on Aging is planning to move the first senior tenants into the Naval Terrace duplexes at the site in September. The city will begin building the senior center and other facilities, which will include a small number of units for disabled adults, after it acquires the 112-unit complex through a no-cost or low-cost special conveyance or a negotiated sale from the Navy and the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The city needs a special conveyance because senior housing is not on the Pentagon's standard list of approved uses for abandoned military property. The Navy is giving up Squantum Gardens, as well as the South Weymouth Naval Air Station, as part of the nationwide base-closure program.

Quincy Planning Director Richard Meade said Squantum Gardens will be run by a private management firm. He told councillors the city will advertise for a site manager--as well as separate liability insurance for the complex and for a firm or non-profit organization to prepare and screen the first tenant applications for the site--within the next few days.

Meade also said in addition to day-to-day operations, the private manager will be responsible for security and other services.

Originally, Sheets and other officials said the city would staff and operate Squantum Gardens. However, Meade said they have since decided the property should be mainly separate, as is the case with the Quincy Housing Authority.

Councillor-at-Large Michael Cheney, who backs the overall Council on Aging plan but opposes privatization at Squantum Gardens, said he will vote against a private-management proposal that comes before the council, especially since it was not part of the original plan.

FORTY TWIN-SIZE BEDS were recently taken in by the transitional housing program operated by the Mayor's Commission on the Family at Squantum Gardens. At left, Eric Zimmerman and Sean Mahoney of the Quincy Department of Public Works take a breather as Linda Stice, executive director of the commission unloads a bed off a truck. The beds were sold to the program at a discount price by My Brother's Keeper in Brockton.

Convenience Store Hours Cut Back By License Board

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

After hearing complaints from neighbors regarding the 7-Eleven, 24 hour store on 6 Franklin St., the Quincy License Board voted unanimously Tuesday to roll back the hours and close the store from 1 a.m. to 4:30 a.m. starting Sunday on a 90 day trial basis.

Area residents complained of the loud voices, fights and overall noise in the parking lot in the wee hours of the morning, plus BFI trucks parked along Pearl Street and in front of fire hydrants. Also cars parked there all day by employees of BFI and the general unclean look in and around the store itself.

Firechief Thomas Gorman said he was "never a big fan of a 24 hour store," and added "after 12 midnight it's not a neighborhood store, it becomes a hang out". He said the people that "hang out" at the store have "no ties to the neighbors"

Don't Leave Pets In Parked Cars During Hot Weather

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As the summer officially arrives and the weather heats up, The Humane Society of the United States (HSUS) reminds readers that pets, like people, can suffer from the heat--especially when left in a parked car.

Like their owners, companion animals enjoy the opportunities warm weather provides for outdoor activities. However, the needless suffering, and occasional death, of an animal imprisoned in a car on a warm day is a tragedy that is entirely preventable.

On hot and humid day, the temperature inside a car rises very quickly. On an 85-degree day, for example, the temperature inside a car with the windows open slightly will reach 102 degrees within 10 minutes. After 30 minutes, the temperature will reach 120 degrees. On warmer days, it will get even hotter.

A dog's normal body temperature is 101.5 to 102.2 degrees. A dog can withstand a body temperature of 107 to 108 degrees for only a very short time before suffering irreparable brain damage, or even death.

Although many pet owners may not realize the danger of leaving their dogs in parked cars even for a few minutes, their ignorance may prove fatal. A brochure to educate others about the hazards of leaving pets in hot cars may be obtained from the HSUS. It can be placed on a car, in store windows, or on bulletin boards.

Please send a business-size, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for flyers to: "Hot Car," The HSUS New England Regional Office, Route 112, P.O. Box 619, Jacksonville, VT 05342.

What's Mike Going To Do?

Mike Bellotti suddenly is the center of local political speculation now that the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court has shot down term limits.

Will he now run for Norfolk County sheriff? Or, maybe lieutenant governor?

BELLOTTI

Bellotti was eyeing a run for state auditor next year but the court's ruling that term limits are invalid apparently will change that.

Term limits which won narrow voter approval in a 1994 referendum would have restricted constitutional officers and legislators to eight years in one office.

Most of them would have had to leave their present posts by the year 2002.

But State Auditor Joseph DeNucci would have had to give up that office next year. Now, he doesn't have to. And he has already indicated he wants to run again for the job.

It's unlikely Bellotti would challenge DeNucci because of the long-standing friendship between his father, former Atty. Gen. Frank Bellotti and DeNucci.

Bellotti was serious about running state-wide in 1998. With sate auditor apparently now out, unless DeNucci changes his mind, Bellotti could go for lieutenant governor, a post once held by his father.

But speculation seems to leaning more toward Dedham than Beacon Hill.

A strong Quincy Democrat, observers believe, would have the best chance of taking the sheriff's badge back from Republican Jack Flood who was appointed by Gov. William Weld to fill out the unexpired term of Sheriff Clifford Marshall who died last August.

Sen. Michael Morrissey and Rep. Ron Mariano are two other Quincy Democrats being mentioned as possible sheriff candidates.

MORRISSEY

MARIANO

It's doubtful the three would buck one another. And the feeling right now is that Bellotti would probably be the one to get the call. If he wants it.

Bellotti, of course, doesn't have to make any change move. He doesn't have to give up his state representative seat now that the court has pulled the rug out from under term limits.

But with that voter magic name, he has got to be thinking beyond Quincy's First Norfolk District.

County or state-wide?

THE CITY COUNCIL at-large field has another entry. David McGillicuddy of Elmwood Ave., retired community relations manager for New England Telephone and NYNEX, has taken out nomination papers.

McGILLICCUDY

McGillicuddy is the sixth candidate. Seven are needed for a preliminary election run-off for the three seats.

GRACE GIUNCHIGLIA, former long-time popular City Hall figure, has fully recovered from a stroke suffered in March.

GIUNCHIGLIA

Grace was secretary to Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa in the 1960s and returned three decades later to serve Mayor James Sheets in the same capacity for five years. All told, she had 21 years at City Hall.

"I'm feeling fine and staying busy," she says and credits Quincy Hospital for her recovery.

"The treatment I received there was wonderful," she says. "I am very proud of the hospital. They have made great strides."

THE BY INVITATION grand opening of Quincy's newest restaurant, Kevin's At The Heritage, had to be the social event of the year.

A Who's Who in Quincy turned out to welcome and wish owner Kevin Cadigan the best in his classy venture at 1495 Hancock St., site of the former Bank of New England.

Dan Flynn, Kevin's landlord, added his own personal touch of class, cutting a dashing figure in a tuxedo.

CITY HALL FRIENDS honored Helen Murphy, assistant to Mayor James Sheets, the other day for her recent graduation from Suffolk University.

She earned a bachelor of science degree in government and did it the hard way--attending classes evenings over a several year period. And she was on the dean's list.

The gang ordered a Suffolk University chair for her as a gift but it didn't arrive in time for the get-together at Ciro's at Marina Bay.

City Clerk Joseph Shea came to the rescue though. He found an old folding chair, and had "Suffolk University" painted on it. The stand-in (or sit-in) was presented to her until the real one arrives.

City Hall, incidentally, has pretty strong ties to Suffolk University. City Solicitor Steve McGrath and John Keenan, the mayor's new executive secretary, graduated from Suffolk Law School. Mike McFarland, the mayor's former executive secretary, and Shea are Suffolk grads.

FORMER COUNCILLOR Chuck Phelan hit the big "40" Saturday and his wife, Michelle, had a big surprise backyard birthday party for him. But for awhile it looked like the surprise was going to be on her and the 60 guests.

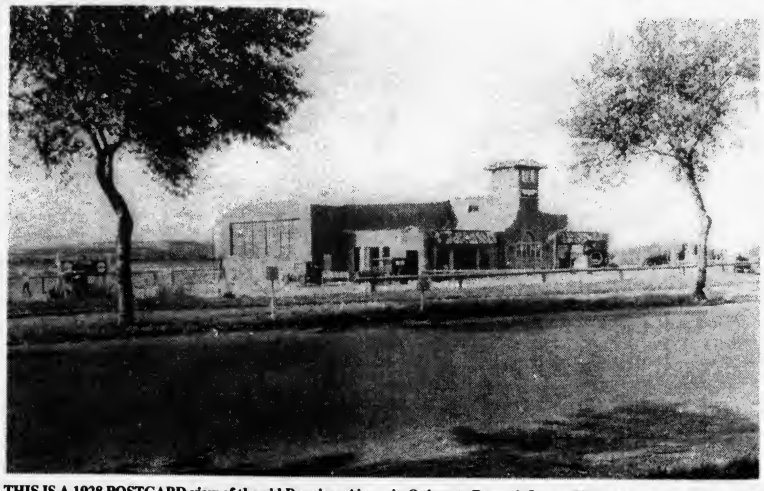
PHELAN

Phelan, who is now head of the computer division at the Norfolk County sheriff's department went off to work at 7 a.m. and said he would be back around 8 p.m.

While the guests were gathering, he called home and said he still had a lot of work to do and wouldn't be through until after midnight.

What's a wife to do with the backyard full of guests and no guest of honor! There was only thing to do.

Michelle picked up the phone and put a call into Sheriff Jack Flood who was also working that night. She explained her predicament. Flood told her not to worry, he would take care of it.



He went to Phelan and said: "Chuck, you've worked long enough today. Why don't you go home to your family!"

Chuck reluctantly left and arrived home after 10 p.m. for an abbreviated party.

Michelle called Flood back and invited him to attend. But he said he couldn't. He was going to fill in for Chuck at the jail.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1928 POSTCARD view of the old Dennison Airport hangar that was on the corner of Quincy Shore Drive and East Squantum Street. Amelia Earhart was one of five financial backers of this airport and later learned to fly here. They built another large hangar later to the right of this one. It was once proposed to fly commuter planes from here in Quincy to Boston's Logan Field as a way to beat the congestion on the roadways. The Navy took over before that could happen. On the left, in the distance, can be seen the large Victory Plant on what is now Marina Bay. The huge building, which covered the water, now surrounded by the boardwalk, burned down in a spectacular fire in 1932.

Flood Praised For Efforts In Capturing Two Inmates

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As Bristol County sheriff, I would like to commend Norfolk County Sheriff Jack Flood for his quick response July 2 in notifying my staff that two Norfolk County inmates had walked away from a correctional treatment program at the Norfolk County House of Correction.

Norfolk deputies had reason to believe that at least one of the inmates may have headed to Fall River, a city in Bristol County where the inmate last resided. Norfolk dispatched search teams, and Norfolk Deputies Scott Brown and Chris Cunningham were sent to Bristol County in search of the inmate presumably in Fall River.

Deputies Brown and Cunningham joined two of my Bristol County deputies, James Oliviera and Shawn Costa. The four men split into two teams, one from each county on each team. At approximately 11 p.m. that same evening, both inmates were found together in Fall River and apprehended without incident.

I would like to recognize Sheriff Flood and each of the deputies for their fine work and swift response. Such cooperation within our county system is a necessity, and proved to be essential in the expeditious apprehension of these two inmates.

Supports Senior Living Campus

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As a resident of Marina Bay in Quincy, I believe that the Senior Living Campus will be an important asset to Quincy and to Marina Bay. This project will create jobs and improve the quality of life for senior citizens who want to live there.

The Senior Living Campus is an ideal kind of development because it will have a very low impact on city services. Moreover, because the development will be occupied by seniors, it is natural to assume that the development will not generate any significant traffic to and from Marina Bay.

Hence, the Senior Living Campus is the best possible neighbor we could get. Let's hope it is approved and developed without delay.

Coach Praises Champions Of Junior Farm League

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

During a season in which memories for an 8 or 9-year-old boy will last a lifetime, The Tobin Club posted a 19-4 record including an exciting 13-12 win in the championship game over a great Jaehnig Chiropractic team, to win the Junior Farm League championship.

I, along with head coach Mark Tobin and assistant coaches Tom Jenkins and Peter Rackauskas, would like to express our thanks to the team members' parents, who endured the frigid April (and May) nights right on through to the sweltering June evenings. Without their devotion, this fantastic season might not have happened.

But the real heroes who made the summer of 1997 one to remember are: Mike Ainsley, Kyle Carrigan, Joey Ceurvals, Mike Coronella, Pat Dunn, Jimmy Fitzpatrick, Jimmy Garrigan, Matt Healy, Dennis Rackauskas, Jeff Rackauskas, Matt Rhode, Mikie Saville, Frankie Sorrento, Kyle Tobin, Matt Tobin, and Greg Jenkins.

I'd also like to thank the league presidents, Mark Jaehnig, and the vice president, Bob Bossart, for operating a well-run year.

Thanks Merchants Who Supported Granite House

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

On behalf of the residents, their families and the staff at Granite House, I would like to thank the following merchants for donating money and materials for our graduation and End of Year Celebration held June 18.

North River Party Rental in Hanover donated 50 chairs, four tables, and a sound system; The Party Shop in Newton donated tablecloths, napkins, paper plates, and invitations; Papa Gino's at 100 Granite St. in Quincy donated 12 pizzas; and Colonial Cleaners in Beverly donated $200, which was used to purchase party platters, soda and other food.

We are very grateful to all of these merchants for taking interest in the Granite House program. These donations helped to make our celebration a wonderful time and a great success.

Granite House is a residential school and treatment program for adolescents and their families from Quincy and other Eastern Mass. cities and towns. Our parent organization is Bay State Community Services at 15 Cottage St. in Quincy.

Church Dome Drive At Half-Way Mark

By PAUL HAROLD

William Edwards, city historian and chairman of the special campaign committee for the United First Parish Church, announced that they had raised $26,000 for repairs and restoration of the church's historic belfry and dome.

July 17-23
33 Years Ago

The amount represented more than half of the $50,000 needed to repair termite damage to the pillars supporting the golf-leafed dome.

Since Dec. 19, 1963, the dome was crated and stored on the front lawn of the church, with sign attached reading, "Please help put me back."

FREAK STORMS STRIP BEACHES OF SAND

Richard Koch, executive secretary of the Park Division, requested a special appropriation of $900 to replace sand washed from the city's nine operated beaches by this week's freak storms. Approximately 1,300 yards of sand recently installed was washed away.

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa said he supported the request by would have to wait for the July 17 meeting of the city council to make the funds available.

ANTIQUE STORE APPROVED FOR DEPOT

The license board approved a secondhand furniture license for Philip Shute to operate an antique store at the former Quincy Center railroad depot.

The depot had been vacant most of the five years since passenger service ended.

Shute said the "Antique Depot" would specialize in high quality used furniture.

The Quincy Young Democrats had their monthly meeting at the Hollow. . . The First Church of Squantum celebrated its 50th anniversary. The celebrations included a series of events including a slide show by Gordon Nelson, an anniversary dance and banquet scheduled for Sept. 19. Joseph Uppling was anniversary chairman. Two charter members honored were Roger Mason and Mrs. James Sumner. . . Ward 3 Councillor John Koegler asked the park department to enforce the park's 9 p.m. closing following recent "promiscuous activity" there. . . Lt. Gov. Francis Bellotti opened his Quincy headquarters for governor in the Adams Building. On hand were Timothy Fahey, chairman of the city committee, Leo Hannon and Mary Fareri, women's organizer for the Quincy office. . . Louis Cassani was president of the Rotary Club. . . At the quarterly meeting of Covenant Congregational Church, approval was given for the Gulf Oil Company to build a colonial-style service station on the corner of Granite and Whitwell Streets. The church owned the property. . .

Barbara's Dill Shrimp

Having "club" at Barb and Chap's place in Hanson is always a treat, what with hanging plants on an inviting front porch, gorgeous stone walls, and best of all the tid bits always served

There were several that night, but today's recipe for dill shrimp won the prize. Barbara kept filling the bowl with more shrimp. They didn't last long!

Dill Shrimp

2 pound medium shrimp (cooked)
1/12 cups mayonaise
1/3 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup sour cream
1 large red onion (thinly sliced)
2 tablespoons dry dill
1/4 teaspoon salt

Mix mayonaise, lemon, sugar, crea, onion dill and salt and stir in shrimp cover and refreigerator overnight or at least for a few hours. Serve with toothpicks. you'll love them as much as we did, I'm sure.

QHS Chorus Performs In Great East Music Festival

The Quincy High School Chorus, under the direction of Salvatore Bartolotti, recently participated in the Great East Music Festival at North Andover Middle/Junior High School.

The performance for adjudication included three contrasting pieces: "Gloria" by Joseph Hayden, sung in Latin text; "Ereu Shel Shoshanim", an old Israeli folk song, sung in Hebrew; and the third selection; from "Fame," was "Out Here On My Own," featuring senior student Kathryn Lencki as soloist.

The ensemble received outstanding commendations in diction, ensemble blend and balance, and interpretation. Students who performed were:

Karen Almonacid, Yvette Amao, Geovanina Barros, Jon Blythe, Stefania Bonsignore, Katharine Cantelli, Patrick Creedon, Jason Cuddyer, Mark Demeo, Eric Dickens, Joseph Doyle, Christina Duggan, Elizabeth Dunlea, Erin Flaherty, Jessica Furtado, Jennifer Halvorson, Jennifer Hartford, Sarah Larson, Kathryn Lencki, Michael Lencki, Stephen Little, Diane MacPherson, Jacqueline Maloney, Erin Munn, Dan Nguyen, Andrea Osborne, Alicia Quigg, Kelly Raymer, Melissa Ring, Leticia Rodriguez, Jasper Tan, Linda Tran, Zhou Fen Zheng.

Quincy Choral Society To Perform In England

The Quincy Choral Society has been invited to perform a concert tour in England this month.

The tour will include a special performance at the All Hallows by the Tower church in London, commemorating the 200th anniversary of the wedding of John Quincy Adams and Louisa Catherine Johnson at that church on July 26, 1797.

The society frequently performs at the Church of the Presidents in Quincy, where John Quincy and Louisa Adams, as well as John and Abigail Adams, are buries.

The Quincy Choral Society will also present concerts at the Greenwich-Docklands Music Festival

July 20, Bramham Parish Church near Wetherby July 24, and in Yorkshire July 25.

Storyteller Joan Bailey At Crane Library July 22

Storyteller Joan Bailey will present "Toys and Tales" Tuesday, July 22 at 7 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center.

The program is part of the library's 11th annual Summer Storytellers Series sponsored by the Quincy Arts Council. Designed for families with children age 5 and older, it will be interpreted in American Sign Language.

Bailey will make her Quincy debut with tales from the English and American traditions including "Grandad, Tea and Biscuits."

Simultaneously, storyteller Dottie Moynihan will present a Pajama Time Storyhour on Marc Brown's "Arthur" in the library's adjacent Art Gallery. The storytimes are designed for children ages 2-5, accompanied by a parent, who may be too young for the traditional Storytellers Series.

The Summer Storytellers Series will continue with performances by Merrill Kohlhofer, July 29; Jeanne Donato, Aug. 5; Motoko, Aug. 12; and Karen Glickman, Aug. 19. All performances will be interpreted in American Sign Language and will run at the same time as a Pajama Storytime Hour in the Art Gallery.

JOAN BAILEY

The library will celebrate the letter "W" with a variety of games, riddles and puzzles Wednesday, July 23. All are welcome to visit any of the branches for the event.

Granite Railway Tours Begin Saturday

Tours of the remnants of the Granite Railway, the nation's first chartered commercial railway located in West Quincy and East Milton, will begin Saturday.

Dates of the tours, which are being sponsored by the Metropolitan District Commission and the Mass Bay RRE, are Saturday and Sunday, July 19 and 20 and Aug. 23 and 24 at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Participants will meet at the Quincy Historical Society, 8 Adams St., Quincy. Pickup also is available at the Cedar Grove MBTA Station at 8:30 a.m.

The event includes a guided, limited capacity three-hour van tour and some walking. Sites toured will include the preserved 1826 railway terminus at Bunker Hill Ledge, several extant segments of the old right-of-way, several quarries with scenic views, the 1830 double-track incline, the Neponset River wharf, and several structures significant to the granite, iron and railroad industries in Quincy.

Mass Bay RRE members may participate for free and a $5 donation is requested for others. Pre-registration is required. To register, contact Vic Campbell at 6 Jo-Anne Terrace, Dorchester, MA 02124 or call 282-6713.

Jessica Courtney Awarded Derby Academy Certificate

Jessica Courtney of Squantum was awarded a certificate at the recent Last Chapel ceremonies at Derby Academy in Hingham.

$28,000 From Hospital Auxiliary To Benefit Building Improvements

A check for $28,000 raised through activities sponsored by the Quincy Hospital Auxiliary was recently presented by Auxiliary President Carol Herbai to Craig Gibson, president of the Health and Education Foundation.

Gibson said at the annual auxiliary luncheon at the Wollaston Golf Club that the money is earmarked for improvements to the front hospital entrance, including a revolving door and handicap access.

Hospital Director/CEO Ralph DiPisa also spoke at the luncheon on changes taking place, including a new fast-track program and doubling physician coverage in the Emergency Room, where up to 30,000 people are treated annually. Quality assurance programs have been enhanced, and the Center for Women's Health has hired a female obstetrician.

Director of Volunteers Peg Crehan presented the eighth annual Bissett Scholarship Award to Yun Wing Yu, a recent North Quincy High School graduate who is an active volunteer and will attend Boston University's College of Arts and Sciences.

Auxiliary officers for the coming year are: Carol Herbai, president; Marion DeSantis, first vice president; Arlene Constant, second vice president; Ilda DiMascio, recording secretary; Mildred Jacobs, corresponding secretary; Yolanda Romanelli, treasurer and Natalie Fossati, assistant treasurer.

The auxiliary is seeking new members. For more information, call 773-6100, ext. 5509.

Bellotti To Hold Annual Beach Clean-Up July 26

State Rep. Michael Bellotti announces he will once again organize and participate in his annual Wollaston Beach Clean-Up.

Bellotti, who has organized the event for the past three years, is eager to do it again.

"In conjunction with the state wide Back To The Beaches Program, I am happy to be able to lend a hand in helping to make Wollaston Beach a clean and safe environment where people can come and enjoy themselves for a day at the beach.

"The vast improvement in the water quality at Wollaston Beach as well as the beach and surrounding area is making this a place where families have started to come back and recreate."

Bellotti, as a member of the House Committee on Natural Resources, has fought on Beacon Hill to ensure funding for cleaner water as well as dredging for Quincy Bay.

The clean-up is scheduled for Saturday, July 26 from 10 a.m. to noon. Bellotti asks that volunteers meet in front of the Squantum Yacht Club where he will provide garbage bags and gloves. Following the clean-up, there will be a pizza and soda luncheon for all participants.

For more information, call Bellotti at 722-2582 or 479-0111.

'Abigail Adams' Program To Air On QATV Tonight

"Abigail Adams: First Lady of Quincy and the Nation," a special presentation chronicling the dedication of a statue in Mrs. Adams' honor last month, will air tonight (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. on Quincy Access Television Channel 3.

The wife of the second President of the United States and mother of the sixth, Mrs. Adams holds a unique position in American, and Quincy, history. On June 14, a life-size bronze statue of Mrs. Adams and her son, John Quincy Adams, was dedicated adjacent to their final resting place, United First Parish Church in Quincy Center.

Tonight's program includes remarks by Edward Keohane, president of The Quincy Partnership and emcee for the statue dedication; an invocation by Rev. Sheldon W. Bennett, First Parish minister; a celebratory address by Mayor James Sheets and remarks by Abigail Adams Browne, a descendant of Mrs. Adams and Marianne Peak, superintendent of the Adams National Historic Site.

The speakers will be followed by the unveiling of the statue by the wives of six Quincy mayors--Mrs. James Sheets, Mrs. Francis McCauley, Mrs. Arthur Tobin, Mrs. Joseph LaRaia, Mrs. Walter Hannon and Mrs. James McIntyre--and remarks by Lloyd Lillie, the statue's sculptor.

We Hope
You'll Never Need Us.

{But It's Comforting To Know We're Here If You Do.}

On July 1st, Fallon Ambulance Started Bringing Its Dedication To Excellent Service To The People Of Quincy.

At Fallon, we're very grateful for having recently been awarded the contract to serve Quincy. We've looked forward to bringing our reputation for community service to your neighborhood. We want the people of Quincy to know that not only will three Fallon ambulances, two for advanced life support and one for basic life support, be dedicated to serving the community 24-hours a day, 7-days a week, but the Fallon family is also here to serve yours.

We'll also be providing EMS scholarships to Quincy students and residents; ongoing city-wide EMS seminars; EMS education classes for seniors; and a 911 educational program for the Quincy school system.

It's all part of our strong community focus and commitment to provide you with the best possible service. Because at Fallon, we're not only your ambulance service company, we're also your neighbor.

WARNING SIGNS OF ORAL CANCER

Do you have a sore in your mouth that seems to keep hanging on without healing? Have your dentures suddenly become uncomfortable, as if they don't fit right anymore? There could be several reasons for either of those problems, but one of the possibilities is that they can be among the signs of oral cancer. The most common sites for oral cancer are the lips, lining of the cheeks, gums, and floor of the mouth, although it can develop in virtually any part of the oral cavity. Other symptoms to watch for include a lump or thickening in the cheek, a feeling that something is caught in the throat, a sore throat that won't go away, difficulty chewing or swallowing, numbness, and a white or red patch on the gums, tongue, or lining of the mouth. If any of these problems last for two weeks or more, see your doctor promptly.

P.S. Pain is usually NOT one of the symptoms of oral cancer.

If you have any medical condition which persists—even a nagging cough—get the professional advice and care you need. Dismissing a problem as inconsequential may mean even more serious problems down the line. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, Dr. Lisa Antonelli and I are dedicated to ensuring your good health. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospitals. Hours by appointment. We're at 700 Congress St., in Quincy. Call me or Dr. Lisa Antonelli with questions at 472-2550.

Brian McNamee Candidate For Ward 6 Councillor

Brian McNamee, 40, accountant and management consultant from Billings Rd., North Quincy, has officially declared his candidacy for the Ward 6 City Council seat.

Ninety-one percent of the signatures nominating McNamee were certified by the city clerk's office, making McNamee the first of four challengers to incumbent Bruce Ayers to return nominating papers.

McNamee is a graduate of Villanova University and has a master's degree in business administration from the University of Massachusetts at Boston, where he currently sits on the College of Management's Corporate Advisory Board. Prior to operating his own accounting and management consulting business, he was a member of the Entrepreneurial Services Group of Arthur Young, now Ernst & Young, LLP.

BRIAN McNAMEE

McNamee's wife, Donna, is a registered nurse at Boston Medical Center. They have a daughter, Maura, 6.

McNamee said he is committed to restoring focus on neighborhood concerns, reasoned development with emphasis on preserving existing ecosystems, and a promise of "no fence straddling" and to provide leadership equal to the expectations of the community.

McNamee said chief among his positions is his insistence on Ward 6 senior preference for Squantum Gardens. He added that he encourages a plan that would insure seniors with high, low, and median income levels have access to retirement housing at Squantum Gardens, saying the current plan does not properly include seniors with more modest retirement incomes.

A kick-off event and fund-raiser will be held Friday, Aug. 1 at 7 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Hancock St., North Quincy.

Congressional Medal Society Presents Citizens Award To Flatley

The Congressional Medal of Honor Society, U.S.A. presented its Distinguished Citizens Award to Thomas J. Flatley, president of The Flatley Co., last night (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. at the Sheraton-Tara Hotel in Braintree.

Flatley, the first Massachusetts resident to receive the award, was honored for the outstanding work he did for veterans of all wars and his support of veterans programs.

The award was presented by Charles A. MacGillivary of Braintree, a former Quincy resident and past national president of the society.

The Congressional Medal of Honor Society, U.S.A. is made up of members who served in the armed services and received the Congressional Medal of Honor, which has a National Charter from Congress and is the highest award that can be bestowed on someone serving in the U.S. armed services.

Dear Colonial Federal Customer:

Beginning on Monday, July 7, the main office of Colonial Federal Savings Bank, 15 Beach Street, next to the Wollaston Post Office, will begin a parking lot expansion, renovation and beautification. This is scheduled to take three weeks to complete and may cause a temporary inconvenience for our customers. Please accept my apology in advance. Be assured Colonial's employees will continue to service you efficiently with both courtesy and respect.

As President of Colonial Federal, I take great pride in the appearance of the Bank, and the additional parking will make banking even easier for our customers.

Sincerely,
Robert Guarnieri

Accent On Good Buys, Good Entertainment

Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival Opens Today

The 27th annual Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival, featuring good buys and family entertainment, opens today (Thursday) for a three-day run through Saturday.

The event, sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association (QCBPA), will be held on Hancock St. which will be closed off to vehicular traffic between Granite and School Sts.

As in the past, shoppers will be able to stroll down Hancock St. looking over merchandise on the sidewalk in front of participating stores.

QCBPA Executive Director Maralin Manning said the event should be fun for all ages.

"We're looking forward to making the 27th annual festival the biggest and the best ever," she said.

Entertainment and other activities are scheduled for 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. all three days.

Mayor James Sheets has been invited to attend the opening ceremonies which will begin today at 10 a.m.

Nearly 100 canopied booths and other attractions will dot Hancock St., giving it a festival appearance for the three days. In all, more than 50 QCBPA member stores and businesses will participate along with other organizations.

A "Center Stage" for entertainers and musical units will be set up in the middle of Hancock St. across from Cottage Ave.

New performers this year will include Calamity Jane who will present "How the West Was Fun" today, magician John Stetson who will perform Friday, the Riverside Theatre Group which will present a Broadway Revue Saturday, and others.

Among the returning entertainment will be the country-western band Blue Hill Kickers and WKLV-FM DJ Barry Wood today, a demonstration by O'Malley's Boxing Gymnasium on Friday and a tae kwon do demonstration by Jae Kim Institute as well as a team demonstration by Wah Lum Kung Fu on Saturday.

WJDA Radio (1300 AM) will broadcast from the festival all three days. In addition, Quincy Access Television will film footage for a program to be aired at a later date.

Other three-day features will include a Norfolk County Drug-Sniffing Dog Demonstration, Crime Prevention Booth, Madeline and Paddington Bear, children's rides, pony rides, artists and crafters, caricature artists, and vendor booths.

Scheduled events:

THURSDAY

•Opening ceremonies, 10 a.m.

•Norfolk County Dog Demonstration, 10:30 a.m.

•Calamity Jane's "How the West Was Fun," 2 p.m.

•Country Western Program featuring the Blue Hill Kickers and WKLV-FM DJ Barry Wood, 6 to 9 p.m.

FRIDAY

•Norfolk County Dog Demonstration, 10:30 a.m.

•Noontime Live Concert featuring the White Heat Swing Orchestra, noon.

•Magic Show featuring magician John Stetson, 2 p.m.

•"Friday Night Fights" Amateur and Pro Boxing Demonstration, 6 p.m.

•Live Band Concert featuring the Quincy Alumni Band, 7 p.m.

SATURDAY

•Norfolk County Dog Demonstration, 10 a.m.

•Jae Kim Institute's Tae Kwon Do Professional Demonstration, 10:30 a.m.

•Live Concert featuring The Crossing, 1 p.m.

•Wah Lum Kung Fu's Team Demonstration, 2:30 p.m.

•Live Concert featuring The Crossing, 3:30 p.m.

•Broadway Revue featuring the Riverside Theatre Group and an All-Day Boyd's Bear Open House at Abigail's Crossing.

HANCOCK ST. WILL become a shoppers mall once again today (Thursday) as the 27th annual Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival opens for a three-day run. Here is a look at last year's scene. (Sun photo/Robert Noble)

Hancock St. Closed During Sidewalk Festival

Hancock St. from Granite to School Sts. will be closed to vehicular traffic for a three-day period during the Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival.

That section of Hancock St. is scheduled to be closed from midnight yesterday (Wednesday) through midnight Saturday.

The area will be a "no parking tow zone" during that time.

The festival opens today and will continue Friday and Saturday. Activities each day will begin at 10 a.m. and end around 9 p.m.

However, during the three-day period, time will be allowed for festival participants to bring in and set up various attractions, a stage, booths, and equipment, as well as time for dismantling them when the festival was over.

Abigail's Crossing Plans Sidewalk Festival Events

Two special events will be held by Abigail's Crossing during the annual Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival.

The events will be located at a special booth on Hancock St. between Granite and School Sts.

Children's author Richard Wainwright will be on hand to greet customers and sign his books today (Thursday) from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. A number of Wainwright's books have won the Gold and Silver Benjamin Franklin Children's Book Awards.

On Friday at noon, a handcarved wooden Santa demonstration featuring Howard Bristow will be held. Bristow will show step-by-step how he fashions a collectible Santa from a piece of wood, unveil his 1997 collection, and autograph pieces for customers.

For more information about either event, call Abigail's at 472-5667.

Festival Committee

Jeff Bertman of Rogers Jewelry is chairman of the QCBPA Promotions Committee that planned the Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival.

Other committee members are:

Henry Bosworth, The Quincy Sun; Joanne Falco, Professional Cuts; Nancy McArdle, Hancock Tobacco; Bill Morrill, Creative Fairs; QCBPA Executive Director Maralin Manning and QCBPA Administrative Assistant Marie Watts.

USS Constitution Clock To Be Displayed At Sidewalk Festival

One of the most impressive attractions that can be viewed at this year's Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival is a wall clock created from materials taken from the USS Constitution in Charlestown.

The clock, which is on display at Stephen Leigh Jewelers in Quincy Center, is composed of copper taken from the Constitution's hull and is mounted on a plaque made of wood from the ship. In addition, it features the engraved likeness of the historic vessel.

"It's really a spectacular thing to look at," said Steve Blumberg of Stephen Leigh Jewelers.

The clock was designed by Chelsea Clock Co. in Chelsea, which Blumberg said is the last continuing manufacturing clockmaker in the United States. The company decided to come up with the special design in honor of the upcoming 200th anniversary of the Constitution.

The plaque was created by the Thomas Moser Furniture Co. of Maine.

Blumberg said that in keeping with the bicentennial theme, Chelsea Clock Co. made only 200 clocks and distributed them to its Boston-area dealers in April. In addition, only so much material could be taken from the ship, which is refurbished only occasionally.

Blumberg noted at press time that Stephen Leigh, the most successful of the clock company's limited clock dealers, originally received

Rhyme 'n Reason To Hold Sidewalk Festival Activities

Rhyme 'n Reason, a specialty toy store at 1253 Hancock St., will participate in the 27th annual Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival with a special booth located on Hancock St. between Granite and School Sts.

A wide assortment of products will be available for purchase, some at 20 to 50 percent discount.

Ongoing activities throughout the three days will include a variety of child-oriented crafts, games and raffles. Items to be raffled include an American Girl Doll furniture set, a Woodtown vehicle set, and a Beanie Baby assortment.

Hands-on activities will be available all three days. There will be games to play and prizes awarded. Craft projects will vary daily and face-painting will be offered at various times.

Enchantments To Celebrate Anniversary At Sidewalk Festival

Enchantments, a new children's specialty store located in downtown Quincy, will celebrate its sixth-month anniversary during this year's Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival.

The store carries a complete selection of infant/layette and toddler fashions, ranging in style from classic to contemporary.

Enchantments will have a booth set up on Hancock St. between Granite and School Sts. during the festival. It will include a variety of merchandise at discount prices, "Celebrate Quincy" t-shirts, and prizes that will be raffled off including monogrammed baby blankets and gift certificates.

The store will offer 50 percent off summer outfits and 20 percent storewide savings.

USS Constitution Clock To Be Displayed At Sidewalk Festival

85 of the clocks and already has sold 60.

"I hope they're not all gone before the Sidewalk Festival," he said with a laugh.

Blumberg said the clock strikes ship's bell time--not regular time--and is priced at $1,997 at Stephen Leigh. In Maine, he noted, it is selling for as much as $2,500.

Just in case anyone is concerned about the authenticity of the clock's origin, Blumberg said it comes with a document signed by officials from the USS Constitution Museum as well as the Chelsea Clock Co., which recently celebrated its own centennial.

"It's a viable collector for the future," said Blumberg. "And they've been selling like wildfire."

Blumberg said he is working through various channels to see if he can present one of the clocks to President Clinton, who will be in Massachusetts to see "Old Ironsides" sail for the first time in more than 100 years July 21 in honor of its bicentennial.

"It's a pretty big thing," he said of the clock. "I think it's good publicity not only for my store, but for the City of Quincy."

For more information about the clock, visit Stephen Leigh Jewelers or call Blumberg at 471-4824.

Landscape Preservation Program Established

The Department of Environmental Management has established and will administer a new Historic Landscape Preservation Grants Program, announces state Rep. Michael Bellotti.

"The program will be managed by DEM's Office of Historic Resources and will award grants of up to $50,000 to Massachusetts municipalities to support projects that will help preserve and rehabilitate historic parks and landscapes," he said.

The program is a state-funded, competitive grant program established this year to support the preservation and restoration of historic landscapes listed or, in certain cases, eligible for listing in the National Register of Historic Places.

"Many publicly-owned landscapes across the state are over a century old and are suffering from continued non-maintenance and limited ability by municipalities to pay the cost of upkeep and/or restoration," said Bellotti. "I am pleased to know that this program will ensure preservation and revitalization of these treasured resources."

The criteria for project selection for the program is as follows:

•Level of historical significance of the property.

•Demonstrated commitment by the municipality to preserve the fabric and original intent of its historic parks and landscapes.

•Demonstration of threat to site.

•Community support and public benefit.

•Ability to leverage private and public investment for long-term improvement of site.

•Municipality to provide matching funds of no less than 30 percent and no more than 48 percent of the cost of the project.

•Universal accessibility.

•Municipality's financial need for funding.

•The ability to administer the grant fund program.

Deadline for application is Aug. 15. To apply, call Bellotti's office at 722-2582 or the DEM at 727-3160, ext. 519.

Rotary Club Donates $1,750 To Four Programs

The Quincy Rotary Club recently donated $1,750 to several Quincy programs.

They include: the Quincy Christmas Festival Parade Committee, $500; Kids Votes '97, $500; Quincy Middle Schools, $500 and Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore, $250.

The donations are the beginning this year of the approximately $14,000 the club distributes annually.

ICE YOUR SECOND REFRIGERATOR

Don't Wait!

With concerns about potential power shortages for New England this summer, Massachusetts Electric is bringing back this popular customer opportunity for a limited time. Now's the time to help reduce energy usage while you save on your electric bill.

Call us and we'll pick it up free

1·800·962·3939

Your second refrigerator or freezer could be costing you as much as $200 a year on your electric bill.

If you have a second refrigerator or freezer, and the only thing in it is a forgotten six-pack of soda or a vintage quart of ice cream, we can help you save as much as $200 a year on your electric bill.

Massachusetts Electric's Free Appliance Removal is a great way to save money, protect the environment, and tidy up your garage or basement at the same time.

We'll come to your home when it's convenient for you, remove your second refrigerator or freezer, and it won't cost you a dime. Plus, you can feel good knowing we'll recycle your appliance's parts in an environmentally responsible manner.

If you're a Massachusetts Electric residential customer who owns a second refrigerator or freezer, you're eligible for Free Appliance Removal. All we ask is that the appliance be standard-sized, cold at pick-up, and in Massachussetts Electric's service area. Program ends September 30, 1997.

City Council Passes $4.4M Bond Package

ties. The work will consist of three new soccer fields--one at the Mound Street Beach and two on Quarry Street--eight or nine tot lots across the city, improvements to Faxon Park, and more.

Each of the bond issues passed unanimously except the one pertaining to the concourse engineering services, which passed 8-1. Councillor-at-Large Paul Harold said he was uncomfortable with the thought of spending nearly half a million dollars on the long-awaited downtown project.

Sheets has said he is confident the city can afford to bond for the projects, saying even with the new bond package, the city's next annual payment for reimbursement of bonded money will remain below 5 percent of the total city budget for the fiscal year--the goal Quincy has set for itself in paying off bonds.

Sheets said in Fiscal Year 1998, which began July 1, the city will make a payment of about $6.9 million on money it has bonded. The percentage of the budget paid during the fiscal year, which includes the new bond package, totals about 4.8 or 4.9 percent of the city budget, he said.

City Auditor Robert Foy backed that statement at Monday night's council meeting, saying the amount should indeed remain below 5 percent.

Raymondi Community Policing Law Passed

layer of support, not another layer of bureaucracy."

Representatives from the police patrolmen's and superior officers' unions also said they, in general, back the ordinance. They said they soon will discuss related contract changes with Mayor James Sheets and other city officials to ensure the more flexible patrol hours and duties required by community policing do not violate the city's labor agreements.

The commission members, appointed by the mayor unless otherwise noted, will include the city's police and fire chiefs, park department executive director, recreation director, superintendent of schools, community policing captain, police patrolmen's union president and a community police officer appointed by the police chief.

Others will include the executive director of the Quincy Housing Authority, a representative of the Probation Department of Quincy District Court appointed by the court's presiding justice, an individual from the Norfolk County Sheriff's Department appointed by the sheriff, a representative from the Massachusetts Division of Social Services, and an individual from the Norfolk County district attorney's office appointed by the district attorney.

In addition, the mayor will appoint three private members from the following: court system, social service agencies and clergy.

There also will be three neighborhood representatives from a community policing area appointed by the mayor upon the recommendation of the community police officer.

The following individuals shall be "resources" to the board: public works commissioner, planning director, health commissioner, director of inspectional services and business leaders.

The commission will be headed by an executive director--the only paid member of the group--a Quincy resident who will be selected, and whose salary will be determined, by the mayor. The police chief will serve as chairman of the commission.

The members of the commission will pool together their resources to assist the police department in its crime prevention, community policing and problem-solving efforts.

Raymondi twice amended his original proposal for the commission, which was formally introduced in March, after receiving including from city officials, members of the police department and the public, and others. Among the changes were the selection of the police chief as commission chairman and the inclusion of additional law enforcement personnel.

"What was passed is much better than what I initially proposed," he said after the meeting.

Raymondi also said he hopes the group can be formed as soon as possible and hold its first meeting in September.

Community policing is a concept that harkens back to the days of the "cop on the beat" who would regularly patrol a neighborhood on foot, get to know the residents and help them with their problems.

Currently, Germantown is the only Quincy neighborhood to utilize community police officers. However, Brewer's Corner in West Quincy will become part of the community policing program in November, and Quincy Point may get community officers next year.

Kevin's At The Heritage Opens

THE GRAND OPENING of Kevin's At The Heritage, Quincy's newest restaurant at 1495 Hancock St., was a night for smiles for owner Kevin Cadigan and his wife, Beth.

Convenience Store Hours Cut Back By License Board

Gorman said he sees "no purpose to the general public, but only headaches to the neighbors."

Gorman requested the roll back.

Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi agreed with Gorman and strongly urged the board to try to "restore peace and harmony to the neighborhood" stating that the board has the authority to do so.

He said the store was once a house, and is in such close contact with houses in the area that the "quality of their life has been disrupted."

Both the manager of the 7-Eleven and a representative from the company could not convince the board that there was not a problem.

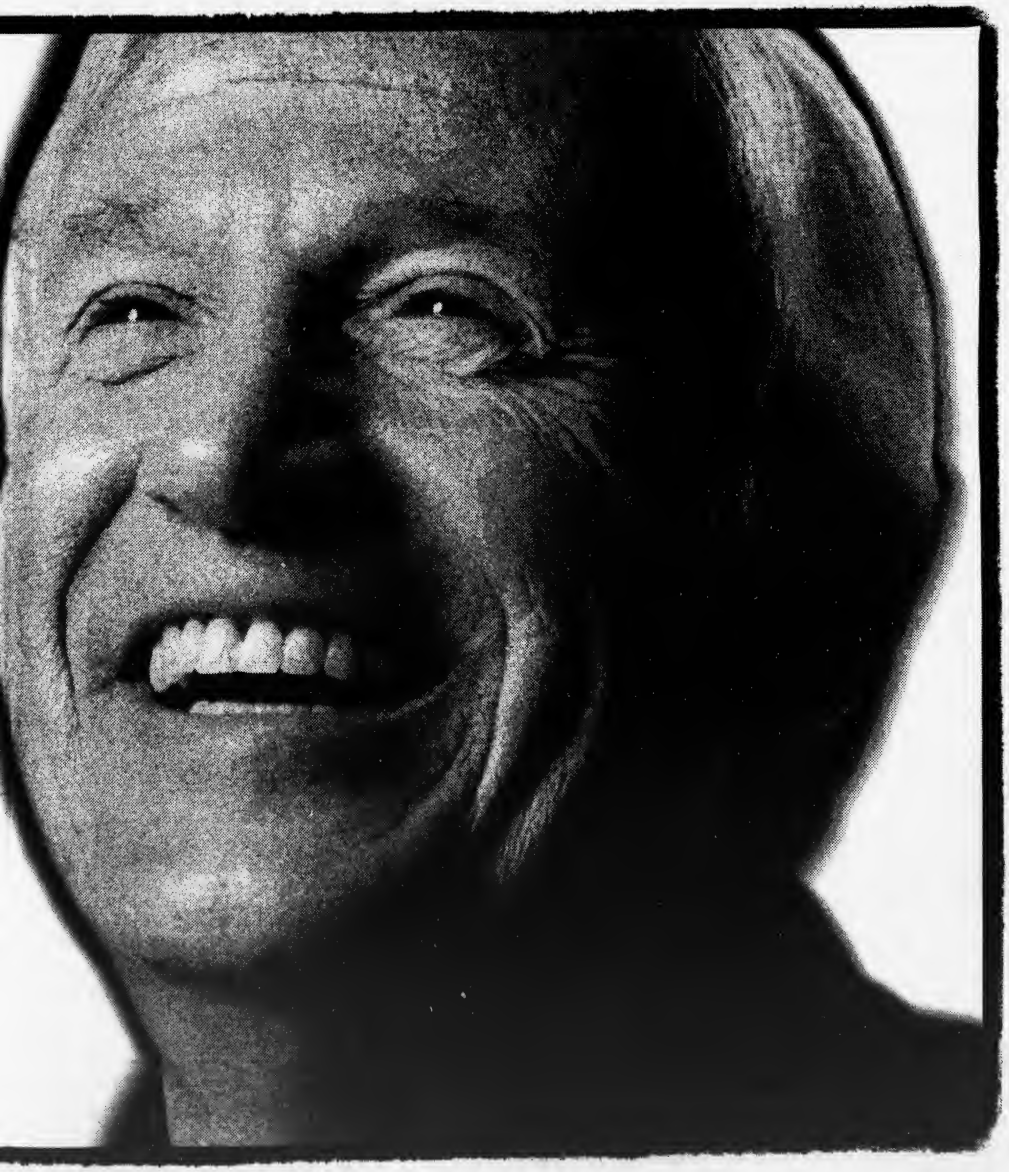
Police Chief Francis Mullen said he was concerned about "safety" where the store is so close to neighbors.

Owner Dhananjay Patel said he usually calls the police if there is a problem.

Chairman Joseph Shea promised to speak to BFI, and also to look into changing signs on Pearl Street either limiting parking or no parking.

Shea told Patel that the decision is reviewable.

Sophia Kapsaskis Receives National Collegiate Award



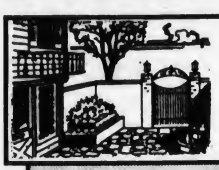
The United States Achievement Academy announces that Sophia A. Kapsaskis of Quincy has been named a United States Collegiate Award winner in American Government.

This award is considered a prestigious honor as the Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American college students.

Kapsaskis, who attends Northeastern University, was nominated for the award by Gerald Herman, a professor at the college.

The Academy selects winners upon the exclusive recommendation by professors, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a professor or college official..

Kapsaskis is the daughter of Anastasios and Maruoula Kapsaskis of Quincy.



Three Residents Receive Thayer Academy Awards

Three Quincy residents were recently presented awards at Thayer Academy's recent commencement.

They are:

Daniel Flynn, Member of the Class of 1997, Gilbert A. Booth Commencement Award; William Connoly, Class of 1999, Latin Prize I; and Victoria Caliacco, Class of 2000, Most Improved Freshman English Students.

The awards recognize high school students who excel academically, athletically, artistically, and who are committed to community service.

$40,000 For Quincy First-Time Homebuyers

State Sen. Michael Morrissey and Reps. Michael Bellotti, Ronald Mariano and Stephen Tobin announce that Quincy will receive $40,000 in Soft Second Loan Program funds.

The program is an initiative to promote affordable ownership opportunities to low and moderate first-time homebuyers. Since 1990, more than 2,300 homeowners statewide already have been assisted by the program and several hundred more will receive assistance this year.

"Many hard-working families who have been unable in the past to invest in a new home will now be able to do so," said Morrissey.

To be eligible for the Soft Second Loan Program, first-time homebuyers must comply to specific conditions. Loan closings for approved Soft Second buyers must take place no later than Jan. 31, 1998. If the closings do not occur by that date, then funding for those buyers will be canceled, the funds recaptured and redistributed to other communities.

"Grants are only given to cities and towns that can prove that lower and middle-income families can afford to purchase homes there," said Bellotti.

The size of each communities' grant is based on an in-depth study conducted by the MHP, which receives requests from communities who are interested in being part of the program.

"The MHP decides on whether or not to award grants to each community based on various statistics, such as a community's per capita income, availability of housing, average price for buying a house and whether the program has been successful in the past," said Mariano.

Individual buyers can inquire about the program through local city local banks and real estate agents. People who have put in a request to reserve funds from the program are then required to find a home to purchase within 30 days. The MHP works with over 40 participating banks which will receive the grant money directly from the MHP and apply it to the homebuyer's loan.

"The City of Quincy has been a recipient of this highly-successful program for several years," said Tobin.

Signature Signs Repairs Signage At Beechwood

Signature Signs recently donated the maintenance and repair of the signage at Beechwood on the Bay, the city's community life center, as part of the partnership between the two.

Beechwood, located at 440 East Squantum St., is a non-profit organization that prides itself on being self-supporting, according to Beechwood Executive Director Sharron Beals.

"We attribute an important part of our success to partnerships with private businesses in the local community," she said.

Beechwood and Signature Signs have worked in partnership for a number of years. The company was instrumental in designing and constructing Beechwood's sign at the center's current location when it moved from its original Fenno Street address.

"We designed our sign's marine look two years ago," said Beals. "Chris Wilson from Signature Signs procured the two pilings from Boston Harbor. We have wonderful photos of a gigantic crane lifting those pilings into the Quincy-bound truck."

For more information about Beechwood and its programs, call 471-5712.

Family Vacation --Fun & Safety

BEFORE YOU LEAVE

Preventing crime during family travel starts with making sure your home is protected while you're away. The key is to make it look like you never left:

- Keep shades and blinds in their normal positions.
- Stop mail and newspapers, or ask a neighbor to pick them up every day.
- Put timers on several household lights so they turn on and off at the appropriate times.
- Arrange to have grass mowed (or snow shoveled), while you're gone.
- Make sure all your door and window locks are in working order--and use them. Activate your home alarm (if you have one).

You might even leave a radio on--or put it on a timer. Ask a neighbor to park in your driveway overnight--anything that might suggest someone's home. And don't forget to lock all doors and windows when you leave.

PACKING FOR PREVENTION

Preparing for a family trip requires a lot of planning. You need to decide where you're going, where you'll stay and how you'll get from one place to another. You also need to decide what to take with you. Planning can decrease the changes of crime joining you on your journey. Some tips on what to take:

- Clean out your wallet or purse before you go; take only essential credit cards. Plan to use credit cards or travelers checks instead of cash wherever possible.
- Carry your purse close to your body, or your wallet in an inside front pocket. Better yet, take a "funny pack" or wear a money pouch under your clothes.
- Pack as lightly as possible. Lots of heavy, cumbersome bags will slow you down and make you more vulnerable to getting robbed.
- Expensive, designer luggage can draw unneeded attention to your belongings. Pack your things in inconspicuous bags.
- Keep a separate record of the contents of checked luggage. And keep anything of value such as medicine or jewelry in a carry-on that stays with you.
- If you are going on an extended vacation, consider shipping large bags to your destination in advance. For the return trip, mail bulky new purchases home, or ask merchants to do it for you.

NEXT WEEK: TRAVELING SAFELY

'Anti-Environmental Bill' Put Into Study By Committee

A bill MASSPIRG officials are calling "the most anti-environmental bill filed on Beacon Hill this year" was put into a long-term study last week by members of the legislature's Natural Resources Committee.

The action effectively ends the campaign of chemical manufacturers and industrial polluters who were attempting to repeal the state's landmark Toxics Use Reduction Act, according to opponents of the bill, including Sen. Michael Morrissey and Rep. Michael Bellotti.

"This vote is a huge victory for the people of Massachusetts," said Paul Burns, environmental attorney with MASSPIRG. "Rep. Bellotti and Sen. Morrissey's support for the nation's best pollution prevention law was crucial to our achieving this success. They courageously stood up to the special interests who were scheming for a way to once again keep their use of toxic chemicals a secret from the public."

The Toxics Use Reduction Act (TURA) was passed unanimously by the Legislature in 1989. A recent comprehensive evaluation of the law found that it was a significant factor in helping businesses to reduce their use of toxic chemicals by 20 percent between 1990-1995. Businesses also reported a 30 percent decline in the generation of hazardous waste, and a 67 percent drop in toxics emitted directly into the environment.

The study also showed that businesses had a net savings of at least $14 million as a result of the law. The overall economic benefits of TURA are presumed to be much greater since the study did not take into account the value of improved safety for workers and the public, and the protection of environmental resources.

"Who would possibly want to repeal a law that protects public health while saving businesses money? The answer is giant chemical manufacturers who want to keep the public in the dark and businesses addicted to the products they make - namely toxic chemicals," said Burns.

TURA is strongly supported by environmentalists, public health professionals, labor interests and Weld Administration officials, along with a healthy majority of legislators. The vote in committee was 11-5 in favor of putting the bill, sponsored by Rep. George Peterson (R-Grafton), into a study.

Hosts Playoff Opener Friday

Morrisette Gears Up For Zone 6 Postseason

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Outstanding starting and relief pitching, combined with consistent, timely hitting and a deep, talented bench has resulted in a successful regular season for the 1997 Morrisette American Legion baseball team.

Now with the Zone 6 playoffs slated to start Friday, Morrisette sets its sights on a successful playoff run.

"We did have a great regular season, with a lot of contributions from a bunch of guys," said Morrisette manager Ray Cattaneo, "but now we have to shift our focus to the playoffs. This is the time when we need to play our best ball, and if we do, we should go pretty far."

Morrisette's first round opponent was undetermined as of press time, but Cattaneo said there was a "strong possibility" that it would be Walpole. Morrisette will host the best two-of-three series opener Friday at 8 p.m. at Adams Field.

Morrisette will likely be on the road for the second game Saturday and would host a third game Sunday, if necessary. Game times were unavailable as of press time.

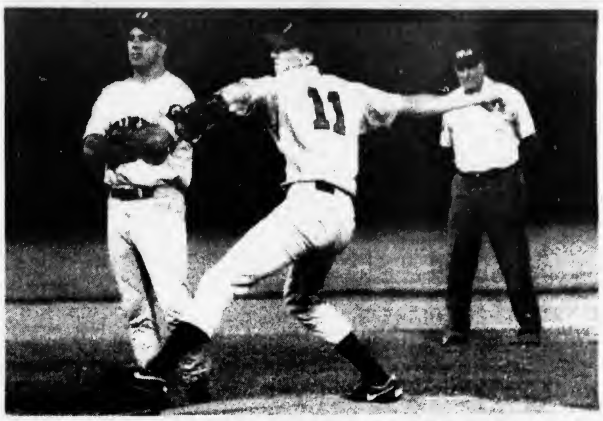
Tuning up for the playoffs, Morrisette played its regular season finale against Randolph last night (Wednesday) at 8 at Adams Field. Tuesday, Morrisette visited Milton.

Ryan Herlihy notched his fifth win, scattering three hits over six innings and fanning 10 as Morrisette romped over host Canton, 12-4, Monday evening. The win improved Morrisette's record to 15-3.

Herlihy (5-0), who has 56 strikeouts in 33 innings, yielded two earned runs on five hits and enters the playoffs with a 2.33 ERA. Chad Feetham hurled a scoreless seventh, giving up two hits, striking out two and walking none to close out the victory.

Pacing the potent Morrisette offense were Rob Celata, who improved his average to a remarkable .739 (17-for-23) with three hits and drove in a run, and Jim Cunio, who smashed Morrisette's first home run this year, a three-run blast over the left-field fence. Other contributors included Erik Fagan (two for four), Brian Beaton (two for two, RBI), Ray Cattaneo (RBI single), Bill Walker (RBI single) and Steve Maze (RBI double).

Last Saturday, Morrisette suffered just its third loss when host Weymouth built a 5-0 fourth-inning lead en route to an 8-3 triumph.



Morrisette starter Mark Kelly was charged with the loss, his first of the season. In six and a third innings, he yielded eight runs (six earned) on seven hits, fanned three and walked three. With two on and one out in the seventh, John Sullivan relieved Kelly and retired the two batters he faced to end the threat.

Only able to manage five hits, Morrisette was paced offensively by Celata (three hits) and Beaton (two hits, triple, RBI).

Morrisette made it a season sweep over Quincy with a 15-0 victory last Friday at Adams Field. In his first start of the season, Cattaneo fired a complete-game four-hitter with four strikeouts and just two walks. Despite four errors behind him, Cattaneo held Quincy scoreless and ended four innings with clutch strikeouts.

QUINCY HEAD COACH Larry Taglieri (left) keeps an eye on reliever Mike Eddy as he fires a warm-up pitch. Eddy, the third pitcher of last Friday's game against Morrisette, settled down and held the visitors scoreless through the middle innings. However, Quincy could not figure out Morrisette's Ray Cattaneo, who scattered just four hits while going the distance.

Quincy Players, Coaches Represent Sheriffs At Fenway

Four Quincy players and three Quincy coaches represented the Quincy Sheriffs at the annual Yawkey Baseball League of Boston's All-Star game at Fenway Park yesterday (Wednesday).

The game was scheduled to begin at 10:30 a.m. Children under 12 were admitted for free, while admission for those over 12 was $3. Tickets were available at the gate.

Players Bob Austin, Jon Gangi, Steve Higgins and Malachy Higgins were selected to the Stewart Division All-Star team, which was coached by Sheriffs manager Al Julian, assistant manager Chris Higgins and pitching coach Randy Hoblitzelle. Joining the staff at the game was Sheriffs' batboy Eric O'Dea, also of Quincy.

Entering the All-Star break, the Sheriffs held the best record (19-3) of any Yawkey League squad, meaning the Sheriffs' coaching staff would coach the Stewart Division All-Stars.

The Sheriffs are the only team in the league with a squad comprised of only Quincy residents.

Quincy Hosts N.E. Babe Ruth Baseball Tournament Next Month

Next month, the Quincy Babe Ruth League will host the New England Babe Ruth Baseball Tournament for 14-year-olds at Adams Field in Quincy.

The tournament, which will be double elimination, will include all-star teams from Connecticut, Rhode Island, Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine, and Massachusetts, including a team from Quincy.

The Quincy Babe Ruth Tournament Committee has begun a fund-raising drive, and part of the efforts will be an advertisement book which will help play for various expenses such as umpires, tournament fees, and trophies.

For more information about the Quincy BRL and where to send a donation and/or place an ad, call 770-2789 or send donations to Quincy Babe Ruth, 1495 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169.

Five Quincy Firms To Compete In Chase Corporate Challenge

Five Quincy firms will be represented at the 14th annual Chase Corporate Challenge in Boston, a 3.5-mile road race held tonight (Thursday) at 7.

Entrants from Arthur J. Gallagher, North Quincy; Baron, Campbell, Kido & Pyne, LLP, Quincy; Boston Financial Data Services Inc., North Quincy; Murphy, Hesse, Tooney & Lehane, Quincy; and O'Conner and Drew, Quincy, will compete in the race which starts and finishes on Charles St. between the Boston Common and the Public Garden.

More than 10,000 runners representing nearly 500 companies are expected to compete. Boston is the third largest race in the Chase Corporate Challenge Series, trailing only New York City and Chicago.

fielder Matt McLoughlin, who had suffered a broken jaw just 16 days earlier. With his jaw wired shut and a mask covering his face, McLoughlin pinch-hit for Cunio in the fifth and reached on a fielder's choice. In the sixth, he grounded out to the pitcher.

"It's nice to have Matty back, but it will be a while before he's back at full strength," said Cattaneo. "Since the injury, he's lost 10 pounds and has a tough time breathing when he runs. He could have the wires taken out within a week, and once that happens, he'll be able to start eating, get his strength back and breathe easier.

"Hopefully if we get by the first round of the playoffs, he'll be ready. He's hit the ball hard since he's been back, which is a great sign, and he's been a tremendous presence in the dugout."

Once again, Morrisette's offense came alive for a huge inning, this time for a nine-run third that put the game out of reach. Celata (two hits, two RBI, two runs) singled in a run and drove in another with a fielder's choice, Maze (two hits, three RBI, three runs) and Fagan each forced in a run with bases-loaded walks, Eric Wirtz and Beaton each singled in two runs, and Cunio singled in a run.

Last Wednesday, Celata and Feetham combined on a four-hitter as Morrisette edged host Milton, 3-1. Feetham picked up his second win in relief, pitching two and a third scoreless innings, yielding one hit and one walk. He came on with the game tied 1-1 in the fifth and induced a Milton hitter to ground out, ending the threat.

Celata was also impressive, tossing four and two-thirds innings, allowing an unearned run, three hits, three walks and recording six strikeouts.

Trailing 1-0 in the sixth, Morrisette strung together three hits and two walks and scored three runs. Fagan doubled and scored on a double by Beaton (two for four, RBI). Cunio and Sullivan walked, Beaton scored on wild pitch and Marnikovic (two for three, RBI) singled in Sullivan. Bregoli added a hit for the winners.

Last Tuesday, Herlihy fired a complete-game five-hitter with 12 strikeouts to spark Morrisette over host Quincy, 6-3. Herlihy struggled early, allowing two first-inning runs, then settled down with three 1-2-3 innings, including striking out the side in the second.

STEERING IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

Before owners of older cars submit them for wheel alignments to correct a pull to one side on flat roads or uneven tire wear, they should have their cars' steering components examined. Cars that have been driven for 75,000 miles or more are likely to have endured significant wear to such steering components as ball joints, tie rod ends, and control arm bushings. Before a wheel alignment is undertaken, it makes sense to verify that no excess wear is present in any steering parts and that no parts are bent or otherwise damaged. If an alignment is performed on an automobile having one or more of these problems, the car may steer well for a time, but will then likely start to pull to one side shortly thereafter or develop other steering difficulties.

HINT: If a car sags to one side, it usually indicates a weak or broken spring.

Next time you need work done on any system, including its steering system, bring your car into LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO. Our ASE Certified technicians and our availability of parts will assure you of a job well done. We're proud of our staff and you can trust us to get you back on the road quickly. We're conveniently located at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (843-1550). We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Sunoco and most major credit cards honored. L St. Running Club Hosts Sugar Bowl Race July 24

The L Street Running Club, which includes a number of Quincy runners, will host the 10th annual Sugar Bowl 5 Miler Road Race Thursday, July 24 at 6:30 p.m.

The race will begin at the Bayside Expo Center in Dorchester (Exit 15 off Route 95). Plenty of free parking will be available for participants.

Helping to celebrate this year's race will be WCVB Channel 5's Amalia Barreta, WFXT FOX 25's Rosiland Jordan and WLVI Channel 56's Mike Wankum. Special guests will be New England road racing legends Dick and Rick Hoyt.

The field is expected to surpass previous years' 1,300 participants, making this the largest Sugar Bowl 5 Miler ever.

A post-race party and raffle will be held at 7:30 p.m. with all registered runners eligible. A food court will be open to all participants and prizes will be presented to the top three in a total of 10 divisions for both male and female runners.

Applications are available at the Curley Recreation Center in South Boston, at many health clubs and gyms in Greater Boston or by calling (617) 331-1761. Cost is $10 for all applications postmarked by July 19 and $12 after that date. Race day registration will be held at the Bayside Expo Center from 4:30 to 6 p.m.

As in the past, all proceeds are given to local charities supported by the Running Club.

Summer Breeze League Begins; Openings Remain For New Players

Quincy Girls Softball's Dorothy Quincy Division recently kicked off its new Summer Breeze League at Faxon Field.

The game quickly turned into a hit parade with the Blue team coming out on top. Sheila Cawley, Maura Donovan and Julianna Eagles each scored four runs. Alyssa Hawksley, Emily Bularzik, Lauren Kreckie, Christine Perry, Cassie Hurd, Shannon Paine, Nicole Lewis and Rebi and Rachel Sorenson all helped pace the tremendous Blue offensive attack.

For the Pink, Julie Rackauskas, Korey Verhault, Ashley Nee, Beth Goodrich, Caroline Dondero, Maria McGinness, Caitlyn Terwilliger, Brianna Nolan, Jen Cannon and Lisa Schifone contributed to the hit barrage. Katelyn and Amanda Murphy played well defensively.

There are still a number of openings for any girl 10 to 12 years of age who would like to play. Games are held every Tuesday at Faxon Park. Cost for the season is $35, $5 per game plus $8 for a t-shirt. For more information, call Denise at 472-9023.

Camera Camp Registration Underway

Barry Welch, director, announces the Quincy Recreation Department is accepting registration for its Camera Camp, which will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays from July 22-31.

Registration will be taken on a first come, first serve basis at the Recreation Department, 100 Southern Artery, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Camera Camp is a basic, hands-on photographic approach for participants to learn and understand photo techniques and fundamentals. Demonstrations, lectures, and actual photo sessions will provide participants with instruction in the use of a camera, film, light, and composition. Subjects may include landscape, local events, sites, and people. Finished works will be displayed for the general public. Participants should bring their own camera or may obtain a one-time use camera for $8.

Under the direction of Presidential Camera owner John Black, the camp is open to boys and girls entering grades 3-6. The camp will be held at the Recreation Department Community Room from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Cost is $20, which includes processing and printing of a 24-print roll of color film.

For more information, call the Recreation Office at 376-1354.

Robert D. Picciano of Quincy has been named to the Dean's List for the spring semester at Nichols College in Dudley.

A member of the Class of 1998, he is majoring in marketing at the college.

Picciano is the son of Tom and Carol Callahan of 32 Gridley St. and a graduate of North Quincy High School.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

Burke Club, Beacon Sports Claim Playoff Victories

The George Burke Club opened defense of its back-to-back Quincy Youth Baseball Junior League titles with playoff victories over Keohane's and the Jaehnig Chiropractic Club.

In Burke's 12-10 win over Keohane's, Dan Cosgrove pitched a complete-game victory, striking out seven while yielding one walk and three earned runs. Burke opened up a close game in the fourth when it erupted for seven runs by sending 11 men to the plate.

Following walks to Mark Dondero (two walks, single) and Bill Cosgrove (two for three, two walks) and singles by Dan Cosgrove (two for three, two walks) and Sean Moriarty (two hits), Brian Rooney scored the winning run when Frankie McKenna reached on a fielder's choice. The Cosgroves combined for four RBI.

Chris Dolbeare paced Keohane's with two doubles, a single and two RBI. Adam Terlaje pitched well in relief.

Brian Rooney tossed a complete game as Burke topped the Jaehnig Club, 13-8. Burke's defense was excellent, accounting for 16 putouts by the infield, including a 4-6-3 double play in the fifth by Dan and Bill Cosgrove at short and second and Steve O'Brien at first.

The Cosgroves also accounted for six putouts at second base. Other defensive stars included catcher Sean Moriarty, Randy Jacobs, Frankie McKenna and Stratz. Billy Cox and Jake O'Donnell also played well for Burke.

Dan Cosgrove sparked Burke offensively with two doubles, a single and two RBI. Mark Dondero added two hits and scored three runs. Burke took the lead for good following singles by Rooney and Randy Jacobs, then Steve Stratz (two hits) thrilled the crowd with a triple to deep left.

Dave Butts led the Jaehnig Club with three hits, while Mark Tobin played solid defense at second and Derek Keezer pitched very well in relief.

In other recent playoff action, a six-run outburst in the fifth inning propelled Beacon Sports over Jaehnig Chiropractic, 8-4.

Winning pitcher Dean Sandonato fanned eight and was supported offensively by Matt Grazioso (two hits, including a double), Bruce Maggio (two hits), Scott Flaherty (two hits, including a triple) and Mike Cafano (double). Defensive standouts included Paul Noonan and Steve Maggio.

For Jaehnig, Mark Tobin and Patrick Maxey collected two hits apiece and Kyle Carmody added a double. Maxey also played well defensively and Patrick O'Brien struck out three in a losing effort.

In earlier action, Beacon clinched a playoff berth with a 7-6 triumph over Kiwanis. Winning pitcher Matt Grazioso struck out five and helped his own cause with a double and a triple. Mike Cafano chipped in with two clutch doubles. Defensively, Ryan Feldhoff turned in a solid effort.

In a losing effort for Kiwanis, Billy Dwyer struck out four. Conley belted two doubles and played well defensively and Mark Tucker collected two hits.

Heather Rendle On Bucknell Dean's List

Heather M. Rendle, 133 Grand View Ave., Quincy, has been named to the Dean's List for the spring semester at Bucknell University in Lewisburg, Pa.

She is the daughter of James and Linda Rendle.

Quincy Hospital's recent eighth annual Golf & Tennis Classic raised over $40,000 for the hospital's Health & Education Foundation to benefit patient services.

Held at the Cohasset Golf Club, the event sold out a player field of 132 players and had a substantial waiting list.

Due to torrential rain, the tournament committee was close to canceling the tournament, but the rain let up just in time for the shotgun start.

The tournament committee was comprised of over 50 local business leaders and hospital leaders. Peter Barrett, MD, a Quincy Hospital physician, was co-chair of the tournament for the eighth consecutive year.

The committee is grateful for the sponsorship support received by local businesses. Top sponsors included: Ernst & Young, presenting sponsor; and official sponsors Parametric Technology Corp., Sodexho, and Westwood Pembroke Health System.

Throughout the day, local Rhode Island-based PGA Pro P.H. Horgan III provided private clinics and on-course instruction with the players. The tournament concluded with dinner and awards followed by a silent and live auction.

The committee would like to thank sponsors, golfers, and volunteers for their support of Quincy Hospital. For more information about the Quincy Hospital Health & Education Foundation, call 376-5495.

Eighth Annual Quincy Hospital Golf & Tennis Classic

Many Thanks!!!

To our sponsors, golfers, volunteers, and committee members.

On Monday, May 19, a sold-out field played under not so sunny skies at the Cohasset Golf Club and helped raise more than $40,000 for Quincy Hospital. Funds raised will enable the hospital to continue its tradition of providing high quality patient care to the communities it serves.

The Quincy Hospital family would like to thank all those who helped make the 8th Annual Quincy Hospital Golf & Tennis Classic, presented by Ernst & Young LLC, a tremendous success. Co-chairs Peter Barrett, MD, and George Gales, MD, join the hospital family in thanking sponsors for their generous support.

TRIPLE A

Quincy D.A.R.E. Tops Local 2222, Clinches Triple A Championship

Quincy D.A.R.E. captured the Quincy Youth Baseball Triple A crown by winning four straight games in the playoffs, finishing the year at 18-2.

In the championship game, D.A.R.E. knocked off Local 2222, 13-9, as pitcher Roger Layden fanned 13 through six innings and allowed just three hits. He struck out the final batter to seal the victory.

Layden, Alex Smith, James Keenan, Danny Coleman and Pat Maloney each had a multiple-hit game for D.A.R.E. Playing well in the field were Damian Scrivano, John Dahlquist and Dennis Layden. Top players for Local 2222 were Joe Norris, Paul McLaughlin, Tim Sommers and Adam Tringale.

In the previous playoff game, D.A.R.E. scored nine early runs then held on to defeat Local 2222, 13-9. The fielding play of the game belonged to Local 2222's shortstop Billy Barter. With the bases loaded and two out in the bottom of the fifth, he ranged far to his left into center field, chased down a line drive, pivoted and threw to second to get the force that ended the inning.

Pitching well for D.A.R.E. were Tommy Skinner and Keenan. Hitting stars were Smith, Dennis Layden, Andrew Patten and Maloney. Adam Graeber and John Bergonzi played well in the field. For Local 2222, Frank Boudreau, Billy Barter, Ryan Barter and Paul McLean were the standout players.

D.A.R.E.'s second playoff game was against divisional archrival Spillane & Epstein, which handed D.A.R.E. both of its losses this season. Behind the six-inning, 13-strikeout pitching performance of Roger Layden, D.A.R.E. claimed the victory. Patten, Dahlquist and Skinner collected the big hits for the winners.

In the playoff opener, D.A.R.E. topped Locker Room. Relief pitcher Maloney came on with the bases loaded in the fifth, recorded the final out of the inning and finished the game. Top hitters for the winners were Keenan, Skinner, Bergonzi, Coleman and Roger Layden.

The players and coaches wish to express their tanks to David Spillane and Michael Grossi for all their time, effort and encouragement they displayed throughout the year, which made the Triple A baseball league a great place to have fun.

YOUTH SOFTBALL

Wisalko Outlasts Everlasting, Wins Pratt Division Title

Wisalko is the champion of the Quincy Youth Softball Mary Pratt Division following a recent 19-16 victory over Everlasting Engraving in the championship game.

In a game that went back and forth, Wisalko jumped out to a 9-0 lead in the first inning and then held off a furious Everlasting rally to clinch the title. Jessica Lorman pitched well and picked up the win for Wisalko, while Everlasting's Maria Coughlin also turned in a strong performance on the mound but took the loss.

Wisalko also beat Everlasting in the opener of the two-game championship series.

Wisalko knocked off the Mansfield Rascals in the second round to advance to the championship. (Due to injury, Network Plus had to forfeit its first round game to the Mansfield Rascals and its second round game to Wisalko. Heading into the playoffs, Network Plus had the best record in the league at 10-2. Both losses were to Everlasting.)

Everlasting advanced to the championship with a 13-6 second-round triumph over the Mansfield Rascals. Everlasting broke open a 5-5 tie with a four-run third, added four more in the fifth and coasted to the victory.

Offensive standouts for Everlasting included Lisa Kelly (four for four, double, RBI, two runs scored, four steals), Kelley Linnane (two for two, two runs, two steals) and Maria Coughlin (two for two, RBI, two runs, three steals, two walks). Winning pitcher Nicole Graziano struck out nine and reliever Marisa Malvesti closed the door with a game-ending strikeout. Kristen Nelson made a great catch in right field, preventing the Rascals from scoring a run.

For the Rascals, Kylie Mansfield struck out seven and was taken out of the game in the fifth when she was struck by a hard-hit ball. Pacing the Rascals offensively were Kristen Nogler (two for three, RBI) and Mansfield (two RBI, two steals, two walks). Defensively, shortstop Pam Sullivan recorded five put-outs to first base and Kelli Nogler made a great stretch for a ball at first base.

In a first-round slugfest, Everlasting withstood a six-run, sixth-inning rally by Wisalko, holding on for a 26-22 victory. A 13-run outburst in the third inning gave Everlasting the lead for good.

Winning pitcher Marisa Malvesti struck out three and helped her own cause, going thre for three with a homer, four RBI, scored six runs, collected two steals and three walks. Malvesti also caught a line drive and threw out a runner at third for a double play.

Other top offensive players for Everlasting included Lisa Kelly (one for one, RBI, five runs, two steals, five walks), Meredith Powers (thre for three, three runs, one steal, three walks) and Maria Coughlin (one for three, double, two RBI, four runs, one steal, three walks).

For Wisalko, losing pitcher Alexis Miranda struck out five and helped herself offensively, going four for five, including two homers and a double, eight RBI, four runs scored and a walk. Also contributing offensively was Jessica Lorman (three for three, homer, double, three RBI, four runs, two walks).

ST. JOHN'S FARM

National League's Offense Leads Squad To An All-Star Triumph

The National League broke open a close game with 11 runs in the fourth and fifth innings and went on to defeat the American League, 16-3, in the recent St. John's Farm League All-Star game.

The American squad took an early 3-0 lead with a run in the first inning and two in the second. Paul Doolan collected an RBI single and Tim Randall blasted a two-run homer, scoring John Hanlon, who had tripled.

In the third, the National team went ahead for good with a five-run outburst. Steve Maltman (two hits) belted a two-run homer and Brian Smith, Thomas Power and James Mullaney (two hits) all singled and scored.

The National squad added four more runs in the fourth. Drew Loud (two hits) and John Cameron each collected an RBI single and Dave Djerf and Steve Connelly (two singles) scored in the inning.

A seven-run eruption by National in the fifth was highlighted by Christopher Pratt's grand slam. Chris Akoury added an RBI single and scored a run and Brian McQuinn reached base and scored a run. A key defensive play by the American squad prevented another National run when catcher Michelle Murray tagged out Maltman at the plate after a single by Mullaney.

Dave Djerf, Lynette Cedrone and Spencer Peterson each chipped in with a single for the National squad.

Brian Mahoney, Joe Connelly, Eric Still, Carl Morris and Zak Keating each collected a single for the American squad.

Following the All-Star game, league officials thanked everyone for a fun and enjoyable season.

Milton Nips Comets, 19-18

The Quincy Comets, a 16 and under girls softball team, were edged by Milton, 19-18, in a recent game at Atlantic Middle School Field.

Trailing 19-15 in the bottom of the sixth, the Comets started an uprising. Rachel Bonnani singled for her second hit of the game and Alexis Miranda, who had already walked twice and singled, followed her second hit of the game.

After the next two batters were retired, Caitlin Powers lined a double to right to drive in Bonanni and Miranda. Powers subsequently scored on a wild pitch. However, the Comets fell one run short when Kathryn Gates, who had walked, was stranded at third base.

The Comets had jumped out to an early 10-1 lead, but a strong Milton team managed to overcome the deficit.

SCOTT DEWARE

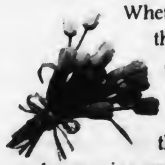
A Thought For The Week

It is an interesting phenomenon how two people view the same Situation so differently, according to how they think.

Have you ever thought about why some people say a day is partly sunny and others, commenting on the same day, will say it is partly cloudy? It is the optimist who remembers the sunshine; the pessimist remembers the dark clouds... Or if a glass of water is half full, the optimist will think of it that way. But the pessimist will say, "It's half empty!"

How you think and what you think can and does affect your actions. Lovable thoughts produce one result. Thoughts of hate produce the opposite result. It is true..."As a man thinketh in his heart. so is he."

Wouldn't today be a good day to begin to think hopefully and look for opportunities in every difficulty instead of difficulty in every opportunity?



Being an optimist is much more fun than being a pessimist... It is more pleasant to be around an optimist than a pessimist... Don't you agree?

Your Social Security

Self-Employment And Social Security

By CAROL BOYLE

Writing off your business expenses may make you smile when you file your income tax, but it could make you frown if you become disabled and unable to work. Although it's legal to deduct most business expenses, even to the point that you may not owe income taxes, self-employed persons sometimes lose their Social Security disability protection when they don't pay taxes.

This is what happened to a 44-year-old trucker whose injuries in an automobile accident disabled him for nearly three years. Because of the seriousness of the injuries, the trucker met Social Security's definition of disability. Unfortunately, he couldn't receive disability benefits because he had not paid Social Security taxes in recent years.

Earlier in his life, the trucker had paid Social Security taxes for more than 10 years. But, in recent years, he had eliminated his tax liability because he had been replacing expensive business equipment frequently. When a person's net earnings are less than $400 in a year, he or she doesn't have to report them. Therefore, no taxes are due. But, in that case, Social Security disability protection may be reduced or even eliminated for the present. To have been currently insured and eligible for Social Security disability, the trucker would have had to pay Social Security taxes for five of the past 10 years ending with the year in which he became disabled.

The trucker said that, because he had worked and paid Social Security taxes for 10 years, he had assumed he was insured for Social Security and was surprised to learn that he was not currently insured for disability. He is, of course, insured for retirement benefits.

When a person is self-employed, there are some special considerations concerning reporting and paying Social Security taxes. For example, there are two income tax deductions that reduce your tax liability. For one, your net earnings from self-employment are reduced by an amount equal to half of your total self-employment tax. And second, you can deduct half of your self-employment tax on your tax form.

For more information about paying Social Security taxes as a self-employed person, call or visit your local Social Security office or call our toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213, and ask for a copy of the fact sheet Social Security: If You're Self-employed (Publication number 05-10022).

(Carol Boyle is Social Security manager in Quincy.)

Quincy Hospital Promotes Healthy Image With McKay Fried

In a bold effort to increase community awareness of its services and technology, Quincy Hospital recently named McKay Fried & Partners Inc. its advertising and public relations agency of record. The decision was made after a review of Boston agencies.

McKay Fried & Partners Inc. is a full service firm that relocated to Boston in January 1996 after outgoing its space at the Willard School on Furnace Brook Parkway in Quincy.

Ralph DiPisa, chief executive officer of Quincy Hospital, said, "Because of the past history of the hospital, I needed someone who not only knew the hospital firsthand by was also aware of the community that surrounds and supports the hospital.

"John McKay's reputation in the Quincy community was what attracted me to him and his firm. The feedback from our staff and the community has been extremely positive. I'm already looking forward to what other marketing programs John can introduce us to."

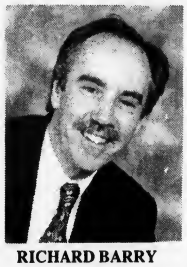
JOHN McKAY

The agency has launched a full scale image advertising campaign using radio, print, outdoor and transit media, as well as creating a brand new positioning statement--"The Heart of the Community." For over 100 years, Quincy Hospital has served Quincy and neighboring South Shore towns, including Braintree and Weymouth.

The hospital recently underwent $60 million in renovations and expansions. In addition, Quincy Hospital has significantly strengthened its medical staff through reputable affiliations with Brigham and Women's Hospital and the Boston Medical Center.

John McKay, chairman and chief executive officer at McKay Fried & Partner Inc. said, "I strongly believe that Quincy Hospital performs an invaluable community service that touches neighborhoods throughout much of the South Shore. The hospital itself has undergone some exciting changes, and the staff is revitalized.

"We feel that the time is right to tell everyone that they can be proud of Quincy Hospital and the quality health care it provides. This belief came through in our creative and we are looking forward to the roll-out of ads which began running earlier this month and will continue through the summer."



Richard Barry Vice President At Graham Communications

Richard P. Barry has been promoted to vice president of Graham Communications, a marketing services and consulting firm in Quincy.

"We congratulate Rich on this well-earned recognition of his success," said John R. Graham, president of Graham Communications. "We value his marketing expertise and committed service to our clients."

Barry joined Graham Communications in 1989 as account executive and was promoted to senior account manager in 1990. He has instituted marketing communications programs for various financial, retail and business clients including Prudential Insurance, the Community Bank League of New England, American Medical Response and Settles Glass Companies.

His articles on marketing, sales and business have appeared in regional and national publications as well as trade publications and periodicals. He has also been published four times in Advertising Age's Next Trend column, receiving three first place honors for his contributions to the humor column.

RICHARD BARRY

Barry's other awards include a bronze from the Telly Awards National Competition for a video production script on the subject of cremation, a Best in Industry award from the National Association of Investors Corp., and a bronze award from Financial World's Magazine Competition. In addition, he is a recipient of a merit award from the New England Bank Marketing Association and has earned nine awards (including five first place honors) from the South Shore Ad Club.

Barry received a master of arts in professional writing and publishing from Emerson College, Boston, where he graduated magna cum laude. He received a bachelor of arts in sociology from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, and is a graduate of Boston University's Public Communication Institute.

He began his career working for IBM's office products divisions in Boston and Springfield. In addition to conducting market research in the field, he worked in customer service/sales support.

Barry lives in Walpole with his wife, Jane, and their 9-year-old daughter, Shannon.

Jennifer Warren P.R. Account Executive At Devine & Pearson

Devine & Advertising Inc. in Quincy has promoted Jennifer Warren to account executive, public relations.

"Jennifer is an enthusiastic team member, always looking for opportunities to promote client products. And she does it within the framework of a total, integrated communications program," said Matt Devine, partner and senior vice president. "Her excellent writing skills translate well into stronger media relations."

JENNIFER WARREN

Warren's clients include James River Commercial Products, Sager Electronics, Edlund, and Barber Foods.

Prior to joining Devine & Pearson, she worked at the Stamford, Conn.-based Hospitality Perspectives, a marketing and management consulting firm for the hotel industry.

Warren received a B.A. degree in history from Franklin & Marshall College in Lancaster, Pa. She is a member of the Advertising Club of Greater Boston and the International Foodservice Editorial Council.

HOLDING TO A HIGHER STANDARD

Any civil lawsuit that arises over the claim of negligence must concern itself (among other things) with proving that the defendant did not exercise "ordinary and reasonable care." Those who do not do so are legally responsible for their careless actions if they cause harm. On the other hand, there is nothing ordinary about the standard of care to which professionals are held. Although the elements of an ordinary negligence claim are nearly identical with those of a malpractice claim, professionals cannot avoid liability merely by showing that they acted reasonably. Professionals, from doctors to dry cleaners, are expected to act with the care and knowledge of competent members of their professions. If not, those injured by their negligence have the right to sue.

Hint: A defendant is liable for negligence only if the negligence directly causes harm.

Do you have grounds for a lawsuit? The free initial visit is to determine if legal services are needed. Our concern is to take legal action only in your best interests. We can often take appropriate legal action that include steps necessary to keep you out of court. You'll feel confident knowing you can count on our expertise and our track record of success. To schedule a free consultation, call 773-2880. We are happy to provide advice, conduct the case and be compensated only when recovery is made. Our office is located at Gridley Bryant Office Condominiums, 111 Willard Street.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC MEETING

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT
NOTICE OF A PUBLIC MEETING

A Public Informational Meting will be held by the Massachusetts Highway Department to discuss the proposed drainage improvement project for Furnace and Cunningham Brooks in the City of Quincy and the Town of Milton.

WHERE: 2nd Floor Conference Room
Quincy New City Hall
1305 Hancock Street
Quincy, MA 02169

WHEN: Tuesday, July 29, 1997 at 7:00 P.M.

PURPOSE: The purpose of this meeting is to provide the public with the opportunity to become fully acquainted with the design of the proposed project. All views and comments made at the meeting will be reviewed and considered to the maximum extent possible.

PROPOSAL: This project includes the construction of 9,900 feet of drainage culverts/pipes and cleaning of open channels to provide additional capacity to the existing culverts/pipes and drainage channels in the Cunningham and Furnace Brooks. Improvements will start at the headwall located in Cunningham Park, Milton, and end at Black's Creek in Quincy.

Written views received by the Department subsequent to the date of this notice and up to five (5) days prior to the date of the meeting shall be displayed for public inspection and copying at the time and date listed above.

Written statements and other exhibits in place of, or in addition to, oral statements made at the public meeting regarding the proposed undertaking are to be submitted to Thomas F. Broderick, P.E., Chief Engineers, Massachusetts Highway Department, Ten Park Plaza, Boston, Massachusetts, 02116. Such submissions will also be accepted at the meeting.

Plans will be on display for one half hour before the meeting, with an Engineer in attendance to answer questions regarding this project.

Raymondi Calls Two Meetings

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi is holding two neighborhood meetings this week.

The first meeting, scheduled for last night (Wednesday) at 6:30 p.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, was regarding larceny and other crime problems in the Shaw St./Lebanon St./Curtis Ave. area. Residents were invited to discuss the matter with representatives from the police department.

The second meeting, to be held tonight (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. at the clubhouse, concerns traffic issues as well as odors that may or not be emanating from Sprague Energy. Residents of the Edison St./Edison Park/Stewart St. area are invited to attend.

Piercing Shop Receives Eight-Day Suspension

old girl who visited the shop unaccompanied by an adult. The girl's mother notified the health department after the piercing took place, and a subsequent investigation revealed that the girl had produced a driver's license showing her birthday to be Oct. 2, 1979.

Piercing the girl was a direct violation of a strict body piercing ordinance passed by the City Council earlier this year. One of the law's top provisions states that minors can only be pierced when accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Gallahue said while Miller and his attorney previously have cooperated with the city in all matters pertaining to the law, the ordinance violation is something that could not be ignored.

"This is a specific area of the ordinance that has to be followed," she said. "And it wasn't."

Gallahue said she could not say who at Body Xtremes looked at the birthdate on the girl's license, but added that the suspension can be extended if Miller does not produce evidence that he will provide stricter measures in checking identification.

For now, she said, the punishment will stay at eight days. The length of the suspension, she added, was agreed upon by Gallahue, City Solicitor Stephen McGrath, and Assistant City Solicitor Kevin Madden.

Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers, whose ward includes the Body Xtremes shop, said he was frustrated when he learned of the illegal piercing.

"This is exactly what we were trying to avoid when drafted the ordinance," he said. "It's a very serious concern."

Ayers said the possibility of infection or disease that could result from body piercing is what bothers him the most. Gallahue said as far as she knows, there have been no medical problems resulting from the illegal piercing.

Ayers added that he addressed the Quincy License Board--of which Gallahue is a member--Tuesday morning about the ordinance violation and told board members the strictest action possible should be taken as punishment.

Penn's Hill Concerns

he said, he received complaints from area residents about flying debris from the tank and he asked the DPW, which agreed, to take down the tank before the study was completed.

The contractor chosen by the DPW to dismantle the tank, Costello Dismantling Co. Inc. of Middleboro, discovered when they pretested the soil there that it contains lead, according to Raymondi. He said sand, debris and materials that have been blown by the wind from the base that remains following the tank's dismantling must now be tested to see of they are contaminated.

Raymondi said he does not know whether Costello Dismantling or Green Environmental of Quincy, which also has become involved in the matter, will conduct the new testing. He added, however, that tank's base has been covered by polyurethane that has been weighted down with stones.

Raymondi said he expected more details about the situation to be revealed at Tuesday night's meeting.

The Clifford Marshall School

MODEL OF THE Clifford H. Marshall Elementary School under construction in Quincy Point. The 72,000-square foot building was designed by the Cambridge firm of Cole and Goyette, Architects and Planners Inc. The Marshall School, named in memory of the former Norfolk County sheriff, will serve 600 children in grades pre-school through Grade 5. The building's overall style and layout is reminiscent of the prototypical red brick elementary school seen throughout the region, with classrooms located on the perimeter and assembly rooms in the center. The Marshall school will have a gymnasium and a cafetorium on the first floor; above will be a science and computer room and a media center and library. Once completed, students at the Daniel Webster Elementary School will be moved to the Clifford Marshall. The older building will be revitalized by Cole and Goyette for use a middle school.

Shoppers Saddened About Closing

Woolworth's Seen Blow, Opportunity

The impending closing of Woolworth's is seen as a blow for downtown Quincy but also an opportunity for something positive at that site in the future.

The store, at Hancock and Cliveden Sts. with its familiar clock, has been a downtown landmark for nearly a half-century.

That store opened in 1948 but Woolworth's has been a part of the Quincy scene since the 1930s at other locations.

Longtime patrons were saddened at the news last week that the Woolworth Corp. will close all 400 of its discount department stores across the country.

The chain's 15 Massachusetts stores, including the one in Quincy, are expected to close before Christmas. Some 9,200 will lose their jobs across the nation, 326 of them in Massachusetts, 18 in Quincy.

The company said it will concentrate on its more profitable footwear and apparel stores, leaving some optimism that one of those stores could be located at the Quincy site.

Daniel Flynn, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and head of a Quincy commercial-residential real estate firm, was optimistic that something good could come out of it.

"It's sad to see Woolworth's close after all these years in Quincy," he said. "But I think it creates new opportunities for the future. It opens a whole new array of future quality development."

He sees a few possibilities.

"The space could be utilized for residential-commercial development," he said. "It's a potential hotel site if something could be tied in with the Ross Parking area. It's a first-class commercial office space."

Flynn said the decision to close the Woolworth's stores "is a direct reflection of what's happening in Big Box retail America."

He explained that Woolworth's, the five and 10-cent store could no longer compete with such biggies as Wal-Mart, K-Mart, Walgreen's and CVS.

Meanwhile, Joseph Mannarino, executive director of Quincy 2000, said the pub-

New Ordinance Signed

Police Commission To Be Formed

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Mayor James Sheets has officially signed into law a new ordinance that will result in the establishment of a Community-Oriented Policing and Problem-Solving (COPPS) Commission.

Sheets put his signature on the ordinance during a press conference Tuesday. Last week, the City Council voted 7-2 to back the law.

The 20-member commission is designed to assist community police officers with their duties by working in conjunction with the Quincy Police Department.

Also on hand for the press conference were Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi, who originally introduced the ordinance to the City Council; Council President Peter Kolson, Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott, Police Chief Francis Mullen, Lt. William Falco and Officer Joseph O'Reilly of the superior police officers' and patrolmen's unions respectively, and Capts. Thomas Frane and Terence Kelly, both of whom have taken the police chief's exam to replace Mullen when he retires Aug. 31.

Sheets said he was proud to sign the ordinance.

"This is designed to enable the city to bring all its resources together," he said. "To do that, we have to become organized and integrated. We feel community policing is a thing of the future."

Mullen, whose 42-year career with the police department was praised by all in attendance, said "policing is always changing" and that forming the commission will help "bring it to where it's going."

"The Quincy Police Department has to work as a whole, as a unit, as a family to make things work," said the chief. "It has in the past, and will continue to do so in my absence."

Kolson called the ordinance "part of the future of policing and the future of community spirit that pervades this city." Raymondi thanked those in attendance, including Frane and Kelly, for their input which prompted him to amend his original COPPS proposal and ultimately draft a stronger ordinance.

"I've worked tirelessly for a year-and-a-half to

Wal-Mart Expected To Open In October

The Quincy Wal-Mart store off Falls Boulevard is expected to be ready for opening in October, according to informed sources.

The exterior of the 130,000-square-foot structure--twice the size of the neighboring Roche Bros. Supermarket--is near completion and work is now being done on the inside.

According to the sources, the interior work is scheduled to be completed by August and the shelves stocked in September for the October opening.

Preliminary work was started in 1994.

The Sun was unable to reach a spokesman by telephone at Wal-Mart's headquarters in Bentonville, Ark. at press time Tuesday to confirm the October opening report.

THE WOOLWORTH STORE, a downtown Quincy landmark for nearly a half-century, is among the company's 400 discount department stores being closed across the country. The Quincy store, shown here during last week's Sidewalk Festival, is expected to be closed before Christmas.

Cellucci: 'An Integral Step'

Public Access Boat Ramp To Be Built In Houghs Neck

Lt. Gov. Paul Cellucci has announced that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts will build its first public access boat ramp to Boston Harbor in the Houghs Neck section of Quincy.

The Metropolitan District Commission (MDC) recently acquired the nearly one-acre former Hurley's Boat Yard, which is located near Bay View Ave., toward that end. The parcel is adjacent to a Quincy municipal pier.

"The revitalization of Boston Harbor is nearing completion," Cellucci said during a press conference last Friday on the Harbor Express commuter boat, "and it's becoming more and more important that we provide greater public boater access to the harbor.

"With the improvements in water quality that the harbor has experienced in recent years, and with the waterfront infrastructure improvements of the 'Back to the Beaches' program taking root, more and more citizens are taking to the waters. This public access ramp at Houghs Neck will be an integral step in allowing our citizens to get out their boats on the harbor."

Also on hand for the announcement was state Environmental Affairs Secretary Trudy Coxe.

"It is truly heartening to see so many pieces of the Boston Harbor restoration coming together, she said. "The improvements in water quality, the rehabilitation of the beaches and their buildings in the 'Back to the Beaches' program, the abundant return of striped bass and marine mammals like harbor porpoise, and now with public access ramps like this one, our citizens can get out and really enjoy harbor and its islands."

Other improvements underway along the waterfront include the $3.6 million rehabilitation of the famed Carson Beach bathhouse and restoration of the Marine Park Bandstand and the Mothers' Rest Gazebo in South Boston.

The boat landing will be built by the Public Access Board, an agency of the Massachusetts Department of Fish and Wildlife.

LT. GOV. PAUL CELLUCCI (center) announces the state's plans to build its first public access ramp to Boston Harbor in Houghs Neck during a press conference Friday aboard the Harbor Express commuter boat. Also in photo from left are local residents Joyce and Walter Hurley, state Sen. Michael Morrissey, Mayor James Sheets, state Secretary of Environmental Affairs Trudy Coxe and City Councilior Michael Cheney. Ward 5 Community Assn. Cleans Merrymount Park

The Ward 5 Community Association recently completed a cleanup of Merrymount Park with more than 30 volunteers clearing litter and debris from throughout the park's walking trails.

The cleanup, the first major activity of the new community group, was labeled a "successful venture" by Association President Doug Gutro.

Volunteers gathered at the Fenno Street basketball courts at 9 a.m. on July 12 and proceeded to clean the many trails that wind throughout the park. Trouble spots, such as teen hang-outs and a dumping area, were target for cleanup.

After a couple of hours of work, the Association helped improve the aesthetic atmosphere of the park's walking trails.

Following the cleanup, a "Volunteer Appreciation Barbecue" was held at the Beechwood Knoll Playground. Cleanup participants were treated to hot dogs, hamburgers, soda, and ice cream, all donated by Super Stop & Shop on Newport Ave. The Police Athletic League and Joe Kintigos helped prepare food and serve volunteers.

"This activity was made a success through a combination of generous acts: our many volunteers donated their time and effort; Stop & Shop was kind enough to donate the refreshments for our barbecue; PAL donated their time and equipment for the cookout; and the Park Department offered their support in order to make this effort a successful one," said Dave Murphy, co-organizer of the clean-up.

"This activity serves as an example of what the Ward 5 Community Association hopes to achieve; bringing different parts of the community together to improve the quality of life for all that live, work, and play in this community," Murphy added.

The Ward 5 Community Association meets the second Monday of the every month at the Beechwood Knoll School at 7 p.m. The next meeting will be held Aug. 11. New members are welcome.

ATTORNEY AT LAW

IN CASES OF ACCIDENT

All too often, accident victims with legitimate personal injury claims fail to take the proper steps to recover damages. In some cases, these victims decide not to seek the services of a lawyer because they assume the accidents were their fault. Others stoically refuse to seek medical treatment for their injuries, thereby rendering them unable to prove that the accidents caused their injuries. There are also those who drastically underestimate the true value of their cases. They accept paltry settlement offers and sign releases that preclude them from recovering additional money. In all these cases, a better course of action would have been to suspend judgment about guilt, receive medical attention, and consult an attorney.

HINT-The typical personal injury lawsuit is settled in private negotiations before trial.

Our primary concentration is with personal injury issues including automobile accidents, wrongful death, and on the job injuries. Sun Survey:

Despite Torrid Heat, Sidewalk Festival Success

Despite two days of torrid heat, this year's Sidewalk Festival was an overall business as well as an entertainment success, according to a survey by The Sun.

A comfortable breeze that blew in Friday night and Saturday helped make up for slow shopping hours during the heat.

Thousands strolled Hancock St. looking for good buys and enjoying a variety of entertainment during the three-day event sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

An exuberant Carol Nelson, owner of the Children's Orchard said they did "wonderful" at the sidewalk sale. She said she had a "great time and was so busy." She said business on the first day (Thursday) started out slowly but Friday and Saturday "made up for it."

She said they did more business than last year because it rained one of the days then. She said "I would rather have three hot days than one rainy day."

For John Lima, owner of the new Values Galore Quincy store, it was a nice way to get acquainted with Quincy.

"Business was good all three days," said Lima, who opened the store just before the event. "Friday night was incredible. We had a line in here for two and a half hours. It was really something."

Arnie Parseghian of Expose Ltd. said: "We did all right. It wasn't fantastic, but it was pretty good. If it hadn't been so hot Thursday and Friday, I'm sure we would have done a lot better."

Dave Caswell, Jr. of Kennedy Studios said although Thursday and Friday were not as crowded, business on Saturday turned out "very good" and almost as good as last year. He attributed a slow Thursday and Friday a "warmer than usual" days.

Amy Charbonneau, manager of Payless Shoes said the sale "went well."

Taso Kapsaskis, owner of Taso's Euro Cafe said business was a "little better than last year" and that Saturday was "lots better than Thursday and Friday."

Nancy McArdle of Hancock Tobacco said they did "great-super" and "better than last year." She said even though the weather "was hot, the people were nice and I enjoyed myself."

A BELLY DANCER was something to see during the three-day Sidewalk Festival. Three appeared direct from the Oasis Restaurant.

(Maralin Manning photos)

MADELINE, ONE OF the popular Storybook characters greets strollers at the Sidewalk Festival. Her appearance was co-sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and Rhyme 'n Reason.

Jeff Bertman of Roger's Jewelry said although Thursday and Friday were "hot," business inside was "fantastic." He said Saturday was "very good" outside, but was "excellent inside." He said they put out a lot of "good stuff" with great prices" and that there was a long line of people viewing the jewel-ry.

Cindy Ryder of Ryder's Curtains said it was "so hot" but the sale was a "positive experi-ence" and that business was about the same as last year.

Deanna Gazarian, owner of Phase II said the weather held business back on Thursday, but that Friday and Saturday "were great." She said business was about the same as last year.

Stephen Blumberg of Stephen Leigh Jewelers said the sale of the USS Constitution wall clocks which sold for $1,997 was a "sellout." The sale of the 85 clocks began three weeks before the sidewalk sale, and ended with the sellout on Saturday.

He said he offered people free Stephen Leigh hats

MDC: Wollaston Beach Safe For Swimming

Wollaston Beach is again safe for swimming, according to health officials from the Metropolitan District Commission (MDC).

Last week, officials warned beach-goers not to swim there after tests showed the water contained high levels of fecal coliform, a bacteria that can indicate the presence of sewage.

The most recent MDC tests, however, indicate that fecal coliform counts at all points on the beach are now far below the recommended safety level, making the water safe again for swimming.

The MDC will continue to test the water throughout the summer on a weekly basis.

Dear Colonial Federal Customer:

Beginning on Monday, July 7, the main office of Colonial Federal Savings Bank, 15 Beach Street, next to the Wollaston Post Office, will begin a parking lot expansion, renovation and beautification. This is scheduled to take three weeks to complete and may cause a temporary inconvenience for our customers. Please accept my apology in advance. Be assured Colonial's employees will continue to service you efficiently with both courtesy and respect.

As President of Colonial Federal, I take great pride in the appearance of the Bank, and the additional parking will make banking even easier for our customers.

Sincerely,

ROBERT GUARNIERI
President and CEO

National Night Out Celebration Aug. 5

Mayor James Sheets and Police Chief Francis Mullen announce Quincy's third annual National Night Out celebration will be held Tuesday, Aug. 5.

During the celebration, the city, through the mayor's office and ward councillors, will host a number of events throughout Quincy's six wards. Sheets and Mullen will travel through the city with a cavalcade of police motorcycles and cruisers, visiting each ward and encouraging citizens to become more involved in crime prevention and neighborhood watch programs.

Crime prevention information will be available at all locations and representatives of DARE will be available to answer any questions people may have about the programs.

Cookouts will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. at: Germantown Community Center on Palmer St., hosted by City Council President Peter Kolson; 1000 Southern Artery, hosted by Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi; Ward 4 Community Center on Brooks Ave., hosted by Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico.

Cookouts will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. at: Bishop Field on Holbrook Rd., hosted by Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott; Beechwood Knoll School on Fenno St., hosted by Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin; Beechwood on the Bay on East Squantum St., hosted by Ward 5 Councillor Bruce Ayers.

The cavalcade will stop at each location to recognize all current neighborhood watch organizations and to encourage participation in new and emerging neighborhood watch programs. All events are open to the public.

Bellotti Running For Sheriff

Mike Bellotti has made his decision: he's going to run for Norfolk County Sheriff.

Bellotti isn't confirming it himself but those close to him say he is definitely going to run and will make an official announcement by September.

BELLOTTI

Speculation here last week that he would run for sheriff or lieutenant governor but more likely sheriff was on target.

Bellotti would have run for state auditor next year if term limits had been upheld and incumbent Joseph DeNucci was forced to leave that office. But term limits were shot down by the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court and DeNucci says he will be a candidate for re-election. Bellotti won't oppose him.

Bellotti does want to run state-wide one of these years. But at 34, he still has plenty of time to do that.

State Senator Michael Morrissey, who has been moving up in power at the State House, and Rep. Ron Mariano, both of whom have been considered potential candidates for sheriff will not run, insiders say.

This leaves Bellotti with pretty much a clear path to the Democratic nomination next year and a good chance to take the badge back from Republican incumbent Jack Flood who was appointed by Gov. William Weld after Clifford Marshall's death last August.

Bellotti's decision to go for the badge will create a scramble for his First Norfolk District state representative seat in 1998.

Among the likely candidates: Ward 3 Councillor Pat McDermott, Ward 4 Councillor Mike D'Amico, Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers and former Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien.

AYERS

D'AMICO

Other names considered potential candidates: Joseph Murphy, who heads up Mariano's staff and Atty. Steve Colman, who has run before.

For Chretien it would be a golden opportunity and an appropriate one for a return to the political arena.

Chretien and Bellotti hooked up in a memorable run in 1992 with Bellotti winning the seat by a scant 94 votes.

Chretien has run strong in Ward 3 and Ward 5. Three of the Ward 3 precincts (3, 4, 5) and two of the Ward 5 precincts (2, 5) are in the First Norfolk District. And McDermott is strong there, too.

The opening would have to be tempting for Ayers with his entire Ward 6 in the district. Two of D'Amico's Ward 4 precincts (1,3) are in the district.

Bellotti has now given them all something to think about for next year

LOOKS LIKE A preliminary election shaping up for school committee.

John Redophele, Jr., 28, of Grenwold Rd., a salesman, is the seventh to take out nomination papers. And, if all seven file them it will mean a preliminary runoff for the six nominations Sept. 16. There are three seats at stake.

KENNETH SCARRY says we missed a name here in our recent speculation about who might get the Quincy Housing Authority executive directors post: his.

Scarry, a real estate broker and manager for over 25 years with an office on Beale St., Wollaston, is also a deputy sheriff and constable in both Quincy and Braintree and was a member of the Quincy Rent Grievance Board.

He says he has sent copies of his resume to Mayor James Sheets, and the QHA Board of Commissioners.

There are three other names not previously mentioned who are interested in the post John (Jake) Comer stepped down from last April:

Jane Reikard, executive director of the Quincy Rent Grievance Board for 22 years.

Denis Tardo who has 27 years experience with the Bureau of State Office Buildings, 20 as maintenance foreman.

John Cafferty, who owns a Braintree real estate sales management company and is a former member and chairman of the Hingham Housing Authority. He now lives in Squantum.

JO-ANN BRAGG, running for re-election to the school committee, has a fundraiser poolside cookout scheduled for tonight (Thursday), 6 to 9 p.m., at 15 Glendale Rd. For directions call 471-3822. Donation: $15.

TERRY ASHER, wife of WJDA owner Jay Asher, is grounded temporarily from her duties as an American Airlines flight attendant.

While taking a breather in Casco, ME, Terry fell when her bicycle hit a soft shoulder on the road and fractured her right shoulder. She will be sidelined awhile.

FALLON

MILESTONE: Ken Fallon was honored by family and friends Saturday at a surprise birthday party at the Wollaston Golf Club. Hard to believe, but it's his 80th. Mayor James Sheets, added a special extra touch, declaring "Kenneth P. Fallon, Jr. Day in Quincy."

Ken, who joined WJDA in its infancy, was sales manager and a familiar voice on the air there until his retirement in 1982. He then became executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association for several years. He was a long-time member of the Quincy Park and Recreation Board and is still active with the Quincy Rotary Club.

Congratulations and best wishes, Ken. You don't look it, kid.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS OLD POSTCARD was postmarked in Quincy in July of 1907. The view shows the steamboat landing and Quincy Yacht Club house in Houghs Neck. A channel dug at the end of the pier allowed steamers to run regular schedules even at low tide as shown here. Notice the people in the foreground digging for clams. At this time there was also a large bed of oysters in the area around the yacht club.

Seeks Those Who Grew Up During The Depression

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As a child, I never tired of listening to my grandparents tell me about their lives as children.

Now, as a U.S. History major at Boston College, I have decided to channel this interest into a formal research project. For my senior thesis, I will study the lives of children who lived during the Great Depression.

Because my grandparents are no longer nearby, I hope to make contact with those in the Massachusetts area who lived during this time. I believe that listening to first-hand accounts of Depression-era childhood is the only way to truly study this topic.

If you grew up during the Great Depression, my appeal is directed to you. Please write and tell me about your childhood--your letter may cover any topic and be of any length. I am interested in hearing about your experiences, and I would be most grateful to receive any accounts that would help me understand what the Depression looked like through the eyes of a child.

Please send your letters to: Jennifer Pish, Boston College, Vanderslice Hall, Rm. 317, P.O. Box 9105, Chestnut Hill, MA 02167-9105. I appreciate your time, and look forward to hearing your history.

Has Questions About Squantum Gardens Site

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As a North Quincy resident since 1987, I wish I understood exactly just what it is the city wants to do with Squantum Gardens and Naval Terrace now that the U.S. Navy no longer has Naval housing there.

You know, I've heard of the squabbling between pols from Beacon Hill and pols from City Hall. It's hard to cut through all the rhetoric.

Originally, I supported turning the Naval housing units into mixed use. Creating senior housing is a positive use of the property but so, too, I thought was creating an opportunity for first-time homebuyers. We have many young families who want to stay in Quincy but who often move elsewhere. Why couldn't City Hall have looked at that idea more seriously than I believe they did?

It is stressed repeatedly that the elderly housing will not be subsidized. Rents will be in the area of $650 to $800 per month. What kind of elderly are we talking about? Is there really a market for this kind of housing? And is the former Naval housing the most appropriate site for it?

I do support the idea of several units being set aside for emergency housing for Quincy families that Linda Stice and the Family Commission have proposed. However, I'm still not sure creating the kind of eldering housing that I have heard the mayor propose is actually in such great demand. There are, after all, many seniors in this city who need housing who could not afford the rents as stated by the City of Quincy. What about these folks? Are they chopped liver?

Politicians often pander to the elderly because the elderly usually are a good voting block. I hope that is not what we are doing. I also don't like the way everything seems to be rushing. Sometimes it's good to slow down the pace a bit, to see things clearer.

The City of Quincy could always use more elderly housing. However, I'm just not convinced that Squantum Gardens and Naval Terrace is the right site for this high-rent elderly housing proposal.

We lose families every year and I just thought giving some consideration to young families made sense. It was, I thought, a good mix of housing units taking into consideration a segment of our community in need of starter homes.

Land Purchased For Germantown School

By PAUL HAROLD

The city purchased 14 1/2 acres of land from the Quincy Housing Authority to construct a new school and playground in Germantown.

City Solicitor Arthur Burgess presented QHA member Gerard White a check for $31,703 for the land. It was the same price the QHA paid when it bought the land from the trustees of the Sailors' Snug Harbor, about five cents a foot.

FIRE ON RACCOON ISLAND

The vacant structure on Raccoon Island, a quarter of a mile off Houghs Neck, was burned down in a fire termed suspicious by the fire department.

The single-story building was owned by the Stigmatine Fathers of Framingham and had been used as a summer camp.

THREE FILE NOMINATION PAPERS

Candidates filing nomination papers this week for the fall's election included incumbent William Jenness and challenger George Kilduff for state representative from the Second Norfolk District.

Jenness, a Republican, served six years in the House. He was a former city councillor and council president. Kilduff, a Democrat, was a young lawyer and veteran of World War II.

George Carney of Merrymount was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for District Attorney of Norfolk County. Carney was a former law partner of U.S. Rep. John McCormack, the majority leader in Congress.

The election of D.A. was a first for Norfolk County. Previously, Norfolk was linked to the Plymouth district.

Strawberry-Rhubarb Cobbler

After viewing the numerous animals and beutiful peacocks at Paul and Betty's farm in Bridgewater, we enjoyed a wonderful barbeque and scrumptious dessert.

Actually, we were already to get into our cars and depart when our hosts reminded us that we hadn't had our dessert yet. When they mentioned it was strawberry-rhubarb cobbler, we all headed back to the house. Wait until you see how easy it is to prepare this delicious dessert!

Betty's Strawberry-Rhubarb Cobbler

2 cups fresh strawberries (cut in halves)
2 cups rhubarb (cut in pieces)
1 package strawberry jello
1 package yellow cake mix butter for topping
1 1/2 cups hot water

Cut rhubarb in pieces. Prepare the strawberries.

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Cover the bottom of a baking dish (or brownie pan) with the strawberries and the rhubarb.

Sprinkle the top with the dry jello and the dry cake mix. Dot the top heavily with butter and then add the hot water.

Bake for one hour. Cool and serve with vanilla ice cream or freshly whipped cream. Were we glad we stayed! As we were leaving, Betty gave each of us a couple of colorful peacock plumes

Storyteller Merrill Kohlhofer At Crane Library July 29

Storyteller Merrill Kohlhofer will present "The Adventures of Hezekiah Merrill (and Other Yankee Characters)" Tuesday, July 29 at 7 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center.

The program is part of the library's 11th annual Summer Storytellers Series sponsored by the Quincy Arts Council. Designed for families with children age 5 and older, it will be interpreted in American Sign Language.

Kohlhofer tells stories in the Yankee tradition, including some about his great-great-great grandfather Hezekiah Kohlhofer.

MERRILL KOHLHOFER

Simultaneously, storyteller Dottie Moynihan will present a Pajama Time Storyhour entitled "Rainy Day Tales" in the library's adjacent Art Gallery. The storytimes are designed for children ages 2-5, accompanied by a parent, who may be too young for the traditional Storytellers Series.

The Summer Storytellers Series will continue with performances by Jeanne Donato, Aug. 5; Motoko, Aug. 12; and Karen Glickman, Aug. 19. All performances will be interpreted in American Sign Language and will run at the same time as a Pajama Storytime Hour in the Art Gallery.

WHAT CAUSES CRICKS

Maybe you turned your head for a quick check of the clock. Perhaps you reached down to grab a pencil as it rolled off the desk. Suddenly, you're stopped in mid-movement by a sharp pain shooting through your neck or upper back. The most common explanation for such agony is the simple crick, or muscle spasm. These spasms tend to occur in the smaller muscles, which have very specific jobs, such as holding the head steady. When extra demands are made of these muscles — as when you've held your head in an awkward position for an extended period, or you lift your upper body while twisting it in an abnormal way — they are likely to respond by locking up. Cricks are rarely signs of any serious health problem. Rest, gentle massage, a heating pad, and a little patience usually resolve the condition within a few hours or days. Check with your doctor if the pain is particularly severe or if it does not ease over time.

P.S. The pain that is felt from a crick is actually the sensation of a muscle that has contracted and won't let go.

Sometimes taking an anti-inflammatory can make a difference if you strain a muscle, but as with any medication, it's best to consult your physician first to find out if an examination might be in order before self-medicating. College To Rent Space At Heritage Building

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Quincy College will be renting 12,000 square feet at The Heritage Building, 1495 Hancock St., Quincy Center, beginning Sept. 1.

Dr. Jeremiah Ryan, president of the college, said the space will be used for eight classrooms and faculty offices on the building's second and fourth floors. The college's School of Allied Health, R.N. and L.P.N. programs, surgical technology program and workforce development program will move to the building, he said.

"We're very excited about the move," said Ryan. "We're excited for our students and our faculty."

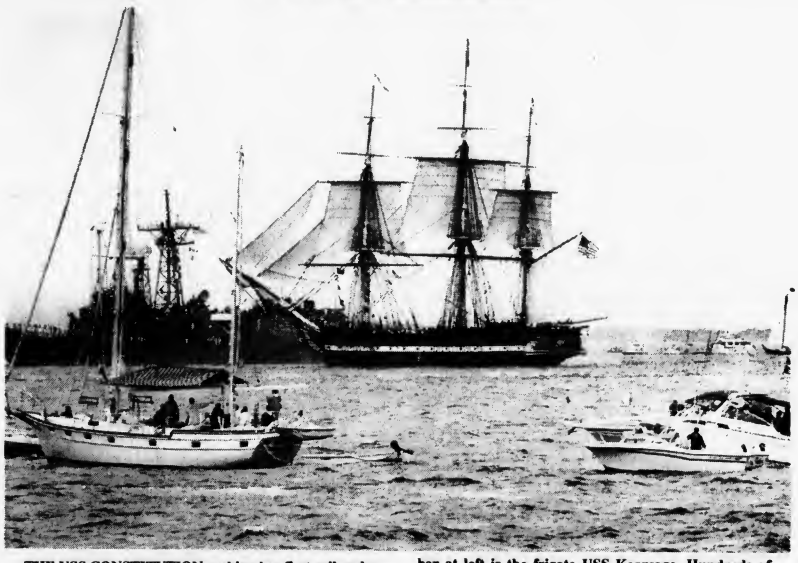
Over the course of a day, between 400 and 500 students will attend classes in the building, he added. Quincy College has about 4,000 students overall at its Quincy campus on Coddington Street.

Previously, the programs were located in the Quincy Center for Technical Education, formerly known as the Quincy Vocational-Technical School. Ryan said the new location will provide better security, handicapped accessibility and, through the nearby Ross Garage, parking.

"There's also the possibility for expansion, which we wouldn't have been able to do at the Center for Technical Education," he said.

Ryan spoke highly about the organization run by Quincy realtor Daniel Flynn, the building owner.

"We had a very elaborate bid process, and the Flynn bid was judged to be the best," he said. "And the Flynn organization is customizing the two floors for our needs."



Ryan was sketchy when discussing the terms of the five-year lease, but he said the college will be paying $9 a foot for one floor and $10 a foot for the other.

Flynn, who also serves as president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, would not elaborate on the terms of the lease, saying, "It's market rent, and we're providing the college with some first-class space." He added, however, he is thrilled the college is moving classes into his property.

"As the landlord, I'm delighted the college is coming into the building," he said. "But moreover, as president of the QCBPA, I think it's vital to downtown growth for people to see 300 nursing students coming here every day.

"The entire Flynn organization is extremely excited the college is moving here, and I mean that sincerely."

Crane Library Concert Series Begins Today

The Thomas Crane Public Library's "Concerts on the Lawn" series will open today (Thursday) with the Shirim Klezmer Trio, which combines clarinet, keyboard and vocalist.

The concert will be held on the library lawn from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

"Klezmer" means music in Yiddish. Shirim blends the tones of Middle Eastern music, the rhythms of Eastern European dance music, and the sounds of America's Dixieland music. A recent program on public television and the release of "In the Fiddler's House" recorded by internationally-known violinist Itzhak Perlman brought the sound of Klezmer music into countless homes.

The concert is funded by the Friends of the Library. In the event of inclement weather, it will be held inside. Performances are suitable for all ages and all are welcome.

Nickerson Post Presents Awards

The Nickerson Post in Squantum, which celebrated its 50th anniversary as an American Legion Post last September, has held Post functions and presented a number of community awards throughout the year.

Among the honors presented were the Post's annual Scholarship Awards at North Quincy High School. This year's recipients were seniors Jennifer Alberti and Norman Connell, each of whom received $500.

The Women's Auxiliary Scholarships were presented to Kara Dempsey and Lisa Braggs, also of North Quincy High, who each received $250.

The Legion also sent Brian Frazee and Nathan Scott to the Boys State Program in June, presented school awards in June to Matthew Petit and Robin Yee of Atlantic Middle School and Adam Kobialka and Areti Sakellarit of the Squantum School, and participated in the local ROTC program.

Mariano: Convention Center Could Lead To Downtown Quincy Hotel

State Rep. Ronald Mariano is calling the House of Representatives' recent passage of legislation to appropriate $770 million for the creation of a new convention center in Boston and similar projects in Worcester and Springfield important to Quincy.

Mariano hailed the project as a boost for a future hotel in downtown Quincy and a new influx of tourism in Quincy and the South Shore.

"The restoration of the Old Colony Rail Line and the increase in the tax on hotel rooms, added to the increase in tourism due to the convention center should be enough stimulus for a major hotel to locate in downtown Quincy," he said.

"The restoration of the Old Colony Commuter Rail Line, which will run directly from South Station to Quincy Center, coupled with the construction of a new convention center in South Boston, only enhances Quincy's ability to compete in the Boston tourism market," Mariano added.

Before the Massachusetts House adjourned for its summer session, it passed the measure 134-20. The convention center bill authorizes almost $725 million in state bonds to pay for the South Boston project and smaller ones in Worcester and Springfield. Included in the measure is an increase in the hotel tax to 12.45 percent in Boston, Cambridge, Worcester and Springfield, from the current level of 9.7 percent.

"Through a combination of the city's efforts to revitalize Quincy Center and other districts throughout the city as well as the presence of the Adams National Historic Site, the USS Salem, Quincy's unique array of retail shops and restaurants, and its natural aesthetics from Wollaston Beach to the Blue Hills, tourism in Quincy can only flourish through the construction of a new convention center," said Mariano.

Lola Dickerman Honored By Mass. Bar Association

Lola Dickerman of Quincy was honored for her 50 years as a lawyer at a recent ceremony at the Massachusetts Bar Association headquarters in Boston.

Dickerman received a plaque from MBA President Kenneth Vacovec at the ceremony. When she was first admitted to the bar in 1947, there were 9,000 lawyers. Today, there are 55,000 people admitted to the bar.

ICE YOUR SECOND REFRIGERATOR

Don't Wait!

With concerns about potential power shortages for New England this summer, Massachusetts Electric is bringing back this popular customer opportunity for a limited time. Now's the time to help reduce energy usage while you save on your electric bill.

Call us and we'll pick it up free

1·800·962·3939

Your second refrigerator or freezer could be costing you as much as $200 a year on your electric bill.

If you have a second refrigerator or freezer, and the only thing in it is a forgotten six-pack of soda or a vintage quart of ice cream, we can help you save as much as $200 a year on your electric bill.

Massachusetts Electric's Free Appliance Removal is a great way to save money, protect the environment, and tidy up your garage or basement at the same time.

We'll come to your home when it's convenient for you, remove your second refrigerator or freezer, and it won't cost you a dime. Plus, you can feel good knowing we'll recycle your appliance's parts in an environmentally responsible manner.

If you're a Massachusetts Electric residential customer who owns a second refrigerator or freezer, you're eligible for Free Appliance Removal. All we ask is that the appliance be standard-sized, cold at pick-up, and in Massachussetts Electric's service area. Program ends September 30, 1997.

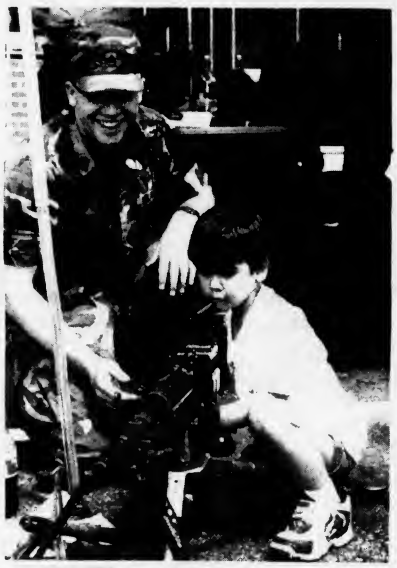
when they came in the store and said many customers who came in for the hat ended up by purchasing jewelry. He said it proves one thing. "If you're innovative, you'll do business," he said.

Bill Morrill of Creative Fairs, who provided the amusement rides for children, said he did 10 to 15 percent better than last year.

"If it hadn't been for the heat on Thursday and Friday, we would have done twice as much business as last year," he said.



Morrill said "well over 5,000 tickets" were sold for the amusement rides.

"It was slow Thursday and Friday because of the heat but we had an excellent Friday night and all day Saturday and Saturday night."

He noted that this was the first year the festival continued into Saturday night and said he thought it was a good idea.

Maralin Manning, QCBPA executive director said, "The purpose of our event is to bring people to Quincy Center to discover what is here and enjoy their visit. All three days Hancock Street was full with new friends and old friends. From the smiles and comments, I think everyone enjoyed themselves.

"It is a great deal of work for those who work the festival; therefore, we hope individually it was a profitable invest of time and effort."

Police Commission To Be Formed

make this ordinance happen," said Raymondi.

McDermott also spoke, saying that although crime is not a major problem in Quincy, "I'm excited to see law enforcement be a primary concern."

Frane and Kelly, asked to give their thoughts on community policing, both said they support the concept and look forward to working with all law enforcement and city officials on the commission as either police chief or captain.

Falco and O'Reilly said they also support the formation of the commission and soon will discuss related contract changes with Sheets and other city officials on related labor agreements and collective bargaining issues.

The commission members, appointed by the mayor unless otherwise noted, will include the city's police and fire chiefs, park department executive director, recreation director, superintendent of schools, community policing captain, police patrolmen's union president and a community police officer appointed by the police chief.

Others will include the executive director of the Quincy Housing Authority, a representative of the Probation Department of Quincy District Court appointed by the court's presiding justice, an individual from the Norfolk County Sheriff's Department appointed by the sheriff, a representative from the Massachusetts Division of Social Services, and an individual from the Norfolk County district attorney's office appointed by the district attorney.

In addition, the mayor will appoint three private members from the following: court system, social service agencies and clergy. There also will be three neighborhood representatives from a community policing area appointed by the mayor upon the recommendation of the community police officer.

The following individuals shall be "resources" to the board: public works commissioner, planning director, health commissioner, director of inspectional services and business leaders.

The commission will be headed by an executive director--the only paid member of the group--a Quincy resident who will be selected, and whose salary will be determined, by the mayor. The police chief will serve as chairman of the commission.

The members of the commission will pool together their resources to assist the police department in its crime prevention, community policing and problem-solving efforts. Raymondi has said he hopes the group can be formed as soon as possible and hold its first meeting in September.

Community policing is a concept that harkens back to the days of the "cop on the beat" who would regularly patrol a neighborhood on foot, get to know the residents and help them with their problems. It also utilizes crime-fighting tools such as motorcycles, bicycles, horses and others used by the police department.

Currently, Germantown is the only Quincy neighborhood to utilize community police officers. However, Brewer's Corner in West Quincy will become part of the community policing program in November, and Quincy Point may get community officers next year.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC MEETING

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT
NOTICE OF A PUBLIC MEETING

A Public Informational Meting will be held by the Massachusetts Highway Department to discuss the proposed drainage improvement project for Furnace and Cunningham Brooks in the City of Quincy and the Town of Milton.

WHERE: 2nd Floor Conference Room
Quincy New City Hall
1305 Hancock Street
Quincy, MA 02169

WHEN: Tuesday, July 29, 1997 at 7:00 P.M.

PURPOSE: The purpose of this meeting is to provide the public with the opportunity to become fully acquainted with the design of the proposed project. All views and comments made at the meeting will be reviewed and considered to the maximum extent possible.

PROPOSAL: This project includes the construction of 9,900 feet of drainage culverts/pipes and cleaning of open channels to provide additional capacity to the existing culverts/pipes and drainage channels in the Cunningham and Furnace Brooks. Improvements will start at the headwall located in Cunningham Park, Milton, and end at Black's Creek in Quincy.

Written views received by the Department subsequent to the date of this notice and up to five (5) days prior to the date of the meeting shall be displayed for public inspection and copying at the time and date listed above.

Written statements and other exhibits in place of, or in addition to, oral statements made at the public meeting regarding the proposed undertaking are to be submitted to Thomas F. Broderick, P.E., Chief Engineers, Massachusetts Highway Department, Ten Park Plaza, Boston, Massachusetts, 02116. Such submissions will also be accepted at the meeting.

Plans will be on display for one half hour before the meeting, with an Engineer in attendance to answer questions regarding this project.

Homeownership Day July 30 In Quincy

Wednesday, July 30 has been designated Quincy Homeownership Day in Quincy by Mayor James Sheets and the Department of Planning and Community Development.

The city is working to increase homeownership opportunity through the Quincy First-Time Homebuyer Program. The program, like others throughout the country, brings together lenders, Realtors, local governments and non-profits to find collaborative and innovative homeownership solutions as part of the National Homeownership.

Activities for Quincy's Homeownership Day will begin at 5:30 p.m. in the second floor conference room of City Hall with a brief reception. The reception will give residents the opportunity to meet and talk with representatives from participating banks.

Light refreshments will be served. The program will begin at 6 p.m.

All Quincy and surrounding area residents interested in becoming first-time homebuyers are encouraged to attend.

Quincy is engaged in increasing homeownership opportunities for local residents through the efforts of a partnership of public, private and nonprofit organizations. The city has, primarily through the use of local and private resources and hours of volunteer work, managed to bring together the cooperation of many institutions for one cause, make funds available to those who need it, and allow local citizens the opportunity of homeownership.

The city of Quincy is an affiliate of the National Homeownership Strategy and The National Partners in Homeownership, which seeks to increase the national homeownership rate to an all-time high of 67.5% by the end of the year 2000.

HELPING THE HOMELESS--The Mayor's Commission on the Family and the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition (QISC) recently sponsored a drive to collect household items to help homeless families and veterans start new homes. The event was held at the Bryan VFW Post in Quincy. From left are Family Commission Executive Director Linda Stice, QISC Executive Director Joseph Finn, Erin Driscoll and Sean Glennon of Ginger Betty's in North Quincy, which assisted with the event; Jacqueline Roncarati and Barbara Papile, members of the Family Council affiliated with the commission. (Sun photo/Robert Noble)

Home Inspection Seminar Today

Tiger Home Inspection, a full-service home inspection facility with headquarters in Braintree and a service area that covers southern New England, will participate in a Home Buyers Seminar today (Thursday) beginning at 7:45 p.m. at Roche Brothers Supermarket, 100 Falls Blvd., Quincy Point.

The event is being sponsored in conjunction with the Quincy Community Action Council. The seminar is open to the public and there is no charge for attending.

Tiger representatives will address what a prospective buyer should look for in a home, what some of the common problems are, and whose responsibility it is to correct faulty problems prior to the sale of a property. To reserve a space at the seminar, call Debbie Kidd at 479-8181, ext. 115.

"A strong real estate market and consumer confidence in the growing economy had led to renewed interest in housing. We are finding, more and more, that both first-time and seasoned home buyers are opting for home inspections to get a clearer and complete picture of the status of the property they are contemplating purchasing," said Joe Rizzo, CEO for Tiger Home Inspection.

Organizers Call Drive For Homeless 'A Great Success'

Organizers of a recent drive for the homeless sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Family and the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition (QISC) are calling the event "a great success."

The drive was held at the Bryan VFW Post in Quincy.

More than 75 children made crafts for Mother's Day with the help of staff members from Ginger Betty's in North Quincy and volunteers from the Family Council affiliated with the commission. Children and their families donated hundreds of mostly new household items to help homeless families and veterans start new homes, including brooms, dustpans, measuring cups, buckets, pillows and more.

"We knew families in Quincy would respond to our request for help, but I was really overwhelmed with the kindness of people," said Linda Stice, executive director of the commission.

"Ginger Betty's and Michael's Arts and Crafts were great," added QISC Executive Director Joseph Finn. They donated their labor and made it possible for so many kids to have a great time making Mother's Day gifts as well as bringing in something to help their community."

Those interested in making additional donations to help the homeless can call Stice at 376-1421.

Energy Efficient Money Saving Tips

(NAPS)—Warmer weather is here. For many Americans that means turning up their air-conditioning to stay cool. While this use of energy may drain the pockets of some people, the savvy consumer can take advantage of a money saving product called the Energy Efficient Mortgage (EEM).

EEM loan programs allow homeowners to make energy efficient changes and add them to their mortgage at the time of purchase or refinance.

To take advantage of an EEM, consumers must have their homes rated for energy efficiency by a state-certified Home Energy Rating System (HERS). It recommends the needed upgrades and estimates the cost of the upgrades, projected annual savings in utility costs and the useful life of the recommended improvements.

The cost of a HERS rating (about $200) as well as the cost for installing the upgrades can be included in a new or refinanced FHA, VA or conventional mortgage loan. While the monthly payment may go up, the increase is offset by a reduction in monthly utility bills.

A free booklet titled "Energy Efficient Mortgage Home Owner Guide" details the program and may be received by calling Countrywide at (800) 903-8366.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Someone at work may ask you to bend the rules, but it's best that you do not comply. You could run into friends unexpectedly toward the end of the week. Partner are in sync over the weekend.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Though you could feel uncomfortable about one work situation this week, you'll still manage to get much accomplished. Time by yourself over the weekend leads to some innovative thoughts.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Stay clear of unscrupulous types in financial dealings this week. Otherwise, agreements are easily reached with others. You're more spontaneous than usual. Be sure to do some socializing this weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) An ethical matter is of concern to you this week. If out shopping, you're apt to buy something out of the ordinary. Later in the week, you'll make a good impression at a business meeting.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Be tactful with bigwigs and avoid raising controversial topics. News or a visitor from afar will brighten your week. Creative types are truly inspired over the weekend.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Success comes through a behind-the-scenes business move this week. Family matters are very rewarding, but a difficulty about money could arise with a friend this weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Something you overhear may upset you early in the week. New insights arise about a project you've had on the back burner. Romance and creativity are happily highlighted this weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Try to avoid an early-week contest of wills with a relative. You'll make a great impact at a group meeting later in the week. Innovative moves pay off for you in business.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A partner has an inspirational effect on you. You'll be enjoying fun times together this week. A private talk relates to money.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You could feel stymied by a problem at work, but a solution will be found by week's end. Home and monetary interests are highlighted. Investigate investment options.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Guard against domestic upsets early in the week. Intriguing news comes from afar. Partners work well together as a team. Creative work is especially favored.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Intense feelings could mar romantic prospects this week, but your intuition is a valuable asset in business affairs. On the job, you're efficient and mentally on the ball.

LEGION BASEBALL

Walpole Sweeps Opening Playoff Series

Early Elimination For Morrisette Again

By LIAM FITZGERALD

For the second consecutive season, the Morrisette American Legion baseball team was eliminated from the playoffs in a first-round sweep.

Last year, Needham knocked Morrisette out in two games in a first-round matchup. This time, it was Zone 6 West opponent Walpole that took the first two games of the best-of-three series, ending Morrisette's season abruptly.

Heading into the playoffs with a 16-4 record and holding the No. 2 seed in Zone 6 East, Morrisette had high hopes of reaching the state championship, but Walpole had other ideas. Last Friday and Saturday, Walpole collected 10-2 and 8-4 victories, hitting .338 for the series while limiting Morrisette to just a .182 average in the two-game set.

"We just ran into a hot team on a serious roll," said Morrisette head coach Mark Kelleher. "They got the clutch hits and their pitchers held us in check most of the series. You have to tip your cap to Walpole. They did everything right: hit the ball hard, threw strikes and made the plays to win the games."

Though he was disappointed by his team's early elimination, Kelleher had nothing but praise for his p[layers, whom he said gave "110 percent" all season long--win or lose.

"Our guys gave it all they had all season, including the playoffs," he said. "Their attitude was always positive and the effort was never lacking. You can't ask for more than that as a coach. I'd love to have a group of players like this every year if I could. I'm very proud of each and everyone one of them."

Saturday, host Walpole struck for five fifth-inning runs to break open a tie game and went on to clinch the series, winning 8-4. Strong pitching by starter and winning pitcher Kevin Ludwig (6 innings, 4 runs, 2 earned runs, 7 hits, 1 walk, 2 strikeouts) and reliever John Birtwell (1 inning, 0 runs, 0 hits, 0 walks, 3 K's) preserved Walpole's lead down the stretch.

"Their pitchers kept the ball around the plate both games," said Kelleher. "They weren't overpowering, but kept us off-balance and got us to swing at some bad pitches. You have to give them credit, they got the job done."

In his final appearance for Morrisette, starting and losing pitcher Ryan Herlihy matched his counterpart early, yielding 2 runs (1 earned) through four innings.

However, the fifth would prove to be both Herlihy's and Morrisette's downfall as Walpole scored 5 runs on 5 hits, a walk, a sacrifice and a groundout.

Pinch hitter Rich Decembele got things started for Walpole with a leadoff walk and was sacrificed to second by J.R. Brau. Mark Anzaloe (4-7, 1 run scored, 4 RBI in series) singled to score Decembele and moved to second on the throw home. Walpole now led, 3-2.

One out later, Mike Weber singled in Anzaloe with his first and only hit of the series. Ryan Beltrimini followed with a sharp single to third, sending Weber to second. The next batter, Birtwell (5-7, 4 runs, RBI in series) doubled in Weber for a 5-2 lead. The seventh batter in the inning, Joe Porcuccini drove the proverbial stake through Morrisette's heart with a two-run single up the middle, giving Wal-

QUINCY HAD A strong presence on this year's Suffolk University baseball team, with at least six local residents contributing to the team's 14-14 record. Standing, from left, Jay Schnabel, who played in 21 games as an infielder and outfielder and hit two homeruns; pitcher Matt O'Toole, who led the team in victories with a 4-4 record; and Dave Reinhart, who led the team in batting with a .371 mark and homers with six playing the outfield. Kneeling are pitcher Jeff Russell, who hurled in 10 games and posted a 3-1 record, second baseman Brian Anderson, who batted .241 in 24 games, and first baseman Marc Swirbalus, who had a batting average of .300 and was voted Most Valuable Teammate.

Williams, Folino Lead S.S. Buick To Title

After posting the best record during the regular season at 20-2, South Shore Buick continued its winning ways in the playoffs to capture the Quincy Youth Baseball Junior League championship.

S.S. Buick posted a 4-0 play-off record capped by 2-0 hard fought victory on Saturday over a gutsy Jaehnig Club to claim the crown.

Steve Williams led the way from the mound pitching his second consecutive shut-out to post the victory.

John Folino, a rookie catcher, led the offensive attack by scoring the first run of the game. He led off the bottom of the first inning with a walk, stole second, advanced on a sacrifice grounder to third then scored on a Steve Williams' single down the first base line. This run proved to be the only one that Buick would need as Williams dominated from the mound and silenced the Jaehnig Club bats for all six innings. Just for insurance, Folino also came up with a big double to the gap in right-center to drive in Ryan McHugh from second base to up the score to 2-0.

Coach Peter Williams also pointed out great defensive play by Jason Fidalgo during the top of the fifth inning during a run-down that saved at least two runs from being scored by Jaehnig Club. Coach Williams was also pleased with how well the team played as a unit, with everyone contributing from the 10-year-olds to the 11-year-olds and the senior leadership of all 12 year-olds. With all the playing time and 10 and 11-year old kids have logged this year and the return of Steve Williams next year, S.S. Buick may be the favorite to repeat as champions next year.

In other action, Stephen Pizzi concluded his Little League career in fine fashion, firing a two-hitter with 15 strikeouts as Rotary knocked off Colonial Federal, 13-1.

At one point, Pizzi struck out seven consecutive batters and did not allow a walk in the game. He helped his own cause with a two-run homer, a three-run homer and a single.

Rotary's offense erupted early and often, with five runs in the first and four more in the second and third innings.

Other offensive contributors for Rotary were Justin Kusy (triple, two runs), Andy McDonough (triple), George Phipps (double, two runs), James Spellman (single), Brian Pyer (single) and Chris Livingstone (single). Pyer did an excellent job behind the plate calling singles and Spellman and Eric O'Dea played solid defense.

For Colonial, Chris Trietti was the lone bright spot offensively, hitting a home run for the team's only run. Mike McGonigle, who had a single for the only other Colonial hit, also played well in the field with several assists. Reliever Cory Piazza did a good job stopping Rotary in the final two innings and fielded his position well, assisting in two putouts.

YOUTH SOFTBALL

Comets Upset Milton, 20-15

Katie Heffernan and Rachel Bonanni hit homeruns to lead the Quincy Comets, a 16 and under girls softball team, to a 20-15 upset win over Milton at Cunningham Park, Milton.

The Comets scored five times in the first inning and never relinquished the lead. Terrianne Fitzgerald drove in 2 runs with a bases loaded single. Base-hits by Kristina Pickering and Nancy Gardner also produced runs in the initial stanza.

After Caitlin Powers singled to open the second inning, Heffernan and Bonanni belted back-to-back homeruns as the Comets extended their lead to 9-0. In the fourth inning, Heffernan's 2-run single and Jessica Lorman's 2-run double added to the Quincy lead.

The Comets put the game away in the fifth inning with a 6-run rally. After Jessica Atkins walked with the bases loaded to force in a run, Kathleen Hester lined a 2-run single to right field. After Hester stole second, Powers delivered a 2-run single and Heffernan doubled home Powers to make the score 19-3. Quincy staved off a late rally by Milton to preserve the win.

Angels Defeat Panthers

The Dorothy Quincy Division's Summer Breeze League continued last week with the Blue "Angels" defeating the Pink "Panthers" by a 23-6 score.

Rachel Sorenson and Emily Bulzarik combined to pitch five solid innings for the Angels, while Rebi Sorenson, Lauren Kreckle and Nicole Lewis scored three runs apiece. Shannon Paine, Julianna Eagles, Rachel Sorenson and Emily Bulzarik scored two runs each. Joni Ranstrom, Sheila Cawley and Meghan Holt also made big offensive contributions.

For the Panthers, Ashley Nee led the charge offensively, going three for three. Beth Goodrich, Maria McGinness, Brianna Nolan and Jen Cannon all had hits. Julie Rackauskas, Caitlin Terwilliger, Kerri Rogers and Amanda and Katelyn Murphy all turned in strong efforts.

New players are welcome. Games are held Tuesdays at 5:45 p.m. at Faxon Park. For more information, call Denise at 472-9023.

32 Youngsters Qualify For State Hershey Championships

Thirty-two Quincy youngsters have qualified for the Massachusetts State Championship in the 20th annual Hershey's National Track and Field Youth Program.

State qualifiers are boys and girls age 9-14 years old who competed in a local meet sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department, said Director Barry Welch.

One hundred and seventy-two youngsters competed in the long jump, softball throw, 50 meter dash, 100 meter dash, 400 meter dash, 4 x 100 relay, 1600 meter run and 800 meter run at Veterans Memorial Stadium in three separate age groups.

Winners of the state meet will have their time and distances compared with New England state champions and the top qualifiers will go to the national championship in Hershey Park. All expenses are paid by Hershey Park, and no fees are charged at any level.

Welch said "volunteers are the heart of the program" and he thanked the work of Quincy Track Club Director Geoff Hennessy for his outstanding commitment to the program.

Quincy champions going to state championship and their events are:

Maura Blaney, G11/12, 200M; Peter Chan, B13/14, running, long jump, relay; Jennifer Conley, G13/14, softball throw; Alysia DiMuzio, G 9/10, softball throw; Amanda Donovan, G13/14, relay; Eric Eleey, B13/14, 200M, relay.

OCTANE RECOMMENDATIONS

Some people mistakenly believe that octane is a measurement of the quality or power potential of gasoline. It is, instead, nothing more than a measurement of the fuel's resistance to detonation, or "pinging." The octane requirements for any particular automobile are found in the owner's manual. With newer cars, it is best to stick with this recommendation and resist the urge to go along with a "more is better" attitude. Just as purchasing a higher-than-needed-octane fuel is a waste of money, so is it uneconomical to try to save money by purchasing a lower octane fuel than the car requires. The lower grade fuel will simply impair performance and increase operating costs. If engine ping is noticed, move up to a higher octane fuel until it stops.

HINT: It is not uncommon for a car's octane requirement to rise along with its age.

Early Elimination For Morrisette

pole a comfortable 7-2 advantage.

Chat Feetham relieved Herlihy and induced Jeff Meau to pop out to second to halt the rally. Herlihy, who hurled 4 and 2/3 innings, allowed 7 runs (6 earned) on 7 hits, walked 3 and fanned 4.

"I thought Ryan pitched a very good game, good enough to win," said Kelleher. "He's been our top guy all season and he pitched well enough to win. We just couldn't come all the way back after that fifth inning."

Morrisette chipped away with 2 runs on 3 hits in the sixth. John Sullivan picked up his only hit of the series, a single, and advanced to second on a passed ball. With 2 outs, Bill Walker collected a clutch single to right, sending Sullivan to third. With Eric Wirtz at the plate, Sullivan scored on a wild pitch by Ludwig.

Wirtz then hit a routine grounder to short, but Procuccini's throw eluded first baseman Birtwell, allowing Wirtz to reach first. On the play, the heads-up baserunning of the hustling Walker paid off as Walker slid under the tag for Morrisette's fourth and final run.

Morrisette nearly cut the deficit to 7-5 in the same winning when Erik Fagan picked up his third hit of the game, a double to left. Wirtz tried to score from first, but was gunned down at the plate on a strong relay throw from Weber at third, ending the inning.

In the seventh, Birtwell relived Ludwig and struck out pinch hitter Rob Celata, Brian Beaton and Jim Cunio swinging to close out the series.

In Friday's 10-2 triumph at Adams Field, Walpole scored early and often and Birtwell's masterful pitching performance kept Morrisette off-balance offensively.

Three-run outbursts in the first and fifth innings by Walpole off starter and losing pitcher Mark Kelly (4 and 1/3 innings, 8 runs, 8 earned runs, 10 hits, 3 walks, 4 strikeouts) put Morrisette on a deep hole it could not dig itself out of as the game progressed.

After Walpole added single runs in the second and third innings to build a 5-1 lead, Morrisette put a run on the board in the third. With two outs, Beaton doubled in Wirtz, who had drawn a walk.

Walpole put the game out of reach with a run in the fourth, three in the fifth and a run in the sixth.

Winning pitcher Birtwell (6 innings, 2 runs, 2 earned runs, 3 hits, 4 walks, 8 strikeouts) combined with Steve Terio (1 inning, 0 runs, 0 hits, 0 walks, 1 strikeout) to hold Morrisette scoreless the final four innings. Besides Beaton's double, Morrisette's only other hits were a double by Paul Marnikovic and a single by Ray Cattaneo.

Morrisette lost shortstop Chris Bregoli to a shoulder injury in the second inning of Friday's game. On a pick-off attempt, Bregoli turned to make the tag and separated his shoulder. Bregoli, whose arm was in a sling for Saturday's game, was replaced by Fagan, who moved over to shortstop from second. Wirtz came in to play second.

Morrisette wrapped up its regular season with a loss to Randolph and a win over Milton.

In an 11-7 loss to Randolph last Wednesday, starter Cattaneo gave up 8 earned runs on 8 hits in 3 and 2/3 innings of work. Reliever Shawn Manning allowed 1 earned run and 2 hits in 31/3 innings of relief.

Beaton (3-4, RBI), Sullivan (2-3, RBI), Celata (2-4) and Matt McLoughlin (2 hits) sparked Morrisette offensively. McLoughlin's hit were his first since returning from a broken jaw he suffered on June 25.

In a 5-3 victory over Milton, Celata improved to 4-1 with a sold pitching performance. He scattered 5 hits, allowed 3 earned runs, walked 7 and fanned 7 in 5 2/3 innings. Feetham earned his third save, recording the final two outs to seal the victory.

The game was called due to darkness after six full innings.

Offensively for the winners, Marnikovic had the big hit, a solo homer into the tennis courts behind the left field fence in the third. Other contributors included Walker (double, triple, RBI), Chris Bregoli (single, sac fly, 2 RBI) and Beaton RBI single).

Morrisette took a 3-0 lead in the second, highlighted by Walker's RBI triple, Bregoli's sac fly RBI and Beaton's RBI single.

Milton cut the deficit to 3-1 in the second, before Morrisette added two important insurance runs in the third. With one out, Marnikovic smacked his homerun. One out later, Walker doubled and later scored on Bregoli's single for a 5-1 lead.

The home team again cut into the deficit, scoring twice in the sixth, before Feetham entered and closed the door to preserve the victory.

(Editor's note: Morrisette's 16-6 record marked the 52nd consecutive season the team has finished with a winning record. Morrisette has not had a losing season since Legion baseball began.)

Youth Sports Forum On Ch. 3

Former NBA first-round draft choice and four-year player Bob Bigelow recently addressed the topic "Adults and Children in Organized Youth Sports: Who Wins, Who Loses?" at the Charles A. Bernazzani School.

Bigelow's presentation will be replayed Monday, July 28 at 8 p.m. and Thursday, July 31 at 6 p.m. on Quincy Community Access Cable Channel 3.

The forum was sponsored by The Law Offices of Spillane & Epstein, P.C. in cooperation with the Quincy Recreation Department and Quincy School Department.

Bigelow is one of the foremost lecturers in the country on the needs of children in youth sports. His two-hour presentation is a refreshing, humorous, common-sense approach on how to meet the needs of the people who youth sports is intended to benefit: kids. His high-energy presentation is filled with anecdotes, using personal experiences as both a professional player as well as a parent watching from the sidelines.

His use of professional athletes such as Michael Jordan, David Robinson and others as examples is a real eye-opener on adolescent development. Bigelow sheds light on what children really want and need from their athletic activities, such as the different feelings children experience on winning and losing teams.

His mission is to put the "youth" back in "youth sports." His sometimes controversial presentation forces the listener to face the questions: "Why do my kids play?" and "What are my motivations for being involved, or not?"

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought For The Week

"Whatever you do, you need courage. Whatever course you decide upon, there is always someone to tell you you are wrong. There are always difficulties arising which tempt you to believe that your critics are right. To map a course of action and follow it to an end, requires some of the same courage which a soldier needs. Peace has its victories, but it takes brave men to win them." - Ralph Waldo Emerson

Each of us, as we go through life, strives to be a winner in our own way. But it takes courage to be a winner, a winner at responding to life. It takes courage to accept friendship and intimacy with other persons. It takes courage to take a stand in an unpopular cause. It takes courage to choose reality over approval. It takes courage to accept the responsibility for your own choices and dare to be yourself. How ways are often uncertain ways and as Robert Frost expressed it; "Courage is the human virtue that counts most - courage to act on limited knowledge and insufficient evidence. That's all any of us have."

The great thing about courage is that, when we get the hang of it, it becomes character. And character, after all, is the referee of our success as a human being...

Burmese Dissident Speaks At First Parish

U Win Maung, a Burmese dissident living in Weymouth, spoke in favor of sanctions against companies doing business in Burma during a recent meeting at United First Parish Church in Quincy Center.

The meeting was sponsored by the Quincy Committee on Burma, which has called for an ordinance prohibiting the City of Quincy from purchasing goods from companies conducting business in Burma. City Councillor Paul Harold, has announced he will propose such an ordinance in September, while Massachusetts passed a similar law for state purchasing last year.

Maung described the "sad history of Burma" since it achieved its independence from British rule in 1948. There was a democratic party in the nation until 1962, when a military junta seized power and established a military dictatorship.

The junta threw out the results of a 1990 election, when the pro-democracy party won 82 percent of the seats in the country's parliament. The leader of the party, Aung San Suu Kyi, won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1991.

A joint worship service will be held Sunday at 9:30 a.m. by Memorial Congregational Church, UCC and First Church of Squantum.

The service will be held at the Squantum church, 164 Bellevue Rd. Brad Townley, a student at Andover-Newton Theological, will lead worship.

Child care is provided. Refreshments and fellowship will follow the service.

Houghs Neck Congregational

Guests from the Highland Church of Jamaica Plain will participate in the 9:30 a.m. worship service Sunday at Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave.

Rev. Deryck Mason, minister of the Highland Church, will preach. Calotta Mason will be guest soloist. The service will be conducted by Dr. Peter V. Corea of Houghs Neck Congregational.

The two churches have been in close fellowship for many years and the visitation has become an annual event.

At 12:15 p.m., Rev. M. Alicia Corea and Deaconess Alpha Story will conduct the monthly service of Holy Communion at the Eventide Home.

United Methodist

Ernest Bromaghim will be guest speaker at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

Greeter will be Shirley Poore. Ushers will be Janet McGonigle and Melvia Sears.

Following worship, a fellowship hour will be hosted by Helga Strong, Adele Hamilton and Phyllis Hawes.

Quincy Point Congregational

Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon, pastor, will preach on "It Is I" at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St.

Rev. Cherie Daniel, associate pastor, will serve as liturgist. Lay reader will be Richard Raymond. Music will be by Kathryn Rosenbach, organist of the Islington Community Church.

Deacons on duty will be Caryl Dreghorn, Susan Egan and Bob Gohl. Ushers will be Sharon Anderson, Audrey Jerrick, Ruth McInnis, Bonnie Georgianna, Donna Kemalian, and Ted DeCristofaro Jr. Tellers will be Marcia O'Neill, James O'Neill, James Taverna and Alphonso Peters.

Following worship, a fellowship hour will be held.

Woolworth's Closing Seen Blow, Opportunity

lic-private planning corporation will do all it can to fill the vacancy left by the store--as soon as it learns what Woolworth's is planning as its next move.

"We have to do a little bit of fact-finding," he said. "We're not sure what Woolworth's is doing. They still have a long-term lease there."

He also said he is planning to meet as soon as possible with representatives from Faxon Trust, the owner of the downtown property, to discuss its future.

"We're going to work as hard as we can to get that space leased as soon as possible," said Mannarino, who added that Woolworth's is currently working to fill some of its soon-to-be-vacated stores with other companies, which provides another possibility for the Quincy Center site.

Mannarino noted that he was "not totally surprised" by the Woolworth's announcement because "they were positioning themselves to leave the marketplace for some time." He added that he is not overly concerned by the move, saying the recent addition to the downtown of Values Galore--which carries many of the same products as Woolworth's--will partially fill the any void left by the latter's departure.

Longtime customers see the closing of the Quincy Woolworth's store as losing an old friend.

"Wow, I didn't know it was closing," said Dorothy Cronin, a former Quincy resident who now lives in Milton. "I'm shocked, really. I've come here for a long time, 30 years or so, and always got what I wanted. I come here with friends from Quincy, and I'll bet they'll be surprised when they hear about this, too. It's a shame; I really liked coming here whenever I needed a little something for around the house, things I knew I could find at Woolworth's. I'll miss the friendly service and nice people who work there the most, probably. It's another landmark gone."

"I'm not a big spender, so I like coming to Woolworth's, picking up what I need and not paying a lot for it," said Richard Golden of Dorchester, another former resident. "Even though I've moved, I still come back, because the people who work there are so helpful and they always have what I need. It's a shock to me that a place like this that's been around so long is closing. That just shouldn't happen, but I guess that's how things go these days."

"I'm not from here, but I've got relatives who live in the area who have come to this store since it opened," said Mary Collins of Randolph. "They talked so highly of it that I decided to come by and see what all the fuss was about. It turns out they were right on the money. I'm sure I'm not the only one who is sorry to see it go."

A man who described himself as a Quincy native but would not give his name said, "I hate to see this happen to this place. I have so many fond memories of coming here with my friends when we were kids and buying candy and soda on hot summer days. Now, everyone at this store will lose their jobs, which is a real shame. They'll probably replace it with something I don't want, like they've done with other stores that have shut down."

Avalon, Habitat Plan Two Adjacent Communities Here

Avalon Properties, Inc. and South Shore Habitat For Humanity will build two adjacent communities in Quincy.

The planned construction of Avalon's residential apartment community--Avalon at Faxon Park--and Habitat For Humanity's Granite Village to be built with assistance from Avalon will be celebrated today (Thursday) at 5 p.m. at the Faxon Park Clubhouse, 500 Falls Blvd.

Mayor James Sheets and Ward 2 Councilor Daniel Raymondi will speak, noting the unique cooperative effort involving the two groups and the city.

Avalon Properties will break ground for the luxury apartment community to be built on 8.3 acres of land off Falls Boulevard overlooking Faxon Park.

Apartment houses will be rented at market rates from $895 to $1,400 a month. The community will consist of 171 low-rise apartment homes of one, two and three bedrooms.

A community center with an outdoor heated pool, exercise facility and resident clubhouse will serve as the focal point of the community.

South Shore Habitat for Humanity, a non-profit organization that builds simple, decent affordable homes with low income families in need of decent shelter, will preview plans at the celebration for their planned Granite Village development, which will be located next door to Avalon at Faxon Park.

Habitat for Humanity plans to build 10 homes on the 3 1/3-acre lot off Bower Road. The land was given to Habitat by Atlantic Development of Hingham, developer of the Granite Crossing shopping center that includes the Wal-Mart now being built and the Roche Bros. supermarket.

Avalon Properties will donate construction of foundations for the first three houses of Granite Village and will help build roads needed for the new Habitat neighborhood. The city has committed to contribute $163,000 of its Community Development Block Grant funds. South Shore Habitat has also been awarded $115,000 of Housing Opportunity funds through Habitat International. Habitat is now looking for additional donations from the Quincy community to help build the homes.

William McLaughlin, vice president of development for Avalon Properties, said Avalon is excited about the construction of Avalon at Faxon Park and pleased that the apartment community will be located next door to the Habitat for Humanity's newest development.

"It is an honor to work with South Shore Habitat for Humanity," McLaughlin said, "and we're happy to have the opportunity to assist with such a worthwhile venture."

"Avalon Properties has helped make the dream of Granite Village a reality," said David Bigley, executive director of the all-volunteer organization. "Because of the generosity of Avalon, Atlantic Development and the city, and the additional contributions of time and money that will be given by many individuals and organizations, this will be a neighborhood truly created by the community. Thanks to this cooperative effort, 10 families will be able to own their own homes."

Construction of Avalon at Faxon Park will be completed by next summer. The construction phase is expected to generate 185 temporary and some permanent jobs along with more than $150,000 spent annually in contracts for services such as maintenance, snowplowing, landscaping and printing. Current plans call for construction to begin on the first three homes at Granite Village this fall and for the project to be completed in 1999.

Applications for the two or three-bedroom homes being built by Habitat volunteers are available at City Hall, the Hibernia Savings Bank, most Quincy churches or by calling the Habitat office at 617-843-9080.

Applicants must meet certain income guidelines and must be current or former Quincy residents. In addition, a family selected to purchase one of the homes must be prepared to put in 500 hours of "sweat equity" as down payment on their new home. The Habitat homes will be sold at cost through a long term zero interest mortgage.

Marine Pipeline Topic At City Hall July 31

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority will conduct a public meeting Thursday, July 31 at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The MWRA will present draft recommendations of the Braintree-Weymouth Marine Pipeline Study at the meeting.

The study is evaluating the possibility of constructing a marine pipeline in the Fore River to substitute for a portion of a deep rock tunnel that would carry wastewater from a new Intermediate Pump Station in North Weymouth to Nut Island in Quincy.

The meeting will include a presentation on the preliminary field investigations conducted for the study in May and June. The study is part of the Braintree-Weymouth Relief Facilities Project, which will provide new sewer relief facilities for communities in the region.

For more information, call Gary Webster at MWRA Public Affairs, 242-6000, ext. 1182.

Capt. Frane Second And Only Other Contender

Capt. Kelly Tops Police Chief Exam

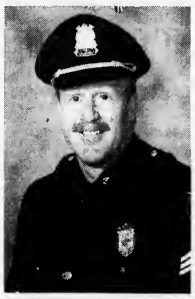
By MICHAEL WHALEN

Capt. Terence Kelly has topped the Civil Service examination for Quincy police chief.

Kelly, who is night platoon captain, received a grade of 89, informed sources reported.

Capt. Thomas Frane, the only other of the department's five captains to take the examination, received an 85. He is in charge of the department's communications.

Kelly and Frane, who are both 48 and residents of Weymouth, received their scores from Civil Service on Saturday.



But Mayor James Sheets, who will appoint one of them to succeed Chief Francis Mullen--who is retiring Aug. 31--said Tuesday at press time he had not received the scores.

Both Kelly and Frane are eligible for the appointment. But if Sheets does not appoint the man with the top score, he must give a reason as required by Civil Service.

"I will make the appointment when I receive a certification of test scores," Sheets told The Sun Tuesday. "I'll make a decision at that point."

He added that he plans to meet with both men before making and announcing his decision.

The mayor said he thinks both Kelly and Frane are qualified to do the job.

TERENCE KELLY

THOMAS FRANE

"They're both good men," he said. "They'd both do a good job. I have great respect for both."

Sheets noted that while someone's score on the Civil Service examination is a factor in choosing the police chief, "it's not the only factor." He said neither Mullen nor Fire Chief Thomas Gorman had the top

23 Candidates File Nomination Papers

Only 3 Preliminary Election Contests Sept. 16

Twenty-three candidates filed nomination papers by Tuesday's deadline but only six of them will face a preliminary election run-off Sept. 16.

The only preliminary contests will be for the Ward 1, Ward 3 and Ward 6 city council seats.

Mayor James Sheets, seeking his fifth term, is unopposed for the third time.

Also unopposed are Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi and Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin.

Ward 1 incumbent Peter Kolson, who is also the city council president and seeking a fifth term, is opposed by Joseph Kasparian of Rhude St. and Gretchen Grant of Bicknell St. Kasparian, a retired police officer, unsuccessfully challenged Kolson two years ago.

Ward 3 incumbent Patrick McDermott, seeking a second term, is opposed by Robert Boussy of Farrington St. and Linda Tracy of Beale St.

Ward 6 incumbent Bruce Ayers, who was unopposed two years ago, has two challengers this year as he seeks a fourth term. They are Brian McNamee of Billings St., an auditor, and Joseph Newton of Glover Ave. whose occupation is not listed.

There are not enough candidates for preliminary election contests for city councillor-at-large, school committee, and the Ward 4 city council seats.

Four candidates filed nomination papers for councillor-at-large, three shy of the seven needed for a preliminary contest for six nominations for the three seats.

Filing were incumbents Tim Cahill and Paul Harold, former Mayor Francis

Harold Seeks Delay Of Shipyard Tax Plan

City Councillor Paul Harold has asked Mayor James Sheets to meet with him to discuss the possibility of putting on hold a five-year tax abatement plan for the Fore River shipyard.

Sheets said Tuesday he will be happy to meet with Harold to discuss his concerns about plans to reopen the shipyard but he has no intention of doing anything to slow the progress of that project.

Harold, in a letter to Sheets dated July 27, stated:

"The purpose of this letter is to urge you to put on hold the recently-voted five-year tax plan for the shipyard until two pieces of information are available.

"Both of these issues were raised by me at the City Council meeting that considered the tax waiver, but were deemed as unimportant by the city solicitor and planning director, and thus the information was not provided. Since then I've learned that Braintree, in its consideration of a tax deal for its portion of the shipyard, has required that this information be available, i.e., the value of the property and a site plan review of the parcel.

"Considering that the greatest part of the yard is in Quincy, we should follow the lead of Braintree, in insuring that the interests of the city are best protected. There are other protections in the Braintree proposal that are not included in Quincy's that I think should be looked at.

"Following final action by the Town Meeting this week, I think it would be prudent for the city to reference the work of the Braintree officials and the Town Meeting members.

"I'd like to meet with you at your earliest convenience, along with the solicitor, planning director and chairman of assessors to review this request."

Sheets said he looks forward to meeting with Harold to discuss the shipyard.

"Very basically--anything that can help bring shipbuilding back to the City of Quincy, I'm willing to talk to anyone about that," he said. "I welcome it."

However, Sheets said he cannot put the five-year tax abatement plan on hold because all of the members of the City Council except

Bellotti Says He Will Run For Sheriff

Rep. Michael Bellotti says he definitely will run for Norfolk County sheriff next year.

"I will be a candidate for Norfolk County sheriff in 1998," Bellotti said Tuesday.

"I will make an official announcement at the appropriate time--probably sometime in the fall."

Bellotti's statement confirms a report in The Sun's "Sunbeams" column last week that he had made a decision to run for sheriff.

MICHAEL BELLOTTI

There had been speculation he would run for sheriff or lieutenant governor.

Two other well-known Quincy Democrats, state Sen. Michael Morrissey and Rep. Ron Mariano had been mentioned as possible candidates for sheriff but neither will run for that office.

This gives Bellotti pretty much a clear path to the Democratic nomination next year.

He is considered a strong challenger to Republican incumbent Jack

Officials Meet Regarding Reduced Hours At Convenience Store

City officials and representatives from the 7-Eleven chain were to meet privately Tuesday to discuss the closing of the store from 1 a.m. to 4:30 a.m. to curb neighborhood disturbances as ordered by the Quincy License Board.

The board voted unanimously two weeks ago to reduce the hours at the convenience store on Franklin Street. However, the 7-Eleven chain filed a lawsuit to keep its store open all night.

At Tuesday's license board meeting, City Solicitor James Timmins told the board that a temporary order is in place to prevent the store's closing.

Timmins said even though the license board can issue, suspend or revoke licences, he didn't think they could "modify them."

Chairman Joseph Shea said he thought the board was "able to set terms on licenses" and said he would "challenge the chain by going to superior Court.

Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi said "I'm looking for seven nights a week with police detail or security.

Timmins said the cost of having a detail would be about $750 per week.

Police Chief Francis Mullen said "we're trying to solve a problem for the community" and added the 24 hour stores have "violent things happening in the middle of the night."

Shea said "ideally, there is nothing wrong with a convenience store," but it becomes a problem when a business is adjacent to a residential area. He called the location between Sunshine Fruit, the gas station, Alfredo's Restaurant and the 7-Eleven the "busiest darn corner in the area."

'A Very Large Piece Of The Puzzle'

Mannarino: Signage Crucial To Success Of QC Action Plan

Quincy 2000 Executive Director Joseph Mannarino says Quincy 2000's Quincy Center Signage Program is a crucial component of the Quincy Center Action Plan.

Mannarino made his comments during a recent phone interview after the program was endorsed by the City Council Downtown Committee.

"The implementation of the master plan is ongoing, and this [signage program] is a very large piece of that puzzle," he said. "We need to better identify Quincy Center and give a better sense of identity to the downtown, and the signs will help."

Mannarino added that Quincy 2000 plans to aggressively pursue funding that will allow the program to expand into other neighborhoods.

The Signage Program is designed to dress up Quincy Center, and subsequently the entire city, with directional signs and banners designed to attract shoppers, tourists and others to Quincy. It is part of Quincy 2000's Quincy Center Action Plan to revitalize the downtown.

Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott, chairman of the City Council Downtown Committee, spoke favorably of the program at a recent committee meeting.

"We'll start the program in Quincy Center and then branch out," he said. "We want to put Quincy on the map, and this is a good way to do it."

McDermott added that he believes the signs could bring convention traffic from Boston if a proposed South Boston convention center is built there.

Plans call for the red, white and blue "City of Presidents" signs and banners to begin going up along Burgin Parkway, as well as adjoining downtown street corners, roadways and utility poles. If all goes according to plan, the first signs will be up when the Quincy Center Concourse opens in late 1998.

City officials hope the $684,000 signage program will be helpful in drawing more people to Quincy's historic sites and downtown shopping district. Subsequently, they want the signs to be placed throughout the city.

Designed by Sasaki Associates of Watertown, the patriotically-colored signs feature two stars symbolizing Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams as well as the names of Quincy Center and other city sections.

The plan was presented to city councillors by Bruce Arons, Quincy 2000 downtown development coordinator, and Sasaki Associates officials. Arons said "increasing the attractiveness" of the city is one of the signage program's top priorities.

Brian Pierce of Sasaki Associates also said he hopes the signs will "create a memorable gateway" at major routes leading into the city as well as "consolidate sign clutter that's out there now."

Arons said the signs will be erected in four phases:

•The Quincy Center Concourse and Burgin Parkway, including a long, narrow banner on the parkway's School Street overpass.

•Expressway exit signs and "trailblazer" signs to the Adams National Historic Site, USS Salem and other historic attractions.

•Replacement of green street signs around Quincy Center with red, white and blue ones.

•Installation of informational kiosks and pedestrian directional markers.

The Massachusetts Highway Department will pay for the first set of signs, which carry a cost of $124,000, as part of funding for the $8.7 million concourse construction, officials said.

Arons said although Quincy 2000 wants to install all the signs within four years, the timetable depends on funding, and the remaining $560,000 must be covered by city monies and additional state and federal grants.

Arons added that expansion of the program into city sections other than Quincy Center also will depend on the location of long-term revenue sources.

License Board Briefs

The Quincy License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting.

•Granted a one day permit to St. John's church, 44 School St. for their annual parish cookout Sunday, Aug. 10 from 12 noon to 5 p.m.

•Granted a one day beer and wine license to St. Joseph's Rectory, 556 Washington St. for their annual parish picnic at Fore River Field, Sunday, Aug. 10 from 12 noon to 5 p.m.

•Granted a two day liquor license to St. Catherine's Greed orthodox church, 157 Beale St. for their annual Grecian Festival at the church hall and grounds Sept. 6, 7.

•Granted a cabaret license to Michael Condon, owner of the Bean Routine, 1659 Hancock St. to play folk music with three persons or less on Fridays and Saturdays from 7 to 11 p.m.

•Allowed a transfer of ownership at Depot Diner, 258 Willard St. (formerly The Egg and I) from Domenic Mignosa to Joyce Hunt.

•Allowed an extension of premises of their liquor license into their parking lot to Pat Flanagan's, 1348 Hancock St. Aug. 29 from 4 p.m. to 12 midnight following a golf tournament.

•Allowed a change of ownership of Granite Auto Grooming, 1272 Sea St. from Richard Light to Kevin Scott Young.

•Continued a hearing regarding a request from Aaron C. To from Sunny Service, 692 Hancock St. for a Motor 11 License until the board visits the site.

•Granted a request from Owen O'Leary's Restaurant, 579 Southern Artery for nine pool tables, a video room and permission to physically alter their premises. Manager Kevin Gill told the board the dining area was too large and by condensing it, business would be more "efficient."

Mullen, Police Dept. To Be Honored At Pagnano Towers

Police Chief Francis Mullen and the Quincy Police Department will honored Saturday during a cookout held by the Pagnano Towers Tenants Association at Pagnano Towers, 109 Curtis Ave., Quincy Point.

The cookout will be held from noon to 4 p.m. Mullen and other department members will be on hand to accept their awards around 1 p.m.

Mullen, who is retiring in August, will receive a plaque for serving more than 40 years in the Quincy Police Department. The department, specifically Officer Robert Hanna and Sgt. Daniel Minton, also will be presented with plaques for assisting the tenants association with various issues.

Popcorn Pushcart On Trial Run At City Hall

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

You can now buy a bag of popcorn or a cup of coffee at a pushcart in front of City Hall.

At Tuesday's meeting, the Quincy License Board issued a common victualer license to Sheila and Paul Fennessey on a trial basis until Nov. 1 and renewable in the spring of 1998.

The "President's Popcorn" pushcart at McIntyre Mall will be open from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. six days a week.

On a motion by Police Chief Francis Mullen, whose concern on whether the pushcart was secured so "it is not mobile" made the motion to issue the license on a trial basis.

It was seconded by Deputy Chief Paul Cuddy, sitting in for Fire Chief Thomas Gorman. The board voted 4 to 1 with Kathy Nugent, assistant building inspector abstaining. Nugent said she had concerns on a zoning issue.

Council President and Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson told the board the pushcart would be "unique" in that nothing exists in other cities with the exception of Pittsfield, which has had a pushcart since the Civil War.

Kolson said the cart would have a "colonial flavor" and blend in with what the city is doing regarding tourism.

He said the cart which he thought would "add more charm to the city" would be removed in the winter months.

When Mullen questioned Fennessey about how secure the cart was, Chairman Joseph Shea said he didn't think the city wanted "any holes" drilled in the area.

Fennessey said he would find another way to secure the 1,600 pound cart.

Shea said the most important aspect to having the pushcart at that particular site was that it would also distribute historic brochures promoting tourism in Quincy.

Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue issued a list of the state's sanitary codes including the limitation of storing of hot dogs no more than four hours. She said the two most important things Fennessey should remember are "thermometer and gloves".

She said the temperature of hot dogs must be maintained at 140 degrees, and said disposable gloves should always be worn.

Also that all foods should be served in clean single-service containers; all straws and spoons be individually wrapped, and that all other hazardous foods cannot be sold until it is capable of being kept at temperatures below 45 degrees.

Just before the board was to take its vote, Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association (QCBPA), voiced her opposition to the concept of a pushcart stating it wasn't fair to to other businesses in the area.

She especially cautioned Fennessey to stick to a "fair market price" and not undersell other businesses.

Manning pointed out that some consideration should be given to the people in business in Quincy that pay their rent 12 months each year, and that The QCBPA has turned away at least a dozen other vendors for this reason.

Shea said "we've been "stonewalling" vendors in the city for the reasons that Manning listed and while "very mindful of all of these things," I still think the pushcart is "worth a try".

Shea said the concept is an "attractive one" and one that can work.

Kolson spoke of Fennessey's being "meticulous" and having a lot of "pride" in what he does. Kolson said he had "all the confidence in the world" in Fennessey.

Although the hours for the pushcart located at 1305 Hancock St. will be from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. six days a week. Fennessey said if there is an event in the city in the evening, he would make an exception and remain open.

Sewer Lines To Be Tested In Wollaston

The city's municipal sewer system in Wollaston will be tested for leaks between Aug. 4 and 15.

The location of the work is within the area bounded by Quincy Shore Drive, Beach Street, Hancock Street and Fenno Street.

Smoke will be released into the system through manholes and service connections so that leaks or cracks in the lines can be located. The smoke that will be used is not harmful to people and furnishings. It is almost odorless, leaves no residue, and dissipates through open windows.

Any smoke within a building should be immediately reported to the person in the street conducting the testing or by calling the Department of Public Works at 376-1910.

Sheets Looking Forward To Working With Cellucci

Mayor James Sheets says he is sorry to see Gov. William Weld resign but that he is looking forward to working with his successor, Acting Gov. Paul Cellucci.

Sheets made his comments just hours before Weld stepped down Tuesday to lobby for the job of U.S. ambassador to Mexico and Cellucci, who had been lieutenant governor, moved up to take his place.

The mayor said he will miss Weld, who he said was always "very responsive" to Quincy's needs, adding that the governor was "extremely helpful" in supporting the current plan to reopen the Fore River shipyard.

"I've had a very good working relationship with the governor," said Sheets. "I certainly will miss Gov. Weld both as a colleague in government and as a friend."

Sheets added that he thinks Cellucci, with whom he spoke for about 45 minutes when the latter visited the city last week, will give the city the same kind of support. He said he has known Cellucci since they served together in the state Legislature years ago.

"I expect to have a good working relationship with Paul Cellucci," he said. "Our relationship with the governor's office will continue uninterrupted."

MassPlan Loan Program Interest Rates Down

The 1997-98 interest rates for the MassPlan Loan program have been set and are lower than last year, according to state Sen. Michael Morrissey and the Massachusetts Educational Financing Authority (MEFA).

MassPlan rates continue to be among the lowest interest rates in the nation for helping families' financial higher education costs.

The MassPlan loan program, administered by MEFA, is designed to help families who do not receive enough aid from traditional sources to finance the rising cost of higher education.

The program is offered directly to families through a partnership with 75 Massachusetts colleges and universities.

"As a non-profit state authority created by the Legislature, MEFA uses tax-exemption financing which provides a competitive advantage loans, including federal college loans. By securing such low rates, the savings are passed onto the families," said Morrissey.

Morrissey added that a further advantage of the MassPlan is the tax-deductibility of interest through Home Equity Option that provides additional savings for homeowners. When a MassPlan loan is secured with the Home Equity Option, interest may be tax-deductible with an effective rate that may be as low as 5.18 percent.

Sheets And The Long Wait

Right now, about the only sure way for a challenger to get Jim Sheets out of the mayor's office would be with a keg of dynamite.

So, it's not surprising as he looks toward a fifth term this year he has no opponent. For the third time.

SHEETS

Those who dream of someday being mayor knew that day wasn't going to come this year. Taking Sheets on this year, they realized, would have been pretty much political suicide.

So, they are willing to wait. But they might have to wait all the way into the 21st century.

He hints he could be thinking of a sixth term.

Despite the demands of the office, he still enjoys the job. There are nights he would rather stay home and catch an old movie on TV with his wife, Joann, instead of going to this function or that function. As mayor, he's high on everybody's invitation list. And that can get you after awhile.

But before turning that third floor office over to a successor, he wants to finish the job: complete the goals he set for his administration.

Some he has reached. A "Cleaner, Greener Quincy," for example. Some are in the works. Like the concourse and Quincy Center railroad station. Others, he is still chasing. Like a hotel for Quincy Center.

And that's where that possible sixth term fits in.

"You know," he mused the other day "it can take up to 10 years to finish the things you want to finish."

He paused and then added: "Maybe 12 years. . "

Five terms (10 years) will take him to 1999. Six terms (12 years) would bring him into the 21st century.

Only one other Quincy mayor has been elected to five terms under Plan A. That was Charles Ross who served nine of the 10 years. And, his terms were not consecutive.

ROSS

Sheets already owns an historic footnote. He is the only mayor to run unopposed for two terms and now a third term.

He would be making more political history by completing five terms.

And a sixth term might be a record no one else would ever match.

CHARLES McINTYRE passed up this year's city election because of increased duties as an assistant district attorney in Dedham. "I just don't have the time to campaign," he says.

McINTYRE

McIntyre, son of the late Mayor-Senator James McIntyre, made an impressive political debut in a run for the city council at-large in 1993. Then, when Joseph LaRaia resigned in 1995 to become a city assessor, McIntyre was appointed by he council to fill LaRaia's unexpired term. McIntyre did not run in the following election.

"This just isn't the year for me to run," he says. "But I will be looking at it again in the future."

McIntyre says he would have liked to have seen his wife, Sheila, make a bid this year.

"But she wouldn't," he says. "She feels she would be taking advantage of the fact that her name is Sheila McIntyre and my mother's name is Sheila McIntyre."

Those who saw McIntyre's wife on the campaign trail with him four years ago will agree she would make a good candidate.

An attorney, she is articulate, knowledgeable and personable.

Wonder how she would have fared this year.

IT WILL BE off to law school next month for two Quincy officials.

School Committeewoman Christine Cedrone will attend New England School of Law and Ward 3 Councillor Pat McDermott, Suffolk Law School.

CEDRONE

McDERMOTT

Cedrone will be leaving her post as property administrator at Lincoln Property Co. to go to school full-time. "Going to law school is something I've always wanted to do," she says.

McDermott, who is doing consultant work and entertainment promotions will also be attending full-time.

"I've been putting it off for five years," He says. "And I decided finally to do it."

McDermott, incidentally is doing some consultant-promotion work for John McDermott, the popular Irish tenor who has a large local following.

SPEAKING OF LAW school, Tracy Wilson, candidate for school committee, who graduated from the Massachusetts School of Law was recently admitted to the Massachusetts Bar. Family members and friends--an estimated 180 or so of them--helped her celebrate the occasion at Amelia's at Marina Bay.

WILSON

A candidate for school committee, she says she's thankful for the "excellent education" she received in the Quincy public schools which prepared her for college and law school.

"I hope that someday soon I will be able to give something back to the community which did so much for me," she says.

Her campaign theme, she says, will be "Quality in Education."

BRIAN McNAMEE, running for the Ward 6 City Council seat, will launch his campaign kickoff Friday at 7 p.m. at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall, Hollis Ave. and Hancock St. Free admission.

CANDIDATES ARE ALLOWED up to eight words to go with their names on the city election ballot. The words are to designate veteran or public offices held.

Gretchen Grant, candidate for the Ward 1 city council seat who isn't a veteran and hasn't held office, requested these eight words: "Tried the Rest? Now Try The Best."

It won't make the ballot.

The words of the hymn, America the Beautiful, were written by Katherine Lee Bates.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1913 REAL PHOTO postcard view of the Wollaston Boulevard looking south from the end of Bromfield St. The large house to the right of the flagpole is the only building in this view that remains. The building on the right had just been built by the MDC for use as a life guard station and for public restrooms. That site is now a park. In the distance on the left you can see how the boulevard used to rise over Rufe's Hummock that was leveled years ago.

'Outstanding Achievements' By Quincy's Asian-Americans

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Congratulations are kudos are in order to the Asian-American community in Quincy as we stand in admiration and wonder in recognition of their outstanding accomplishments.

What took our grandparents and parents decades to accomplish has been achieved by the Asian-American community in Quincy in the short span of less than two decades. In the middle 1970s, many of our now prosperous middle-class Asian neighbors were then homeless boat people who had nothing, and who were fleeing persecution from a Communist dictatorship. How did they become so successful in such a short time? Leave it to our most recent citizens to show us the way and to teach us about the best in ourselves.

Our Asian-American neighbors in Quincy are, by and large, model citizens who seem to have an innate understanding of the elements of capitalism in democracy, even though they came from countries seemingly devoid of both. The acculturation of the Asian group into the fabric of our Quincy community demonstrates to us that neither a European background nor culture is a necessary prerequisite for success in our society today.

So many of our recent immigrants and recent citizens, like the Asians, have come to this country from parts of the world which we as Americans have had little contact with in the past and which have not been a source of immigration in the past. Our new immigrants are more likely to hail from Cambodia, Vietnam, China, Nigeria, Pakistan, and the Sudan rather than from Scotland, Ireland, Italy and Russia. America will now start to look like the rest of the world.

We will have to develop new customs and traditions to celebrate the achievements of our new immigrants and citizens as we welcome them into our society and as they take their place in our American fabric. This is what makes our country great. We in the City of Quincy salute the Asian community and welcome them as our neighbors and fellow citizens.

Partial Opening Of New Neponset Bridge

By PAUL HAROLD

The MDC opened a portion of the new Neponset Bridge to traffic this week, with the completion of the entire structure scheduled for late 1971.

When the $10.6 million span is completed, the old draw bridge structure would be demolished. The demolition would take an estimated two weeks.

QUARRY DANGERS CITY HALL SUMMIT TOPIC

City councillors and city officials met to wrestle with the ongoing safety concerns at the city's quarries.

The meeting came two weeks after a Brighton youth died following fatal injuries he received while swimming at Badger's Quarry.

Various proposals were discussed including adding dye to the water, fencing and filling. James Ricciuti, the mayor's executive secretary, said that the only solution that had worked was the filling of quarries. He noted that the problems along Quarry St. ended with the filling of those quarry holes.

GOVERNMENT CENTER REPORT READY

The feasibility study of a Quincy government center complex was completed by Meredith and Grew. Government Center Study Commission chairman Bernard Dill said he would withhold making it public until commission members received a copy.

The 10 to 12 story, $15 million complex, was proposed for the McGilvray drug store block adjacent to city hall.

The marketability of such a government center would depend on the ability of attracting various government agencies to relocate there.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Suzie's Zucchini Casserole

Even though our daughter Suzie has a new baby, she still has time to create wonderful vegetable dishes. Here is one she gave me to try and not only is it healthy and colorful, but delicious.

Suzie's zucchini casserole
2 zucchini (one green, one yellow) sliced thin
1 red pepper (sliced thin)
1 small onion (chopped)
3 large cloves of garlic (minced)
3/4 can Pastene kitchen ready tomatoes splash of water or white wine
salt and pepper to taste
grated parmesan shredded mozzarella cheese
1 cup of Italian bread crumbs

In a frying pan with a little olive oil, saute the garlic, onions and pepper until tender. Add the zucchini, tomatoes, water or wine. Season to taste. Cook uncovered until tender.

Transfer to greased casserole dish and layer the vegetables alternately with the bread crumbs, the mozzarella cheese and the parmesan. Top with the cheese.

Cover and bake in a 350 degree oven for about 35 minutes or until bubbly.q

Marie D'Olimpio has a cookbook with many of the recipes printed in The Quincy Sun. They are available at the Fruit Basket (next to Star Market), Quincy, Previte's Market on Sumner St., Quincy, and Nanci's Barber Shop, 21 Elm St., Braintree.

Library To Celebrate Clown Week Aug. 4-5

International Clown Week will be observed Monday, Aug. 4 and Tuesday, Aug. 5 at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

On Aug. 4, Ed Dugan will perform three 30-minute performances as Ollie the Clown suitable for children age 4 and older. The performance schedule: North Quincy Branch, 381 Hancock St., 11:30 a.m.; Wollaston Branch, 41 Beale St., 1:30 p.m.; Adams Shore Branch, 519 Sea St., 3:30 p.m.

Our Policy On Engagement Photographs And Wedding Announcements

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish photographs with engagement announcements as it always has.

The Sun will also continue to use in wedding announcements, the names of all members of the wedding party including maid or matron of honor, best man, parents, bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit photos with their announcements, and when submitting their wedding photo, to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos to black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the reminder that The Sun is continuing its policy of publishing engagement photos.

The Sun also publishes articles and photos of wedding anniversaries, beginning with the 25th anniversary.

And, as in the past, there is no charge.

SOCIAL

ATWATER/DONNELLY will perform traditional and original folk music Thursday, Aug. 7 from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. on the lawn of the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Square.

Folk Duo In Concert On Library Lawn

The Thomas Crane Public Library's Concerts on the Lawn series will feature Atwater/Donnelly Thursday, Aug. 7.

The concert will be held on the main library lawn, Quincy Square, from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

Audrey Atwater and Elwood Donnelly will present a concert of traditional American folk songs with emphasis on the music of Appalachia. The duo blends harmonies, plays guitar, Appalachian mountain dulcimer, bones, banjo and more.

The self-taught musicians formed a duo in 1987 and have performed widely in the Northeast. Other travels have included trips to Ireland, Eastern Kentucky and North Carolina, Prince Edward Island and the Midwest. In addition to performing, Atwater/Donnelly collect music and have received wide recognition for their recordings. Their most recent release is "Where the Wild Birds Do Whistle," a collection of Appalachian, Celtic, and original work.

The Rhode Island-based musicians bring a variety of American folk music and lore to their performances. Their show is for all ages, offers a variety of songs, and audience participation is encouraged. The program is supported in part by a grant from the Quincy Cultural Council, a local agency supported by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency.

In the event of inclement weather, the concert will be held inside.

International Student Advisory Group Formed At Quincy College

Quincy College President Dr. Jeremiah Ryan announces that a community advisory group has been formed to assist the college with its burgeoning student population.

The college currently enrolls 400 students from 50 countries and five continents. This fall's enrollment is expected to top 500 students.

Ryan said the 12-member volunteer group will work with college staff not only to ease the transition of international students to the Quincy area but also to act as surrogate families to the students.

Ryan has asked City Councillor Paul Harold, known for his expertise on international affairs, to chair the advisory group. Harold is currently president of the Boston Committee on International Visitors (BCIV), Ryan noted, and Quincy College hopes to model many of its international student assistant programs after projects initiated by BCIV.

Children's Chiropractic Information Center Opens

Dr. Bruce Indek has established the Children's Chiropractic Information Center of Quincy.

The free resource is open to the public Monday through Thursday from 10 a.m. to noon and 3 to 6:30 p.m. at Indek Chiropractic on the Parkingway in Quincy Center (next to Quincy EMT and Lisa's Dance Studio). Participating parents will become better informed about children's health issues.

Topics include health care alternatives and options, the latest research information, controversial medical treatments, potential drug/treatment side effects, things your doctor may not have told you, common childhood symptoms and treatment options, and more.

The resource is especially recommendation for parents whose children suffer from asthma, allergies, ear infections, hyperactivity, colic, frequent cold, recurrent antibiotic use, or other common children symptoms.

An optional free consultation can also be scheduled with Dr. Indek for discussion of health care choices. For more informtation, call 774-1700.

Taxi Firm Gets Warning From License Board

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Disciplinary action and the suspension of a license was the warning the Quincy License Board issued to Basil Tawfik, owner of Marina Bay Taxi Service, 86 Sumner St. Quincy Point.

The action taken at Tuesday's meeting followed many months of complaints from neighbors, plus meetings concerning the conditions at the cab company and according to Chairman Joseph Shea the "unsightly" location in a residential area

An analysis by Deputy. Chief Paul Cuddy regarding conditions there included the improper storage of waste oil, 55 gallon drums full of oil, old tires around the premises and the condition of the dumpster brought an irate Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi to ask the board to issue the disciplinary action.

Raymondi said "people want this business moved, the sooner the better."

He spoke of speeding cabs in the neighborhood, violation of environmental laws and the continuing storage of waste materials.

Tawfit fold the board he had been trying to relocate first in Braintree but "that fell through" and now in North Quincy.

Shea, who said the board would do anything to speed the relocation of the company asked Tawfit what they could do to which he answered, "call the landlord", "he's holding things up".

Tawfit said his lease is up in 1999, but he promised the board he would relocate as soon as possible.

The board will continue the hearing at the next meeting.

Clark Chiropractic
Dr. Robert J. Clark

Should You be Seeing a Chiropractor?

Back pain, stiffness, headaches, numbness, tingling and other health problems can often be traced to the spine. Many everyday events such as twisting, bending, poor posture, car accidents and sports injuries can cause the moving bones of the spine to lose their normal position or movement.

Some possible indicators of a problem are:
- One shoulder is lower than the other.
- A head that is leaning too far forward.
- Uneven shoe wear.
- Unequal pant leg length or skirt hemline.

Call today for more information or to schedule an appointment. No charge for the initial consultation.

Bellotti Says He Will Run For Sheriff

(Cont'd from Page 1)

Flood who was appointed by Governor William Weld following Sheriff Clifford Marshall's death last August.

Bellotti said he was confirming the fact he will be a candidate for sheriff to give those interested in running for his state representative seat sufficient time to plan for their election campaigns.

Bellotti's decision not to seek re-election is expected to trigger a scramble for the First Norfolk District state representative seat.

Among the likely candidates are Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott, Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico, Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers and former Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien.

Other names considered potential candidates are:

Joseph Murphy, Rep. Mariano's chief of staff, Atty. Steve Colman, Susan Bell and Brian McGlennon, both of North Quincy, and active in the Democrat and Republican parties respectively.

Bellotti was elected state representative in 1992, nosing out Chretien by 94 votes.

The First Norfolk District includes:

All of Ward 6, three Ward 3 precincts, two Ward 4 precincts, two Ward 5 precincts and one precinct in Randolph.

REV. JAMES KIMMELL (center), pastor of Faith Lutheran Church in Quincy, recently received the Ward 4 Neighborhood Association's Albert J. Conti Award for SouthWest Person of the Year. The award is presented to someone who displays dedication to his or her neighborhood and community. Presenting the award are Acting Association President Thomas Fabrizio (left) and Ward 4 City Councillor Michael D'Amico.

Ayers Seeks New Home For Atlantic Center

Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers, along with other city officials and Atlantic Community Center Director Pay Youmans, is seeking a new home for the center.

Ayers said he has been searching for a new location for the center for several months. Last spring, the city informed the center that the School Department will be taking back the center for school use, as was originally agreed when the department let the center occupy the building years ago.

Stressing the importance of continuing the programs uninterrupted, Ayers said the field of potential new sites has been narrowed down to a small number felt to be best suited to serve the community's needs. He said the community center plays an important role in bringing residents of all ages together in a wide variety of activities.

Ayers added that he has been working with Youmans and other city officials to ensure the programs are not disrupted during the move and that it has adequate space and parking conditions and meets handicap accessibility requirements.

"It is imperative the community center continue its services," he said.

Anastas, 29 Russell St., a freshman undeclared arts major.

Meredith Langille To Enter Tabor Academy

Meredith C. Langille, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adin Langille of Quincy, will enter Tabor Academy in Marion this fall as a member of the freshman class.

Tabor offers new students an opportunity to experience life onboard SSV Tabor Boy, the academy's 90-foot schooner.

Langille is currently participating in Tabor's "Orientation at Sea" program, which brings students, faculty, and student crew members together for six days of sailing, exploring, and learning along the coast of Maine. The program, for which incoming students earn a half-semester's credit in Nautical Science, exposes them to oceanography, marine biology and related issues.

MEETING YOUR TIRE ROD ENDS

When the steering linkage feels "sloppy," it is likely that the tie rod ends are at fault. These are the parts of the steering linkage that connect the rack and pinion (or the center steering link) to the steering knuckles at the front wheels. Sockets in the tie rod ends enable them to rotate when the wheels are turned. As the sockets become worn, the steering linkage becomes sloppy, making it impossible to align the front end properly. When the tie rod ends are checked for wear, all that is needed is moderate force exerted by the hands in a push-and-pull motion. On most vehicles, if this motion shows the tie rod socket to be loose, it is probably worn out and in need of replacement.

HINT: The less severe the driving conditions, and the more frequently that tie rod ends with grease fittings are lubricated, the longer they will last.

Traveling Safely With The Family

Your home is secured and you're packed. Now it's time to go.

While you and your family are traveling, it's important to remember that tourists make tempting targets for thieves. Often lost or distracted, weighed down with bags, and carrying cameras, plane tickets, money and other valuables, unsuspecting travelers can attract crime like a magnet.

The best advice for your and your family is to do all you can to blend in with the crowd.

• Don't display expensive jewelry, cameras, bags, and other items that might draw attention.

• Check maps before you go out so you can tour confidently.

• Stick to well-lighted, well-traveled streets at all times--NO SHORTCUTS.

• Always lock your car when it's parked, even if the stop is brief. Keep valuables out of sigh, preferably locked in the trunk. Don't advertise that you're a tourist by leaving maps and guidebooks on the seat or dashboard--keep them in the glove compartment.

Traveling safely wit your family also means sticking together and keeping an eye on our children at all times. Make sure they know where they're staying (name and address), and teach them what to do if they get lost or separated. You might want to agree on a meeting place, just in case. And by all means, make sure your kids know not to accept rides or favors from strangers.

Make your family vacation a memorable one for all the right reasons. (From National Crime Prevention Council)

ASSAULT AND BATTERY

Both assault and battery are willful torts (intentional wrongs) that may not be completely understood by the average person. Assault is defined as the threat to commit bodily harm by a person who has the apparent ability to do-so. Thus, the person who raises his fists and makes threatening remarks to intimidate someone else may be sued for assault. It is important to note that there need not be contact nor harm to constitute assault. While threatening words are not enough for an assault, moving a hand or weapon as if to cause harm is probably enough to qualify as assault. Battery involves actual and intentional physical contact without a person's consent. Being struck by a weapon or having your handbag grabbed from your arm is battery.

HINT: In addition to the police bringing criminal action against someone who commits assault or battery, the victim may bring civil action to recover expenses arising from injury.

If you have been injured by someone, call 773-2880 today to schedule a free consultation. We need to discuss how the law protects you so that you can receive appropriate compensation for the damages. By law, you are entitled to seek damages in monetary terms so that as an injured party you will be made whole again. Our office is located at Gridley Bryant Office Condominiums, 111 Willard Street. There is no fee until recovery is made on your behalf.

Your Horoscope
by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Some rumors you hear this week are ill-founded and not based on fact. Loved ones will be wrapped up in each other and are likely to forgo outside entertainment over the weekend.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Keep plans down to earth and practical in business this week. Don't leap before you look. A travel invitation comes your way later in the week. The weekend favors romantic interests.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Minor expenses could easily mount up this week, unless you're watchful. In business, you make a fine impression. Some will be receiving an overdue promotion.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You need to pay extra attention to details on the job this week. Also, remember to be tactful with co-workers. Singles are likely to have romantic introductions over the weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) It's best not to underestimate the difficult of a domestic project. Consult with experts if necessary. Loved ones share quality time together this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) An early-week aggravation about a job matter could arise, but overall, it's a lovely week for pleasure interests and romantic concerns. The weekend in particular is fine for this.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You're trying to do too many things at once. You just won't be satisfied until things are just right. After some trial and error, you'll be pleased with the final results of a project.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Though partners may face minor difficulties in communicating early in the week, in the end, you're very much on the same wave length. Enjoy togetherness this weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) There's some danger that you may overspend when shopping this week. Home-based activities are favored over outside social interests. This weekend, have guests over for good times.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Try not to lose concentration at work this week. An adviser doesn't understand your point of view. The weekend brings good news about travel and relationship developments.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) For a while, it may look as if a business project is doomed this week. However, things come happily together by week's end. The weekend could find you celebrating.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Minor aggravations arise in connection with friendship early in the week. Later, there's a lovely accent on happy romance and fun outings.

Waterfront Bill To Provide $700,000 For Quincy

The House of Representatives has passed appropriations legislation containing provisions authored by Congressman William Delahunt to ensure that waterfront projects in Quincy, Cohasset and Marshfield will proceed in the near future.

By a vote of 418 to 7, the full House approved the Energy and Water Development Appropriations for Fiscal Year 1998. The bill includes funding for the following projects:

•Quincy: $700,000 for rebuilding the Town Brook Dam. The funds will launch he final phase of a larger lood control project of Town River and Town Brook.

•Cohasset: $1.342 million for dredging Cohasset Harbor. The harbor was last dredged 20 years ago, and navigation of commercial and recreational vessels has been seriously impeded.

•Marshfield: $296,000 for Green Harbor, where an especially high rate of shoaling requires redredging.

•Cape Cod Canal: $8.55 million for ongoing maintenance and operations, as well as a new radar system to monitor nautical traffic.

The Senate already has passed its version of the appropriations bill. The two chambers will soon begin negotiations to reconcile differences between the two versions on a variety of other issues. However, because the local provisions of the House and Senate-passed bills are nearly identical, the projects are virtually assured of proceeding on schedule.

Delahunt said he is delighted with the success of the projects, but reiterated his concern about some of the obstacles that had to be overcome, especially with regarding to the Cohasset dredging.

In the course of his work on behalf of Cohasset, Delahunt uncovered flaws in the system used by various public agencies to compile and report statistics about commercial shellfish landings--which, in turn, are used to set national funding priorities.

Delahunt said he intends to propose reforms in the reporting system so that affected coastal communities are assured of equitable treatment in the future.

Planning Board Meeting

The Quincy Planning Board was scheduled to meet last night (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. in the second floor Conference Room at City Hall Annex, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The agenda includes: a definitive subdivision on Mullen Avenue, the sale of city-owned property at 55 Sealund St., the corner of Winthrop Street and Winthrop Place, and 73 Bryant Ave.; and any other business that may come before the board.

A Checklist To Avoid Roofing Nightmares

(NAPS)—Avoiding roof problems can save you from costly damage, skyrocketing energy costs, and an unattractive home exterior.

Use this simple checklist to help identify early signs of potential trouble:

• Loose or missing roof shingles.

• Stains on interior or attic walls.

• Shingles curled around the edges.

• Cracked, buckled or blistering shingles.

• Gutters full of granules from shingles.

• Roof flashing that shows wear.

If you checked one or more of these signs, your roof may need replacing.

A deteriorated roof not only detracts from a home's appearance, but can damage its interior.

A deteriorated roof not only detracts from a home's appearance, but can damage its interior, and drive up heating and cooling costs. Roof ventilation is part of GAF Materials Corporation's five-part Weather Beater™ roofing system. Each component works together to provide lasting protection for the home and its occupants. Other elements include "Class A" fire-resistant shingles, a leak barrier, a roof deck protector, and a protective and attractive hip and ridge cap.

Quincy Team In Semi-finals Of Walpole Invitational Tourney

The Quincy Youth Baseball 12-year-old tournament team will play in the semi-finals of the Walpole Invitational Tournament Saturday at 4:30 p.m. at Walpole's Little League facility on West Street.

Quincy advanced to the semi-finals with a hard-fought 4-3 victory over Wellesley. Left-hander Bob Muollo pitched a strong game, allowing two runs on five hits in the first 4 2/3 innings. Steve Pizzi relieved Muollo in the end of the fourth as Wellesley tied the score, 3-3.

The bottom of the sixth began with Wellesley working walks and a hit to left. With the bases loaded, Pizzi was relieved by Brian O'Hanley, who struck out the next three batters to preserve the win for Pizzi and end this exciting game.

Quincy scored two runs in the second when Mookie DeAngelo led off with a double, followed by a walk and a two-run single to left by Ryan Donahue (three singles). In the third, a walk, a single by O'Hanley (two singles), two fielder's choices and a timely hit by Mark Dondero (two singles) produced a third run. Quincy's final run came in the top of the sixth when Dondero singled, moved to second on a fielder's choice by Leo Ahern and a hit by Donahue. Pizzi also had a single for Quincy.

On the defensive side, Quincy sparkled, turning two double plays to cut short Wellesley threats. In the third, first baseman Pizzi fielded a sinking liner to his right and recovered in time to double up a runner at second base. Again in the fourth the defense rose to the occasion when Dondero fielded a grounder at second, tossed to shortstop Paul McAteer covering second, who relayed to first to end the inning. Ryan Hemphill also played well in the outfield, making a good catch to end the third.

In earlier action, Quincy erupted for 12 runs in the first inning and coasted to a 15-2 victory over South Boston. Pizzi was the winning pitcher, scattering six hits over five innings while walking two and fanning six.

In that big first inning, Quincy sent 17 batters to the plate. Southie's Tom Anzelone had early control problems, issuing three consecutive walks to start the game. Pizzi, the cleanup hitter, singled to center to score the first two runs. First-inning triples by McAteer, Dondero and Donahue, along with doubles by Jason Fidalgo, Ryan Rogers and Pizzi continued Quincy's onslaught.

Southie's relievers kept Quincy off the scoreboard until the fourth when Rogers doubled and scored on a Donahue double. Donahue then scored on a heads-up baserunning play and McAteer's sharp double to center drove in Pizzi.

Quincy played excellent defense with right fielder Ahern throwing out a runner at home in the third. In the fourth, Quincy turned a 5-3-2 double play to cut another runner down at the plate. Catcher Donahue played a strong defensive game.

In its first game last week, Quincy fell to the Walpole Americans, 6-3. O'Hanley pitched a good game for Quincy, giving up six runs on nine hits while striking out eight and walking just one batter.

Walpole's Mike Powers kept Quincy batters in check, setting down 12 in a row before being relieved by Mike Decemberle.

BABE RUTH

Firefighters Clinch Title By Defeating Morrisette

After starting the season with a 1-6-1 record, the Quincy Firefighters won 14 straight games and clinched the Quincy Babe Ruth League championship with a 2-1 extra-inning victory over Morrisette Legion last Saturday.

With the game tied 1-1 in the bottom of the eighth, the Firefighters' Mike McCarthy drove in the game-winning run with a shot to right field that scored Joey Holleran. Holleran had reached on a bunt single and moved up when Craig Royce got on via an infield hit.

McCarthy also picked up the win in relief, giving up four hits, two walks and fanning two over three scoreless innings of work. With the bases loaded and two outs in the top of the eighth, McCarthy halted Morrisette's threat with a called strikeout on a 3-2 pitch.

Firefighters' starter Paul Skarzenski pitched five innings, allowing one run, two hits, nine walks and striking out two.

The Firefighters' other run came in the second when Joe Tower, who had double, was singled home by Matt Barrett. Joe Duffy and Tom Walsh collected singles in the fifth, but did not score.

Defensively, Holleran ended the first with a sparkling catch in center field. Chris Walsh was outstanding at short on the front end of eight put outs and a double play in the third.

For Morrisette, Matt Yohe went 5 1/3 innings, allowing one run on three hits, walking one and striking out one. Reliever James Lafleur took the loss, giving up one run on three hits, walking one and fanning one.

Sparking Morrisette offensively were Chris Doherty (3 for 4, walk, single, RBI), Jessie Winter (3 for 4, single, two walks) and Brendan Bowes (single, two walks). Josh Smith reached twice on fielder's choices, Billy Miller hit a single, Danny Long walked twice and Andy Mannix reached on a walk and a fielder's choice.

Standing out defensively was Winter, who ended the first and fourth innings with diving catches in center. Chris Doherty and Billy O'Brien played solid at the corners with 10 put outs.

To reach the championship game, Morrisette erupted for an 11-run fourth inning and knocked off Barry's Deli, 16-10, in a semi-final battle. Winter yielded eight hits and four walks and struck out one, picking up the win in long relief. Starter Keith Doherty pitched 1 1/3 innings, giving up two hits and four walks and fanned one.

Top offensive players for Morrisette included Chris Doherty (two singles, two runs, three RBI), Lafleur (3 for 3, three singles, walk, two runs, four RBI), Yohe (two singles, double, walk, two runs, two RBI), Winter (two-run double, walk, fielder's choice, two runs), Keith Doherty (reached on error, walk, two runs scored, RBI), Smith (two singles, walk), Bowes (two walks, two runs), and Andy Mannix (single, run).

For Barry's, Conrad Leger started and went 3 1/3 innings, allowing four hits, four walks and striking out three. Shawn Boostrom, who was charged with the loss, pitched 1/3 of an inning and yielded six walks. Philip McGillicuddy went the rest of the way, allowing eight hits and two walks and fanning one.

Hitting stars were Boostrom (double, run, three RBI), John Cooper (two singles), McGillicuddy (single, two walks, two runs), Leger (single, run), Charles Vidoli (single, run), Pat Mullen (single, run) and Matt Joyce (three singles, walk, two runs).

Defensively, Boostrom started a 6-4-3 double play to Cooper and McGillicuddy to kill a second-inning threat.

In earlier playoff action, Morrisette defeated the Quincy Police, 7-3, behind the outstanding pitching of Winter (complete-game four-hitter, four walks, seven strikeouts). Winter ended the fourth, sixth and seventh innings with strikeouts.

Leading 4-3 in the sixth, Morrisette added three insurance runs when Jackie Liuzzo walked with the bases loaded and Keith Doherty laced a two-run single.

Morrisette got on the board in the first when Keith Doherty was hit by a pitch, Winter reached on an error and Bowes singled in a run. In the second, Yohe walked, Miller singled, Long walked, Keith Doherty walked to force in a run and Smith singled in another run. In the fifth, Keith Doherty singled and scored on a wild pitch.

On the defensive side, Keith Doherty snagged four fly balls on the run in center and Winter had a hand in all three outs of the seventh, catching a pop fly and recording two strikeouts.

For the Police, Ryan Hutchings (five innings, five hits, eight walks, five strikeouts) and Paul Adams (one inning, one hit, no walks, two strikeouts) did the pitching. Joey Fitzpatrick (RBI double), Sean Adams (RBI single), Frank Alibrandi (walk, one run scored), Ryan Hutchings (RBI double) and Mike Sullivan (single, walk, two runs) did the damage offensively. A 6-4-3 double play by Chris Lockhead to Alibrandi to Adams ended the third.

In its playoff opener, Morrisette broke open a one-run game with a six-run seventh inning and toppled Sons of Italy, 8-1. Winning pitcher Keith Doherty fired a two-hit masterpiece, waking three and fanning 11, including the side in the third and seventh innings.

Morrisette got on the board in the fourth when Chris Doherty singled in Winter, who had walked. Keith Doherty walked and scored in the sixth. Chris Doherty singled in the sixth and seventh for two RBI. Miller (two hits) singled and drove in a run, as did Keith Doherty and Smith in the seventh. Other hits were by Bowes (two singles), Long (single) and Lafleur (single).

The Morrisette infield of O'Brien (first base), Chris Doherty (third base), Lafleur (shortstop) and Long (second base) were outstanding as they recorded all the put outs in the field except one fly to center.

For the Sons, losing pitcher Jeff Peterson went 6 1/3 innings with six hits, five walks and three strikeouts. Bill Croke allowed two hits and one walk and Kyle Piazza yielded two hits in relief of Peterson. Peterson knocked in Jody Bravo with a single in the fourth and got the only other hit with a single in the seventh. Bravo, Shaun Lynch and Piazza shined defensively.

TRIPLE A

American League All-Stars Outshine Nationals, 5-3

The American League defeated the National League, 5-3, in the recent Quincy Youth Baseball Triplé A All-Star at Mitchell Field featuring the league's top 24 12-year-old players.

The outcome of the well-played, competitive contest was in doubt up until the final strikeout in the ninth, which with a runner on third had represented the potential tying run.

In the first inning, Kaitlyn Slowe from Burgin-Platner-Hurley walked, stole second and third, and scored on a passed ball, accounting for National League's first run. In the eighth inning, Slowe walked again, advanced to second on a walk, stole third and scored on another passed ball.

The National League was held to only two hits by American League pitching: a single by Peter Monaco from Quincy PAL in the fifth, and a double by David Andronico from Thrifty Car Rental in the ninth, which scored Rich Zapata of Quincy PAL, who had walked.

The American League had seven hits in the game. Eric Healy of Spillane & Epstein led off the game with a single, but did not score. In the fourth, Scott Rosenberger from Flavin & Flavin hit a single. Local 2222's Paul McLaughlin came up next and hit a single. Healy tried to score on the play but was cut down by a perfect throw to the plate from Locker Room's Richard Churchill. Jeff Tam from Spillane & Epstein followed with a single, but the American League failed to score in the fourth inning despite their three hits.

In the American League's fifth, Local 2222's Bill Barter led off with a single, stole second and third. Tim Smith from Spillane & Epstein walked, and he and Barter scored on a single by James Keenan from Quincy DARE. Spillane & Epstein's Joe Scribi knocked in Keenan, but was later caught trying to score on a passed ball. David Tipton of Yellow Cab hit a single and scored on a Jeff Tam double. The American League scored four runs on five hits in the fourth.

In the eighth inning, Mike Griffin from Flavin & Flavin walked, stole second and rounded out the scoring for the American League on a single by Flavin & Flavin's Steve Molloy.

Jeff Tam, who pitched three innings without giving up a hit while striking out six, went 2-4 at the plate with one RBI, was selected as the American League Most Valuable Player. Kaitlyn Slowe was voted the National League's MVP, having played well in the field and scoring the National's only two runs with heads-up baserunning.

Prior to the game, there was the traditional Home Run derby contest. Peter Monaco was the winning going away, hitting a ball half-way up the hill behind the outfield fence at Mitchell Field.

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought For The Week

Are you a persistent person? Do you have that determination to keep on going when things are tough; that refusal to give in to discouragement?- - - It is a very important quality to possess. Without persistence nothing of importance would ever get done.

"People of mediocre ability," Bernard Baruch once said, "sometimes achieve outstanding success because they don't know enough to quit."

And one of the most famous 'persisters,' Thomas Edison said, 75% of the world's failures wouldn't have failed at all if they'd only kept at what they were trying to do. Our greatest weakness lies in giving up. The most certain way to succeed is always to try-just one more time."

Yes, the will to keep going... the will to refuse to give in... the will to continue is very much to be admired. Being a 'persister' can be hard work, but it can bring much happiness and good feelings.

12.08.081 PURPOSE AND INTENT OF PROVISION

The City Council hereby finds and declares:

A. The primary intended use of the streets and sidewalks of the City is for the movement of people and property. Generally speaking the city considers its streets and the real property interest therein to be a valuable asset, one which it intends to control by regulation and will not allow it to be appropriated by private enterprise.

B. The City has an obligation to the general public to ensure reasonably unobstructed passage over the public ways in a clean, safe and orderly manner.

C. The City has an obligation to protect the health and safety of the public, and to protect persons, including minors, from unwilling exposure to explicit- sexual material.

D. Inappropriately located newsrack can pose a hazard and annoyance to pedestrians, abutting landowners, vehicles and maintenance of public improvements.

E. The uncontrolled construction placement and maintenance of news racks unreasonably interfere with the publics right to safe and unobstructed passage and tends to physically and visually clutter the public right of way and required set backs. Such placement, construction and maintenance of news racks must be reviewed in relationship to proximity, design and use of other existing or proposed street improvements and furniture of the street scape, including, but not limited to, sign and lamp posts, parking meters, bus shelters and benches, planters, telephone booths, traffic devices, bus stop areas, loading zones and street trees and other landscape set backs.

F. The City's several business districts and transportation centers e.g. Quincy Center, Wollaston, North Quincy areas surrounding the Red Line stops (the Quincy Adams stop stands alone) and the Quincy Point Business District are particularly congested and important areas. The aesthetically pleasing and functional design regulation of the use of streets and sidewalks in these business districts and areas planned for future expansion are extremely important in developing and maintaining order for the public good.

G. The City has gone to great length in its street improvements programs and in existing beautification projects with in the city limits with specific expanded programs to create aesthetically pleasing and harmonious street scape which also functions safely and efficiently. Outdoor newsracks, as part of the street scape furniture, should be designed, constructed and placed in the business districts according to a proposed plan to carry out those objectives.

H. Historically, the use or the streets for commercial enterprise has been precluded to preserve the streets for the public purposes and to avoid the appropriation of public property or the creation of unfair economic advantage to business competing in the business districts identified above on private property. Distribution of newspapers has been a notable, but limited exception allowed in business districts to accommodate convenient dissemination of the news to encourage an informed citizenry, even though such distribution from news racks competes with normal retail or subscription methods. Use of the streets in commercial districts where subscriptions is less common should not be absolutely denied, but is subordinate to the streets use for public purposes. This private use of the streets afforded certain constitutional protection under freedom of expression, is being regulated to ensure subordination to public purposes and protection to the city and its residents by indemnifying the city against any liability arising out of this use of public property.

I. Daily newspapers of general circulation provide the most comprehensive and detailed information regarding local advertising and state and local news which is of great interest to those in the Business District affected and becomes stale on a daily basis requiring rapid turnover. It is not inappropriate to give daily publications of general and large circulation priority when site within the various business districts are limited. Nor is not inappropriate to require relinquishment of a multiple rack to a newcomer in the event of localized saturation to achieve dispersal and nonproliferation.

J. The above strong compelling governmental interests compete against public interests in freedom of expression and the private commercial interests of distributors. The city desires, in the ordinance codified in this chapter, to balance those interests. Therefore, it requires registration to reasonably regulate the use of the streets and street scapes by newsracks, as to time, place and manner, and to provide for efficient and reasonable administration and enforcement of the regulations.

12.08.082 DEFINITIONS

The terms as used in this chapter include:

A. "Business Districts" include: Quincy Center bordered on the north by Dimmock Street, School/Elm Street to the south, Newcombe Street/ Woodward Avenue to the east, and Burgin Parkway to the west. E. "Roadway" that portion of the street improvement designed or ordinarily used for vehicular travel. When curb improvements exist "roadway extends from the back of the curb across the street to the back of other curb.

F. "Sidewalks" any surface provided for exclusive use by pedestrians.

G. "Street" all that area dedicated to public use between property fines for public street purposes, and shall include, but not be limited to roadways, parkways, alleys and sidewalks.

12.08.083 REGISTRATION REQUIRED, when

A. It is unlawful for any person, or corporation to operate, install, or place any News racks for the display, sale or distribution of printed material outside a building.

1. Contrary to the standards of this chapter and,

2. Without registering each such Newsrack location prior to or within two weeks of its placement and obtaining a certificate of registration under the provisions of this chapter.

B. Any person placing a news rack on the public way shall hold the City harmless from any claims arising out of the existence or use of the newsrack. A certificate of registration shall be issued after review by the department for tentative location approval by the traffic and city engineer, after finding compliance with the terms of this chapter. Upon certification registration stickers shall be issued by the city. Thereafter, permanent securing may be completed according to specifications established by the city traffic engineer/city engineer.

C. Any registrant desiring to install hard surfacing in the street for newsrack location must obtain registration certification and a permit to work in the public way from the DPW before placement.

12.08.084 REGISTRATION, FILING TIME:

Newsracks regulated by this chapter shall be filed with the licensing officer on a registration agreement provided by the city prior to or within two weeks after placement of News racks of, in the case of existing News racks, within six weeks after the effective date of the ordinance codified in this chapter.

12.08.085 REGISTRATION, INFORMATION REQUIRED:

The information to be supplied by the applicant shall include the following:

A. The name, address, telephone number, and current business license of the registrant.

B. The name of the publication(s) to be distributed from each newsrack.

C. Additionally, if the registration includes newsracks on the streets within the business district, the type of publication, the number of times published per week, its average circulation number per publication in the city, and the assignment priority claimed.

D. A photograph or diagram reflecting the size, color, weight and other details or specifications of construction and appearance together with a description of the method proposed for securing the newsrack.

E. The location of each news rack proposed for registration must be identified as to:

1. If it is within the business district.

2. If it is on public or private property; if private, disclosure of the private property owner or agent granting permission for placement. 3. A scaled site plan or photograph with a measurement for scaling, showing the newsracks relationship to other existing structures or street scape improvements in the immediate vicinity to verify conformance.

12.08.086 REGISTRATION- PROCESSING FEE

A nonrefundable registration fee of $____ per requested newsrack shall accompany the initial registration form and annual renewals, to offset the administrative expense of registration and regulation. AU registrants subject to registration under this chapter shall have current business and/or other applicable licenses.

12.08.087 REGISTRATION-ADMINISTRATION REVIEW

A. Licensing shall refer all initial and renewal registration for review as follows:

1. The department shall review applications for compliance with zoning restrictions and provisions of this chapter, and make tentative assignments for locations as provided herein. If the Director finds any newsrack does not conform to the ordinances, the Director may deny certification of the particular newsracks or may make a tentative assignment conditioned upon correcting adjustments of a minor nature,

2. Certification for conditional assignments shall not be issued until the corrections are made and may be denied after ten days' written notice and continued noncompliance. Conforming newsracks shall be given tentative assignment. The Directors decision shall be final unless appealed in writing to the commission within thirty (30) days, with a request for a hearing. Such hearings shall be held within thirty (30) days of the request.

3. Registrations receiving original location tentative assignments that involve public property shall be forwarded to the traffic/city engineers for review of placement and to the city engineer specifically for specification of proposed securing and returned to the reviewing administrator. Registrations involving private property shall be referred directly back to licensing. Registrations not certified or denied within sixty (60) days shall be deemed certified.

B. Registration receiving favorable review shall be returned by department to licensing for certification and issuance of registration stickers.

12.08.088 REGISTRATION-TERM RIGHTS GRANTED LIABILITY AGREEMENT

A. Registration certification shall be valid for a calendar year period ending December 31.

B. Registration does not grant registrant any property rights whatsoever, and registrants use of public property is subject to termination and subordinate to uses of the public property when the city determines those needs are incompatible with maintenance of the newsrack or that readjustments required for saturation under 12.08.089 below. If a registration is terminated for public need, the registrant may be given the opportunity to reinstate the location if it becomes available within the same calendar year.

C. The registrant shall indemnify the city from any and all claims arising out of the use of public property related to the placement, installation, use, maintenance and removal of newsracks and insure the city against any and all related liability.

12.08.089 REGISTRATION-NOT TRANSFERRABLE

Newsrack registration shall be valid only for newsrack, space, location and publication specified. Registration and renewals shall be personal and are not transferable in any manner to other locations, publications or registrants.

12.08.090 INSTALLATION-OPERATION AND REMOVAL

Except where superseded elsewhere in this chapter or its successor, any newsrack which in part rests upon, in, or over any sidewalk or parkway or outside of a building in the front yard (as defined in the City of Quincy Chapter) shall be constructed, installed and maintained and operated in compliance with the following specifications and regulations.

A. Specifications of constructions and methods of installation and removal.

1. No newsrack shall exceed sixty (60) inches in height, thirty (30) inches in width and twenty four (24) inches in depth.

2. No newsracks shall weigh in excess of two hundred sixty five (265) pounds when empty, including pedestal and base.

3. Each newsrack and identification thereon shall be of unobtrusive neutral colors of grey, black or brown to blend into the street scape. Lettering may be of black and/or white. However, the bottom six inches of the newsrack door may be identified with the publication.

4. No newsrack shall be used for advertising signs or publicity purposes other than identification or for dealing with the display, sale or purchase of the newspaper or news periodical therein.

5. Newsracks are not to be secured until registration is certified. No newsrack may be secured by chaining. No newsrack may be secured by bolting or otherwise to any building or permanently fixed object not owned by the owner of the Newsrack, without permission by the property owner or its agent. Newsracks may not be secured to publicly owned fixed objects of improvements, such as sidewalks, without complying with bonding, construction and removal specifications of the city engineer. Where installation is limited to bolting into an existing sidewalk a permit to work in the public way is not required. No bolting into brick pavers will be allowed.

6. Upon removal of any newsrack, the owner shall be responsible to restore the site. Where bolting has been used, restoration shall include removal of bolts, grouting of holes, and necessary surface or subsurface repair.

B. Placement and Maintenance.

1. No newsrack shall be installed, used or maintained which projects onto, into or over any part of the roadway of any public street, of which rests, wholly or in part, upon, along or over any portion of a roadway.

2. No newsrack shall be installed, used of maintained which in whole or in part rests upon, in or over any sidewalk, parkway, required front yard setback, or when:

a. Such installation, use or maintenance endangers the safety of persons or property;

b. Such site or location interferes with public utility purposes, public transportation purposes or other governmental use;

c. Such newsrack unreasonably interferes with or impedes the flow of pedestrian or vehicular traffic, the ingress into or egress from any residence, place of business, or any legally parked vehicle;

d. It interferes with the use of or access to poles, posts, bus benches or shelters, traffic signs or signals, signal control boxes, hydrants, mailboxes or other objects permitted at or near such location;

e. Such newsrack interferes with the cleaning of any sidewalk or roadway by the use of mechanical cleaning machinery; or

f. The installation intrudes into required landscaped yard setbacks.

3. No newsrack may be placed within a front yard setback when the same is required by zoning.

4. No newsrack which in whole or in part rests upon, in or over any sidewalk or parkway or elsewhere, shall be placed, installed or maintained:

a. Within three (3) feet of any marked or un-marked crosswalk being the extension of the sidewalk;

b. Within three (3) feet of any curb face;

c. Within ten (10) feet of any fire hydrant, traffic signal box, fire call box, police call box, or other emergency facility;

d. Within five (5) feet of any driveway;

e. Within the parkway adjacent to a designated bus stop unless it is behind bus bench or shelter;

f. Within three (3) feet of a bench or bus shelter existing outside of a designated bus stop, unless it is behind the bench or shelter;

g. At any location whereby the unobstructed sidewalk passageway of pedestrians is reduced to less than three-fourths of the sidewalk width for sidewalks twelve (12) feet wide or less, or to a minimum of ten (10) feet where sidewalk width exceeds twelve (12) feet. Where this provision precludes the placement of newsracks on the face of a block, a distributor may request prior approval to construct a concrete pad at its expense in a grass parkway near the corner as part of its registration application. No work can be done until the registration certification occurs and registrant obtains a permit to work in the public way under Title 12 of the Quincy Code from the DPW.

h. Within three (3) feet of any area improved with lawn (excluding grass parkways), flowers, shrubs, trees or landscape planters, etc.;

i. Within three (3) feet of any display window of any building abutting the sidewalk or parkway, or in such a manner as to impede or interfere with the reasonable use of such window for display purposes:

j. Which is not located on hard surfacing;

k. Within fifty (50) feet of another newsrack containing the same publication and/or

l. Which encroaches or overhangs into a required front yard setback.

5. Newsracks shall only be placed toward the curb (or curbside of a sidewalk) or adjacent to the wall of a building, and the latter is preferred where available and appropriate. Newsracks placed adjacent to the wall of a building shall be parallel to and within six (6) inches of the wall. No newsrack shall be placed or maintained on a sidewalk or parkway opposite a registered newsrack.

6. If the standards herein can be maintained at an approved newsrack location, newsracks may be placed side-by-side or voluntarily attached to one another. However, no more than three newsracks, whether so attached or side-by-side, may be registered at the same newsrack location.

7. No newsrack location shall be located within one hundred (100) feet of another registered newsrack location on the same face of a block.

8. Each newsrack shall be maintained in a clean, neat and attractive condition and in good repair at all times. Newsracks suffering vandalism, damage or which are in need of paint are neither neat nor attractive.

9. Every person who places or maintains a newsrack on the streets of the city shall have such person's name, address and telephone number affixed thereto in a place where the information can easily be seen. Additionally, the newsrack must display the city's registration sticker for the location on the price plate (face plate) of pedestal. Replacement stickers may be obtained from the city at cost as needed for newsracks that are repaired or replaced. The stickers will not exceed eight (8) square inches in size.

10. No person shall sell, offer for sale, advertise or display, keep or maintain in any newsrack any newspaper or other publication which is prohibited by state laws or the ordinances of the city from the sale or distribution to minors.

C. Tentative Assignment of Registered Locations.

1. The planning director shall review registrations, make tentative assignments of locations conforming to the criteria of this chapter, and map the same. Outside the City Business Districts, after the initial transition period where priority will be on a first-come, first-served basis. In the event registrations complete, the date of city's receipt of the fees and completed registration form shall govern.

D. Residential Zones

1. Where structures in residential zones house legal nonconforming business uses, the placement and registration of newsracks abutting or closely paralleling the structures exterior walls shall be allowed. Such placement is deemed a de minimus expansion of the nonconforming use, provided the newsrack also complies with the general standards set forth above in this section. However, this restricted accommodation relating to allowing newsracks to abut exterior walls, shall not be interpreted to allow a newsrack to be located in a landscaped setback existing in front of the nonconforming use, nor in the sidewalk or parkway across from the structure.

12.08.091 CITY BUSINESS DISTRICT STANDARDS

Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 2.08.082, or its successor, newsracks outside buildings within the City Business District must also comply with additional specifications of construction herein, and be located in approved newsrack locations complying with the following regulations as to time, place and manner:

A. Construction Specifications.

1. Within the City Business District, newsracks outside buildings shall be of the fixed type, of a flat black color according to specifications of the planning commission as illustrated in that diagram attached as Exhibit 1 to the ordinance codified in this section. Exhibit 1 and all other exhibits designated in this chapter are incorporated herein by reference, and are attached to the original retained by the city recorder. The city recorder shall retain three (3) copies of all exhibits on file for public reference, but the ordinance codified herein shall be published without the attachments.

B. Placement at Designated Location.

1. In addition to general standards of Section 12.08.090, or its successor, applicable to public and private property, newsracks within the street in the City Business District shall be located only at those designated locations illustrated on Exhibit 2 attached and incorporated by reference.

2. Newsracks containing the same publication may not be located within fifty feet of each other, whether on private or public property.

3. Of the three (3) newsrack spaces available for assignment in the street at each of the four designated locations per block face, one newsrack space shall be reserved as a pool for non-daily registrants, and two (2) shall be reserved for daily publications.

C. Original Assignments and Renewals.

1. Tentative assignments of registered spaces on initial or original registrations shall be made from available locations by the planning director, who shall map registered newsracks for easy reference.

2. Prioritization. In the event there is a conflict between eligible newspapers seeking the same space at an approved location and these are insufficient spaces from the reserved pools to accommodate requests, the planning director shall assign locations guided by the following priorities:

LEGAL NOTICE LEGAL NOTICE LEGAL NOTICE

a. A transition priority shall be given to publications with newsracks at designated locations as of _____, the date of the public hearing of the ordinance codified in this chapter, thereafter

b. First priority shall be given to newsracks for the sale of newspapers of general circulation which are published daily, being at least five times per week;

c. Second priority shall be given to newsracks used for the sale of newspapers which are published daily, at least five times per week, which are not newspapers of general circulation;

d. Third priority shall be given to newsracks used for the sale of weekly publications, being published at least once but less than five days per week.

e. In the event there are eligible publications of the same priority competing for original registrations of the same newsrack spaces at approved locations, the planning director shall assign available spaces giving priority in the following order to:

1. The earlier date of the completed registration form;
ii. The highest comparative average daily circulation within the city;
iii. The higher number of publications per week.

D. Registration Renewal of Newsrack Locations on Public Property.

1. Original registrations of newsracks on public property in the City Business District may be annually renewed upon application be payment of fees for up to five (5) consecutive years for a total of six (6) years, accompanied with submission of a recent dated photograph to verify proper placement. Registration renewal should be certified be the planning director, without referral to the transportation engineer or city engineer unless there is a violation of the terms of the registration ordinance or other just cause. Any registration which is not renewed annually by February 1st shall expire, subjecting the newsrack to removal and the space to availability for reassignment. After January 30th, licensing shall send notice to registrants which have not applied for renewal, giving each at least ten days' written notice to renew or remove the rack and the availability for reassignment of any unrenewed newsrack spaces. After February 15th, licensing shall inform the planning director and former registrants of the unrenewed newsrack spaces which have expired.

E. Installation.

1. Upon registration certification, newsracks may be permanently fixed pursuant to specification from the city engineer, subject to the terms of the registration agreement.

F. Relief From Localized Saturation and Adjustment for new coming daily newspapers.

1. Within a five hundred (00) foot radius (reasonable walking distance) of any given intersection in the City Business District, in addition to a pool of twenty four (24) spaces reserved for non-dailies, there should be a minimum pool for daily newspapers of up to forty eight (48) newsrack spaces at twenty four (24) locations within the public right-of-way, excluding additional newsracks outside or inside buildings on private property. Said number should be more than adequate to provide reasonable access to newspapers of daily circulation. Saturation of all available spaces by daily newspapers is likely to occur only:

a. At a relatively few localized areas with special marketing attractions; and

b. Unless the high number of spaces available are registered by the relatively few eligible daily newspapers in multiple locations maximizing their marketing sites.

2. In order to provide reasonable access while achieving the public objectives of nonproliferation and dispersal, saturation shall be addressed, not by increasing the number of spaces, but by reassignment, thereby reducing the number of multiple racks held by a single publication.

3. Saturation at a given intersection shall be deemed to occur if every newsrack space available for the pool of daily newspapers on the public right-of-way within a five hundred (500) foot of saturation radius of any given intersection is registered. In the event such saturation at a given intersection precludes a newcoming newspaper of daily circulation from obtaining at least one newsrack, it may apply to the planning commission for relief by reassignment; provided:

a. It has no newsracks on private or public property within the saturation radius:

b. Multiple registered newsrack spaces within the saturation radius are held by individual daily publications: and

c. The newcomer is willing to pay the registration holder for the expense of physically removing the registered rack, and the current registration fee.

4. Upon receipt of such request, the planning commission may then require the daily publication holding the highest number of registered newsracks on the public-right-of-way within the saturation radius to relinquish one space of the registrant's choosing for reassignment to the newcomer. If it fails to identify its selection, the choice shall be made by the planing commission.

5. In order to consider such a request for relief, the newcomer's request must be submitted to the planning commission and considered in a public hearing of which written notice to all registrants within the designated saturated radius is mailed at least ten (10) days prior to the hearing. Such written notice shall identify the three registrants holding the highest number of multiple newsrack spaces within the public way of the saturation radius, and advise them to appear and be prepared to select a newsrack to be relinquished or forfeit that selection to the planning commission. As between registrants that tie for the highest number of newsracks, the planning commission shall draw by chance.

12.08.092 TRANSITION IMPLEMENTATION

1. Newsracks which are in place outside of the City Business District or are on private property inside the City Business District prior to the effective date of the ordinance codified in this chapter which do not conform as to color, construction or location shall have a grace period through the end of the year in which to comply with all provisions of this ordinance and register. Existing newsracks on public property in the City Business District shall have a grace period of six weeks from said effective date in which to comply and register. For the remainder of the year, such nonregistered newsracks on public streets in the City Business District shall not be subject to enforcement for nonconforming features.

12.08.093 UNLAWFUL ACTS CORRECTION NOTICE REMOVAL BY CITY WHEN

A. If any newsrack is found to be in violation of the provisions of this chapter, including an expired registration, a notice of citation stating the violation, date of violation(s), the city's intention to remove the newsracks if the violation is not corrected or if a hearing is not requested within ten (10) days of the notice, that upon removal, the location shall be available for reassignment, and the procedure for obtaining an appeal hearing before the planning director, if desired. A request for an appeal shall stay removal. Such notice shall be delivered or mailed postage prepaid to the registrant at the address listed on the registration. If the newsrack is not registered, notice shall be sent to the address listed on the newsrack, and if none, to the publisher. If an appeal hearing before the planning commission is requested, it shall be scheduled to provide the registrant ten (10) days' notice unless a shorter time is agreed to by the registrant.

B. Alternatively, where a violation involves a newsrack on public property that is improperly positioned or secured, which can easily be remedied upon the site, the city may physically move, realign, remove such attachment or otherwise move such rack or racks upon public property, in order to restore them to a legal condition. The city shall then send a notice of the violation and the corrective measures taken to the registrant, or to the responsible party indicated upon any unregistered newsrack. If the newsrack is unregistered and bears no name of a responsible party, the notice shall be sent to the publisher.

C. Any newsrack which has been the subject of a violation notice mailed or delivered to the registrant and which remains in violation of the provisions stated on the notice past the ten (10) day correction period and for which no hearing has been requested, shall be removed by the city and stored in a convenient place. Upon removal, the location shall be available for reassignment. The city shall notify the owner or registrant thereof by mailing a Notice of Removal to the last known address of the owner as described in subsection A above. Such notice shall state the date the newsrack was removed, the reasons therefor, the location and procedure for claiming the newsrack, and the procedure for obtaining a post-removal hearing before the planning director, if desired. Any such newsrack so removed and stored pursuant to these provisions shall be released to the owner thereof, if claimed within forty five (45) days after such removal, and upon the payment of reasonable charges of removal and storage therefor. Upon failure of the owner to claim such newsrack and pay the reasonable charges within forty five (45) days after the mailing of the written notice of removal, such newsrack shall be deemed to be unclaimed property in possession of the police department and may be disposed according to ordinance.

ORDER NO. 97-071
ORDERED: June 16,1997

Be it ordained by the City Council that the revised ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1993, as amended be further amended by adding in Chapter Two a new section, Section 2.138, entitled Community Oriented Policing and Problem Solving Commission.

COMMUNITY ORIENTED POLICING AND PROBLEM SOLVING COMMISSION SECTION 2.138.010: PREAMBLE

Over the years, maintaining public order has shifted from being primarily the responsibility of families, communities and individuals — assisted by police officers — to being primarily the responsibility of the police alone. In the process, enforcing laws and exacting penalties have become the principal if not the sole response to public order and safety issues.

Community Policing reverses that trend by recognizing that the community at large is responsible for the conditions that generate crime. Deterrence, law enforcement and incarceration, by themselves cannot resolve the underlying conditions that cause crime and social disorder. In fact, specific responsible people within the community have as much to do with the overall policing of the community and the regulation of conduct as uniformed police officers.

To cultivate this transition, an educational process and heightening of awareness must take place. The community must accept and share responsibility with the police for social order and both must work cooperatively in order to identify problems and develop pro-active community wide solutions. The police must acknowledge that they cannot do the job alone-recognize that they have valuable resources available to them within the community and understand that the community must be involved in the problem solving process. In turn, government and community leaders must recognize and accept responsibility for keeping their neighborhoods safe. Communities must take a unified stand against crime, violence and disregard for the law. The police department must help build stronger, more safe-sufficient communities — communities in which crime and disorder will not thrive.

Community Policing is democracy in action. All who share a concern for the welfare of the neighborhood should bear responsibility for safeguarding that welfare.

SECTION 2.138.020: ESTABLISHMENT, MEMBERSHIP, TERM AND SHARE

There shall be a community oriented policing and problem solving commission (hereinafter referred to as THE COMMISSION consisting of nineteen (19) members appointed by the Mayor of the City of Quincy unless otherwise noted. Commission members shall include permanent members and private members. The following permanent members shall serve on the Commission until their successor is appointed: Police and Fire Chiefs, Executive Director of Park Department, Director of Recreation, Superintendent of Schools, City of Quincy Captain Community Policing, City of Quincy President Police Patrolmens Union and a Community Police Officer appointed by the City of Quincy Chief of Police. The following members shall be asked to serve on the Commission until their successor is appointed - the Executive Director of the Quincy Housing Authority, an individual from the Probation Department of the Quincy District Court appointed by the Presiding Justice of the Quincy District Court, an individual from the Norfolk County Sheriff's Department appointed by the Norfolk County Sheriff, a representative from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Division of Social Services, and an individual from the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office appointed by the Norfolk County District Attorney. In addition, the Mayor shall make every effort to appoint three (3) private members from the following: Court System, Social Service Agencies and Clergy. In addition, there shall be three (3) neighborhood representatives from a Community Policing area appointed by the Mayor upon the recommendation of the Community Police Officer. The following shall be resources to the Board: Commissioner of Public Works, Planning Director, Commissioner of Public Health, Director of Inspectional Services and business leaders. All members of the Commission shall serve without compensation. A vacancy shall be filled for the remainder of the term. Upon the expiration of the term of office of a member, his/her successor shall be appointed in the same manner aforesaid. The Chair of the Commission shall be the Police Chief of the City of Quincy. There shall be an Executive Director of the Commission who shall be a resident of the City of Quincy. The compensation of the Executive Director shall be established by the Mayor.

SECTION 2.138.030: RULES AND REGULATIONS

A majority of the Commission shall constitute a quorum and the affirmative vote of a majority of all the members of the Commission shall be necessary in order to adopt any motion or resolution. The Commission shall, from time to time, establish rules for its proceedings. Regular and Special Meetings of the Commission shall be held at a time and place fixed by the Commission. The sessions of the Commission shall be open to the public and every matter coming before the Commission for action shall be put to a vote, the result of which shall be duly recorded. A full and accurate journal of the proceedings of the Commission shall be kept and shall be open. All existing collective bargaining agreements by the City of Quincy and all employees of the Quincy Police Department are recognized and shall be binding upon all actions of the Commission.

SECTION 2.138.040: FUNCTIONS AND PURPOSE

The Commission is established to create a Quincy organization which will assist Quincy's communities in building partnerships with the Quincy Police Department and in assisting the Quincy Police Department in its mission to serve and to protect and to enhance and expand community policing and problem solving efforts. The work, function and purpose of the Commission shall be limited to the following:

1. Prepare a strategic plan and mission statement based on needs and objectives of community and to update same as needed and deemed necessary.
2. Identify and prioritize problems that plague communities.
3. Develop, implement and support community police officers with innovative and effective responses.
4. Organize neighborhood groups of citizens to become activists with City officials to deter criminal activity.
5. Support the community police officer in his/her efforts to identify problems and solve problems within the community.
6. Cultivate cooperative problem solving relationships between private and public agencies and the community.
7. Educate and inform the public about community policing.
8. Establish and maintain a channel for Quincy residents to volunteer and/or assist in Quincy's community policing efforts.
9. Foster a recognition that community policing is democracy in action that requires the active participation of all citizens.
10. Maximize Quincy's share of grant monies.

Quincy College MassPlan Participant

President Jeremiah Ryan of Quincy College announces its participation in the state's low cost college load program the MassPlan.

The MassPlan is designed to help families who do not receive enough financial aid from traditional sources and who need assistance financing college costs. Quincy College is one of more than 75 colleges and universities in Massachusetts that offer families a low-cost way to pay for college.

The 1997-98 interest rates for the MassPlan load program have been set at 7.5 percent fixed and 6.5 percent variable. The rates are among the lowest interest rate college loans available nationwide.

The MassPlan is a 15-year loan and has no application fees, no federal red tape, and no prepayment penalty charges. The MassPlan fixed load rate of 7.5 percent (APR 8.13 percent) has a monthly payment of $9.63 per $1,000 borrowed and the variable load rate of 6.57 percent (APR 7.18 percent) has a monthly payment of $9.09 per $1,000 borrowed.

A further advantage of the MassPlan is the availability of Home Equity Option. When a MassPlan load is secured with the Home Equity Option, interest may be tax-deductible with an effective rate that may be as low as 5.18 percent.

The MassPlan is offered to families through a partnership amount the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, MEFA - The Massachusetts Educational Financing Authority, and over 75 participating Massachusetts colleges and universities. Any family interested in receiving an application or more information should contact the financial aid office at Quincy College or MEFA at 1-800-MEFA (6332).

exam score when appointed the head man in his department by Sheets.

Asked what other factors are considered other than the examination, the mayor would not comment.

Kelly and Frane both began working for the Quincy Police Department on Dec. 6, 1971. Kelly was promoted to sergeant, lieutenant and captain in June 1985, April 1991 and January 1994 respectively. Frane received the same promotions in January 1980, April 1987 and December 1992.

The Civil Service examination was given May 10. Initially, two other department members--Capt. Fred Laracy, day platoon captain and Capt. Robert Salvaggio, head of the detectives--also had applied for the exam, but Kelly and Frane ended up being the only two men to take the test.

Capt. Donald Riley, the department's fifth captain and inspector of divisions, did not apply to take the examination.

Mullen, who will be 65 on Aug. 24, has been chief nearly seven years and a member of the police department for 41 years.

Siciliano, Three Others Attend Disaster Preparedness Conference

Quincy Emergency Management Deputy Director Tony Siciliano and three other Quincy residents attended the Federal Emergency Management Agency's (FEMA) recent Community and Family Disaster Preparedness Conference.

The conference was held July 8-10 at the National Emergency Training Center of the Emergency Management Institute in Emmitsburg, Md.

Siciliano was accompanied by three representatives of the Quincy Emergency Management Explorer Post 1/Boy Scouts of America based out of Quincy High School: Brian Wilkosky, 20, and Steve Pasquale, 19, both Quincy High graduates and Daniel Cannon, 15, who currently attends the school.

The Quincy group was invited by Dr. Wayne Blanchard, higher education project manager at the training center and Dr. Ralph Swisher, program manager for the Community and Family Disaster Preparedness Program.

Siciliano said the purpose of the conference is to teach attendees various methods of disaster safety so they can take that information and pass it on to younger students.

"The kids learned a lot," he said. "FEMA's intent is to have an Explorer Post in every city and town across the nation."

He added that the three young men accompanying him attended a variety of disaster safety panels and actually spoke before the entire conference.

"They had an opportunity to discuss our programs here in the Northeast," he said.

The specific objectives of the conference, as outlined in a booklet given to attendees, are:

•Explore ways of strengthening school-age youth programs.

•Develop strategies for promising mitigation among public audiences.

•Strengthen disaster education partnerships at all levels.

Siciliano, who noted that FEMA paid all expenses for attendees, said he plans to follow the example of the national agency locally.

"My intent is to open an Explorer Post in every city and town in southeastern Massachusetts," he said. "I'm working on that right now. That would give us about 100 posts between here and Cape Cod and the Islands."

Harold Seeks Delay Of Shipyard Tax Plan

(Cont'd from Page 1)

Harold supported it.

"I'm moving at the direction of the City Council," he said.

Regarding Harold's two major concerns, Sheets said the property value is $10 million, the amount Greek shipbuilder Sotirios Emmanouil of Massachusetts Heavy Industries paid for the shipyard. As far as a site plan review is concerned, he said, he will discuss the matter with Harold and Planning Director Richard Meade.

"I'm sure Sotirios Emmanouil doesn't have any problems making the site plans available," he said.

Sheets said Emmanouil's plans take up about 85 acres of the shipyard in Quincy and 50 in Braintree. He said it is "premature" to discuss Braintree's plans for the site, since the Town Meeting has not yet finalized anything.

In fact, noting that the Town Meeting members will be asked tonight (Thursday) by town officials to approve a five-year, 100 percent tax break for Emmanouil--the same deal Quincy gave him--Sheets said, "Basically, they (Braintree) have followed our lead, our direction. We're not following their lead."

Harold, however, said the Braintree plan "has been in hand for at least a week." He noted that there are different ways to appraise the value of a property--not just the sale price--and Braintree has hired an appraiser to do so. And a site plan review would be helpful, he added, because he has reason to believe the highly-touted robotics plant that is part of Emmanouil's plan will be built on the Braintree portion of the shipyard.

"That's my biggest concern," he said.

Harold said he plans to attend tonight's Town Meeting in Braintree to see what he can learn.

Only 3 Preliminary Election Contests Sept. 16

(Cont'd from Page 1)

McCauley and Sabina Kavanaugh Stenberg of Clay St., a retired businesswoman and senior citizens advocate.

One of the three seats will be vacant as Councillor Michael Cheney has decided not to seek re-election.

Ward 4 incumbent Michael D'Amico, seeking a second term, is opposed by Stephen Hawko of White St., an engineer for the Department of Environmental Protection.

Six candidates filed for school committee, one short of the seven needed for a preliminary contest.

Incumbents Jo-Ann Bragg and Ronald Mariano are candidates for re-election. Also filing Tuesday were:

Kevin Coughlin of Small St., assistant chief probation officer; Michael McFarland, former executive secretary to Mayor James and restaurant owner; Tracy Wilson of Tirrell St., an attorney and labor-employment consultant; and John Rodophele Jr. of Grenwold Rd., a computer firm owner.

One of the three school committee seats is being vacated by McCauley to run for councillor-at-large.

The candidates for councillor-at-large, school committee, and Ward 4 will square off in the Nov. 4 city final election as will the winners of the Sept. 16 preliminary election in Wards 1 and 6.

Six Residents On UMass Chancellor's, Dean's Lists

Six Quincy residents have been named to either the Chancellor's List or the Dean's List at the University of Massachusetts at Dartmouth.

Deirdre A. O'Donnell, a humanities and social sciences major, has been named to the Chancellor's List.

Dean's List students and their majors are: Debra M. Callahan, management; Alyssa L. Gilman and Louise M. Mahoney, both humanities and social sciences; and Stephanie J. Parrotta and Geraldine V. Tronca, both psychology.

WOLLASTON SEWER LINES WILL BE TESTED FOR LEAKS

Wollaston--The municipal sewer system will be tested for leaks between August 4, 1997 and August 15, 1997. The location of the work is within the area bounded by Quincy Shore Drive, Beach Street, Hancock Street, and Fenno Street.

Smoke will be released into the system through manholes and service connections so that leaks or cracks in the lines can be located.

The smoke that will be used is not harmful to people and furnishings. It is almost odorless, leaves no residue, and dissipates through open windows.

Any smoke within a building should be immediately reported to the person in the street conducting the test or by calling Quincy DPW at (617) 376-1910.

Cherished Memories Of Teacher, Student Killed In Maine

Crash Victims Remembered With Fondness

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

A beloved Quincy school teacher and popular high school student killed in a tragic car accident last Friday in Maine were remembered for their kindness, selflessness and zest for life as they were laid to rest yesterday.

Robert Garner, 57, of Weymouth, a librarian/visual arts teacher at the Broad Meadows School, and Jonathan P. Barrieau, 16, who would have begun his sophomore year at Quincy High next month, were killed in an auto accident Friday night on the Maine Turnpike.

"Bob never said 'I'm too busy or I can't help you," Broad Meadows Middle School teacher Donna Willoughby recalled fighting back tears. "When I was trying to learn computers, he was so patient and was real helpful. He wanted to make you feel like you could do it."

Willoughby, a seventh grade social studies teacher who knew Garner for 10 years, also knew Barrieau whom she taught several years ago.

"Jon just had that winning smile, a real enthusiasm for things, a true zest for life. He was peppy and full of life and was working on getting focused and growing up.

"He came back to (Broad Meadows) and talked to the people there. . . They'll both be missed."

Barrieau, who had a learner's permit, was driving Garner's car when it rolled over on a Maine highway and landed upside down in a marsh.

Garner and Barrieau were killed. Two other teenagers driving in the car, Daniel Kelly and Joseph Tower, both 15, escaped without serious injury. Kelly and Tower also attended Broad Meadows School.

Garner would select a small group of students every year to go with him on a rafting trip. He also took students water skiing on his boat, weight lifting and on other fun activities.

"He took kids who needed some extra tender-loving care to games and field trips. He simply would give of himself. He just loved doing things for kids," said Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson.

Mayor James Sheets said he first met Garner about 25 years ago. At that time, Sheets was a faculty instructor at Quincy College serving as a negotiator and Garner was president of the Quincy Education Association.

"He was one of those

At Grossman's Building In Parkingway

Downtown Site Selected For New Juvenile Court

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The new, separate Norfolk Division of the statewide Juvenile Court Department could be in the Grossman's building at 152 Parkingway, Quincy Center, by the beginning of next year.

Current tenants of the building, which is owned by Reuben A. Grossman Realty LLC, include the Massachusetts School of Barbering and Clouds, a non-alcoholic club. If all goes according to plan, the Juvenile Court will occupy 17,200 square feet or about half the building, which will allow the school to remain but require the club to relocate.

Bill Kane, assistant to the chief justice of the Juvenile Court, said the site is currently under consideration as a possibility for the court's new home.

"It seems to be a suitable site for us," said Kane, who cited proximity to the MBTA and the soon-to-be-built Quincy Center Concourse as among the benefits of the location.

The cases that will be heard daily in the court's new home--which will include those pertaining to juvenile offenders/delinquency (criminal cases), children in need of services and child care/protection cases (both civil actions)--currently take place on

Library Project Begins Friday With Demolition Of Buildings

The expansion and renovation project of the Thomas Crane Public Library will ceremoniously begin Friday at 10:30 a.m. when Mayor James Sheets starts the demolition of two nearby buildings.

Sheets is scheduled to strike the first blow of demolition of the buildings located at 68 and 88 Washington St. with one swing of a sledgehammer. The actual demolition of the buildings is expected to take three days.

Once down, the buildings will clear the way for the construction of the new library wing and renovation of the Coletti Building which was constructed in 1939. Construction is expected to begin next March. The renovation and restoration of the Richardson Building, a National Landmark, constructed in 1882 and the Aiken addition constructed in 1908 will follow.

Funding provided by a state grant awarded last September, and a city bond issue passed in February will aid in the cost of construction. Additional funding is being raised by the Crane Library Foundation, Inc., whose goal is $1 million. To date, $260,000 has been donated.

A fund-raising sign placed on the front lawn of the main library displays the fund-raising progress. The sign prominently displays the slogan "Building the Library Book by Book." Each eight-inch high book in the stack represents $100,000.

Anyone interested in making a donation or in any of the numerous naming opportunities available can contact Suzanne Diehl at the main library.

Colonial Encampment At Pageant Field Aug. 16-17

A colonial reenactment and encampment held by the Massachusetts Council of Minutemen and Militia will take place Aug. 16 and 17 at Pagent Field, announces City Councillor Michael Cheney.

Participants of up to 60 colonial reenactors will participate in a week-long encampment called Blacks Creek Muster, which will be open to the public. Twenty to 25 colonial tents of various descriptions, as well as three to four crafts tents will be set up and open to the public Saturday (Aug. 16) from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday (Aug. 17) from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Various displays and activities going on during the weekend include 18th century open fire cooking, pottery making, candle dipping, woodworking, leatherworking, wax smithing, tomahawk and knife throwing, colonial military drilling, cannon firing, musket firing and general military camp activities, including fife and drum music.

The event is a family, non-alcoholic event sponsored by the City of Quincy and First Night Quincy. All residents are invited to participate and to bring cameras as there will be many photo opportunities. There is no charge for admission and parking is free.

"We are pleased to provide Quincy and the South Shore residents with another family event this year that is free of charge and open to the public," said Cheney. "This event is an opportunity for the public to take a step backward into history and to view life as it was in colonial times. The weekend promises to be a fun-filled event for every member of the family."

One of the event's sponsors, Harbor Express, will bring visitors from Boston, who can then reach the event on the free shuttle provided by Work Inc., another of the event's sponsors.

For more information, call Cheney at 471-1493.

Two Residents Accepted At Hesser College

Two Quincy students have been accepted by the Day Division of Hesser College in Manchester, N.H. for the fall semester which will begin Sept. 3.

The students and their major programs are Scott Shepherd, criminal justice, and Jennifer Nania, accounting.

National Night Out Events May Be Rescheduled

The Mayor's Office said it hopes Quincy's third annual National Night Out celebration scheduled for Tuesday can be rescheduled.

The celebration was postponed due to a forecast of rain.

Mayor James Sheets and Police Chief Francis Mullen were planning to travel through the city with a cavalcade of police motorcycles and cruisers, visiting each ward and encouraging citizens to become more involved in crime prevention and neighborhood watch programs.

Cookouts were to be held at: Germantown Community Center on Palmer St., hosted by City Council President Peter Kolson; 1000 Southern Artery, hosted by City Councillor Daniel Raymondi; Ward 4 Community Center on Brooks Ave., hosted by Ward 4 City Councillor Michael D'Amico.

Cookouts were also to be held at Bishop Field on Holbrook Rd., hosted by Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott; Beechwood Knoll School on Fenno St., hosted by Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin; Beechwood on the Bay on East Squantum St., hosted by Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers.

The cavalcade was planning to stop at each location to recognize all current neighborhood watch organizations and to encourage participation in new and emerging neighborhood watch programs. All events were to be open to the public.

BONING UP FOR MEN

Think about all the ads you've seen for calcium supplements: they almost always feature women. That's because bone loss — and the calcium that's important for preventing it — can be a particular problem for women. It is not as well known that osteoporosis due to bone loss can be a problem for men, too. As both men and women age, bones tend to become thinner, less dense, and weaker. They then break more easily. Men don't have to contend with the same hormonal challenges as women, but they can help safeguard their bones by quitting smoking, limiting alcohol intake to no more than two drinks a day, getting regular exercise, and making sure they have an adequate intake of calcium.

P.S. As many as one in five men in the U.S. will break at least one bone due to Osteoporosis.

Regular exercise for both men and women can assist in preventing bone loss as well as offering a host of cardiovascular benefits. When you come to us, You'll meet medical professionals dedicated to your well-being. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, Dr. Lisa Antonelli and I will give you the information you need to make informed decisions about your health. We are at 700 Congress St., Quincy. P.U.D.s, Sign Ordinance On Agenda

Special City Council Meeting Tonight

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Three Planned Unit Developments, an update on the new sign ordinance and more than a dozen other items are on the agenda for tonight's special city council meeting.

At 6 p.m., the Ordinance Committee will hear an update on a proposed new signage ordinance for the entire city from Bernice Mader, Mayor James Sheets' administrative assistant. The sign ordinance will likely be voted on at a council meeting in September.

At 6:30 p.m., the special council meeting is scheduled to start with 13 items awaiting action. Among them:

- An appropriation of $1.1 million for the North Quincy Interception project (part of a bond issue); a $25,000 appropriation for the Recreation Department (seasonal hirings) and a $30,000 appropriation for cemetery embellishment and improvements.
- Accepting gifts of $5,000 from State Street Bank & Trust Company for special operations vehicle fund; a $2,000 gift from Rotary Club for D.A.R.E.; and a $55 gift from Citizens Police Academy to D.A.R.E.
- Land taking a portion of Moody St., and rezoning a portion of Sumner St. and Common St.

Councillors will also discuss a proposal to restrict dogs from cemeteries and several new traffic regulations in the areas of Malvern and Babcock St., Farrington St., Penn St., Grove St. and Liberty St.

At 7 p.m., the council is scheduled to meet as the city's Special Planned Unit Development Permit Granting Authority.

There are three PUD's awaiting action: Blueberry Ridge in West Quincy, Marina Bay skilled nursing and rehab center, and the Meadows at Marina Bay.

A source familiar with the permitting process said the Blueberry Ridge development and Marina Bay skilled nursing and rehab center will probably be approved tonight. A vote on the Meadows at Marina Bay, however, may be postponed until conservation issues surrounding the project are resolved.

All three P.U.D.s have been approved by the Planning Board.

Blueberry Ridge is a 156-residential unit complex proposed for a site at 820 Willard St. in West Quincy. The plan calls for 217 bedrooms, of which 61 percent are one-bedroom and the rest two-bedroom.

The four story, 173,000-square foot development is proposed by F.I.D. Realty Trust, part of the Corcoran-Jennison Companies. The plan also includes the use of chimneys, arched brick garage openings, and a landscaping plan utilizing more than 850 new plants, trees and shrubs, according to Michael Corcoran, president of Corcoran Jennison Institutional Services, Inc.

The Marina Bay skilled nursing and rehab center consists of two buildings: a 167-bed skilled nursing facility and a 110-unit residential assisted living community. Boston developer Peter Gordon is seeking approval for the project.

The Meadows is a residential building proposed by O'Connell Brothers on a 66-acre site known as Lot 23. The parcel is roughly bounded by Seaport Dr. to the west and the traffic rotary to the north, East Squantum St. to the east, and the Billings Creek tidal area to the south. The site still contains remnants of the former naval air base, including a portion of the former runway and aprons, as well as some concrete bunkers.

The proposal calls for construction of 136 residential units contained in one building along with necessary access, parking, and utility services. The development would consume about 7 acres of the site. There would be 60 one-bedroom units and 76 two-bedroom units, and unit sizes would range from 752 feet to 1,168 square feet. The plan also calls for 260 parking spaces with a provision for 26 additional spaces if required.

Rents would range from $11,150 to $1,425 per month. the building would be primarily a steel frame with a concrete floor and brick exterior. The $13 million structure would create approximately 250 jobs and take 13 to 14 months to complete.

Wollaston Beach Pollution Ward 5 Panel Topic

A panel of experts will discuss the water quality problems of Wollaston Beach at the Ward 5 Community Association meeting Aug. 11.

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. at the Beechwood Knoll School, 224 Fenno St.

Officials from the Metropolitan District Commission, Quincy Health Department, and Weston & Sampson Engineering will discuss the pollution problems, causes, and possible solutions to the water quality problems at Wollaston Beach.

"We are all encouraged by the accounts of water quality improvements in Boston Harbor and Wollaston Beach. But the fact is, despite the reported progress and with or without due cause, many longtime residents of Quincy still cast a leery eye when it comes to swimming in Wollaston Beach or fishing in Quincy Bay," said Douglas Gutro, association president.

"Simply put, all we want is the confidence that we and our children can safely swim or fish in the beautiful

Bush And The Adamses

Wonder if George Bush will have any thoughts of John and John Quincy Adams when he returns to his Milton birthplace Aug. 12.

BUSH

The Quincy-born Adamses, of course, are the only father-and-son presidents in the nation's history.

But someday soon, that honor might have to be shared with Bush and his son, George Bush, now the governor of Texas.

The younger Bush is considered hefty Presidential timber and is being touted by some as a major candidate in the year 2000. Or shortly after.

The former President is scheduled to dedicate a plaque in front of his birthplace at 173 Adams St. in Milton. Bush was born there in an upstairs bedroom June 12, 1924 and lived there for six months. The Victorian style house is privately owned.

The house was rented by his father and mother Prescott and Dorothy Bush in 1923. The family later moved to Greenwich, Conn. where Prescott Bush was elected to the U.S. Senate.

But even if the Bushes someday become father-and-son Presidents, Quincy will still have the upperhand in the history department.

The former President was born in Milton but his son was born in Greenwich, Conn.

So, Quincy would still have the distinction of being the birthplace not only of father and son presidents but the only birthplace of two presidents.

But Barbara Bush would join Abigail Adams in the honor of being the wife of one president and the mother of another.

Maybe while the former President is at 173 Adams St., Milton, he might take a quick ride up the street to 135 Adams St., Quincy, to the Adams Mansion where the two Quincy presidents lived. And maybe then over to 133 and 141 Franklin St., their birthplaces in South Quincy.

Sort of like visiting the Presidential neighborhood.

CITY COUNCILLOR Paul Harold attended the Braintree town meeting last week and got the opportunity to speak when a town meeting member volunteered his time to him.

HAROLD

"I'm representing the North Precinct," said Harold, drawing chuckles. The North Precinct of old Braintree, of course, is now Quincy.

Harold, who has raised questions at city council meetings regarding Sotirios Emmanouil's plans and financial ability to put the Quincy shipyard back in the shipbuilding business, had a few at the Braintree town meeting, too.

Harold wants more information about the value of the shipyard and also a detailed site plan for it and wonders about Emmanouil's financial ability.

Emmanouil, who purchased the shipyard with a $10.5 million bank loan, still needs $240 million in federal loan guarantees to begin ship construction. Harold questions whether Emmanouil has the necessary money to make shipbuilding a successful venture.

Harold also noted at the Braintree TM that Emmanouil is inconsistent on the number of jobs the shipyard would create. In the presentation to Braintree, there were estimates of both 700 and 1,050 jobs.

But the town meeting followed Quincy's lead in granting Emmanouil a five-year 100 percent tax break.

Harold hopes the yard will be successful but still wonders if Emmanouil is the one who can make it work.

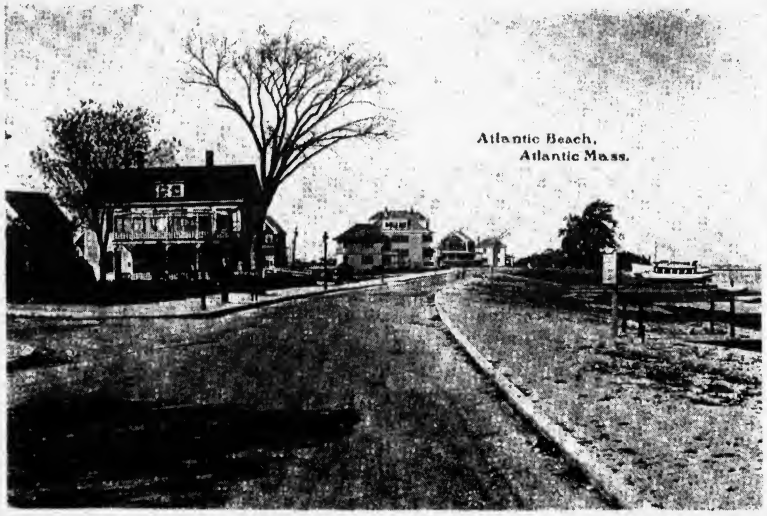
Two Revised Arts In Parks Schedule Dates

The Quincy Park and Recreation Board has rescheduled dates for two of the postponed Arts in the Parks summer concerts.

The new dates are:

Today (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. at Wendall Moses Playground in Squantum; and Tuesday, Aug. 12 at 6:30 p.m. at Bishop Field in Montclair.



The events were originally postponed due to inclement weather. The shows will feature show tunes of the Riverside Theatre Works, the 12-piece band Watson Reid and Americana and juggler Doctor Stardust. Spectators are encouraged to bring their own lawn chair or blanket to sit on.

Refreshments will be provided by the Quincy Police Athletic League and the Quincy Recreation Department. For more information, call the Park Department at 376-1251.

The White House, at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, has been the home and office of every U.S. President except George Washington. It has 132 rooms.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1914 POSTCARD view of the Wollaston Boulevard from the end of Atlantic Street looking north. On the right is the approach to a wooden landing that extended over the mudflats at low tide to floats where local residents kept their boats. In the distance can be seen Moswetusek Hummock. All these houses are still in place, but few people use the area for boats. And no people walk down the middle of the street as those shown here are doing.

Last Street Car Tracks Removed

By PAUL HAROLD

An era of the city's history came to an end with the removal of the last street car tracks in Houghs Neck and Cleverly Court in Quincy Point

After the war, residents had lobbied for the removal of the Washington St. tracks to make way for automobile traffic. The Cleverly Court tracks were among the last to be taken because they were on Navy property. They were originally installed to transport shipyard workers during World I and later during World War II.

NEW WOLLASTON LUTHERAN CHURCH

Wollaston Lutheran Church leaders voted this week to go forward with plans for the construction of a new church. The announcement was made by Robert Just, chairman of the congregation.

John Heinzig, chairman of the finance committee, said that while all funds necessary for the new church have not yet been collected, the progress to date shows there is sufficient support to finance the new structure.

Commenting on the success of the building drive, pastor Rev. Elmer Kettner said, "We have evidence of God's blessing on our congregation."

What Can We Learn From The Suffering Of The Elderly?

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

We all know that the term "The Golden Years" is a misnomer. People work hard all their lives only to arrive at "The Rusty Years."

The suffering of older people is something that begs description, that we as young people can only guess at, particularly if the older person is ill with a serious disease. Our nursing homes are filled with suffering humanity.

In this context, we ask the question, how much suffering is enough, how much pain can the human body withstand before it ceases to exist, and when do we just pray for an easy death for the affected individual? We all pass from life to death eventually but why must it be such a painful and difficult transition for so many? Why can't we just die in our sleep?

We all have mothers and fathers who went before us. How much suffering did they endure in their final months and days before they were taken from us? What can we as a society learn from the suffering of our elderly as they reach their final days?

We can only hope for God's mercy on those elderly chronically ill who cannot regain their health but who are condemned to live out their lives in a truly chronic and painful state.

Keep Tobacco Industry Accountable

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Much has been said about the proposed tobacco settlement over the past few weeks. But not enough attention has been given to the opportunities this settlement offers to the public health community in their fight to reduce tobacco use in the United States.

This settlement includes a comprehensive set of regulations that we in the public health community could not have imagined just months ago. The proposed tobacco settlement isn't perfect. Not can it be thought of as the total solution to the death and disability caused by tobacco products. But the American Heart Association is encouraged by the opportunities this settlement agreement offers to the public and views it as a significant step in the battle against tobacco use.

Prevention of cardiovascular diseases and stroke is the primary goal of the American Heart Association. Tobacco use kills more than 400,000 Americans each year and is the single leading preventable cause of death in the United States.

The proposed settlement document is complex and will require legislative and regulatory action to implement and enforce many of its elements. Implementation of the terms of the document demands that the public health community and the public be vigilant in holding both the tobacco industry and our government officials accountable to carry out the steps that will reduce and eventually eliminate use of tobacco products in our country.

While the AHA believes the settlement is a significant step forward, we do have very serious concerns about the provision on the FDA's regulatory authority over tobacco products. The AHA firmly believes that the FDA must be guaranteed complete authority and provided appropriate resources to carry out its regulatory role over tobacco products in a timely fashion. The FDA must be provided funding and other needed resources as part of the settlement to enable them to conduct appropriate tobacco regulation interfering with or impending their regulatory responsibilities over other drugs and devices.

Another area of concern to the AHA is that penalties applied to the tobacco industry must be painful enough to eliminate any economic benefit of getting a young person addicted to tobacco. The penalties outlined in the settlement document should serve as a benchmark for Congress and other in determining appropriate amounts the tobacco industry should pay if it does not meet the terms of the agreement.

The AHA also believes there are other crucial elements related to tobacco control not included in the settlement that must be addressed by the Congressional and Executive Branches of our government. They include international marketing of tobacco products, tobacco excise taxes, and tobacco farm issues.

The American Heart Association remains steadfast in its efforts to hold the tobacco industry accountable for the death and disability it has caused. We are committed to assuring that the tobacco industry and our government agencies enact appropriate measures to correct past wrongdoings and assure the protection of our children and of the public's health.

Marie's Kitchen

Grilled Mexicana Burgers

It's been years since I first tried and loved Mexican food, and now it seems more popular than ever. especially today's recipe for the back yard grill.

Recently I tried this great recipe for grilled Mexican burgers. If you;re tired of the same old hamburgers by now, this recipe is a great respite. I used ground turkey, but any ground meat will do.

Grilled Mexicana Burgers

1 pound ground turkey (or beef)
1 teaspoon chili powder
1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
1/4 cup tortilla chips (crushed)
2 tablespoons chopped scallions
1/2 cup salsa (I used medium, but hot is fine)
1 cup Mexican type shredded cheese
4 hamburg buns (I used hard crusted)

Combine the meat, 3/4 cup of the cheese, half the salsa, tortilla chips, onions, chili powder and garlic salt. Mix and shape into four good sized patties.

Grill or broil the patties and then place burgers on the buns topping with the rest of the salsa and sprinkle with the rest of the cheese.

Serve with tomato and lettuce if preferred.

Musician Al Gould Performs At Crane Library Today

The Thomas Crane Public Library's Concerts on the Lawn concludes with a performance by Al Gould today (Thursday).

The concert will be held on the lawn of the main library in Quincy Square between 12:30 and 1:30 p.m.

Gould has a range of musical talents as a vocalist and instrumentalist. Among the instruments he plays are violin, fiddle, acoustic and electric guitar, mandolin, viola, cello, and electric bass. His repertoire of songs extends from folk songs and ballads to pop music and old favorites.

Gould also gives music lessons, does studio work, and provides music therapy who are ill. He is a repeat performer at Quincy's First Night and has performed several times at library programs and events.

The concert is supported in part by a grant from the Quincy Cultural Council, a local agency supported by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency and the Friends of the Library.

AL GOULD

In the event of inclement weather, the concert will be held inside.

Elementary Students Win Historical Society Awards

Quincy Historical Society announces the student winners of its annual public "Quincy Historical Brochure" contest.

The contest is held in conjunction with the Historical Society's local history immersion program, presented by Historical Society Education Director Mary Ann Andronico. The week-long program is presented in each public school fourth grade class.

As the culminating activity, every student creates a brochure for Quincy's historic landmarks. A review committee selects a winning brochure for each school and then system-wide winners.

This year's system-wide first place winner is Theodore Fawell of Beechwood Knoll School. Second place winner is Jennifer Charriez of Lincoln-Hancock School. Third place winner is Andrew Loud of Bernazzani School.

School winners are:

Shelly Donovan, Atherton Hough School; Sharon Chy, Beechwood Knoll; Brian Sorenson, Bernazzani; Richard Viau, Lincoln-Hancock; Rebekah Sorenson, Merrymount; Henry Chang, Montclair; Antonio Montoya, Parker; Pam Campos, Point-Webster; Carl Onobogu, Point-Webster; Shirley Lo, Snug Harbor; Joanna Tam, Squantum; Maria Moscato, Wollaston; Stacey Ho, Wollaston.

The awards were presented to the students at a lunch at the Historical Society. All the winning brochures are on display at the society's museum at Adams Academy, 8 Adams St., throughout the summer.

Plimoth Plantation Passes At Library

The Seaside Gardeners of Squantum have donated a one-year membership in Plimoth Plantation to the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Membership admits visitors to the 1627 Pilgrim Village, Hobbamock's Homesite, Carriage House Crafts Center, Mayflower II, the outdoor exhibit "Irreconcilable Differences" and the Nye Exhibit Barn.

The kitchen gardens in the Pilgrim Village supplied the early settlers with herbs for many purposes such as medicinal, culinary, and dyeing. An active garden that yields maize, beans, squash and a variety of other plants is located at Hobbamock's Homesite.

The Plimoth Plantation pass provides discounted admission for two adults and two children. It may be borrowed by any Quincy adult with an OCLN library card in good standing.

A $20 deposit is required and is refunded when the pass is returned on time. A pass may be reserved up to two weeks in advance at the Main Library adult circulation desk or by calling 376-1301.

In addition to the Plimoth Plantation pass, the library loans passes to the Children's Museum, the John F. Kennedy Library and Museum, the Museum of Fine Arts and the Science Museum.

Our Policy On Engagement Photographs And Wedding Announcements

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish all engagement announcements, the names of the persons in the wedding party including maid or matron of honor, best man, parents, bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit photos with their announcements, and when submitting their wedding photo, to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos to black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the reminder that The Sun is announcing its policy of publishing engagement photos.

The Sun also publishes wedding announcements of wedding anniversaries [illegible] anniversary.

And, as in the past, there will be no charge.

Historical Society Launches New Century Fund Sept. 18

A special reception and auction inaugurating the Quincy Historical Society's Century Fund will be held Thursday, Sept. 18 at the Neighborhood Club Rd., Quincy.

A reception and viewing with silent auction will begin at 6 p.m. The live auction, with Dan Flynn as auctioneer, begins at 7:30 p.m. Mayor James Sheets is honorary chairman of the event, and Society Trustee Sandra McCauley is committee chairperson.

The Century Fund will fulfill the purpose preserving Quincy's historical heritage for the 21st century. The first goal will be the creation of a new Quincy history museum at the Society's Adams Academy headquarters.

"We are the one group with the mission of preserving and promoting the entirety of Quincy history," said Society President Joyce Baker. "It's vital that we emphasize a wide range of themes and utilize state-of-the-art exhibit knowledge in order to communicate effectively, and reach audiences that range from tourists to all the Quincy schoolchildren who visit our museum."

McCauley said the reception will feature an extensive array of hors d'oeuvres prepared by the Neighborhood Club staff, and the auction will feature both antiques and a wide variety of quality items and services, both recreational and practical, donated by individuals and businesses. There will also be a catalogue and journal.

Tickets are $20 and are available at the Historical Society's offices at Adams Academy, 8 Adams St., Quincy and from society trustees and committee members. Donations of auctionable items are also requested.

For more information, call 773-1144.

David McGillicuddy Candidate For Councillor At-Large

David P. McGillicuddy of Elmwood Ave. announces his candidacy for city councillor at-large.

A resident of Quincy for 30 years, McGillicuddy notes he has extensive management and community service in both the public and private sectors.

"I am a firm believer that most answers to community problems can be found within that community, you just have to carefully listen to the citizens' requests," he says.

"I look forward to applying this philosophy to the position of councillor at-large."

DAVID McGILLICUDDY

McGillicuddy said his commitment to the community was fostered during his 27-year career at NYNEX/New England Telephone, where he served as manager of Public Affairs/Community Relations. In this position, he acted as the NYNEX/New England Telephone representative to Boston businesses, neighborhoods and community groups. He was responsible for resolving critical issues with community and political leaders while assisting corporate executives in achieving their organizational goals and objectives.

During his tenure, McGillicuddy said he made it his priority to bring the needs of the community to the company, by mentoring high school students and co-founding Boston Against Drugs and National Night Out in Dorchester.

In recognition of his work with National Night Out, McGillicuddy was presented with the "Friend of the Neighborhood Crime Watch Unit" award by Boston Mayor Thomas Menino.

Menino remarked, "Dave gives the various individuals, agencies and groups with whom he works, a sense of ownership of community events and credit for the positive changes brought about."

His community efforts in Quincy include the establishment of Quincy's Heaven Can Wait program, which teaches high school students the consequences of driving drunk. Over a period of five years more than 12,000 students from area high schools, including Quincy High, Quincy Vo-Tech and North Quincy High School participated in this program, he said.

Three years ago he introduced National Night Out to the City of Quincy. This annual event, held the first Tuesday in August, is an opportunity for residents to join with the police to reduce crime and the fear of crime by keeping their porch lit for the evening to send a message of unity and strength to criminals. In addition, this evening provides residents the opportunity to meet the police officers of the City and to join forces to establish crime watch groups to safeguard Quincy's neighborhoods.

McGillicuddy is currently involved in the special committee studying the deregulation of electric rates for the City of Quincy and he is a member of the Quincy Citizen Police Academy Association.

"Through my years of community service on all levels, I have developed the insight and skills necessary to bring about positive changes," he said. "I am dedicated to working together with the people of Quincy to show how proud we are of the city in which we live and to bring about the changes you demand."

McGillicuddy currently owns a consulting company, The McGillicuddy Group, which specializes in crisis communications. He said that because he is self-employed, he has the flexibility to serve as councillor-at-large on a full-time basis.

He is director of Boston's New Market Business Association, a member of AARP, a former long standing member of the IBEW, Local 2222, as well as a past Koch Club coach for baseball, basketball and soccer. In addition he is a member of the North Quincy Knights of Columbus, and has participated in the development of the Jane Doe Walk for Women.

Highlights of his achievements, he said, include: the Massachusetts Governor's Citation, Boston Public Schools Citywide Parents Council Award, and the Joseph Lee Community Center "Outstanding Community Service" Award.

McGillicuddy is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts with a bachelor's degree in community planning and management. He is a homeowner and lives with his wife, Linda at 88 Elmwood Ave. He has three children, David, Dana and Mark.

FREE APPLIANCE REMOVAL

ICE YOUR SECOND REFRIGERATOR

Don't Wait!

With concerns about potential power shortages for New England this summer, Massachusetts Electric is bringing back this popular customer opportunity for a limited time. Now's the time to help reduce energy usage while you save on your electric bill.

Call us and we'll pick it up free

1·800·962·3939

Your second refrigerator or freezer could be costing you as much as $200 a year on your electric bill.

If you have a second refrigerator or freezer, and the only thing in it is a forgotten six-pack of soda or a vintage quart of ice cream, we can help you save as much as $200 a year on your electric bill.

Massachusetts Electric's Free Appliance Removal is a great way to save money, protect the environment, and tidy up your garage or basement at the same time.

We'll come to your home when it's convenient for you, remove your second refrigerator or freezer, and it won't cost you a dime. Plus, you can feel good knowing we'll recycle your appliance's parts in an environmentally responsible manner.

If you're a Massachusetts Electric residential customer who owns a second refrigerator or freezer, you're eligible for Free Appliance Removal. All we ask is that the appliance be standard-sized, cold at pick-up, and in Massachussetts Electric's service area. Program ends September 30, 1997.

While this is a free service for Massachusetts Electric residential customers with qualifying equipment, other requested services will require a fee.

Morrissey, Senate Back Family Leave Legislation

The state Senate has passed legislation that seeks to make Massachusetts the first state in the nation to give working men and women the right to take a limited amount of time off work to support children, parents and elderly relatives at important times.

Sen. Michael Morrissey said he sees the legislation as a "modest but important step toward recognizing the relief hard-working families deserve."

The "Small Necessities Leave Act" provides employees, working at places of business with 50 or more employees, with 24 hours of unpaid leave on an annual basis to participate in activities at a child school, take a child to a doctor or dentist and to accompany an elderly relative on a health-related appointment.

"We must give substantive meaning to talk about the work ethic and family values," said Senate President Thomas Birmingham, who sponsored the legislation. "This bill provides well-deserved assistance to hard-working men and women trying to fulfill job and family responsibilities."

Morrissey agreed, saying, "people should not find themselves choosing between their job and their family responsibilities." He said his support for the legislation is shared by a wide range of backers, including the National Organization of Women and the Massachusetts Catholic Conference.

Toni Troop, from the Massachusetts chapter of National Organization of Women, explained the value of the legislation for the Commonwealth's 12,000 members who "like mothers and fathers everywhere, want to be both responsible workers and caring parents." The legislation, she said, "recognizes the real needs of the workers of this state."

"We consider this legislation pro-family and deserving of widespread support since without question the health and strength of the family unit is of the utmost importance to all of society," said Gerald D'Avolio, executive director of the Massachusetts Catholic Conference, which represents the four Roman Catholic Diocese of Massachusetts.

The legislation now goes to the House and Morrissey hopes to see the bill become law because, "government should be more responsive to the changing society. There are more single-parent families and families in which both parents work. If we can help support the family structure, we ought to."

Tracy Wilson Candidate For School Committee

Tracy Wilson of 73 Tirrell St. announces her candidacy for the Quincy School Committee.

Wilson, an attorney, is a lifelong resident of Quincy and a graduate of the Quincy Public Schools, Grades K-12. She received her bachelor of science degree from Westfield State College and her juris doctor degree from the Massachusetts School of Law.

She was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar in June and is currently employed with the Edgar P. Benjamin Health Center, where she administers labor and employment practices. She is experienced as a labor negotiator, policy writer, and employment law consultant.

Wilson said she emphasizes quality in education as her campaign platform.

"The goal of our educational system in Quincy must be to design curricula that both reinforce the traditional fundamentals of education and prepare our children for the challenges of the 21st century," she said. "I envision an educational system that includes courses in the classics as well as computers."

TRACY WILSON

Wilson collected over 450 signatures for the nomination papers she submitted to the city clerk's office, although only 50 certified signatures are needed to be placed on the ballot. She collected the majority of her signatures going door-to-door to visit Quincy residents.

"The schools belong to the citizens of our city," she said. "To represent the citizens zealously, I plan to understand their needs. I plan to spend a lot of time in the neighborhoods."

Wilson said she has met, thus far, with teachers, administrators, students in all grade levels, and parents.

"I plan to meet and speak with as many people as possible who hold a stake in our children's education," said Wilson. "I will be attending the upcoming School Committee meetings this fall."

Mass. Electric Reinstates Appliance Removal Program

As summer temperatures and humidity soar, the demand for electricity in New England increases dramatically with efforts to stay cool.

This year, with four of the region's largest power plants temporarily out of operation, electricity supplies are tighter than usual. One of several steps Massachusetts Electric has taken to ensure maximum availability of summer power supplies is to reinstate its Appliance Removal Program.

The cost of running a freezer or second refrigerator can be as much as $200 annually, especially for older, less efficient models. Now through the end of September, Massachusetts Electric residential customers can have units removed from their homes free of charge, saving energy and money. The appliances are disposed of in an environmentally-friendly manner, with many parts recycled.

To qualify for a free pick-up, one must be a Massachusetts Electric residential customer, own a standard-size freezer or second refrigerator in a home within Massachusetts Electric's service area, and have the appliance cold at pick-up to ensure it is in working condition. For more information about the Appliance Removal Program or to schedule an appointment, customers may call 1-800-962-3939, Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

For more electricity-saving ideas, Massachusetts Electric offers customers an "Appliance Wise Guide." This free, 17-page booklet is packed with practical, hands-on information that can be used immediately to increase the energy efficiency of homes and reduce electricity costs. The guide covers everything from cooking and cooling to laundry and water use. To receive a free copy of the "Appliance Wise Guide," Massachusetts Electric customers may call 1-888-211-1111.

ASK YOUR LAWYER

by Kevin F. O'Donnell
ATTORNEY AT LAW

HURT AT WORK

Under the law, employers must warn their employees of on-the-job dangers and provide safe working conditions. Employees who incur injuries in the workplace are prohibited from suing their employers for negligence due to workers' compensation. Payment is made by the employer's insurer, and the only matters to be settled are: whether the injury was caused by a job-related accident, and how much compensation is to be paid. Employees who are injured on the job cannot be fired, demoted, or retaliated against for filing a workers' compensation claim. If problems arise, an appeal can be heard before the Workers' Compensation Board. Although employees can represent themselves, it is best to be represented by a skilled attorney.

HINT: Employees who are injured going to or returning from their jobs or who suffer injuries caused by stressful conditions may still be entitled to workers' compensation and other benefits.

If you've been injured at work, it is important to seek the advice of an experienced attorney. The legal arena is an area that one should not take on alone. For professional assistance, call 773-2880 and schedule a free consultation. We're located at Gridley Bryant Office Condominiums, 111 Willard Street. We will handle your case on a percentage fee basis. This means that we only receive payment if a recovery is made on your behalf.

Downtown Site Selected For New Juvenile Court

(Cont'd from Page 1)

Tuesdays at Quincy District Court, Kane noted.

The Juvenile Court is being separated from the Trial Court as mandated in a 1992 court reform bill, he added.

"That will allow us to relieve the burden on the district court and serve families more effectively," he said.

He also noted that Juvenile Courts in other areas, including Bristol County and Hampden County, already have begun operations.

Kane said the Division of Capital Planning and Operations (DCPO), which he termed "the real estate arm of the government," recently sent a request for proposals for a 15-year lease with a five-year option for the Juvenile Court in Norfolk County. There were two responses, he said, and the Grossman's building was selected.

The Grossman's building, Kane added, is currently the only site under consideration for Quincy District Court's Juvenile Court cases, which come from Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth, Randolph, Milton, Holbrook and Cohasset.

A second, additional site is under consideration in Dedham, he said, for cases from that area of the county.

Still, he emphasized, there is more to be done before the Juvenile Court can move to the Parkingway. The Juvenile Court must approve the site and make a recommendation to the Trial Court, which also must give the plan its blessing and recommend it to the DCPO--the entity with the final say.

Roseanne Pawelec, a spokesperson for the DCPO, said she is hopeful a site decision will be made by the end of this week.

If the plan receives all three approvals, negotiations with the building owner over a lease agreement will begin.

Kane said he did not want to predict whether the Juvenile Court's arrival at the Grossman's site will take place. He added, however, that in a best-case scenario, the lease agreement would be approved by the end of August and the court would open in January.

Mike Kenealy of Key Realty, who is representing the building owner, said bringing a tenant of such high quality to the site would allow the Grossman family the financial flexibility to make as much as $2 million in wiring, plumbing, landscaping and other improvements.

"The Grossman family have looked at this very, very carefully," he said. "And I also see the court as a very positive thing for the community."

Kenealy added that the family has received support for the project from abutters as well as state Sen. Michael Morrissey and Reps. Michael Bellotti and Stephen Tobin.

The Grossman family has owned the building for over 47 years. It was constructed by the Grossmans in 1950 for Grant's Department Store.

Weymouth Savings Buying Eddie's Diner, Motel Site For Quincy Branch

Weymouth Savings Bank has announced it is acquiring a parcel of land at 370-382 Quincy Ave., Quincy, the site known as Eddie's Diner/Motel.

The bank plans on filing an application with the commissioner of banks to open a branch at the site, subject to all required regulatory approvals.

Nobo Sircar, acting president of Weymouth Saving, said, "Since the bank has aggressively pursued business lending and banking relationships, we believe that a physical presence in the City of Quincy will further facilitate our strategic goal of serving a larger business, commercial and consumer sector.

"The bank believes that the intersection of Quincy Ave. and Southern Artery will be the new nexus in Quincy, and Weymouth Savings Bank will strive to be the bank of choice in this most exciting location."

Weymouth Savings Bank, founded in 1833, is the oldest chartered savings bank on the South Shore and has served the banking needs of its communities for 164 years.

Weymouth Savings also recently announced a merger with South Weymouth Savings Bank, the merger is awaiting regulatory approvals. The new bank, with assets of approximately $480 million, will have the strength and the products to meet the needs of the businesses located in Weymouth, Braintree and Quincy.

Arthur Connelly, president and CEO of the new bank, said, "We believe that the City of Quincy will play a significant role in the future of the new bank. Additionally, the new bank looks ahead to playing a significant role in the future of the City of Quincy."

BUILDING LOCATED at 218 Libbey Parkway in Weymouth's Libbey Industrial Park was recently sold by the Commercial Real Estate Division of Daniel J. Flynn & Co. in Quincy. The 8,000-square-foot building was bought from Hanco Limited Partnership by Vinfen Corp. which paid $600,000 for the property.

Flynn &. Co. Sells Weymouth Property

Daniel J. Flynn & Co. Inc.'s Commercial Real Estate Division recently sold a research and development building located in Weymouth's Libbey Industrial Park.

The 8,000-square-foot building at 218 Libbey Parkway was purchased by Vinfen Corp. for $600,000. Jay Nuss, senior vice president of Flynn &. Co., represented the seller, Hanco Limited Partnership and assisted the buyer in the transaction.

"The newly-constructed building provided an excellent opportunity for a potential buyer," said Nuss. "By aggressively marketing the property and targeting the appropriate users, we were able to match the ideal buyer to match the property."

Daniel J. Flynn & Co. Inc., located in the Heritage Building, 1495 Hancock St., Quincy Center, is a full-service real estate firm specializing in commercial and residential brokerage, property management, and real estate auctions.

QCAP Homebuyer's Workshop Begins Sept. 13

Quincy Community Action Programs (QCAP) Inc., an approved MHFA first-time homebuyer counseling agency, will hold a First-Time Homebuyer's Workshop series beginning Sept. 13 and continuing Sept. 20.

Both workshops will be held at The Roche Brothers Supermarket, community room, 101 Falls Blvd., Quincy.

Attendance at both workshops is mandatory to qualify for the many different mortgage options available through the Mass Housing Finance Agency, Soft Second Programs and other financing options.

The agenda will be comprehensive and individualized. The focus will be on different aspects of the homebuying process, including locating a property within one's budget, making an offer, and determining the best mortgage program.

Advance registration is required and space is limited. Fee is $36 per household.

The workshop is sponsored by the City of Quincy and the Department of Housing and Community Development.

For more information and registration forms, call Debbie Kidd, housing coordinator, at 479-8181, ext. 115.

Teacher And Student Fondly Remembered

extraordinary people who was dedicated to his profession and certainly dedicated to young men and young women. He was part of a great teaching team at Broad Meadows.

"He's left his mark on hundreds and hundreds and hundreds of young people. A person like that will be missed. You can't replace him," the mayor said.

Willoughby said Garner was a "quiet leader" who nurtured a special bond of confidence and trust with students.

"He worked with kids who were really interested in books and the library. He taught the kids how to use the audio-visual equipment and trusted them to tape things like school plays and take part in other school productions. The students, in turn, became much more confident and more a part of the school because of his tutelage," she said.

"Jon was a part of (Bob's) crew," Willoughby continued. "He was enriched by Bob's quiet leadership. Bob saw himself more as a servant."

Willoughby said Garner was a very generous person. She recalled how he would provide taped copies of school plays and other special events such as a Violence Prevention production done earlier this year. Garner's "crew" tapes it and appeared on local cable TV.

Garner was also very involved in the school's honors' night. He designed the invitations on his computer and then took photos of all the recipients with their families. He provided copies for everyone.

Garner was well-respected throughout the community. Students dedicated the 1997 yearbook to him and honored him as the school's "unsung hero."

A passage in the yearbook said, "Due to his generous nature and an innate desire to do for others, many students have had experiences they would never have had without Mr. Garner. . . Thank you for your patience, time and dedication."

Last year, he was named a "Community Hero" by Impact Quincy but politely declined the award because he believed kids would stop confiding in him because everyone else would know what he was up to.

"He was just whatever you needed," Willoughby said. "It's going to be so tough going back to school without someone like that. He was a multi-talented, giving person who will certainly be missed."

Although several years had passed since she taught him, Willoughby said Barrieau left an indelible mark.

"He was a real charmer--full of enthusiasm and a real lively kid. We have a phrase for some middle school students--'under construction.' Jon had a vim and vigor and as he got older, he became more focused.

"He credited Bob for staying with him and helping him stay focused. I don't think they had a particularly strong friendship . . . this just happens to be an unfortunate link for an eternity."

Willoughby remembered Barrieau's interest in the annual school play.

"He wanted to sing a solo or a duet. That's the kind of enthusiasm he had. He might not have been real interested in studying, but he wanted to feel like he was a part of the school community.

"He had a lot of friends. He was a popular kid who liked exploring things and had a real curiosity about him."

After word of the tragedy reached Quincy, city and school officials decided to open the Broad Meadows Middle School for several hours Sunday afternoon. Local clergy and counselors were called to help students, colleagues and others grieve collectively.

"It was important to go to Broad Meadows because that was the center of their lives," said Assistant Supt. Carol Lee Griffin. "It was a coming together of community. There were over 100 parents, teachers and students there. It was a kind of general sharing."

Barrieau's father, Raymond, and Tower were among those who went to the school Sunday.

Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson said he was encouraged by the students' collective strength during this ordeal.

"I think they were strengthened by grieving together--it's a communal thing. These young kids have more strength than we give them credit for. I was very encouraged at the strength and dignity and love they showed for each other," Kolson said.

"I thought it was important for them to go somewhere and try to have a better understanding of the loss of a friend and companion. I think it shows the strength of our communities," Kolson added.

Saturday night the Germantown Neighborhood Center was opened for grieving youngsters. About 50 teenagers went to the Barrieau home and held an all-night vigil there.

Garner had worked for Quincy Public Schools for 30 years, the last 15 as a librarian at Broad Meadows. A former president of the Quincy teachers union, he was the longest serving member of the Weymouth library trustees.

Extended Deadline For Senior Pharmacy Program

Rep. Ronald Mariano announces the enrollment process for the state's first pharmaceutical assistance program for senior citizens has been extended through Aug. 31.

The Senior Pharmacy Program, as it is known, was established last year as a five-year trial program by the Health Care Access Act. It was designed to provide a maximum $500 annual subsidy for prescription drugs needed by individuals over 65 years of age whose annual income is at or below $11, 844.

"With access to prescription medicines one of the most expensive necessities for seniors struggling to survive on a fixed income, this program provides relief for our state's elder population," Mariano said. "Most seniors who are eligible for this program are the least able to afford Medicare supplemental insurance programs, such as the Blue Cross Medex Gold Plan, which covers the prescription drug costs that Medicare does not insure."

The program is limited to individuals who have been a resident of the state for at least six months and who currently do not have any form of prescription drug coverage. The program does not cover all drugs but will cover a list of maintenance drugs that prevent or control chronic disease, such as antiarthritics, anticoagulants, antiulcer drugs and diabetic therapy drugs. The program's finding is capped at $30 million annually and derives from the 25 cents per pack tax on tobacco products that was approved by the Legislature over the veto of former governor William Weld last July. The funding is projected to support the enrollment of 60,000 seniors each year.

"Seniors should be aware that enrollment will be open until Aug. 31 and that funding is limited and applications will be approved on a first come, first serve basis," Mariano said. "I encourage any eligible senior to enroll in the program as soon as possible."

Anyone interested in receiving an application for the program should call the Executive Office of Elder Affairs at 1-800-953-3305.

PSSB Receives Equipment Donation From IBM Corp.

The IBM Corporation recently donated personal computing equipment to the Protestant Social Service Bureau (PSSB) in Wollaston.

The equipment will be used to support the PSSB, an agency whose mission it is to strengthen family life and assist anyone in need.

Donald Watson of Randolph, a retired field engineer with IBM in Boston and an active volunteer at the PSSB, made the request on behalf of the agency.

The PSSB is a private, non-profit agency serving people of all ages on the South Shore. It provides services through a variety of programs including the Pantry Shelf, a food pantry; the Bureau Drawer, a thrift shop; a counseling center, offering therapeutic counseling to individuals, couples, and families and financial counseling to senior homeowners; and an adoption placement and counseling agency for domestic as well as international adoptions.

For more information about the PSSB or its services, call 773-6203.

Your Horoscope

by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A friend entrusts you with a confidence, but later in the week, you come across some misinformation. You'll want to spend some time over the weekend on completing an unfinished task.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Impatience could mar work efforts this week. Slow down and do a good job. Avoid disputes about career concerns. You'll treasure extra time for yourself over the weekend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) It's a good week to shop for yourself. Buy something that will make you feel good and lift your spirits. A friend may seem demanding. Guard against fuzzy thinking this weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A spur-of-the-moment shopping expedition could lead to an exciting purchase. A business proposition may have strings attached, so be careful. Exercise good judgment over your finances.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You'll find something you like in an out-of-the-way shop this week. Avoid petty bickering with a family member. In romance, it's best to keep your feet on the ground.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You'll be socializing this week with family members. Extra expenses could arise in connection with a trip. A domestic concern seems a bit confusing over the weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You may find a work project tedious or difficult this week. A co-worker could extend a surprise social invitation. It's best to be clear-headed where romance is concerned this weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Be willing to ask for help if you need it regarding a do-it-yourself project. Not everything is clear this week about a job concern. A loved one gets on your nerves over the weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Partners make decisions this week involving the use of joint assets. Guard against overspending on pleasure pursuits. You may feel someone is not being up front with you about a certain situation this weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You're not in the mood to tackle that project waiting for you at work this week. Interesting news comes from someone afar. A weekend concern may have you a bit bewildered as to someone's motivations.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You'll be receiving some helpful information from a business associate this week. However, you may feel that a child or a romantic interest is not giving you the full story, and you're correct to doubt this.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You probably won't be in the mood for large get-togethers this week. Intimate tête-à-têtes will suit you just fine, however. A business proposition is not what it appears to be on the surface.

CHRIS BREGOLI of Quincy, a member of the New England Mariners 16 and under team, rips a single during a recent USA/Junior Olympic Tournament game in Ft. Myers, Fla. Bregoli batted .364, helping the Mariners to a 5-2 record and a top eight finish overall in the tournament.

Chris Bregoli Paces Mariners In USA/Jr. Olympic Tourney

Chris Bregoli of North Quincy High School batted .364 and started in left field for the New England Mariners 16 and under team in a USA/Junior Olympic Tournament in Ft. Myers, Fla.

Bregoli helped lead the Mariners to a 5-2 record and a top eight finish in a field of 56 teams from across the country. The Mariners los to Miami-Dade, the eventual silver medalists.

Bregoli's best effort in the tournament came against Naples, Fla., when he went three for three with a double and two RBI.

He also batted .436 for the Morrisette American Legion baseball team this season, playing shortstop, left field and second base.

Bertoni Tournament Seeks Golfers For Sept. 8 Event

The organizers of the ninth annual Bertoni Golf Tournament seek golfers for the tournament, which is slated for Monday, Sept. 8 at 8 a.m. at the Halifax Country Club, Rt. 106, Halifax.

Entry fee is $100 per golfer. Prizes will be awarded throughout the day. An awards luncheon follows the tournament at about noon.

The tournament is the primary fund-raiser for the Quincy Visiting Nurses Association, a private, non-profit home health care organization that has provided health services to the community for over 90 years. Funds raised through the tournament help Quincy VNA provide free care to patients in need of medical assistance in their homes.

STOPPING FOR A RED LIGHT

When the alternator (or "charge" light) turns red, it is an indication that the charging system is not creating sufficient electrical current. It is then up to the battery to make up the difference. Older cars that are allowed to run without remedying this situation will eventually find their batteries drained. One day, the car will turn off and will not be able to be started again without a jump start. In newer cars, however, the situation is more serious because computer-controlled systems can malfunction on low voltage. The source of the charging problem may be a loose belt or a faulty alternator. In either case, it makes good sense to have the problem properly diagnosed and fixed as soon as the alternator light flashes red.

HINT: Some sophisticated later-model cars with extensive electronic controls will go into "limp mode" when the alternator light turns red, with the idea of giving the car just enough power to limp into the service bay.

Barra Captures Gold Medal At Judo Challenge

Christopher Barra, a junior at North Quincy High School, recently competed in The Ultimate Judo Challenge in Newport, R.I., the Bay State Games in Boston, and the 1997 Junior Olympics in Indianapolis, Ind.

At the Black Ships Ultimate Judo Challenge July 27 in Newport, R.I., Barra went undefeated and took home the gold medal.

Barra dominated the field of competitors who came mostly from southern New England and New York, and finished first in the invitational tournament. He used koshi-jime (hip strangle) throughout the day, winning the gold medal by knocking out Michael Basta of Bridgeport, Conn., with that technique. Basta was easily revived by officials and was not injured.

On July 19, Barra placed second in the Bay State Games. He advanced to the finals in the Massachusetts resident contest, then lost in the championship to Radu Brestyan, the 1996 Israeli Junior National Champion, who now resides on the South Shore and often works out with Barra.

Traveling with the Massachusetts State Judo Team, Barra finished fourth in the Junior Olympics, a nationwide annual competition sanctioned by the U.S. Olympic Committee, held in Indianapolis on July 12. He advanced through the 63 Kilogram field with crisp hip throws. Barra defeated Brian Treadwell of California, Tetsuya Shimabuku of Illinois and eliminated California's Chad Davis (fifth place) with a grappling pin to capture fourth place.

Barra studies under Bill Stevens and Tom Comorford at the L Street Judo Club in South Boston as well as with Rick Meara from Angelos Judo and Karate School in Everett.

Quincy 10-Year-Old Team Wins Tournament

The Quincy 10-year-old baseball team recently won the Mansfield Open Baseball Tournament, which featured 10 teams from the southeastern Massachusetts area.

In the championship game, Quincy defeated Whitman, 8-5, behind the outstanding pitching of Bret Martinson. John Folino had three hits and sparkled defensively behind the plate. Kevin Richardson also collected three hits and Nick Devico made a tremendous diving catch for the final out, wrapping up the title for Quincy.

In an exciting semifinal game, Quincy rallied from a 7-5 deficit in the last inning to edge the Norwood Nationals, 8-7. Folino pitched four strong innings and Dave Jaehnig hurled two shutout innings in relief to pick up the victory. Steve Straz (two hits) was the hero for Quincy, as he knocked in Dean Sandonato (two hits) with a long blast that bounced over the fence in the last inning. John Santon had a key three-run double and Richardson stole home to tie the game and gave Quincy the opportunity to win the contest.

Quincy went up against the strong Mansfield team as the underdog and came away with a 12-6 triumph to advance to the semifinals. Jaehnig had another three-hit game, while Martinson, Chris Marinelli, Billy Dwyer and Nick Malvesti all came through with clutch hits.

In the third game, Quincy knocked off the Norwood Americans, 9-3, led by the solid pitching of Sandonato, who fanned 12 and allowed three hits. Jaehnig had three hits and Richardson continued his daring base stealing.

After opening with a loss to Foxboro, Quincy reeled off five consecutive victories, starting with a 5-0 win over Whitman. Quincy was sparked by the outstanding pitching performance of Jaehnig, who tossed a two-hit shutout and struck out 12. Bob Newcomb and Paul Lennon sparkled defensively.

The Quincy team was comprised of Nick Devico, Bill Dwyer, John Folino, Dave Jaehnig, Paul Lennon, Chris Marinelli, Bret Martinson, Nick Malvesti, Bob Newcomb, Kevin Richardson, Dean Sandonato, John Santon and Steve Straz. Coaches were Mark Jaehnig, Fran Sandonato, Bill Richardson and Ron Santon.

Piazza To Compete In Hershey Championship

Kyle Piazza of Landers Road in Wollaston has been selected to compete in Hershey's Track and Field Youth Program National Championship after capturing the Massachusetts title in the boys' 13-14-year-old division of the softball throw for distance.

Piazza's winning throw was compared to other state champions from the other New England states. He was then selected to attend the National Finals in Hershey, Pa., this week to compete against other finalists from all 50 states and Canada.

A six-time qualifier for the state championship, Piazza will attend North Quincy High School this fall.

Other Quincy youngsters who were crowned state champions in the Massachusetts state finals included the boys' 13-14-year old 4x100 meter relay team of Peter Chan, Eric Eleey, Colin Green and Piazza. Alysia DiMuzio was the state champion in the girls' 9-10-year-old softball throw for distance and Stephanie Fiandacia won the state title in the girls' 11-12-year-old softball throw for distance.

KYLE PIAZZA

All those who won state titles are members of the Quincy Track Club, which is directed by Geoff Hennessy, a Hershey's volunteer for over 18 years and the meet director for the Quincy Recreation Department.

Comets Stage Comeback

The Quincy Comets softball team defeated Braintree, 23-15, at Lakeside Park in Braintree in a recent South Suburban League game.

The Comets trailed, 12-9, after four innings but staged a comeback to win the game.

Quincy rallied for six runs in the fifth inning. Kathlyn Gates singled with the bases loaded and Jessica Lorman ripped a two-run double to the center field fence. Rachel Bonanni and Diedre Jacobs connected for back-to-back doubles to give the Comets a 15-12 lead.

The Comets erupted for eight more runs in the sixth. Marissa Malvesti, who was perfect in the game with two hits and two walks, had a key base hit along with Nancy Gardner. After the Comets loaded the bases on walks, Alexis Miranda delivered a double to left to complete the rally.

After coming on in relief in the second inning, Sheila Foley pitched the rest of the way to earn the victory.

Melanie Curtain, Pat Dunn Capture Presidents Golf Titles

Melanie Curtain captured last weekend's Ladies Association at Presidents Golf Course club championship.

Curtain was the top gross finisher in Division I, while Sue Martinelli finished first in Division I net play.

Janice Morin led Division II with the top gross finish and Liz Harrington was Division II's winner in net play.

In Division III, Mal Robertson finished with the top gross score and Patty Buck came in first in net play.

In the men's club championship at Presidents Golf Course, Pat Dunn clinched first place in the championship flight. Dunn finished ahead of Ed Boylan (second), Dave Pomarico (third), Bob Meehan (fourth), Bill Butler (fifth), and Joe Moran, Dick Hallisey and Joe Pomarico (tied for sixth).

In the first flight, Will Hynes defeated Paul Croke. The second flight winner was Mike Naughton, who topped Russ Keegan. Winning the third flight was John Zakowsky, who defeated Mort Kelly. In the fourth flight, Bob MacKean was the winner over Jim Podolske.

Nancy DiCarlo Sr., a member of the Ladies Association at Presidents Golf Course, notched a hole-in-one at the course last Saturday. On the seventh hole, with teammates Dolly Barron and Dot Vekos looking on, DiCarlo used an 8-iron to sink the 90-yard shot.

'CyberCons'

Internet fraud often consists of scams that con artists have been using for years--only now they have a new medium and new victims to exploit. Here are some tips to help navigate safely through cyberspace.

• Shop on-line only with companies you know. If you don't know a company, ask for a print catalog before you decide to order electronically.

• Use a secure browser that will encrypt or scramble information. If you don't have encryption software, consider calling the company's 800 number, faxing your order, or paying with a check. Or look for software that can be downloaded from the Internet for free.

• Never give anyone your bank account number, social security number, or other personal information that isn't absolutely needed to complete a transaction.

• Never give out your Internet password. Never. Your online provider will not ask for your password other than at first long-in. Change your password often and be creative.

• Make sure your children know to never give out their full name, address, or phone number. Parents can install software to block access sites with distasteful or hazardous content and control access to chat rooms, news groups, and messages from other subscribers.

TOP SCAMS ON THE INTERNET...

• Pyramid schemes offering a chance to invest in an up-and-coming company with a guaranteed high return. You invest and must ask others to do the same. But when the pyramid collapses everyone loses--except the person at the top.

• Internet-related services that are not delivered, such as designing a Web site. Equipment that isn't delivered or is a lower quality than promised.

• Business opportunities or franchises that are represented as more profitable than they really are.

• Work-at-home schemes where individuals need to invest money in start-up services but don't earn enough money to recover the initial investment.

QUINCY COLLEGE ADVERTISING SERVICES
AUGUST 21, 1997 @ 11:00 AM

Quincy College is seeking the services of a full-service advertising agency within the South Shore region to act as a strategis advertising planner positioning the College so that it holds a distinctive well-defined place within the region's educational marketplace. The agency is expected to develop and implement an advertising plan that is consistent with the College's strategis goals. It is anticipated that securing the services of an advertising agency will extend and complement the college's in-house marketing and public relation's capabilities by offering the creative talent necessary to develop print, electronic, and outdoor advertising as well as selected collateral materials; provide media buying expertise; provide account management services; and provide market research consultation as needed.

Detailed specifications are on file at the office of the Purchasing Agent, Quincy City Hall, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, Massachusetts, 02169, between the hours of 8:30 am to 4:30 pm. To receive RFP contact Jeanne Barrett, Asst. Contract Coordinator, Purchasing Dept. @ 617-376-1062.

Non-price proposal must be in a sealed envelope (which is supplied), and price proposals must be in a separate sealed envelope (which is also supplied). The outside of the sealed envelopes are to be clearly marked "RFP-NON-PRICE PROPOSAL ENCLOSED" with time/date of RFP and "RFP-PRICE PROPOSAL ENCLOSED" with time/date of RFP.

Bids/Proposals will be received at the office of the Purchasing Agent until theme and date stated above, at which time and date they will be opened and registered. Late Bids/Proposals, delivered by mail or in person, will be rejected.

If applicable, Bids/Proposals shall be in accordance with Chapter 149 of the M.G.L. as amended. M.G.L. Chapter 39, section 39A, 39B and 39F-R. M.G.L. Chapter 149, Section 26, 27, 29, 35 and 44A-44M.

The right is reserved to reject any or all RFPs or to accept any part of an RFP or the one deemed best for the City, and waive any informalities in the bidding, if it is in the best interest of the City to do so.

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought For The Week

The next time a bid for cooperation is stressed, in any sort of venture, the following illustration might be used to excellent advantage.

A concert is enjoyed only when each musician does his part. Individual renditions, when given separately from the over all orchestration, are never as interesting or exciting. In any sort of venture, people working together create a working team similar to a good orchestra. Each player in the symphony is an individual with his specified part to play. Any foul up by the individual detracts from the finished result - or product. Similarly, every worker in a team is important with his own function to perform.

Each player in the symphony has to keep in mind the listener, playing his part so well that the listener can find nothing to criticize. Similarly, each worker in any venture must think of the person who will use his product or service.

Only when this is done can each participant have a common joy in a finished product or service. . . Much of today's criticism of service and/or products can be avoided if this sort of illustration is remembered - and stressed.

ST. JUDE'S NOVENA

May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. St. Jude, helper of the hopeless, pray for us. St. Jude, worker of miracies, pray for us. Say this prayer 9 times a day for nine consecutive days without mentioning the favor. On the eighth day your favor will be granted, no matter how unobtainable it seemed. Publication of this prayer must be promised.

waters that surround our neighborhoods."

Cindy DeCristofaro of the Quincy Health Department will discuss the city's role in water quality testing and health advisories. Denise Conry of Weston & Sampson will give an overview of the sewer and storm water mitigation work being directed by the DPW. MDC representatives will discuss their role on water quality testing, the Back to the Beaches program, and more.

"A clean and healthy beach and bay can strengthen the city's economy," said Gutro. "Wollaston Beach can and should play a role in the city's tourism plans. A thriving Wollaston Beach and Quincy Bay will increase property values, tourism, and recreational opportunities.

"We have a terrific natural resource here in Quincy that goes underutilized and the Ward 5 Community Association plans to do our part to ensure the necessary steps are being taken to restore it."

Minority Numbers Increase, White Decline

City's Population Up Nearly 1,000

Quincy's population is up by nearly 1,000, according to this year's city census.

But the makeup is changing with the non-white population increasing and the white decreasing.

This year's figures released by City Clerk Joseph Shea and compared with last year's show:

•Population: 88,781--up 992.

•White: 68,434--down 3,630.

•Asian/Pacific Islanders: 15,715--up 2,715.

•Black: 2,574--up 994.

•Hispanic: 2,041--up 901.

•American Indian: 17. (A new category this year.)

•Female residents outnumber male by 6,217--47,504 to 41,287.

Whites comprise 76.9 percent of the total population, Asian/Pacific Islanders, 17.7 percent; Black, 2.7 percent; Hispanic, 2.3 percent; and American Indian, .2 percent.

Shea said the figures show that most of the Asian/Pacific population is in Montclair, Norfolk Downs, Atlantic, Wollaston and Germantown in that order.

Most of the Black population is in the Brewer's Corner area, Quincy Point and Germantown.

The census was again done by mail and this year cost about $7,200 more than last year. The reason was that the postage on the return envelopes was prepaid.

"It was well worth it," said Shea. "We usually get a 70 percent return but this year we got almost 85 percent."

1997 Census

National Origin	Population	Percentage
White	68,434	76.9
Asian/Pacific Islanders	15,715	17.7
Black	2,574	2.7
Hispanic	2,041	2.3
American Indian	17	.2

Female residents outnumber male residents in each of the six wards.

Female/Male Population By Ward

Ward	Female	Male	Total
1	7,956	6,711	14,667
2	8,317	7,026	15,343
3	7,749	6,707	14,456
4	7,743	7,036	14,779
5	8,241	7,005	15,246

It's A Seller's Market

Houses, Apartments Now Scarce Here

Quincy has become a hot commodity of sorts in the real estate market, according to local realtors.

But, they say, such success has come in the form of a mixed blessing: residential property has moved so well, there is practically nothing left to buy--or, for that matter, rent--in the city.

Quincy realtors cite different reasons for the current property trend, but they agree on one thing: the city is clearly a seller's market at present.

Uncle Sam Rounseville of Century 21/Abigail Adams Agency said the main reason there is nothing to buy in Quincy is because of skyrocketing prices in Boston and Cambridge.

"What's happened is that rent control in Boston and Cambridge has gone off," he said. "Boston rentals have gone sky high, and so people are coming here. It's just an explosion."

Rounseville said prices in Quincy also have gone up in recent months, citing average figures of $169,000, $189,000 and $230,000 for single-family, two-family and three-family homes respectively. A two-bedroom condominium apartment, he said, averages between $1,000 and $1,100 and a one-bedroom apartment between $750 and $850--without utilities.

"But people still come here because it's cheaper to buy in Quincy than it is to rent in Boston or Cambridge," he said. "I've got a list of people who want to come here, and a lot of the calls come from Boston and Cambridge."

Arthur Foley of Century 21 Annex Realty said a revitalized economy also has played a role. During the recession a few years ago, he said, there were plenty of homes to be had, but now, the number of available residences is down considerably.

"I wouldn't say there is nothing out there, but there certainly is less," he said. "I would say, in general, good two- and three-family homes are harder to find than good one-family homes."

Carole Biagini, residential sales manager for Daniel J. Flynn & Co., said the reluctance of people to sell their Quincy homes has helped to create a "logjam" in the city's market.

"People are afraid they won't be able to find the exact home they want, so they're afraid to put their own homes on the market," she said. "At the same time, first-time homebuyers want to purchase these homes that aren't being put on the market. It's a vicious circle."

Tom McFarland of Re/Max Realty Pros said the availability of quality homes with access to mass transportation appealed to many homebuyers--particularly members of the Asian community who have moved into the city from Boston--and many of those homes were sold as a result.

"Inventory is tight, definitely," he said. "The inventory got ahead of itself, and people started gobbling them up."

Vin Moscardelli of ERA Central Real Estate said what has happened to the market is merely a natural process.

"Real estate is a cycle, and this is just a cycle it's going through," said Moscardelli, who noted that lower interest rates on homes is one major factor that has contributed to the existing trend.

"The multi-family market is very tight right now,"

MDC To Consider Kolson Plan In The Wake Of Drowning

Mesh Cover May Thwart Swimming At Quarry

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Mayor James Sheets has voiced support of a proposal by City Council President Peter Kolson to fill the Granite Rail Quarry with a type of mesh that would prevent local youth from diving at the site.

The mayor has sent the proposal to Metropolitan District Commissioner David Balfour for his consideration. Kolson came up with the idea following the drowning death of a 26-year-old Quincy man at the MDC-owned quarry over the weekend.

Thomas Roberts, a technical representative for a Braintree electrical equipment manufacturer, drowned after jumping feet first from a 70-ledge around 6 p.m. Saturday. His body was recovered from the 173-foot-deep pool Sunday by Quincy police divers.

THOMAS ROBERTS

Obituary, Page 20

Roberts had gone to the West Quincy site with his sister and three of her friends to cool off after playing in a softball game. Officials have said they do not believe alcohol was a factor in the accident.

Despite Roberts' death and other preceding it at the quarry, however, youths have continued to swim and

Mediation Training At Quincy Court

Mediation Works Incorporated (MWI) will hold a mediation training Sept. 6 to Oct. 4 at Quincy District Court.

The 36-hour training will focus on the structure, skills and strategies of mediation. Lead trainers include Melissa Broderick, executive director of the Massachusetts Association of Mediation Programs and Practitioners; Chuck Doran and Erica Fox, Esq. of MWI; and David Hoffman, mediator and attorney.

The training will include an overview of mediation and other alternative dispute resolution methods, mediation skills and settlement strategies; mediation confidentiality; mediator liability and ethical dilemmas. The program will consist of lectures, supervised role-play opportunities, and group discussions.

Shipbuilding Museum's Finances Should Remain Unaffected, Mayor Says

Sheets Not Worried About Loss Of Southern Cross

The departure of the USS Southern Cross from the U.S. Naval and Shipbuilding Museum at the Fore River shipyard should not seriously impact the museum's finances, according to Mayor James Sheets.

The Navy cargo carrier weighed anchor and was towed across Massachusetts Bay from the shipyard last week. After serving as a training vessel at the yard for the Massachusetts Maritime Academy for five years, the carrier returned to Norfolk, Va. where it has rejoined the U.S. Ready Reserve Fleet.

Sheets said he knew when the ship came to Quincy it would only remain in the city for a few years. And despite the fact that the museum will lose about $5,000 a month in berthing fees from Mass Maritime, the mayor said he is "not concerned about the loss of that revenue at this point" for a number of reasons.

The mayor said a scouting program aboard the USS Salem--the Quincy-built heavy cruiser that serves as the museum's centerpiece--earned about $38,000 last year and is expected to make as much as $100,000 or more this fall, which alone would make up for the loss of the Southern Cross.

"We project enrollments will be up for the scouting program," he said.

In addition, Sheets said he is working with Sens. Edward Kennedy and John Kerry, Congressman William Delahunt and the Massachusetts National Guard to find a replacement vessel for the site. The mayor said the city's chances of getting another ship are good and could reach fruition as early as next month.

There is also the possibility of leasing the dock to someone else, he added.

The U.S. Naval and Shipbuilding Museum currently has an annual budget of about $350,000, Sheets said.

Second Annual Senior Conference Sept. 20

Quincy's second annual senior conference, "Focus on Aging" will be held Sept. 20 at Broad Meadows Middle School.

The conference is planned by the Quincy Council on Aging and the Commission on the Family.

The suggestion for a local conference to be held specifically for Quincy's older citizens came from John Noonan, chairman of the Council on Aging's Board of Directors, after he attended the White House Conference on Aging in 1995. Noonan's plan was endorsed by Mayor James Sheets, who felt it was an excellent way for the city to contribute to the lifelong learning of its senior citizens.

Last year's Senior Conference sold out and received excellent ratings from participants. This year's conference is being held at Broad Meadows in order to accommodate more seniors than last year.

Workshops will include favorites from last year such as "Delicious and Nutritious: Cooking Great Meals for One or Two" and "Spirituality and Growing Older" as well as new topics, "Medicaid, Home Ownership and Nursing Home Planning: How They Interrelate" will be taught by an attorney skilled in legal issues for seniors. "Plants and People" features Eleanor Kopp from Clifford's Flowers in Quincy Center, and "Smile, Dammit" will be led by Patriot Ledger reporter Sue Scheible who will explore how the media looks at aging.

Brian Buckley, director of the Quincy Council on Aging, and Linda Stice, executive director of the Commission on the Family, are planning the conference with the help of Impact Quincy, and Family Council, QCOA Board members, and Americorps.

For more information and a registration form, call the Quincy Council on Aging at 376-1243 or the Commission on the Family at 376-1421.

Clark Chiropractic
Dr. Robert J. Clark

Should You be Seeing a Chiropractor?
Back pain, stiffness, headaches, numbness, tingling and other health problems can often be traced to the spine. Many everyday events such as twisting, bending, poor posture, car accidents and sports injuries can cause the moving bones of the spine to lose their normal position or movement.
Some possible indicators of a problem are:
- One shoulder is lower than the other.
- A head that is leaning too far forward.
- Uneven shoe wear.
- Unequal pant leg length or skirt hemline.

Potential Threat But Probably Won't Happen, Says Ryan

Quincy College President Not That Concerned About 'Tuition-Free' Plan

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The president of Quincy College says while a proposal to eliminate tuition and fees at all 15 state community colleges poses a potential threat to his institution, he does not think the plan will become a reality.

Dr. Jeremiah Ryan said this week that legislators and college officials to whom he has spoken do not, in general, support the measure.

"I don't sense that there's a lot of support for it, except from the students--which, of course, I understand," he said.

The proposal was announced two weeks ago by James Carlin, chairman of the state Board of Higher Education. Carlin said he hopes the proposal will open the doors of higher education to more middle- and low-income students.

In order to be adopted, the proposal must be accepted by the governor and passed by the Legislature.

"I think the debate on access is admirable and should be discussed," said Ryan. "I share his (Carlin's) concerns about access, and I'm hopeful this leads to debate. But I think the concept as proposed is questionable.

"There are also lots of competing interests on how to spend $100 million."

It has been estimated that it would cost the state between $90 million and $100 million to cover the cost and fees of all the state's community college students. According to a state report, Massachusetts' community colleges cost an average of $2,530 per year. City-run Quincy College costs about $2,500 annually.

Ryan said there are alternatives to Carlin's plan that could be considered, including:

•A voucher system that would allow an economically-disadvantaged student to receive a voucher granting access to the institution of his or her choice.

•A single-price system that would set one affordable price for all state community colleges.

"I also believe the recent expansion of PELL grants to $3,000 and the decision to give tax credit for higher education expenses make the tuition-free proposal unnecessary," he added.

Ryan said not allowing students who need remediation--in other words, high school graduates not quite prepared for college-level courses--to attend four-year institutions will additionally benefit two-year schools such as Quincy College.

If Carlin's plan is passed, Ryan said, it could "wreak havoc" on state community colleges. It could lead to an overpopulation of students in those schools that will end up costing the state considerably more than the current system, he said.

"It could also force those colleges to make choices about who can attend there, which is contrary to our mission," he said.

Ryan added that Quincy College could indeed suffer if the tuition and fees at all state community colleges are eliminated, since some of them already are offering free courses.

Ryan is trying to be proactive when it comes to financial matters. To make Quincy College less dependent on tuition, he recently established the Quincy College Foundation, which is expected to raise $2.25 million over the next five years.

He said he is also working with members of the South Shore's legislative delegation and officials from other local colleges to deal with Carlin's proposal "if it becomes a legislative issue, which I don't think will happen."

Ayers Meeting On Flooding Relief Project

Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers was scheduled to hold a community meeting last night (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. at the Community Center, 440 East Squantum St.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the flooding relief project for Hollis Avenue/Milton Road. Ayers invited city engineers from the Department of Public Works to explain the job description and to give area residents the opportunity to review plans before construction begins.

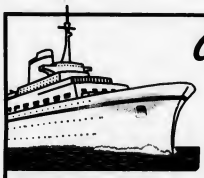
For more information about the project, call Ayers at 472-9877.

Marina Bay Senior Living Campus OK'd By Council

The City Council last week voted in favor of granting The Marina Bay Skilled Nursing and Rehabilitation Center Inc. and The Newton Group Planned Unit Development (PUD) special permits, clearly the way for construction to begin later this year on the Marina Bay Senior Living Campus.

The vote came after eight months of public hearings before the City Council, Planning Board, Conservation Commission, Zoning Board of Appeals and various neighborhood groups.

"I am very pleased that the developers have agreed to help pay for general traffic and sewer and water utility improvements in Marina Bay," said Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers. "This guarantees that the roads, sidewalks and curbs in the Marina will be maintained at a high level without becoming a burden to the city's taxpayers."



Other improvements include revised signage on Hancock and East and West Squantum Streets. The agreement also provides a contribution to the relocation fund for the Atlantic Community Center.

"I am especially heartened by the fact that the agreement is fair on all sides," said Ayers. "Residents and businesses already in the Marina will benefit from the increased money available for maintenance. In addition, this development will bring 100 construction jobs and 100 permanent service and support jobs to Quincy."

"It is gratifying to win the City Council's unanimous approval after so many months of hearing and special filings," said Peter Gordon, president of the Marina Bay Skilled Nursing and Rehabilitation Center Inc. and developer of the Marina Bay Senior Living Campus.

The Senior Living Campus will provide seniors a broad range of residential

Colonial Reenactment At Pageant Field

A colonial reenactment and encampment held by the Massachusetts Council of Minutemen and Militia will take place Saturday and Sunday at Pageant Field, announce City Councillor Michael Cheney and First Night Quincy.

Participants of up to 60 colonial reenactors will participate in a week-long encampment open to the public. Twenty to 25 colonial tents of various descriptions, as well as three to four crafts tents will be set up and open to the public on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Various displays and activities going on during the weekend include 18th century open fire cooking, pottery making, candle dipping, woodworking, leatherworking, wax smithing, tomahawk and knife throwing, colonial military drilling, cannon firing, musket firing and general military camp activities, including fife and drum music.

The event is a family, non-alcoholic event sponsored by the City of Quincy and First Night Quincy. All residents are invited to participate and to bring cameras as there will be many photo opportunities. There is no charge for admission and parking is free.

"We are pleased to provide Quincy and the South Shore residents with another family event this year that is free of charge and open to the public," said Cheney. "This event is an opportunity for the public to take a step backward into history and to view life as it was in colonial times. The weekend promises to be a fun-filled event for every member of the family."

For more information, call Cheney at 471-1493.

A Fitting Tribute

Jim Hardie, I thought, had a great idea a few weeks ago.

I still think so.

And, I hope that maybe Mayor James Sheets, School Committee Vice Chairman Ron Mariano, School Supt. Gene Creedon and Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi might agree. And maybe help make it become a reality.

Jim lives on Southern Artery across the street from where the old Pollard School once stood and, just a few yards away, where the new Clifford Marshall School is rapidly taking shape.

Like every other former student who had the good fortune to attend the Pollard, Jim has fond memories of the teachers who taught there.

The death last May of one of those outstanding teachers, Ruth Abbiatti, prompted him to suggest here in a letter:

"I was wondering if anyone has thought of putting up a plaque in the new school when it opens as a memorial to the teachers who taught there (Pollard) in the 1930s and 1940s."

The Pollard was closed in 1982 as school enrollments declined. Later, a suspicious fire swept through it one night and then it was finished off by a wrecking ball. A condo complex now occupies the site.

The Pollard is gone but not forgotten.

The wonderful memories remain. And many of the former students now cherish a brick they stopped by to pick up as a memento after the wrecking ball had done its job.

Some children and grandchildren of children who attended the Pollard School will be among the new students at the Marshall School.

A plaque or a framed listing of the names of the Pollard School teachers in a place of honor in the Marshall School would be a natural bonding of the old and the new.

Including the names of teachers who came after the 1930s and 1940s would be appropriate. There was something special about the Pollard that brought out the best in teachers.

They were genuinely interested in their students and were always there to help and to guide them.

And in the Great Depression years, to provide milk and cookies or share their lunch with a pupil who came to school hungry.

The Marshall School is expected to open in January. Hopefully there will be a plaque or other listing of names of the Pollard School teachers there for everyone to see.

Sheriff Clifford (Kippy) Marshall for whom the new school is named had a great fondness for the old Pollard.

I think he would have liked Jim Hardie's idea.

He would have thought it a fitting tribute to those wonderful teachers.

SPEAKING OF THE Marshall School, retired police officer Bill Draicchio, now an aide to City Clerk Joseph Shea, wants to donate two flags to be placed in the lobby.

DRAICCHIO

One, the U.S. flag and other the Marine Corps flag. Both he and the late Sheriff Clifford Marshall served in the Marines.

Draicchio, who was "Officer Bill" to the thousands of school youngsters he crossed at the busy intersection of Southern Artery and Washington St. for 33 years, was one of the first to suggest the school be named for Marshall.

And he likes Jim Hardie's suggestion that the names of the Pollard School teachers be placed in honor at the new school.

MIKE McFARLAND, the mayor's former executive secretary, has been knocking on doors around the city in his quest for a school committee seat in this year's election.

McFARLAND

McFarland turned in over 1,200 signatures on his nomination papers, many of which he personally obtained. Only 50 were needed.

"From what they tell me," he says, "most people I talk with seem to be satisfied with the way things are in the city."

DID YOU KNOW that Robert Boussy, candidate for the Ward 3 City Council seat, is a deacon at Union Congregational Church, Wollaston? Boussy was injured in an auto accident several weeks ago but is not letting it keep him from campaigning.

A "CHOWDER TIME" fundraiser for City Council President and Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson is on tap for tonight (Thursday) at the Quincy Yacht Club, Sea St., Houghs Neck. Tickets are $15.

JOSEPH NEWTON, candidate for the Ward 6 City Council seat, has a fundraiser tonight (Thursday) from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Adams Inn, 29 Hancock St., North Quincy. Tickets are $20. For more information, call 328-1250.

A FUNDRAISER for Linda Tracy, Ward 3 council candidate, will be held Thursday, Aug. 21, 6 to 8 p.m. at Coddington's, Hancock St., Quincy Sq. Tickets are $50. Call 328-6134 for more information.

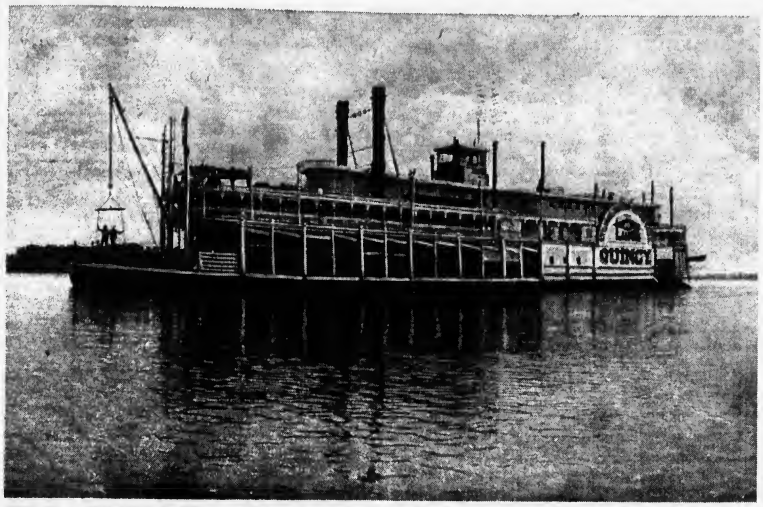
Family Fire Safety Day On Sept. 13

The Metropolitan District Commission and the Massachusetts Department of Fire Services, including the Quincy Fire Department, will sponsor the second annual Family Fire Safety Day Saturday, Sept. 13.

The event is free of charge and will be held from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Houghton's Pond in the MDC's Blue Hill Reservation in Milton. It is a family event designed to promote fire awareness through safety activities, displays, children's games, helicopter and fire engine demonstrations and tours.



Antique and new fire engines will be on display and Smokey Bear and Sparky the Fire Dog will also be on hand. The food concession stand will be open.

For more information, call Peter Church at the MDC at (617) 727-5250 or Jennifer Mieth at the Dept. of Fire Services at (508) 567-3381.

Sarah Emma Evelyn Edmonds was the most famous woman soldier of the Civil War. Edmonds, a Canadian, served in the Union Army disguised as a man named Frank Thompson. She served mainly as a nurse and messenger but also went on several spying missions.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1909 POSTCARD view of the side wheeled steamer Quincy that ploughed the waters of the Mississippi River for the now defunct Jo Packet Line. Boats like the Quincy carried cargo and passengers from the north central states to New Orleans and everywhere in between. Quite different from the steamers that traversed our coast, they did not build these boats to encounter waves. Today, replicas of these steamboats have become popular tourist attractions and gambling casinos. Since they named this boat after our sister city in Illinois, where it made its home, they pronounced Quincy without the Z.

We Must Help Clean Wollaston Beach

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Today, thanks to the MDC, folks are back at Pleasure Bay and up at Revere Beach again. The water is clean as are the sandy beaches themselves. However, this summer Wollaston Beach has had a checkered record. One day it's supposed to be clean enough to swim in and the next day the warning flags go up. Personally, you won't catch me getting wet in Wollaston Beach water. I just don't trust it. I don't care what the MDC says or what the City of Quincy says. I see Quincy water and I see nothing but high bacteria counts.

Maybe someday, the water will be safe to wade into but right now Wollaston Beach might as well be menaced by Jaws. Sadly, though, I assume even Jaws might succumb to the pollution there. At least we could see a monstrous shark, but pollution isn't always that visible.

What happened over the past 35 to 40 years? How did pollution take over coastal waters? We have met the enemy and he is us. We are the problem and we are the solution. Our waters didn't get polluted overnight and neither will they clean themselves up.

Right now, they're swimming again at Revere Beach. At least for now it's clean again. I can't remember what Wollaston Beach once looked like, because Southie was as far south as I got. I hope and pray that Wollaston Beach will be as clean as Revere Beach is now. But the problem here remains much worse than Revere ever seemed to get.

I commend state Rep. Mike Bellotti for his annual cleanup of Wollaston Beach which this year was held Saturday, July 26. The beach and the ocean waters are ours to use. We don't own them. But we have a responsibility to pass them on to the next generation as clean as possible. For a while there, we forgot, apparently, our stewardship of this valuable natural resource, didn't we?

The MDC can do only so much as we must do the rest. Our coastal waters should not become cesspools for our waste. Our waters should be a source of life but too often have become dead murky goo. We ought to be ashamed of ourselves. It never should have happened!

Miniature Building Boom Despite War Shortgages

Aug. 14-20
1942
55 Years Ago

By PAUL HAROLD

Building Inspector Alrick Weidman sad the city was experiencing a miniature building boom, with the issuance of permits for 45 single-family homes on the Faxon Farm property located between Quincy Ave. and Water St.

The cost of the homes was estimated at $4,600 each.

Weidman noted that because of war-time shortages and rationing, construction throughout New England had been severely curtailed. However, in recent months, building materials had become available and builders were more familiar with acquisitioning schedules and procedures.

AUXILIARY GIVEN FULL POLICE POWERS

Mayor Thomas Burgin told the 450 auxiliary police meeting at Quincy High School auditorium that they had full police powers, and they should take no kidding from "sidewalk lawyers."

Burgin based his opinion on a ruling by City Solicitor John Smith and a proclamation by Governor Saltonstall that called the auxiliary members into service immediately on the sounding of an air raid warning.

TIRE SHORTAGE SEEN FOR WORKERS

According to a survey by the state planning board, as many as 83 percent of the shipyard workers' cares could be off the road by next year because of the shortage of tires.

The state called on those driving the 8,794 cars to the yard to double up and swap rides to extend the life of their tires.

The survey found that 53 percent of the workers came from within five miles of the yard, eight percent walked, with the remaining workers taking a bus or trolley.

PAY ATTENTION TO POLYPS

A polyp is a benign (noncancerous) growth that sometimes forms in the large intestine. While such small, tumor-like lumps are usually quite harmless in and of themselves, doctors are now discovering that the growths may serve as early warning flags for people who may be at heightened risk of developing colorectal cancer. Research reported in the New England Journal of Medicine has found that close family members of people with polyps have almost twice the likelihood of developing colorectal cancer as do people with no similar connection. Among individuals with polyps who are younger than 60, that risk to family members such as parents, siblings, or children is even higher.

P.S. The American Cancer Society already recommends routine screening beginning at age 35 for close relatives of colorectal cancer patients.

Monitoring long-term conditions is best done by a physician who has developed a good working relationship with the patient. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, Dr. Lisa Antonelli and I are dedicated to knowing what you need and listening to your concerns. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospitals. Hours by appointment. We're at 700 Congress St., in Quincy. Call me or Dr. Lisa Antonelli with questions at 472-2550 .

Quincy Catholic Club Awards $1,000 In Scholarships

The Quincy Catholic Club recently awarded five high school senior scholarship certificates totaling $1,000 at a Mass at St. John's Church.

Fr. William McCarthy was celebrant of the Mass.

Those receiving certificates were:

Erin Dickens, Quincy High School; Angela DeNardo, North Quincy High School; Erica Keiley, Hingham High School; James Melchin, North Quincy High School, and Melody Wass, Quincy High School.

A summary of each students' interest and accomplishments was presented by the scholarship chairman.

Following the Mass the recipients were guests of club members at a dinner at the Common Market in Quincy.

Mrs. Paul Waters and Mrs. John McLaughlin were co-chairmen of the dinner.

Anna O'Brien was chairman of the scholarship committee assisted by Mary Boethel, Marion O'Malley and Rita Waters.

Public To Take Part In Adams Historic Site Civil War Programs

The National Park Service, Adams National Historic Site announces two public programs to commemorate the Adams family's participation in the Civil War.

"A House Divided" and "A Visit with the First Massachusetts Cavalry" will be presented Saturday at the Adams National Historic Site's "Old House" at 135 Adams St.

In conjunction with these programs Adams National Historic Site will offer a special exhibit of the substantial collection of Adams family memorabilia relating to their service during the Civil War.

A House Divided scheduled from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 2 to 4 p.m. will invite the public to play a part in one of America's greatest events, the Civil War. Visitors assume the roles of members of the U.S. Congress in 1861 during the secession crisis.

Led by a park ranger portraying Congressman Charles Francis Adams, participants as Members of Congress, both North and South, discuss the critical issues that divide them. Last-minute efforts aimed at compromise prove futile and visitors find themselves in uniforms of either blue or gray preparing for battle. Ultimately, participants take on the role of an actual soldier at the Battle of Gettysburg and share his fate. After the conflict Abraham Lincoln reads the Gettysburg Address on the field of battle. Each participant receives a copy of the Gettysburg Address, a piece of hard tack, and a slice of Union or Dixie Cake.

A Visit with the 1st Massachusetts Cavalry: 12 noon to 2 p.m. The Adams National Historic Site will host the Commonwealth's finest mounted unit of the Civil War. Members of the public will be informed of the proud history of this unit, and the dire circumstances it faces in 1863. Finally participants are "enlisted" into the ranks of the 1st Massachusetts Cavalry and trained for battle. Visitors will be "paid" for their service and have an opportunity to admire the unit's beautiful horses.

All programs are free of charge. Space is limited and programs will be reserved on a first-come first-serve basis. Those who wish to attend should call the Adams National Historic Site Visitor Center at (617) 770-1175 for reservation. Limited street parking is available on Adams Street.

For more information, call Adams National Historic Site Visitor Center at (617) 770-1175.

MediaOne Of Quincy Earns National Honors

Quincy Community Television Department has received national honors at the 1997 Hometown Video Festival, announces MediaOne.

The Quincy local programming operation of MediaOne, formerly known as Continental Cablevision, was named as a finalist in the prestigious category of overall excellence.

The Hometown Video Festival is held each year by the Alliance for Community Media of Washington, D.C. This is the second consecutive year that the local programming department in Quincy has been named as a finalist for overall excellence.

In addition, the View Smart to Vote Smart 10th Congressional Debate produced in Quincy last fall was selected as a finalist in the category of professional election coverage. The View Smart debate between William Delahunt and Edward Teague featured videotaped questions from students around the district, as well as questions from viewers sent in by e-mail to Continental's World Wide Web site. The View Smart debate has also been recognized this year at the Local Cable/ACE Awards ceremony in New Orleans, La.

"We are certainly very proud of these honors," said MediaOne's Production and Programming Manager Bill McColgan. "We are proud because this recognition speaks not only to the quality of the program, but also to the talent and dedication of the volunteers and to the strength of our partnerships with Quincy's schools and community organizations. I want to express the appreciation of everyone here at MediaOne, as well as my personal thanks, to the great folks here in Quincy who have helped us so much."

Marina Bay Plan Citizens Assn. Topic

Plans for Lot 23 at Marina Bay were to be discussed at a meeting of the Quincy Citizens and Wollaston Park Associations last night (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. in the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 12 Hunt St., North Quincy.

All City Council members and candidates were invited to discuss the issue. Refreshments are available at meetings.

Saturn To Hold Benefit Car Wash, Barbecue Saturday

Saturn of Quincy, located on Furnace Brook Parkway at Exit 8 off the Southeast Expressway, will hold a free Car Wash and Barbecue to benefit one of its employees Saturday.

The benefit, which will include a giveaway and raffle, will be held from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The event will aid Cindy Charlton, customer service director at Saturn North in Federal Heights, Colo. In March, Charlton was stricken with a rare disease known as "flesh-eating bacteria," and she has since undergone a number of surgeries including the amputation of both legs.

Saturn and The New England Blood Bank have opened a fund to help Charlton and her family. The Mobile Blood Bank will be on hand all day Saturday, and the fund will also accept monetary donations.

Patrick McDermott Seeks Re-election In Ward 3

PATRICK McDERMOTT

Ward 3 City Councillor Patrick McDermott announces his candidacy for re-election.

McDermott, first elected in 1995, said he is "proud to have represented one of the city's most diverse wards." Ward 3, which stretches from the Neponset River through Montclair, parts of Wollaston, Wollaston Hill, Hospital Hill and South Quincy includes a diverse number of communities and neighborhoods.

A resident of Quincy for the past 24 years, he said his participation in public service is, and will continue to be, the top priority in his life.

"I have always had a keen interest in serving the community and have been fortunate in the last two years to have served the people of Ward 3 as their councillor," he said.

During his term, McDermott focused on numerous projects and neighborhood concerns. In the spring of 1996, he supervised the Stop & Shop development on Newport Avenue, the largest development in North Quincy since State Street South. He also worked to revitalize the ward's neighborhood parks, including the total renovation of Bishop Field, new equipment at Forbes Hill, and a new park on Marsh Street.

"As I begin my re-election campaign, I look forward to not only continuing my commitment to representing the interests of the neighborhoods of Ward 3, but also to continuing the city's economic growth through a fair and equitable tax structure for both residents and businesses," said McDermott.

As chairman of the City Council's Downtown and Economic Development Committee, McDermott has addressed issues such as improved signage, tourism, graffiti, the downtown concourse, and the development of the Quincy Center Action Plan designed to revitalize the downtown. Through his committee work, he also is keeping a watch on the potential development of the 72 acres of land on Quarry Hill.

Currently, McDermott is working with the Department of Public Works and the Park Department on new fencing at the Whitwell Street Park, new equipment at the South Central Avenue Park, more improvements for Bishop Field, and his overall program for park cleanliness and maintenance. He has also declared his commitment to the cleanup and improved drainage of the Hobart Street Bog in Montclair.

"I am very aware of, and am truly committed to the issues that affect our everyday life: neighborhood beautification, street and sidewalk repairs, sewer and water pipe renovations, tree plantings and trimmings," he said. "I look forward to working with the hands-on involvement of community members coupled with the support of our city departments to bring about these positive changes."

He said he also encourages the involvement and comments of his neighbors.

"I have an open-door policy and my priority is to make sure the interests of the communities I represent are met," said McDermott. "I encourage the participation of the people in turning our city into a safer, more affordable, prosperous, educationally sound, and vibrant community in which to live, work, and raise children."

McDermott, who works as a consulting research analyst, is a graduate of Boston College with a bachelor of arts degree in political science and is currently attending Suffolk University Law School. He lives at 146 Taylor St.

ASK YOUR LAWYER

by Kevin F. O'Donnell
ATTORNEY AT LAW

PRODUCT LIABILITY

If a consumer product has a defect which leads to the injury of the person who uses it, the injured party has the right to sue. In the days prior to product liability legislation, injured parties had to sue the product's manufacturer on the basis of its negligence in order to recover damages. That is, the consumer had to prove that the manufacturer either knew or should have known that its product could cause injury. Today, however, manufacturers are held strictly liable if their products are defective or unreasonably dangerous enough to cause injury or death. Because this more recent standard is easier to prove than negligence, consumers who are injured by defective products stand a better chance of recovering damages.

HINT: The condition of the product and a determination whether it caused injury are the primary issues of a product liability suit.

Even if you are unsure whether there is a remedy available to you under the law, it is important for you to seek the advice of a lawyer. We'll help you assess the situation and discuss what reasonable options exist. It is our intention to pursue a case only if it is in your best interest. If you've been injured as the result of using a defective product, call 773-2880 today for a free consultation. Our office is located at Gridley Bryant Office Condominiums, 111 Willard Street.

he added. "Multi-family homes just aren't available. And single-family homes are selling in seven to 10 days if they're priced right."

Despite the current status of Quincy's residential market, all of the above realtors agreed that real estate is indeed a cycle and voiced confidence that the situation gradually will improve.

How long that will take, however, also seems to be a matter of opinion.

"I've been doing this for 16 years, and these things seem to come in two-to-three year cycles," said Moscardelli. "We're right at the start of the seller's market, and in my opinion, it will be a seller's market for two to three years."

Others expressed optimism things will get better before that.

"I hope by the fall we have a break in the inventory," said Rounseville.

"I have seen this before, and it will loosen up eventually," said Biagini. "I hope it's sooner than later. And it really is a perfect time (now) for sellers. Because there's not a lot out there, sellers are getting top dollar for their property."

Moscardelli and Foley also said passage of a capital gains bill currently before Congress, which would reduce the tax impact on investors of multi-family homes, is something else that could help improve the market status.

living options and access to a continuum of health care services ranging from short-term rehabilitation and home health care to the availability of long-term care.

"The Marina Bay Senior Living Campus represents the future of senior housing and medical care," said Gordon. "By offering attractive living accommodations and health care in a friendly campus setting, we can help our seniors and their families stay in the community and receive the services they need."

The Marina Bay Senior Living Campus will occupy two new buildings in a park-like setting. The facilities will provide residents with a range of geriatric health care services, as well as outpatient rehabilitation and adult day care programs.

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

A Guilt-Free Home Improvement

(NAPS)—If you've done any backyard construction ately, or plan to, you may be entitled to a U-turn on the guilt-trip highway.

So often, it seems, we hear that something we've been doing or eating for years has just been found to damage the environment or harm our health. Here's a switch: you may have used a product that is beneficial to the environment and not even realized it.

Pressure-treated lumber—the wood commonly used for decks, fences, docks, playsets, and residential landscaping—has typically been purchased because it lasts outdoors and it's economical. But now this long-used building product is getting praise for its newfound environmental qualities.

"If you could magically create the environmentally ideal building material," asks Huck DeVenzio of Hickson Corporation, "what characteristics would you include?

"You would want it to be renewable and, if possible, rapidly replenished; to use recycled materials and be itself recyclable; to require little energy to produce; to last a long time; to cause no pollution problems; to be installed with light weight, low-impact construction equipment; and, after all this, to be comparatively inexpensive.

Treated lumber, such as the Wolmanized wood in this deck, saves millions of trees by its long-term resistance to termites and rot.

"Well," DeVenzio says, "this ideal environmental product is not some futuristic miracle material; it already exists, and it has for 60 years. It's pressure-treated wood."

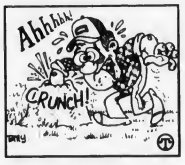
DeVenzio's company licenses the producers of Wolmanized® wood, North America's topselling brand of pressure-treated lumber.

Treated lumber begins with wood, the only major building material that is renewable. The trees, mostly pines, used for treated wood are plentiful, fast-growing, and grown almost entirely on managed timberlands, not in old growth forests or unregulated tropical rainforests.

Wood requires less energy to produce than alternative building products and the preservative treatment incorporates recycled elements that would otherwise be disposed of as waste.

The treating process enables a deck to resist termite and rot damage, which extends the life of wood and reduces demands on forests and other resources. According to the Southern Forest Products Association, the use of treated wood saves 226,000,000 trees every year.

"Many of the applications for treated wood are also good for nature," DeVenzio adds. "Wolmanized wood has been used for boardwalks and viewing platforms that allow people to gain a greater appreciation of the natural world, for tent platforms that minimize impacts at popular camping sites, for dune crossovers that enable sunbathers to get to a beach without trampling dune vegetation, for seawalls and retaining walls that limit soil erosion, for highway sound walls that reduce traffic noise, for greenhouses and raised bed gardens that produce vegetables and flowers, for osprey platforms that are attracting these birds back to areas they had abandoned, and for other beneficial applications.



"Treated wood is used in national parks, botanical gardens, and wildlife sanctuaries around the world."

So, when you finish building a deck with treated wood, you can sit back, raise a glass of lemonade, and proudly toast yourself for your responsible choice.

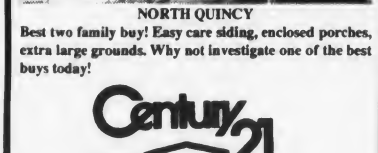
Eliminating Annoying Ants

(NAPS)—Having ants is no picnic. Ants are annoying, and the mounds they build in our front yards are an eyesore. However, ants also can cause serious damage to our lawns and our homes, as well as delivering a painful bite when disrupted.

Ants' digging underneath mounds damages the roots of turf and plants. Also, it reduces the soil's ability to maintain moisture. Anyone who has ever mowed over an anthill knows it's not too good for a lawn mower either.

Reducing ant populations is not enough. These determined critters can rebuild their colonies back to their original size even if less than 5 percent of the population survives. Complete and thorough elimination is required of these persistent pests.

One way to effectively control already infested ants is to treat them at their headquarters, the mound. Drench the mounds and the trails early in the morning or late in the evening with SEVIN® brand carbaryl insecticide. Timing is crucial to "catch ants at home." During most of the day, ants are off gathering food.



If you can determine where ants are entering the house, apply SEVIN® directly at the point of entry and seal the cracks to avoid future attacks. Another preventive measure against infestation is to store food and water in tightly sealed containers.

WORK Inc. Receives $100,000 Federal Home Loan Grant

WORK Inc. in Quincy has received a $100,000 grant through a highly competitive program managed by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston. The money has been earmarked to renovate four of WORK Inc.'s group residences.

Applications for the Affordable Housing Program grants had to be submitted by member banks, and WORK Inc.'s request was sponsored by South Weymouth Bank.

"This grant would not have been possible without the support and guidance of South Weymouth Bank--in particular, Arthur R. Connelly and William D. Babbitt," said Hank Cheney, president of WORK Inc. "We have a long standing relationship with the bank, and we're grateful for their continued support."

The Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston's Affordable Housing Program approved $7.5 million in grants and below-market-rate loans for affordable housing initiatives in New England. The Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston is part of the Federal Home Loan Bank System, created by Congress to provide financial services to banking institutions that commit a significant portion of their assets to home-mortgage loans.

Interior and exterior renovations are planned for three group residences in Quincy and one group residence in Braintree. Group residences, staffed by a program director and other trained professionals, provide a supportive environment in which people with disabilities can acquire daily living skills that enable them to live more independently.

Headquartered in Quincy, WORK Inc. is a nationally-recognized pioneer in developing community-based programs for people with disabilities. For the past 26 years, WORK Inc. has provided education, employment, training and residential programs, primarily to people with mental retardation and mental illness, often with secondary disabilities. WORK Inc. currently serves over 1,000 people with disabilities.

Crime Watch

By ROBERT HANNA
Crime Prevention Officer
Quincy Police Department

Community Policing Components, Benefits

Partnership, problem solving, organizational change, and prevention--that's community policing in a nutshell.

COMMUNITY POLICING COMPONENTS

• Community partnership recognizes the value of bringing people back into the public safety process.

• Problem solving identifies concerns that community members feel are most threatening to their safety and well-being.

• Change management recognizes that a police department will have a change its organizational structure to forge partnership-solving efforts.

A Focus on Prevention

In community policing, officers still maintain law and order, but they move beyond just "catching the bad guys" to examining specific conditions, including problems of disorder and neglect, that breed both minor and serious crimes. People talk about their concerns, which range from burglary to speeding cars, with community police officers who are familiar faces in the neighborhood and ask for help.

Many programs that support community policing are old news to crime prevention specialists--Neighborhood Watch, citizen academies, graffiti cleanups, neighborhood medication centers, after school programs for children and teens, school resource officers, citizen patrols.

Building Trust

Community policing cannot work without trust. Residents who trust the police provide valuable information that can lead to the prevention and solution of crimes. Mutual trust leads to advocacy for police activities and productive partnerships that find solutions to community problems. A police officer who studies and listens to the community respects residents' instincts and concerns. On the other hand, residents need to learn how the police department works and what it can and cannot do. Then they need to work together.

Not a Quick Fix

Community policing strategies have evolved over the part 25 years, based on work by scholars and police research organizations. It's become the focus of policing in the 1990's, but community policing isn't a quick fix. Getting the public to cooperate with the police can be difficult, especially in the neighborhoods with a record of antagonistic relationships between residents and the police. Similar antagonisms may exist between community organizations and law enforcement.

The police must win the support of the public, through regular meetings with residents and delivering on commitments they make to solve problems. Community policing requires long-term commitment to work with community members and forge lasting partnerships.

Benefits of Community Policing

• Using the community's talents and resources effectively helps extend severely strained police resources.

• Citizens gain a voice in defining and prioritizing their law enforcement needs. Satisfaction with police services increases.

• Officers who develop creative solutions to community problems and find new roles also enjoy increased job satisfaction.

• Crime has gradually decreased since the early 1990's. Police executives, government officials, and researchers credit community policing initiatives as contributing to the decline.

(From National Crime Prevention Council)

Before the beginning of the new year, community policing will be implemented into several areas of this City. By the end of 1998, we are working to have community policing programs implemented in most areas of the City.

FREE APPLIANCE REMOVAL

ICE YOUR SECOND REFRIGERATOR

Your second refrigerator or freezer could be costing you as much as $200 a year on your electric bill.

Don't Wait!

With concerns about potential power shortages for New England this summer, Massachusetts Electric is bringing back this popular customer opportunity for a limited time. Now's the time to help reduce energy usage while you save on your electric bill.

If you have a second refrigerator or freezer, and the only thing in it is a forgotten six-pack of soda or a vintage quart of ice cream, we can help you save as much as $200 a year on your electric bill.

Massachusetts Electric's Free Appliance Removal is a great way to save money, protect the environment, and tidy up your garage or basement at the same time.

We'll come to your home when it's convenient for you, remove your second refrigerator or freezer, and it won't cost you a dime. Plus, you can feel good knowing we'll recycle your appliance's parts in an environmentally responsible manner.

If you're a Massachusetts Electric residential customer who owns a second refrigerator or freezer, you're eligible for Free Appliance Removal. All we ask is that the appliance be standard-sized, cold at pick-up, and in Massachussetts Electric's service area. Program ends September 30, 1997.

Call us and we'll pick it up free

Your Horoscope
by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Early in the week, you are given a task you're really not enthusiastic about. However, by week's end, you surprise yourself with your proficiency. The weekend favors a short getaway or a cultural pursuit.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Get out those travel brochures! Now's the time to plan a trip for yourself and your family. A friend's mood swings have you concerned. The weekend promises rest and relaxation.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) An out-of-town guest could arrive on your doorstep unexpectedly, but you trot out the welcome mat nonetheless. Trouble could arise midweek between you and a co-worker. This does clear up, though, by the end of the week.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You're in the mood to kick up your heels, but work must be tended to first. Once you clear up what needs to be done, you can relax and enjoy. In fact, the weekend is ideal for socializing and parties.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) When you lose your temper, that famous leonine roar intimidates everyone around you. Be sure, though, to make amends before things get out of hand. The weekend will find you going all out to make peace.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Stress serves no purpose for you this week, so try to find a way to combat it. Granted, things are a bit hectic, but you can deal with it if you take one task at a time. By week's end, you look for much-needed rest.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You're out of balance this week because of someone else's actions. Remember, you can't control what this person does, so stop trying. You are responsible only for yourself and do well to remember that.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Jealousy is an unbecoming emotion, but you're prone to it this week. A loved one takes umbrage with this — and rightfully so. By week's end, you can come to a new understanding.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Shopping is in the stars, but be sure you don't spend too much money. Your budget can't accommodate unnecessary expenditures. A weekend away from home does you a world of good.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Advice you receive this week from a co-worker is invaluable and you'd be wise to heed it. Ultimately, you can achieve some real career gains. Bigwigs are looking at your work favorably.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) It's a quiet week, both on the job and at home. Take advantage of this "down time" since it won't last indefinitely. A weekend of rest and leisure is just what the doctor ordered.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Someone close to you is being manipulative, so be wary of this. Generally intuitive, you're missing some of this person's signals. A child needs your attention over the weekend.

Twelve Players Back In 1998

Future Looks Bright For Morrisette

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Following Morrisette's second consecutive opening round departure from the American Legion playoffs last month, one would not fault Mark Kelleher, Morrisette's head coach, for being disappointed.

That is not the case, however, with Kelleher, who focused on the positives and set his sights on next season.

"We had a great regular season, but we just couldn't get it done in the playoffs," he said. "The guys gave it all they could all year, and I'm proud of all of them for that.

"We have a lot of talent coming back next year which will keep this team strong. We're going to keep working harder and hopefully take it the next level, and it's my job to get them there."

Those slated to return in 1998 are infielders Chris Bregoli (.439 B.A., 11 RBI), Erik Fagan (.345, 16 runs), Steve Clarke and Jim Cunio (.284, HR, 19 RBI), infielder-pitchers John Sullivan (.367, 21 RBI) and Shawn Manning, outfielder-pitchers Rob Celata (.613) and Ray Cattaneo (.269, 12 RBI), catchers Bill Walker (.327, 10 RBI) and Steve Maze, outfielder Matt McLoughlin (.415, 13 RBI), and pitcher Mark Kelly (3-2, 30 K's).

However, when the 1998 season rolls around, Morrisette (16-6) will be without the services of five important players: top starting pitcher Ryan Herlihy, closer Chad Feetham, center fielder Brian Beaton, third baseman-pitcher Paul Marnikovic and second baseman Eric Wirtz. All five used up their remaining Legion baseball eligibility this summer.

"They did all any coach could ask for," said Kelleher about the group of 18-year-olds. "They kept the team together when I was away at work; it was like we had five extra coaches."

Herlihy (5-1, 60 K's) was one of the more dominant pitchers in Zone 6 East this season. His crowning achievement came June 19 when he no-hit West Roxbury in a 7-0 victory.

"He was outstanding; he pitched some great games, including that no-hitter," said Morrisette manager Ray Cattaneo. "He was our No. 1 hurler and pitched in all the big games."

"Ryan provided great leadership, and coming off a solid high school season, we knew we'd get great things from him," said Kelleher. "He's a solid competitor, a great kid with a great attitude who was fun to coach. He should have a successful career at Wesleyan University."

Feetham, the hard-throwing reliever, earned three saves and two wins. He also did not allow an earned run until Morrisette's final game.

"Chad's a hard-nosed pitcher who gives 110 percent every time," said Kelleher. "When he gets fired up, the whole team gets fired up. He's a quiet leader who does his job on the field."

Beaton, Morrisette's all-around talented center fielder, was one of the squad's leading hitters (.375) and finished first in RBI (29).

"Brian brought an excellent attitude to the team and was a top-notch defensive player along with his nice solid average," said Kelleher. "He has a bright future ahead of him at Curry College."

Morrisette's third baseman and part-time pitcher, Marnikovic, was praised for his smart play and desire to help the team succeed. A sophomore this fall at UMass-Amherst, Marnikovic will likely try out for the university's baseball team, said Kelleher. He collected 16 RBI this season.

"He was on the team four years and did a great job," said Kelleher. "He's a very intelligent player with a great attitude and a lot of heart and commitment to the sport."

One of the most improved players on the team, Wirtz drew Kelleher's adula-

Pool Show Friday At L-H Pool

The Quincy Recreation Department will present its 22nd annual pool show Friday at 1 p.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School Pool.

Barry Welch, recreation director, said the theme of this year's show will be a "Beach Party" featuring participants from the summer long instructional program.

Over 700 persons from beginner to advanced are enrolled in this year's program. The synchronized swim team will also perform.

The show, which marks the completion of the summer instructional program, is free and is open to the public. It is under the direction of the Water Safety staff: Maryann Ashworth, Marianne Blaikie, Laura Cadogan, Dan Francis, Tom Gildea, Liz Holland, Katie Johnson, Matt Lebo, Jennifer Lewis, Jim Melchin, Janine Miller, Julie Miller, Bill Norris, Adam Radzevich, Kim Stetz, Katie Sullivan, and Jen Tantillo.

Applications Available For Quincy Tennis Championships

The Quincy Recreation Department has applications available for the 27th annual Quincy Tennis Championships slated to be held Sept. 4-14 at the Vo-Tech tennis courts behind Quincy High School.

Applications are available at the Recreation Department, Quincy Municipal Credit Union, City Hall lobby, or by calling 376-1386. There is an $11 entry fee for adults and $8 for youths under 16.

The application deadline is Friday, Aug. 29 and matches will be posted Wednesday, Sept. 3.

Barry Welch, recreation director, said the Quincy Municipal Credit Union has returned as a co-sponsor with the Recreation Department.

Welch said the tournament is believed to be the largest municipal tournament in New England and has 10 events for men and women, boys and girls who are residents of Quincy.

The 10 events are: men's and women's singles, men's and women's doubles, boys' and girls' 16 and under, mixed doubles, men's 50 and over, women's 35 and over, men's 35 and over. There is also a men's B consolation event.

Quincy Sheriffs On Verge Of Wrapping Up Playoff Series

In its best-of-five Yawkey League playoff series against the Boston Padres, the Quincy Sheriffs took a 2-1 lead following a 10-8 victory Monday night at Adams Field.

With a win Tuesday or yesterday (Wednesday), the Sheriffs would wrap up the series and advance to the division finals against the Brighton-Lincoln Sox, the defending league champions who knocked the Sheriffs out of the playoffs last season. During the regular season, the Sheriffs took three of four from the Sox.

According to Sheriffs manager Al Julian, the division finals would probably begin today (Thursday) or Friday.

Monday, Quincy jumped out to a 10-0 lead and held off a furious Padres rally to win the game. Quincy's Chris Higgins picked up the victory, hurling a complete game.

"The pitching staff has done a good job in the series, and Chris pitched well to go the distance for us," said Julian. "We're getting contributions from everyone offensively. The only real problem has been the defense, which has not been as strong in the playoffs as it was in the regular season."

The highlight of Monday's victory, said Julian, came with the bases loaded, no outs, with the Padres at bat and looking to even the score. The next batter bunted the ball in the air, which was caught by catcher John Gangi, who fired to third baseman Tim Messing for the second out. The triple play was completed when Messing fired to second to double up another Padres baserunner.

"Gangi, who made a nice catch to start the triple play, has been very consistent offensively, coming up with a lot of hits," said Julian. "Bill McDougall has also been an all-around solid player, with an on-base percentage over .600, along with making spectacular catches in the outfield.

"Malachy Higgins has been outstanding at second base, Messing has played extremely well at third and Bob Austin, the backbone of our pitching staff, is also doing very well. Steve Higgins is playing above average defensively in right and getting on base a number of times."

In earlier action, the Padres knotted the series at 1-1 with a 10-6 victory Sunday at Adams Field.

Quincy took a 1-0 series lead when it edged the Padres, 6-5, in last Thursday's opener at Cleveland Circle.

Future Looks Bright For Deep Morrisette Squad

tion for his dedication to refining his skills and giving the team another weapon.

"He did more than was expected and did a hell of a job at second base," said Kelleher. "He was completely different than last year. He worked hard to improve his performance, and it definitely showed."

In just his second year as Morrisette's head coach, Kelleher credited his coaching staff for helping make the season a memorable one."

"Tom (Balzano, assistant coach), Bill (Corcoran, pitching coach) and Ray all did an outstanding job," said Kelleher. "Tom picked up the slack in my absence and did a super job. They all deserve the credit for how well we did this summer."

Cattaneo, who completed his 28th year on the Morrisette coaching staff, singled out the contribution of Corcoran, who joined the staff this season to work exclusively with the pitchers.

"Having Billy there helped so much," said Cattaneo. "He was there to help the pitchers out, talk to them, give them advice and calm them down. He'd help them adjust and give them confidence to go out there and do the job. You could see the difference in the staff from last year. He just did a great job with them."

Regarding the two second-year coaches, Cattaneo noted how dedicated and driven Kelleher and Balzano are to the program.

"They're both hard workers who do a super job with the kids," said Cattaneo. "Mark, who attended the police academy in New Braintree two hours away, would drive to the games and go back right after the games ended. When he did miss a few games, Tom was there to step in and was 5-0 in Mark's absence."

Kelleher also thanked The Quincy Sun for its coverage throughout the season, saying "the players and parents appreciate it, as do the coaches and all those involved with the program."

120 Participate In St. John's Golf Tourney

St. John the Baptist's recent fifth annual Golf Outing, which drew 120 parishioners and friends, was a huge success, according to the event's organizers.

The winning men's team, which finished at 15 under, was comprised of Jeff Sweeney, Lou Petrucci, Robert Carroll and Eric McLaughlin.

The victorious mixed team, which finished at 12 under, was Fr. Bill McCarthy, Jim Hubbard, Bill Manning and Yolanda Romanelli. The win marked the mixed team's third consecutive victory.

At 3 over par, the winning ladies' team was made up of Maureen Duggan, Cindy Wilson, Janice Erler and Janet Colclough.

John Mulligan won closest to the pin on the 18th hole. Roland DuBois in the men's division and Dot Fitzgerald in the ladies' division won closes to the line on the 12th hole.

The prize of a Nissan for a hole-in-one on the 13th hole, sponsored by Quirk Motors, went unclaimed. The St. Vincent de Paul charity hole, in memory of George Ross, was won by Lou Petrucci. Dr. Jim McIntyre won the Parish Activities hole.

A steak bake, awards banquet and prizes for all participants was enjoyed by all at St. John's Church Hall, thanks to the efforts of the St. John's volunteers.

Quincy 12-Year-Old All-Stars Win Tourney Opener, 11-1

The Quincy 12-year-old All-Stars won their opening game in the Medford Invitational Tournament, defeating Charlestown, 11-1, Sunday at Columbus Park in Medford.

Pitcher Brian O'Hanley fanned six and allowed five hits en route to the victory.

The game was called in the bottom of the fourth due to the 10-run rule. Quincy only collected six hits, but took advantage of three Charlestown errors. Pacing Quincy offensively were Dennis Thompson (two hits) and Ryan Rogers (three-run double).

Defensively, Thompson at third and Kevin O'Connell at shortstop played strong games for Quincy.

For Charlestown, Jim Dyer struck out three and took the loss. Mike Doe collected two hits and Chuck Kavanaugh belted a solo home run in a losing effort.

Quincy played Pembroke Tuesday night and is back in action Saturday at 3 p.m. against Reading. Sunday at 5:30 p.m., Quincy battles Melrose.

Next Tuesday (Aug. 19) at 8 p.m., Quincy plays Parkway. Quincy also plays next Thursday (Aug. 21) at 8 p.m. against Malden. All games are at Columbus Park in Medford.

Quincy Cyclists To Help Fight Lung Disease

Quincy residents Doug Haskins, Geoffrey Hays and Jeffrey Stapleton Sr. will join other bicycling enthusiasts from throughout the area and pedal from Plymouth to Provincetown in September to raise awareness and funds for the American Lung Association.

The cyclists will participate in the 13th annual American Lung Association Autumn Escape Bike Trek, which will be held Sept. 12-14. Over the three-day, 160-mile trek, cyclists will tour the Cape Cod Canal, the Falmouth Shining Sea Bike Trail and the Cape Cod National Seashore.

"I'm a biker," said Hays. "I have a friend who has done the event before and he got me involved. Also, my daughter was recently diagnosed with asthma, so I have some good reasons to be involved."

Haskins, who works for Quincy Hospital, is a veteran of the Autumn Escape Bike Trek and a tireless recruiter of cyclists.

"Doug is a highly motivated volunteer who continues to make a significant impact on the success of this trek," said Martha Waldron, executive director of the American Lung Association.

Stapleton is an avid cyclist. His mother is undergoing difficult treat-ments for lung disease.

"It is really difficult for her to breathe," said Stapleton. "That's what made me get involved. I want to help."

For more information about the Bike Trek, or how to help fight lung disease, call the American Lung Association at (508) 668-6729.

Norfolk County Women's Golf Classic Winners

The team of Karen Richardson and Laura Milhench finished first overall in Division I with a gross of 70 in the recent Norfolk County Women's Classic Golf event.

Chris Finnell and Tara Joy placed second with a gross of 72 and Nancy Murphy and Laura Jean McDonald were third with a gross of 74. The top net team in Division I was Marcie Arnold and Rusty Murphy at 65.

In Division II, the net leader was the duo of Julie Rossi and Moya Baldwin at 58, followed by Marion Conroy and Christine Fitzpatrick at 59, Chris Cronin and Janice Morin at 60, Laura Giffin and Paula Desangro at 61, Carol Davenport and Dolly Barron at 62 and Susan Martinelli and Marilyn Robertson at 62.

INSPECTING FOR SAFETY'S SAKE

One of the best preventive steps car owners can take is to have their auto technicians inspect their vehicles on a yearly basis. This inspection can prevent unnecessary breakdowns, as well as catch minor problems before they become major ones. An inspection of this sort involves a visual check for cracked brake hoses, fluid leaks, rust holes in the exhaust system, leaking or worn shock absorbers, unusual tire wear, worn front-end parts, corrosion build-up on battery terminals, frayed electrical wires, burnt transmission fluid, and the like. It is a good idea to ask for this type of inspection at the same time that oil is being, changed, the tires are being rotated, or the brakes are being inspected.

HINT: The visual inspection described above should only take about one-half hour.

The safety of our customers is very important to us here at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO and we want them to be informed. We are small enough to provide friendly, personal service and large enough to have the latest, most modern equipment, and ASE Certified technicians who are constantly trained and re-trained. Fifth Annual Strauss Open A Success Despite Tropical Storm's Presence

The 5th annual Strauss Open-Jimmy Fund Golf Classic, played in honor of Dana-Farber outpatient Sandra Strauss of Quincy, was recently held at Pembroke Country Club.

Despite the presence of Tropical Storm Danny, with wind gusts of over 30 m.p.h. and heavy rain, the 144 golfers played through and managed to finish as the storm departed with just a few holes remaining.

Foxwoods Resort Casino, a major tournament sponsor, successfully defended their championship by shooting a remarkable 61. Woolf Associates and State Street Bank, two other major sponsors, finished second and third. Other major sponsors included Bank-Boston, Boston Financial Data Services, Chase Manhattan Bank, Majesty Cruise Line and Mellon Trust.

One of the fastest growing Jimmy Fund tournaments, the Strauss Open raised $20,000 last year and hoped to double it this year, but the tropical storm washed away that goal.

"We would have done it had it not been for Danny," said tournament chairman Frank Strauss, Sandra's son. "The weather severely hampered our on-course fundraising and also reduced the post-tournament crowd at the auction.

"But I am so impressed with the turnout (two no-shows), the volunteers who stood out in this weather for over five hours, and with the number of golfers who finished. It says a lot about the charity and about the caliber of people that support it."

Those who wish to help the tournament reach its goal can send a tax-deductible donation to: Strauss Open-Jimmy Fund Benefit, 98-B Manatee Rd., Hingham, MA 02043.

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought For The Week

We all have in our minds a broad outline of what we expect to accomplish on any given day. But so often the unexpected disrupts our carefully laid plans and we have to revise those plans. We have to decide what is most important, less important, and relatively unimportant. We establish our priorities according to our values, and therefore each person has a different set of priorities.

One might ask - wouldn't life be so much less complicated if all we had to choose between was the good and the bad - If everything were black and white? But there are always varying shades of gray, the variables and the imponderables. Choices are often between the good things and the better things; between the better and the best; or between our best and God's best. And yes, sometimes we have to make our choices between the lesser of two evils. There are so many things that compete for a place in our thoughts and in our lives. If one were to engage In a little self-analysis, one might ask themselves, what occupies most of my time - what do I talk about most of the time? ... Wouldn't today be a good day to take stock of our lives and reorder our priorities, if necessary?

Thomas L. Roberts, 26
Technical Representative; In Drowning

A funeral Mass for Thomas Loud Roberts, 26, of Quincy, will be celebrated today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, 227 Sea St.

Mr. Roberts died Aug. 9 in a swimming accident at the Granite Rail Quarry.

He had worked as a technical support representative for the Square D Co., a Braintree electronics equipment manufacturer, since March.

He previously worked for Cosentini Associates of Cambridge.

Born in Quincy and raised in the Merrymount section of the city, he attended Merrymount Elementary and Central Middle School, and graduated from Thayer Academy in Braintree in 1989.

As a senior at Thayer, he won a national chemistry prize from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in New York, but he chose to attend the University of Pennsylvania.

He transferred to Northeastern University in Boston and graduated with honors last year with a degree in mechanical engineering.

As part of Northeastern's cooperative education program, he worked for two semesters at Nitinol Medical Technologies in Boston. During summers, he was a commercial clam digger in Quincy.

He played in the Quincy Youth Hockey Association and at Thayer was a forward on the hockey team and a pitcher on the baseball team. In recent years, he played in Quincy adult softball leagues and in the Quincy Youth Hockey's senior league.

After graduating from college, he moved from his parents' home to a house that he shared with his sisters, Lee Ann Roberts and Nancy Jane Roberts in the Adams Shore neighborhood.

In addition to his sisters, he is survived by his parents, Thomas E. and Nancy (Driscoll) Roberts, and many uncles, aunts and cousins.

Burial will be in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Visiting hours included yesterday (Wednesday) from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. at the Hamel, Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St.

Donations may be made to Quincy Youth Hockey Association, 60 Murphy Memorial Drive, Quincy, MA 02169.

Fore River Shipyard Carpenter

A funeral service for Harold W. Townsend, 75, of Quincy, was held Monday at the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Mr. Townsend died Aug. 7 at the Massachusetts Respiratory Hospital in Braintree after a long illness.

A retired carpenter, he worked 28 years at the Fore River shipyard in Quincy. He worked 20 years for General Dynamics and eight years for Bethlehem Steel, retiring in 1984.

Born, raised and educated in Hingham, he lived in Quincy for many years.

Husband of the late Marion (Munroe) Townsend, he is survived by three sons, Howard R. Townsend of South Weymouth, James F. Townsend of Quincy and Michael W. Townsend of Braintree; a daughter, Patricia A. Campbell; and six grandchildren.

Burial was private.

Lawrence J. Driscoll Jr., 71
Boston Automotive Dept. Foreman

A funeral Mass for Lawrence J. "Larry" Driscoll Jr., 71, of Quincy, was celebrated yesterday (Wednesday) in Sacred Heart Church.

Mr. Driscoll died Aug. 8 at home.

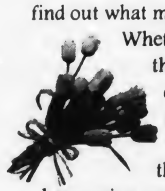
A foreman for 23 years in the Automotive Department for the City of Boston, he retired in 1982. He was a member of the Retired City Employees.

He was a 20-year veteran of the Navy and a member of the American Legion Post in Houghs Neck and the Fleet Reserve Association.

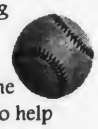
Born in Newton, he lived in Brighton before moving to Quincy 25 years ago.

Husband of the late Catherine (Cox) Driscoll, he is survived by three sons, William J. Penwarden of Scituate, Raymond O. Penwarden of Quincy and Earl F. Penwarden of Randolph; a daughter, Joan H. Mountford of Cape Cod; two brothers, Walter Driscoll and Richard Driscoll, both of Newton; two sisters, Martha Georgio of Newton and Barbara Wilkinson of Oklahoma; a friend, Eleanor Votto of Malden; 10 grandchildren, many great-grandchildren, and several nieces and nephews.

Burial was in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.



Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 333 Hancock St.



Donations may be made to Fleet Reserve, c/o Bob King, 5 Stearing Rd., Malden, MA 02148.

Grandpa loved gardening, baseball, and playing the harmonica.

Your memories are precious. That's why, at Keohane Funeral Service, we take the time to find out what made your loved one special. Whether it's gathering some of the flowers he so tenderly cultivated or finding a musician to play "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" on the harmonica, you can count on us to help you plan a service that will be just as unique as the person you love.

Mesh Cover May Thwart Swimming At Quarry

dive at the site--even since Saturday's accident.

Sheets said Kolson's idea, which consists of taking ballasts from ships, floating them in the water at the quarry, and welding barbed wire and fencing on top to create a kind of mesh, is a good one.

"I still think the supervision of swimming by lifeguards there is the most realistic solution, but Peter Kolson's idea has merit," he said. "They've (MDC) pretty much said they have no plans to drain it, but I'm sure they don't want any more deaths up there either."

Sheets said while past efforts to prevent swimming at the quarry have failed--putting red dye in the water caused liability problems, fences erected at the site were destroyed by swimmers, and youths set fire to lumber floated in the water--the mesh proposed by Kolson would succeed. The structure would be built on pontoons, he noted, and welded together with sturdy metal to prevent vandalism.

"It would be very hard to cut, you couldn't burn it, and you couldn't sink it," he said.

Kolson said his proposal is something he hopes can help save lives.

"This is getting to be a ridiculous body count," Kolson said of the numerous drowning deaths at Quincy's quarries. "What I've proposed is just an idea that popped into my head, and I think it would help prevent some of, or most of, this stuff from happening."

Kolson added that the mesh would only cost between $100,000 and $200,000, an expenditure far less than what it would cost to keep the quarry permanently drained.

MDC spokesman Sam Campbell said the councillor's proposal will definitely be considered.

Other than creating a mesh or allowing supervised swimming--a concept that Sheets has backed for many years--the mayor said the only other real solution is to wait until a nearby golf course/recreation facility is constructed. But while he has said the presence of the facility, which will include security, should dissuade almost everyone from swimming at the quarry, he noted that it will probably be nearly five years until that project becomes a reality.

Draining the quarry and topping it off with fill is not really an option, the mayor said, because that would require 1 million cubic yards of fill--an amount that would be virtually impossible to secure.

Sheets said he does not think attempting to permanently drain the quarry is a feasible plan anyway, because the site is a natural spring and it would cost about $100,000 annually to keep it dry. However, he said he would like to see it drained once to see if the body of missing Irish student Patrick McDonagh can be found.

McDonagh, 19, was last seen on the cliffs of the quarry in June 1994. Two years ago, the state Legislature approved $1 million to drain the quarry for a search for his body, but the MDC has since said the job would cost $2 million.

John Blackadar, head of the Quincy Police Department's Undercover Recovery Team that found Roberts' body, said the quarry should be filled as soon as possible, whether it be with mesh or something else.

"I just wish they'd get together and fill the bloody thing in with something," he said. "These aren't irresponsible kids (who swim there), they're just kids having a good time. But we've got a danger there waiting for them, and something's got to be done about it."

Blackadar added that those who dive at the quarry risk breaking their necks or backs, or worse.

Since 1960, at least 12 young people have drowned from diving into the quarry, and numerous others have been injured.

Peter Ehrlich In Navy Deployment

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Peter J. Ehrlich, a 1993 graduate of Quincy High School, is halfway through a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Hue City.

Ehrlich is one of more than 350 sailors aboard the ship, which departed its home port of Mayport, Fla., as part of the USS John F. Kennedy Battle Group.

During the first half of the deployment, Ehrlich's ship participated in an exercise involving most of the USS John F. Kennedy Battle Group and ships from Standing Naval Forces Mediterranean.

USS Hue City also participated in an exercise in the Western Mediterranean Sea with NATO forces from Belgium, Canada, France, Germany, Greece, the Netherlands, Spain, Turkey and the United Kingdom.

Sheets Cites 'Broader Experience'

Frane Named Police Chief

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Capt. Thomas Frane, a veteran of the Quincy Police Department for nearly 26 years, has been selected by Mayor James Sheets to succeed Francis Mullen as the city's police chief.

Sheets announced his decision on Tuesday. Frane, 48, who was previously in charge of the department's communications, will take over as Quincy's top law enforcement official after Mullen officially retires on Aug. 31.

The mayor said the decision was based on the fact that Frane has a "broader base of experience in a numerous category of jobs" than Capt. Terence Kelly, the only other department member who took the Civil Service examination for the position.

At press time, Sheets had little to say about the appointment beyond a prepared statement. He did note, however, that "I've spoken to Capt. Kelly about it and he was very gracious."

THOMAS FRANE

Sheets' prepared statement says Frane "possesses the temperament, background and interpersonal skills which I am seeking in the next chief." It lists among his experience "that as a detective sergeant, his role in the Community Services Unit, Bureau of Criminal Investigations, prosecutor, patrol supervisor, desk sergeant, communications sergeant, domestic violence trainer and liaison, director of planning and research, accreditation manager, domestic violence training coordinator, patrol division commander, communications and computer operations commander."

Frane, a Weymouth resident, said he looks forward to the challenge of the position.

"I'm very happy, and I'm anxious to get started," he said. "I think this is one of the finest police departments around. I have a million things in my mind that I'd like to do (as chief)."

Frane said he thinks "the transition into community

Kolson, Tracy, McNamee Win Top Spots

Ballot Lineup Drawn For Preliminary Election

Councillor Peter Kolson, Linda Tracy and Brian McNamee will have the top ballot spots for the Sept. 16 city preliminary election.

Their names were drawn by William Draicchio, member of the Board of Voter Registrars, at the City Hall lottery to determine the position of names.

Kolson, the incumbent and city council president, got the No. 1 spot in Ward 1, Tracy in Ward 3 and McNamee in Ward 6.

Joseph Kasparian and Gretchen Grant got the second and third positions in Ward 1; incumbent Patrick McDermott and Robert Boussy, second and third in Ward 3 and Joseph Newton and incumbent Bruce Ayers, second and third in Ward 6.

The only preliminary election run-offs are for ward councillor in Wards 1, 3 and 6.

There were not enough candidates for preliminary elections for ward councillors in Ward 4, councillor-at-large, and school committee.

Mayor James Sheets, Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi, and Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin are unopposed.

The two top vote getters in the Ward 1, 3 and 6 preliminary election will square off in the final election Nov. 4.

Other contests on the final ballot will be:

Ward 4: Incumbent Michael D'Amico facing Stephen Hawko.

Councillor-at-large: Incumbents Tim Cahill and Paul Harold, former Mayor Frank McCauley, David McGillicuddy and Sabina Kavanaugh Stenberg with three to be elected. Michael Cheney is not seeking re-election.

School committee: Incumbents Jo-Ann Bragg and Ronald Mariano, Kevin Coughlin, Michael McFarland, Tracy Wilson, and John Rodophele Jr., with three to be elected.

In the final election, ballot position will be by incumbent first and alphabetically.

Over Moon Island Gun Range

City To Take Legal Action Against Boston

The city will file a lawsuit against the City of Boston in September to stop the continued use of a gun range on Moon Island, according to Mayor James Sheets.

Sheets said Tuesday the litigation is being prepared by the city's law department and will be filed next month.

"It's our opinion that an island like Moon Island can't be satisfactorily used as a gun range," he said. "It just doesn't fit in with the recreational use planned for the Boston Harbor Islands."

On June 29, about 30 Quincy residents protested the continued use of the range. The protest took place not far from where Boston Mayor Thomas Menino was speaking at the opening ceremonies for the Boston Harbor Islands National Recreation Area, the latest addition to the National Park system.

Sheets was out of the city on the day of the protest but has since backed the residents, saying the gun range is an "incompatible use" with the park system.

Moon Island falls within Quincy city limits in Squantum but is owned by Boston. A bridge connects Moon Island to Long Island, which is owned by Boston and is part of Boston.

Menino has said the gun range, which has caused friction between the two cities, cannot be moved because it is used by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Brookline police, Cambridge police and the Navy. He also has said Boston has addressed many concerns about the range, including the collection of spent bullets, soundproofing, and tree planting.

In addition, State Secretary of Environmental Affairs has signed off on a final environmental impact statement giving Boston approval to expand the 39-year-old training facility.

Quincy officials, however, including City Councillor Michael Cheney, state Sen. Michael Morrissey and Rep. Michael Bellotti, have said the city is on strong legal ground concerning the range, and that Quincy can claim Boston is violating its original deed for the island by allowing federal law enforcement agencies and police from other communities to use the gun range for raining.

Officials also have said the city could appeal to the National Park Service in an effort to turn Moon Island into a recreational area like the other islands.

State Police Patrols Continue At Quarries

State Police will continue 24-hour patrols to keep people out of the Quincy quarries, state Public Safety Secretary Kathleen O'Toole said Monday.

O'Toole said the patrols will continue until the end of the summer, when cooler weather keeps swimmers away.

The patrols began in the wake of the death of 26-year-old Thomas Roberts of Quincy, who drowned in the Granite Rail Quarry in West Quincy Aug. 9 after diving from a 70-foot cliff.

Meanwhile, state and local officials are still trying to find a solution to the problem of keeping the quarries safe. Since 1960, at least 12 people have died there, and young people continue to visit the site to swim and dive despite Roberts' death and about a dozen arrests made by police over the weekend.

State Sen. Michael Morrissey said this week he will lobby the Metropolitan District Commission, which owns the Granite Rail Quarry, to consider creating a public recreation area there. That plan has been touted by Mayor James Sheets for a number of years.

Morrissey has sent a letter to the MDC suggesting that $1 million allocated for draining the quarry be used instead to create a public swimming area supervised by lifeguards and park rangers.

Sheets said Tuesday that a plan by City Council President Peter Kolson to create a welded mesh of barbed wire, fencing and pontoons also is being "seriously considered" by the MDC.

However, Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico, whose ward includes the site said in a letter to Acting Gov. Paul Cellucci dated Tuesday that "I believe any type of floating apparatus will be ineffective....I would respectfully request that all parties involved meet to discuss all options."

Cellucci, who last week called for swift action to prevent further tragedies at the quarries, has said that "all sorts of proposals" are being considered.

Sheets, for his part, said he was pleased about the arrests made at the quarries over the weekend.

"That can help save lives," he said of the police action. "And it's a very bold statement that this is being taken very seriously. It also says a lot about the governor's commitment to the issue."

QUINCY CITIZEN POLICE ACADEMY Alumni Association recently donated eight "Save-a-Life" discs to the Quincy Police Department. The disc can be thrown out to up to 150 feet to a person in trouble in water. Officers are now being trained in its use. Police Chief Francis Mullen (second from right) accepts the discs from Terri LaBelle, Betty Straughn, and Peter Doherty, alumni association members. (Sun photo/Tom Gorman)

Unemployment Insurance Rate Reduction Planned

State Sen. Michael Morrissey and Reps. Michael Bellotti, Ronald Mariano and Stephen Tobin announce that a compromise has been reached regarding legislation reducing the state's unemployment tax.

Starting Jan. 1, the unemployment rate will be reduced to Schedule C from the current Schedule E.

"This will save employers approximately $194 million during 1998," said Tobin.

The latest report from the Department of Employment and training reveal that the Unemployment Trust Fund is currently $1.2 billion. Also, the Department of Employment and Training expects the fund to reach approximately $1.5 billion by the end of the year.

In 1988, the Unemployment Trust Fund was at approximately $1.2 billion. However, the Unemployment Trust Fund went bankrupt in 1992, resulting in the state having to borrow nearly $400 million to put into the fund.

"This is a major turn around given that in 1991 the Unemployment Trust Fund was bankrupt, resulting in the highest unemployment insurance costs in the nation," said Bellotti.

The current unemployment tax rate is Schedule E, which costs an employer an average of $488 per employee. Starting Jan. 1, the reduction to Schedule C will cost an employer an average of $400 per employee.

"This is a tax reduction of about 20 percent, with an average savings of $88 per employee," said Mariano.

"The tax reduction combined with a healthy Unemployment Trust Fund will make the Commonwealth more competitive with other states and continue job growth and business expansion here," added Morrissey.

The compromise legislation is expected to be taken up by the Legislature in the fall.

Sheets Eyes Fall Date

Groundbreaking For Concourse May Take Place In November

A November groundbreaking for the planned Quincy Center Concourse is being eyed by Mayor James Sheets.

The mayor said this week plans for the east-west roadway that will connect Burgin Parkway with Hancock Street are virtually on schedule, despite an engineering hitch announced in June that set back the original timetable two to three months.

"It's moving forward pretty much where we thought it would," said Sheets. "We'd like to have the groundbreaking in the fall, probably in November."

Originally, the groundbreaking was planned for next month.

Sheets added that he was informed last week that the state Highway Department has approved the initial 25 percent of the engineering plans for the project. That means that the other 75 percent, including necessary changes that officials first became aware of two months ago, can now proceed, he said.

In addition, the mayor noted, the process for any necessary landtaking can now be set in motion.

In June, Sheets announced that redesign work on the concourse plans was necessary because the MBTA grade for the Old Colony Railroad Line, which will run parallel to the T's Red Line in the downtown and is slated to begin operation in the fall, is three inches higher than the grade the city requested. The state-funded Old Colony Line will run from Boston to Plymouth.

The concourse's pedestrian-vehicle bridge, located near Burgin Parkway, will run over the Old Colony line. The bridge is part of the first phase or "west link" of the concourse, which will link Burgin Parkway and Hancock Street. The second phase or "east link" will continue from Hancock to Route 3A.

Sheets and Quincy Department of Public Works Commissioner David Colton have said the MBTA had agreed, before the Old Colony tracks were laid, to a grade of 16 1/2 feet clearance. For unknown reasons, they said, the grade is three inches too high.

The mayor said the Old Colony project could not be changed without delaying its operation, so it was decided to redesign the concourse plans.

Colton has said the redesign work, which is being done by Earth Tech Infrastructure Services in Concord, will cost between $50,000 and $60,000 and bring the total design cost to $950,000. The city is responsible for that cost but has applied for state reimbursement.

Colton also has stated that the total construction cost of the Quincy Center Concourse, which is the state's responsibility, will jump from $8.6 million to $9 million as a result of the redesign. The change has also pushed back the planned opening of the concourse from mid-1998 to later next year or even early 1999, he said.

Ward 3 City Councillor Patrick McDermott and others have expressed concerns over the cost and timetable of the concourse project, but Sheets and Colton have said there is nothing to worry about.

Sheets and other city officials have said the concourse will both help downtown revitalization--by making the downtown more accessible to motorists who want to shop in Quincy Center--and ease traffic problems in the area.

Durkin Wants Senior Safety Zone On Clay St.

Ward 5 City Councillor Stephen Durkin has proposed enacting state legislation designating Clay Street in Wollaston a "senior citizen safety zone."

Durkin made his proposal for safety changes on the street last Friday in the wake of a hit-and-run motorcycle accident that injured a Wollaston woman the previous night.

Katherine Counihan, 61, was crossing the street in front of her apartment at the Tobin Towers complex at 80 Clay St.--which is operated by the Quincy Housing Authority--about 8:15 p.m. last Thursday night when the accident occurred. Counihan was taken to Quincy Hospital, where she was treated and released.

Police said the motorcyclist sped off toward Beale Street after the accident, which is under investigation.

Durkin said such accidents make necessary the creation of a senior safe zone, which he noted would be the first of its kind in the state. The designated zone would be similar to school zones where traffic is slowed to 20 miles per hour.

Durkin said he plans to push for City Council and Traffic and Parking Commission action to ban parking on both sides of Clay Street, and added that the

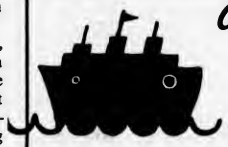
175 Mass. Electric Customers Lose Power In North Quincy

About 175 Massachusetts Electric customers in North Quincy lost power for nearly 40 minutes Sunday night because of the heavy use of home air-conditioning units.

Massachusetts Electric spokeswoman Jackie Barry said Atlantic Street, Alstead Road and Carlisle Street were among the affected streets. Electricity was out from 8:07 p.m. until a Massachusetts Electric crew replaced an overloaded fuse on a pole on East Squantum Street at 8:45 p.m., she said.

Barry added that initially, the company's automated system indicated that more than 400 homes were affected, but it subsequently became apparent that less than half that number lost power.



The outage marked the fourth time this summer the neighborhood has lost power, according to local residents.

Seaside Group Seeks Food, Monetary Donations

The Seaside Advocacy Group is seeking donations of canned goods and money to benefit its food pantry in Germantown.

Peter Seppala, Seaside president, said his organization generally is in greater need of food donations during the summer because schools are not in session and students are not around to conduct canned drives. Much of the group's support come from the Atherton Hough, Snug Harbor and Merrymount elementary schools and Quincy High School, he said.

Seppala added that the number of people the organization serves is beginning to outgrow the amount of food collected.

"Donations are down quite a bit this year, and the number of clients is going up," he said.

Seppala said he is particularly concerned because the Seaside Group has to begin planning for Thanksgiving and Christmas. He noted that last year, the organization donated 350 food baskets to the needy for the two holidays.

Food and monetary donations may be sent to Seaside Advocacy Group Inc., 15A Bicknell St., Quincy, MA 02169. For more information, call Peter or Sally Seppala at 479-0828.

In the United States, it's generally accepted to tip 15 to 20 percent of the bill, unless it's under $1, in which case, tip 25 cents.

That Haunting Silence

Paul Bregoli won't soon forget that silence.

A silence broken only by an occasional muffled cry.

BREGOLI

That silence stands out in his mind as he recalls his recent visit to the site of the Murrah Federal Building bombing in Oklahoma City in April, 1995.

Bregoli, a teacher and girls soccer coach at North Quincy High School, was in Chickasha, 40 miles south of Oklahoma City with his son, Patrick, 13, for the Amateur Athletic Union national baseball tournament.

Patrick plays left field for the New England Mariners who were in the tournament after winning the New England regionals.

While there the team, coaches and parents visited the Oklahoma bombing site.

"I was taken aback by the devastation of the building around the area," says the elder Bregoli who accompanied the team.

The building debris has been cleared and only the foundation remains. But so do thoughts about 168 people killed—especially the children—and the more than 500 others injured in the truck blast for which Timothy McVeigh was sentenced to death last week.

"It was heart-wrenching reading the eulogies written and affixed to the fence surrounding the building area," says Bregoli.

THE CHAIN LINK fence at the Oklahoma City bombing site is covered with memorials to the victims left by visitors. The framework in the left background is for a new church to replace one destroyed in the blast.

Members of the Mariners team hung a team T-shirt autographed by the players and coaches on the city block long chain link fence which contains thousands of memorials left by visitors.

Photographs of the children who died in the bombing—and their teddy bears and toys—are on display. They are not easy to look at.

"It was particularly difficult seeing the pictures of the children who were the innocent victims of this horrific crime," says Bregoli.

"People walked the perimeter of the site in silence except for an occasional muffled cry. It moved many, including myself, to tears."

THIS T-SHIRT, autographed by the players and coaches of the New England Mariners joins the many other memorials left by visitors to the bombing site.

The Mariners finished runner-up in the consolation bracket in the tournament. They were disappointed they didn't finish higher.

But, it was only a baseball tournament.

As Bregoli notes:

"The visit to the bombing site put into perspective what is really important in life: your family."

QUINCY WAS WELL represented at the ceremonial unveiling of a plaque at the Adams St., Milton birthplace of President George Bush last week.

BUSH

Among those attending were: Rep. Michael Bellotti, County Treasurer-City Councillor Tim Cahill, Councillor Paul Harold, former Mayor-School Committeeman Frank McCauley and his wife, Sandra; Revs. Peter and Alicia Corea, co-pastors of Houghs Neck Congregational Church and Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association who lives in Milton.

The Coreas were the guests of Dean and Nina Graves, current owners of the Bush birthplace at 173 Adams St., and who attend the Houghs Neck church on occasion.

Among those in the Bush party at the ceremony was another Quincyite, Ron Kaufman, who served as special adviser to both Presidents Bush and Ronald Reagan.

Bush was born in a second floor bedroom in the house on June 12, 1924 and lived there only six months before the family moved to Connecticut.

But Bush indicated it was an important six months.

Looking toward the second floor at the house, he told the crowd attending the unveiling: "I was potty trained there."

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1915 postcard view of the old Hancock House in Quincy Square. The picture was taken from in front of the First Parish Church. For more than 100 years, this building served as Quincy's downtown hotel. Depot Street on the left ran down the side of City Hall to the railroad station in the distance. For many years McGilvary's Drug store was in the corner store with the awnings. All these buildings are gone and this spot is now a beautifully landscaped plaza.

READERS FORUM

Thanks Harold For Concourse Vote

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would like to publicly thank City Councillor Paul Harold for his not voting in favor of the additional $490,000 for the 75 percent plans for the Quincy Center Concourse at the July 14 City Council meeting.

He was the only councillor who expressed concern about the concourse and the expenditure of close to $500,000 more for further plans. You may remember the council previously voted $400,000 for the 25 percent plans. The taxpayers have already spent $890,000 for plans with no public hearing yet.

The Citizens Advisory Committee, of which I am a member, has been meeting for over three years and to date we don't even have plans for the bridge over Paperama's parking lot. Will Burgin Parkway have to be dug up since the railroad tracks cannot be lowered? Will the bridge have a sidewalk on only one side of the street or on both sides as the CAC recommends? The CAC has not been told yet after all this time.

Why have there been no public hearings? CAC meetings are open to the public and time is allotted to a public forum before every meeting, but these are not public hearings.

In Councillor Harold the only city councillor who has concerns for the route, the taking of three two-family homes in Ward 5 on Mechanic Street and the taking of American Legion Post 95? I am very glad that Councillor Harold cares quality of life issues in Quincy as well as our financial matters. After three years and $890,000, we deserve to know exactly who will benefit by the proposed Quincy Center Concourse.

Again, thank you, Councillor Paul Harold for your vote.

Ayers Did 'Fabulous Job' On Senior Living Campus

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As a senior living in Quincy for many years, I have followed many senior issues that involve local neighborhoods. I am particularly interested in the Marina Bay Senior Living Campus.

I want all seniors and residents to realize the fabulous job that Councillor Bruce Ayers did in working with the developer of the Marina Bay Senior Campus. He truly watched out for the people of Quincy and deeply cares about providing seniors with the best facilities and health care services available.

I like the idea of having nursing homes and assisted living centers within the city because it gives senior citizens more options to choose from when they can no longer care for themselves at home. This is an important issue not just to seniors but to their children and grandchildren because it helps keep families together. And strong families make for strong communities.

Each Of Us Can Do Something

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would like to respond to the letter that appeared in the Aug. 7 issue in the Readers' Forum. The writer asks, "What can we as a society learn from the suffering of our elderly as they reach their final days?"

First, we can learn that, although we can't do everything, each of us can do something to alleviate suffering. When we hear those gloomy words, "nothing can be done," suddenly their is so much to do. Offering to help can bring relief to one who might not have the energy to accomplish much.

We can learn to pay attention. Isolation and its companion, loneliness, can greatly exacerbate the suffering of the chronically or terminally ill. When we include such a person in our life, sharing with that person a meal, a movie, conversation, laughter, we lift the burden (for a while, at least) under which he/she must live.

I do believe in asking God for mercy, but I think we are often the instruments of that mercy. Even in those final days and hours we can help by just being present; perhaps playing favorite music, or simply holding his/her hand. Borrowing the rhythm and a few words from Dylan Thomas, I'll close by saying, do not let them go forsaken into that last good night.

100th Application Filed For New Quincy Point Housing

Aug. 21-27
1964
33 Years Ago

By PAUL HAROLD

The Quincy Point Congregational Church's senior housing corporation received its 100th application for its proposed housing complex at 1000 Southern Artery.

Rev. Bedros Baharian, president of the corporation said construction would begin in the next few months.

Officers of the corporation were Herbert Hendry, treasurer; Everett Besse, clerk and William O'Neil, assistant clerk with board members Richard Sherburne, Irving Boyes, George Sabean, Irving Potter Jr. and Rev. Elden Zuern.

IDA LYONS RESOLVES DELEGATE FIGHT AT DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

Ida Lyons of Shellton Rd., an at-large delegate to the Democratic National Convention at Atlantic City, played a key role in resolving a potentially explosive issue for the party and President Lyndon Johnson. As a member of the credentials committee, she and Senate President Maurice Donahue hammered out a compromise regarding the seating of the Mississippi delegation.

The convention was confronted with two slates of delegates from the state, one made up of party regulars, the other representing the Mississippi Freedom Party.

FORMER MAYOR BARBOUR DIES

Perley Barbour, the city's mayor from 1925-26, died this week at age 84.

At the time of his death he was living on Glendale Rd. Previously, he lived in a 100-year-old colonial on Adams St. that at one time was proposed as the govemor's mansion.

Barbour was a business executive, former city councillor, member of the hospital board of managers, a founder and past president of the Quincy Trust and founder of the "Quincy Evening News."

Risotto On The Cape

You'd think that while on a vacation the last thing on my mind would be cooking? Not so. There's just no guarantee that the week you choose to go away would have perfect weather.

And so it was on our recent retreat to Cape Cod when it rained for a day and a half. Even though I had a good book to read, half way through the second day I decided to make something to make us feel warm. I decided on rice (risotto). We lived right near the market so it was easy to us to purchase the ingredients we needed for the following recipe.

Risotto on the Cape
1 1/2 cups rice
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 medium onion (finely chopped)
1/2 cup white wine
4 cups chicken broth
1/3 cup grated parmesan
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
1 cup tomato sauce

In hot oil, saute the onion until soft. Add the rice and stir a couple of minutes. Add the wine and cook on low until wine is absorbed stirring constantly.

Add a cup of the chicken stock, and cook until that is absorbed. Continue adding the stock and then the tomato sauce until rice is tender and mixture is creamy. Simmer until all liquid is absorbed (about 20 minutes).

Remove from heat and add the parmesan cheese, parsley and salt and pepper. Add more grated cheese if desired. By the time I finished cooking, the sun came but we enjoyed this dish anyway.

(Marie D'Olimpio has written a cookbook containing recipes that have been printed in The Quincy Sun.

The book is available at the Fruit Basket (near Star Market), Previte's Market on Sumner Street, Quincy, the Quincy Hospital Gift Shop, and at Nanci's Barbershop, Elm Street, Braintree.)

MONTCLAIR-WOLLASTON Neighborhood Association recently held its annual Speech-Writing Contest for students in the Montclair and Wollaston schools. Two winners were selected from each school and received a $50 savings bond and a certificate from the association. Montclair School winners were Jacob Smith (left) and Nicholas Bertoni. Also in photo from left are Association President Kevin Coughlin, Jacob's parents, Pamela and Patrick Smith; and Nicholas' mother, Sharon Carey.

Joseph Richardi Joins Loan Review Board

Joseph F. Richardi, vice president of commercial lending for The Hibernia Savings Bank, has joined the South Shore Economic Development Corporation's (SSEDC) Loan Review Board, at the invitation of SSEDC Executive Director Patricia A. Faiella.

"We welcome Joe Richardi to the Loan Review Board. His expertise in commercial lending will further enhance the expertise of the SSEDC's existing loan review board," said Faiella.

Established in 1951, the South Shore Economic Development Corporation, an affiliate of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, has a key role in the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) section 504 Loan Program. The program is designed to promote local economic development by helping healthy, growing businesses expand. The Loan Review Board reviews and approves loans to be submitted to the SBA for final approval.

Richardi joined The Hibernia Savings Bank in 1993. He is responsible for small business lending and product development.

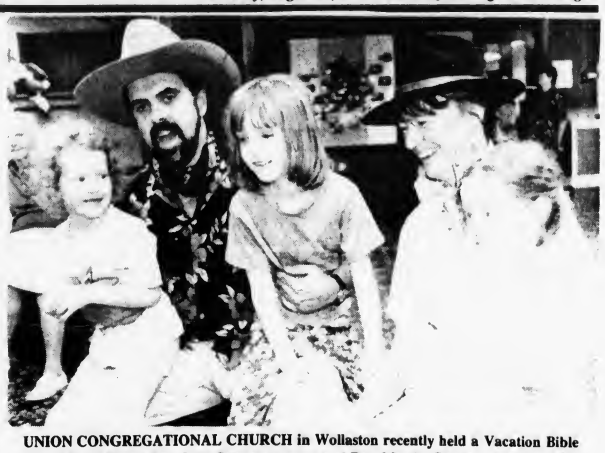
Wilson Cites City's Need For 'High Quality Of Education'

Atty. Tracy Wilson, candidate for the Quincy School Committee, recently met with friends and supporters, many with school age children.

During the event, she cited the need for a "high quality of education" in the city.

"While knocking on doors throughout the city, I have found that parents, and even some teachers, are very concerned about how Quincy students scored on the Iowa Tests for Educational Development/Skills, which were administered in the spring," said Wilson. "Quincy Grade 10 students had an overall average score of only 58 percent in the areas of reading, math, social studies and science.



"Furthermore, the Grade 3 reading tests results reveal that Quincy makes up a small fraction of the South Shore communities that had students fall below the basic reader level. In fact, overall, Quincy students performed worse than those in neighboring communities."

Wilson added, "There is certainly room for improvement, and I want to be a part of the improvement that guarantees a high quality of education in the Quincy Public Schools. I spoke with at least one parent who was concerned enough to transfer her child to a private school system. This just should not happen.

"We should not be satisfied when educational performance is significantly poorer than neighboring communities, and Quincy voters should not be satisfied with elected officials who believe that the school system need not be improved."

"Research has shown that if students are unable to ready well by the end of the third grade, it is more likely that they will become school dropouts, and they will have much less opportunity to secure gainful employment during their lifetime," said Wilson. "We need to ensure that all Quincy students are prepared to meet the challenges of not only today, but of the 21st century.

"I promise that when elected, I will use my training and ability to promote curricula that will maintain a high quality of education for each and every Quincy Public School student, helping to make Quincy a model for educational success."

Quincy College Criminal Justice Program Redesigned

The Criminal Justice program at Quincy College has been redesigned to offer three options to interested students.

President Dr. G. Jeremiah Ryan said the new opportunities are available this fall and are the result of recommendations made by professors Paul White and Dawn Couture.

Students who seek a broad exploration of criminal justice courses and career paths may choose the General Criminal Justice program. The General Criminal Justice program allows students maximum flexibility to explore many different areas of criminal justice through selections of a comprehensive range of program electives.

The courses within the two following Career Tracks stress achievement in specific skill areas:

Law Enforcement; Violence and Community Intervention.

Students who desire a track in criminal justice which maximizes credit for transfer into a bachelor's degree program may select from the following Transfer Tracks:

Criminal Justice, Criminal Justice/Psychology, Criminal Justice/Sociology.

Six Major Changes At Quincy College

Students and faculty returning to Quincy College Sept. 2 will see many major institutions at the local community college.

College President Dr. Jeremiah Ryan said six major changes in the equipment and facilities should be immediately noticeable.

•A fifth computer lab for students has been constructed at Coddington Hall.

•All professional staff have personal computers connected by a local area network, on other desks.

•The library conversion to automation and the Library of Congress system from Dewey Decimal has begun.

•The School of Allied Health has moved into state-of-the-art facilities in 1495 Hancock St. after spending three years in the Center for Technical Education facility of the Quincy Public Schools.

•The Hancock Street facility is also shared by the College's Center for Training and Development which had operated out of North Quincy High School for four years.

•Faculty office space in Saville has been converted to classroom space.

SQUEALING WITHOUT DELIGHT

Squeaking and squealing noise is not usually associated with major brake problems. These noises are often indicative of the need to clean the brake drums or discs or to replace defective antisqueal shims. Otherwise, the brake discs or drums will require machining to correct a problem known as scoring (deep circular grooves worn into the friction surface of a brake disc or drum). If the brake pads are worn down to the wear sensors, they should also be replaced to avoid future damage to the discs. On the other hand, squealing is a natural tendency in some disc brake designs that can be difficult to eliminate. In some cases, the problem can be solved by using a brake lining of different hardness or by trying a bonded lining instead of a riveted lining. It may be that an antisqueal lubricant can be used on the brake pad backing plates to eliminate squeal. Creating a nondirectional finish on the disc may also do the trick.

HINT: Rattling noises are not acceptable on either drum or disc brakes.

Don't hesitate to ask any questions about your brakes or about anything else related to your car when you bring it into LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO for servicing. We have modern test equipment, the right parts and the best ASE Certified service technicians available in the area. We are also your local source for propane for grills, motor homes, and converted vehicles. Let's get acquainted at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (843-1550). We're "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Hours: Mon.-Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm.

'Aviation History Trail' To Be Presented Sept. 11

"Quincy's Aviation History Trail" will be presented at the Aviation History Info Center at Beechwood on the Bay, 440 East Squantum St., Squantum, on Thursday, Sept. 11.

Mayor James Sheets will join those in attendance who will meet at Beechwood--the site of the Dennison Airport, where Amelia Earhart flew--at 6:30 p.m.

The event will include early photos and artifacts dating back to 1910 as well as displays paying tribute to Quincy's "First Ladies of the Skies": Earhart and Harriet Quimby, the nation's first female pilot.

At 7 p.m., trolleys provided courtesy of Beantown Trolley and Brush Hill Tours will travel through a "ride through history" and the site of the city's original airshows (1910-12) where Quimby was killed.

A reception will be hosted by Peter O'Connell and Arthur Casey of Marina Bay Company, 333 Victory Rd. The Marina Bay Aviation History "Museum Room" will be open for viewing. Refreshments will be served.

The free event is being hosted by Beechwood, Marina Bay Company and Beantown Trolley. Reservations are required. For more information, call 471-5712.

ICE YOUR SECOND REFRIGERATOR

Your second refrigerator or freezer could be costing you as much as $200 a year on your electric bill.

If you have a second refrigerator or freezer, and the only thing in it is a forgotten six-pack of soda or a vintage quart of ice cream, we can help you save as much as $200 a year on your electric bill.

Massachusetts Electric's Free Appliance Removal is a great way to save money, protect the environment, and tidy up your garage or basement at the same time.

We'll come to your home when it's convenient for you, remove your second refrigerator or freezer, and it won't cost you a dime. Plus, you can feel good knowing we'll recycle your appliance's parts in an environmentally responsible manner.

If you're a Massachusetts Electric residential customer who owns a second refrigerator or freezer, you're eligible for Free Appliance Removal. All we ask is that the appliance be standard-sized, cold at pick-up, and in Massachussetts Electric's service area. Program ends September 30, 1997.

Don't Wait!

With concerns about potential power shortages for New England this summer, Massachusetts Electric is bringing back this popular customer opportunity for a limited time. Now's the time to help reduce energy usage while you save on your electric bill.

Call us and we'll pick it up free

Window Shopping Tips

(NAPS)—Whether remodeling or building a new home, knowing the right questions to ask before buying windows can save you time, trouble and money.

• Is the manufacturer certified? A sure sign of a well-constructed, quality unit is the certification label etched in the glass or printed on the spacers between the lites of glass.

Windows can earn one of three designations—C, CB or CBA—depending on test results. The CBA level is the highest rating and means a window has passed through three levels of simulated weatherization without showing signs of condensation or fogging.

• Does the window manufacturer offer a warranty? If you are considering purchasing a dual pane, sealed window unit, ask about the manufacturer's warranty. A well-constructed unit should last a minimum of ten years. If the window system fails in five years, causing excessive drafts or allowing condensation to form between the panes, will the manufacturer replace it?

Also, inquire as to whether any of the window components are covered. For instance, Tremco, the manufacturer of the insulating glass edge spacer, Swiggle® Seal, offers window manufacturers a warranty on their product.

• What is the U-Value of the window? Window manufacturers use U-values, a measure of heat transfer, to indicate thermal performance or energy efficiency. The lower the U-value, the better. A U-value of .40 is considered excellent.

• Is the window constructed with conventional or warm-edge spacers? Dual and triple pane windows are constructed with edge spacers designed to reduce heat loss around the window's edges. The materials used to construct these edge spacers can mean the difference between a drafty window edge and one that is well insulated against the cold.

Some window manufacturers use aluminum spacers filled with moisture-absorbing material that helps prevent condensation from building up between the panes. However, because metal conducts heat, aluminum spacers diminish the insulation value of a window, resulting in a higher U-value.

Others have abandoned aluminum spacers for warm-edge spacers. But not all warm edge seals perform identically. A window constructed with a warm-edge spacer such as Swiggle Seal will be nine degrees warmer and reduce condensation by up to 80 percent more than an identical window constructed with an aluminum spacer.

• Does the window have Low-E glass? Regular, uncoated glass releases heat in winter, and retains it in summer. To prevent this, some window manufacturers use low-Emissivity (low-E) coatings on one pane. Low-E coatings block the radiation that can account for as much as 60 percent of a window's heat loss. They also protect indoor furnishings from sun damage.

It makes sense to ask your contractor for recommendations, but a little homework of your own can help you end up with the most appropriate windows for your construction or remodeling project.

Application Deadline Friday For Habitat Homes

Friday is the application deadline for those interested in living at South Shore Habitat for Humanity's "Granite Village" which will be located at the end of Bower Road in Quincy Point.

South Shore Habitat will break ground for three new homes at the site in September. A total of eight to 10 new homes--two- to three-bedroom, two-story dwellings--will be built in three phases by volunteers over the next two years.

Land for the homes was donated by the Atlantic Development Corp. of Hingham, and the City of Quincy also has supported the project.

Applications are now being accepted for the first three homes. Applications from families not selected for the first three homes will be kept on file and considered for the remaining homes. They will also be solicited at other times during the two-year construction period.

Local families who can demonstrate a significant housing need and who meet Habitat income and residency requirements are encouraged to apply to purchase the homes. South Shore Habitat will select families on the basis of housing need, income, willingness to partner with Habitat, and Quincy residency.

Families will be chosen without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, sex, family status, marital status, age, disability, sexual preference or because part of their income derives from any public assistance program.

Since the homes will be new, construction can be modified within limits to accommodate families with disabilities.

Families will purchase the homes at cost and will receive 20-year, zero-interest financing by Habitat, resulting in a small monthly mortgage payment. Each home is estimated to cost $50,000 to $55,000. The Habitat mortgage principal payment will be about $210 to $230 per month. South Shore Habitat will use the payments to finance future home construction or renovations for other families with housing needs in the South Shore area.

The new homeowners also will be responsible for paying property taxes, insurance, and for upkeep of their homes. They also will become part of a new neighborhood association that will maintain their common land area.

In lieu of a cash-down payment, families must complete 500 hours of "sweat equity" time. They will help build the home by working on Saturdays in partnership with volunteers on the construction, landscaping, site cleanup and other tasks. Sweat equity hours can be accumulated by any family member and no construction skills are necessary.

Applications are limited to families who are Quincy residents and have lived in the city at least one year, or who have been former Quincy residents for at least two years.

All candidates should meet the following annual gross family income guidelines (extenuating circumstances will be considered); family of three, $17,000 to $24,000; four, $17,000 to $25,000; five, $17,000 to $27,000; six or more, $17,000 to $28,000.

For more information or to apply, call 843-9080 24 hours a day. Applications also can be picked up at most Quincy churches, the information desk at City Hall, and at Hibernia Savings Bank's offices at 731 Hancock St. and 63 Franklin St., both in Quincy.

South Shore Habitat for Humanity is located at 28 River St., Braintree.

Terms That Should Be Listed In Purchase Offer

What are some of the terms that should be listed in an offer to purchase your home?

Vincent Moscardelli of ERA Central Real Estate, Quincy, notes four terms of utmost importance:

•Closing date: This date, which can be negotiated, is the day the title and possession of your home is taken by the buyer.

•Earnest money: If a buyer wants to show serious interest in your property, he or she will put up an amount of money known as earnest money.

•Personal property and real property: Once attached to a home, an item of personal property, such as a door and sink, is generally considered to become real property. Real property are items that usually stay with the house. Items that can be taken from a property without any damage to it are considered to be personal property. However, the seller must mention before the transition any real property that they'll be taking with them.

•Purchase price: The buyer will initially place the purchase price he or she desires on the offer to purchase. The price can then be negotiated and once, your are both in agreement, it is then inserted into the contract.

Durkin Wants Senior Safety Zone On Clay St.

establishment of a senior citizen safety zone is justified by the presence of several hundred elders on both sides of the street who need to safely reach their doctors, churches and other destinations.

The street, which is less than 200 yards long, sometimes serves as a shortcut for motorists avoiding traffic lights on Elm Avenue and Hancock Street.

Several years ago, the city considered making much of the street one-way but the idea was abandoned. City Traffic Engineer Jack Gillon said he opposes the idea, saying that making a road one-way historically increases the speed of motorists using it.

Gillon added that 15 miles per hour signs on the street are only advisory since the road carries a 30 miles per hour state speed limit.

Durkin said he respects Gillon's judgment on the one-way issue and that his senior safety zone would seek state authority for a lowered speed limit.

Your Horoscope
by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) It's an excellent week to plan a business or pleasure trip. Some surprising economic deals are available if you pick and choose carefully. Patience is the key.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Accenting a calm attitude is paramount. A surprise situation which occurs midweek steers your judgment off course, so keep a clear head. Important personal decisions await this weekend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) While your personal financial dealings are less than desirable, your career-oriented ideas are met favorably. Seek out advice on pressing credit matters. Be sure to follow through on what you hear.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Perhaps it's time to take a good look in the mirror at yourself. Someone out there is crying out for your attention and advice and you are not paying attention. Act quickly.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Chaos could sum up how the week will be around the house. Be patient, especially with children and older family members. The problem is temporary; you can solve it.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Lately, you have been pushing yourself a bit too much. It is time this week to accent leisure activities with friends and family. Relax and enjoy the weekend!

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Don't jump to conclusions about a friend's strange behavior. Signals are crossed and you must have an open mind. Perhaps a casual lunch or dinner together this weekend will rectify this dilemma.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Pay special attention this week to your health and diet. Perhaps an overdue checkup with your physician is in order. If so, tend to this important matter right away.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) If there happens to be a romantic situation brewing on the job for yourself and a co-worker, nip this situation in the bud. Business and pleasure do not mix.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) It is not the week for insecurities. While you feel you lack sex appeal, that is actually far from the truth. A secret admirer emerges this weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Don't get down in the dumps if a connection you were counting on professionally temporarily falls through. With your creative mind, this is only a minor roadblock.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You demonstrate great optimism on the job and attract the attention of co-workers and bigwigs alike. This situation will drive you to excel.

Quincy May Host Yawkey Series Opener

Sheriffs Need Win To Reach League Finals

By LIAM FITZGERALD

The Yawkey League Stewart Division finals between the Quincy Sheriffs and Brighton-Lincoln Sox came down to a fifth and deciding game Tuesday, after the Sox won two straight to knot the series at two.

The winner of Tuesday's game plays Somerville, the champion of the Tarpey Division, in the best-of-seven league championship.

As of press time Tuesday, no date had been set for the series opener.

If Quincy won its division series, the possibility remained that it would host Somerville for games 1 and 2 Friday and Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at Adams Field.

Another possible date for the opener is tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 at Healy Field in Roslindale.

Regardless of where the first two games may be held, games 3 and 4 would be at Somerville. If necessary, game 5 would also be at Somerville and games 6 and 7 would be at Adams Field.

For more information about dates and times, call Quincy manager Al Julian at 773-8142.

Monday night, five Quincy errors proved costly as the Sox took advantage with five early runs and won, 6-2, at Rogers Park in Brighton.

Two throwing errors by shortstop George Wirtz in the first resulted in the Sox' first run. In the second, Mal Higgins threw wild past first, placing runners on second and third. After a strikeout, an errant throw from Wirtz pulled first baseman Tim Zaniboni off the base, allowing Rick McHugh to score from third with two outs.

Quincy cut the lead in half in the third, as Bill MacDougall walked, stole second and scored on Wirtz's double.

The Sox pulled away in the bottom of the third, scoring three runs on four consecutive hits. A run also crossed the plate on a wild pitch by Quincy starter and losing pitcher Bob Austin (3.1 IP, six runs, three earned runs, six hits, one strikeout, no walks).

The visitors scored their second and final run in the fourth when Mal Higgins reached on a fielder's choice, moved to second on a throwing error and crossed the plate on Tim Messing's single.

The host squad added an insurance run in the fourth to take a 6-2 lead. Presented numerous opportunities to stage a rally, Quincy stranded nine baserunners in the game, including six in scoring position.

The Sox avoided the sweep with a 5-4 victory over Quincy Sunday at Rogers Park in Brighton.

Andy Kurzon's single scored Bill Von Klock in the bottom of the seventh, breaking a 4-4 tie. Quincy's MacDougall, in relief of starter Mark Cahill, took the loss, allowing one run, two hits, striking out one and walking three in two-plus innings.

Quincy's offense clicked early, scoring two runs on three hits in the first. Leadoff hitter Wirtz (two hits, two runs scored) singled, stole second and scored on a single by Steve Higgins (two hits, two runs). Higgins, who stole second and moved to third on a groundout, crossed the plate on a Mal Higgins single.

The Sox stormed right back, pushing two runs across on four hits in a row off Cahill (four and a third innings, four runs, seven hits, five strikeouts, three walks). In the third, Mike Susi's two-run double gave the Sox a 4-2 lead.

Quincy rallied in the fifth, tying the game, 4-4, on three hits and three Sox errors. MacDougall singled in Wirtz, and Mal Higgins drove in Steve Higgins with his second RBI single.

Last Friday, John Gangi won the game for Quincy with a hit for the second straight night. With the game tied, 4-4, in the bottom of the seventh, Gangi singled sharply to center, scoring Chris Peck (three for three) from third for a 5-4 Quincy win at Adams Field.

Earlier in the inning, pinch runner Cahill scored on a MacDougall groundout to tie the game.

After Peck singled home pinch runner Chris Zaniboni for a 1-0 Quincy lead, the Sox erupted for four runs on five hits in the sixth. Quincy starter Chris Higgins, who earned the complete-game victory, allowed just two other hits in addition to striking out nine and not walking a batter.

In the sixth, Quincy closed the gap to 4-3 when Steve Higgins (two hits) blasted a two-run homer over the right-center field fence.

In the series opener last Thursday at Adams Field, Gangi singled to score Wirtz from third with the winning run and sent Quincy to a 4-3 nine-inning triumph.

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought For The Week

Influence is a very powerful possession. Whether we realize it or not, all of us influence children in one way or another. The manner in which we influence them often explains their behavior. For example, children who encounter excessive criticism invariably are quick to condemn in later life. Children who see and sense reasonable tolerance learn to be patient. Ridicule often results in shyness. Encouragement exudes confidence. Praise develops appreciation.

These and other causes and effects indicate the need for constant thought in how influence is exerted by parents, teachers and friends; in fact, by all who contact children in any way. Influence in action is louder than any voice - Yes, all of us carry the weight of influence whether we like it or not. . .

When we think of it, doesn't common sense dictate the use of discretion in behavior and expression - to influence properly? Could this be the failure that causes disorder, disrespect, confusion and weird behavior seen too often these days? . . .

PSSB VOLUNTEER Helen Duncan of North Quincy greets visitors to PSSB's booth in Quincy's recent Sidewalk Festival. PSSB is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year.

PSSB Has Successful Booth At Festival

Dorothy Sparks, a long-time volunteer at Quincy's Protestant Social Service Bureau (PSSB) recently coordinated a booth for the agency in the Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival.

"We wanted to raise visibility for the services PSSB provides," said Sparks, a resident of Houghs Neck.

She spearheaded the effort and recruited volunteers to make signs and staff the booth at the three-day festival, as well as collecting a variety of prizes from local merchants for a raffle. The agency collected over $500 in donations.

PSSB, whose mission is to strengthen family life and assist anyone in need is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year with a variety of events to help raise visibility and needed funds for the agency.

Merchants who helped by donating raffle prizes included:

Barry's Deli, Eagle Flag, Quincy Adams Garden Center, Richard's Liquors, Roche Brothers Market, Sheer Stylers, Curry Hardware, LeColson Jewelers, Waterworks, Quincy Cinema, Amelia's, Milton Players, Blackwood Pharmacy, and Stars Restaurant.

PSSB is a private, non-profit agency serving people of all ages on the South Shore. The agency provides services through a variety of programs including the Pantry Shelf, a food pantry; the Bureau Drawer, a thrift shop; a counseling center, offering therapeutic counseling to individuals, couples, and families and financial counseling to senior homeowners; and an adoption placement and counseling agency for domestic as well as international adoptions.

For more information about PSSB or its services, call 773-6203.

ACNE UNDER CONTROL

Pimples are part of life for virtually all of us — even if, to someone who has broken out with a fresh crop of beauties, it can seem as though everyone else has perfect skin. For some people, though, what others experience as merely annoying blemishes can balloon into a case of acne so severe that physical and emotional scarring are serious threats. For women, there is one tool that can be added to the options for fighting acne: birth control pills. Certain low-dose birth control pills have been found to be more effective against acne than either benzoyl peroxide, a common over-the-counter aid, or antibiotics. The pills shut down the levels of hormones that trigger acne production.

P.S. Many of the things once thought to aggravate acne (chocolate, carbonated beverages, etc.) are now known to have no effect.

If your adolescent is struggling with the changes facing his or her body, it can help to find out what might medical interventions be available to make life easier—even if that only means receiving up-to-date information from a physician who cares. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., in Quincy, we specialize in treating heart problems, hypertension, and cholesterol. Call 472-2550; office hours by appointment. Quincy Granites Capture Summer Hardball Classic

The Quincy Granites, Quincy's 11-year-old travel baseball team, went undefeated en route to clinching the recent first annual Quincy Granite Hardball Summer Classic championship.

Quincy posted a 6-0 record by defeating teams from Hanson, Marshfield, Weymouth (twice), Pembroke and the St. John's League with outstanding offensive and defensive play. The three-day tournament at Faxon Park also featured teams from Milton and Quincy's 10-year-old travel team.

Pitchers Steve Williams and Matt Grazioso combined for Quincy's 10-5 victory over Hanson in the championship tilt. Williams scattered seven hits over the final five innings, struck out four and induced 17 outs in the infield, which was flawlessly played by third baseman Mark Tobin, shortstops Dan Cosgrove and Ryan Feldhoff, second baseman Bill Cosgrove, and first basemen Matt McNeil and Steve O'Brien.

Quincy took the lead in the second after Matt Germain (two hits) singled and Chris Trietti blasted a home run. After Tobin and O'Brien reached on errors, Jimmy Burke (two hits) singled and Bill Cosgrove tripled to center, resulting in a seven-run inning. Bill Cosgrove led all hitters by going four for four with a triple and two RBI. Matt Lavery had a two-hit game and Mike Tetreault played an excellent defensive game.

In semi-final action, Quincy played a strong Weymouth team and earned a 9-4 victory. Trietti pitched four innings and was relieved by Dan Cosgrove, who earned the save after coming on to get the final out in the fifth with the bases loaded. Cosgrove did not allow a run and fanned three over the final two innings. Burke had two hits, as did Bill Cosgrove, who also doubled and collected three RBI. Germain, Tobin, Williams and the Cosgroves led Quincy defensively with several outstanding plays.

In earlier action, Quincy knocked off an eager team from the St. John's League, 13-0. Grazioso tossed a five-inning, no-hit masterpiece while Matt McNeill paced the team offensively with a solid triple and double to deep center. Brian Lynch and Lavery also contributed two-hit games while virtually everyone in the Quincy lineup, which pounded out 14 hits, hit the ball hard.

In Quincy's 12-1 triumph over Pembroke, Burke pitched well to earn the win and helped his own cause with two hits. Germain (two hits) and Trietti (double, triple) also had solid offensive games, while Tetreault and Lynch were defensive standouts.

Earlier in the tournament, Dan Cosgrove sparked Quincy by pitching a complete game in Quincy's 10-5 win over previously unbeaten Weymouth. Cosgrove struck out 11, yielded no earned runs and scattered six singles. Quincy's defense was outstanding again with 10 put outs by the infield. Tetreault led Quincy's hit parade (14 hits) with two hits, including a long home run to center. O'Brien and Germain also contributed two-hit games.

In the opening round, Trietti and Williams combined to strike out 12 in Quincy's 7-5 victory over Marshfield. Trietti fanned six over three innings, while Williams earned the save with six strikeouts over the final four innings. Quincy took the lead in the first following walks to Burke, the Cosgroves, and a sacrifice fly by Williams. Feldhoff's walk was followed by a solid two-run single by O'Brien. Brendan McDonald had a fine game in the field for Quincy.

Quincy's 11-year-old team was comprised of: Steve Williams, Bill and Dan Cosgrove, Jimmy Burke, Matt Germain, Mark Tobin, Mike Tetreault, Chris Trietti, Brian Lynch, Steve O'Brien, Ryan Feldhoff, Brendan McDonald, Matt Lavery, Matt Grazioso and Matt McNeil. Coaches were Peter Williams and Wendell Cosgrove.

Many thanks to Greg Burke for organizing the teams, concessions and overall success of the tournament. Special thanks to all the fans and families for their support, and to Tom Koch of the Park Department for arranging use of Faxon Park. Our appreciation also goes to the Quincy Fire Department and Beacon Sporting Goods.

Next year, Quincy plans on holding the second annual Quincy Granite Hardball Summer Classic with separate 10- and 12-year-old round-robin divisions.

North Quincy Boys' Soccer Practice Begins Aug. 25

The North Quincy High School boys' soccer team starts practice next Monday, Aug. 25 at 8 a.m. at Bishop's Field, in preparation for the 1997 season which begins Sept. 5 at Plymouth South High School.

Bishop's Field is located on Holbrook St. behind the Montclair School.

The first week of practice, which consists of double sessions, will be important preparation for a traditionally challenging Old Colony League schedule.

Although last year's Division I boys' state champion Weymouth moved to another league, the competition will once again be very keen, according to second-year head coach Robert Dano.

With 10 returning seniors, and one of the largest incoming freshman classes in recent history, the prospect for continued improvement appears good, said Dano.

"We've scheduled some very ambitious scrimmages against Boston College and Norwell High schools this year, and hopefully we're going to continue to work on the way we approach the game," he said.

Candidates are still welcome to try out for the team. Although helpful, previous soccer experience is not required. Anyone interested should call Coach Dano at 773-9087 immediately.

Quincy 12-Year-Olds Contend For Medford Tournament Crown

The Quincy 12-year-old All-Stars, winners of three of their first four games in the Medford Invitational Tournament, are back in action tonight (Thursday) at 8 against Malden at Columbus Park in Medford.

Quincy, which played Parkway Tuesday, is in contention for the tournament playoffs slated for Saturday and Sunday. Quincy is in the Columbus Park Division.

Saturday at 5:30 p.m., the first-place team in the Columbus Park Division plays the second-place team in the Gillis Park Division. At 8 p.m., the first-place team in the Gillis Park Division plays the second-place team in the Columbus Park Division.

Sunday at 8 p.m., the winners of Saturday's semi-finals meet for the tournament championship.

In earlier action, Quincy lost to Melrose, 1-0, in a well-played pitchers duel last Sunday. Melrose, which collected four hits in the game, scored the only run it would need in the second inning.

Melrose pitcher Sean DeYoung allowed just three hits and struck out one en route to the victory. Dellis Simon and John Restivo each made inning-ending double plays from the outfield to first base.

Quincy's Brian O'Hanley, who fanned five, was the tough luck loser. Dennis Thompson and Ryan Donahue played well defensively.

Last Saturday, Quincy picked up its third triumph, knocking off Reading, 12-2, in a game called in the bottom of the fifth for the 10-run rule.

Leading the 14-hit parade for Quincy were Steve Pizzi (two hits), Thompson (two hits, including a triple), "Mooky" DeAngelo (couple hit, including a double), Paul McAteer (triple), Bob Muollo (double) and Leo Ahern (double). Defensive standouts included Ryan Rogers, who started a double play with a catch in center and a throw to third, and Thompson, who collected five assists.

The winning pitcher was DeAngelo, who limited Reading to two runs on six hits. For Reading, Bob Duncan had two hits.

Last Tuesday, Quincy broke open a two-run game with seven runs in the final three innings for a 10-1 win over Pembroke. Quincy, which collected only four hits, took advantage of five errors and numerous walks.

Rogers (double), Pizzi (double) and Jason Fidalgo (two-run triple) provided the spark offensively. On the defensive side, Donahue made three pickoffs. Winning pitcher McAteer, who yielded just two hits, also fanned seven and walked three.

Sheets Names Frane New Police Chief

(Cont'd From Page 1) policing" will possibly be the biggest challenge he will face.

"Pursuing that, continuing that, and expanding that will be one of my top priorities, and possibly the most substantial change for the department," he said. "But I also want to expand upon the other successes we've had. I'm not going to do anything shockingly different."

He added that one of the first people he spoke to about his appointment was Kelly.

"He wished me well," said Frane. "We've been friends for 26 years. We've worked together very closely, and we'll remain friends."

Mullen, a 41-year veteran of the department who has served as chief for seven years, said he wishes his successor well.

"I think they had two great candidates, and this was the mayor's choice," said the chief, who turns 65 on Aug. 24. "Both men are great leaders. But I think Capt. Frane will do very well. He's participated in a number of the programs I've participated in. I think he has a bright future."

Kelly, who like Frane is 48 and a Weymouth resident, could not be reached for comment. Although Kelly received a grade of 89 on the Civil Service examination--four points higher than Frane's score--Sheets said the exam was only one of the factors he considered in making his decision.

Frane will receive a considerable pay raise as part of his new position. The Quincy chief's annual salary is $81,120, while the highest base pay a sergeant can receive working for the department is $50,283.

Frane and his wife Elaine have four children: Thomas Jr., 26; Brian, 23; Kevin, 18 and Erin, 15.

Frane and Kelly both began working for the Quincy Police Department on Dec. 6, 1971. Frane was promoted to sergeant, lieutenant and captain in January 1980, April 1987 and December 1992 respectively. Kelly received the same promotions in June 1985, April 1991 and January 1994.

The Civil Service examination was given May 10. Initially, two other department members--Capt. Fred Laracy, day platoon captain and Capt. Robert Salvaggio, head of the detectives--also had applied for the exam, but Frane and Kelly ended up being the only two men to take the test.

Capt. Donald Riley, the department's fifth captain and inspector of divisions, did not apply to take the examination.

Beechwood Center Set To Expand Senior Services

Beechwood on the Bay will expand its multi-service senior services this fall at the center, 440 East Squantum St., Squantum.

The center's plans include:

•September: Launching an expanded Fall Program.

•October (National Fire Protection Month): Teaming up with the city, National Fire Protection Agency, Quincy Rotary and volunteers to promote and ensure fire safety in the homes of Quincy seniors. Project SAFE (Smoke Alarms For Elders) will be discussed.

•November (Alzheimer's Awareness Month): Presenting special programs that will share information and educate about Alzheimer's disease. The center provides a range of services and support groups year-round for families coping with the affliction.

For more information about Beechwood and its programs, call 471-5712.

Peter Ehrlich Awarded Navy Ribbon

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Peter J. Ehrlich, a 1993 graduate of Quincy High School, recently was awarded the Battle "E" Ribbon while serving aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Hue City, homeported in Mayport, Fla.

The ribbon denotes service with a unit which has won a battle efficiency competition, and Ehrlich's ship earned this award for the third consecutive time.

Ehrlich, along with other members of the crew, earned the award for the ship's battle preparedness, and superior material and mission readiness during the year. The ship was particularly cited for its excellence in the four departmental areas of maritime warfare, command and control, engineering and survivability, and logistics management.

Erhlich joined the Navy in November, 1993.

Closing Out 41-Year Career

Mullen A Hands-On, Modest Police Chief

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Francis Mullen, a hands-on police chief who put in seven days a week on the job, will start taking things easier as he steps into retirement at the end of this week.

During his 41-year law enforcement career with the Quincy Police Department, the last seven as chief, he built an image as a man modest of his own accomplishments who preferred to stress police teamwork.

Mullen turned 65 on Sunday and his retirement is mandated by law. A second-generation police officer who rose through the ranks to become the department's 13th chief, he said in a Quincy Sun interview:

"Part of being successful is having a team effort," he says. "With a team effort, you can solve many things. We have a good, solid department--all our sworn personnel, all our civilians, do a good job.

"I'm going to miss all of the people that I work with."

And Mullen has been involved with many things, and worked with many people, since he first joined the department as a patrolman in December 1956. Part of the reason he initially became part of the force was the inspiration of his father, a Quincy police officer for 35 years.

"He was a good role model, my father," he said. "A great police officer, and a great family man."

Mullen himself rose through the ranks, becoming a sergeant in May 1965 and a lieutenant in May 1969 before being appointed by Mayor James Sheets to succeed Chief Francis Finn in September 1990.

Throughout the years, Mullen served the department in a number of capacities. Among the various titles he held were commander of the department's tactical patrol force and head of its training academy for new recruits.

He notes that he particularly enjoyed the latter role.

"I think teaching is very rewarding," he said. "I trained a lot of people."

Mullen said the chief's position is "much more de-

Frane Takes Oath Friday

Capt. Thomas Frane will officially become Quincy's 14th police chief during a swearing-in ceremony Friday at 1 p.m. in the second floor Conference Room at City Hall Annex.

Frane, a veteran of the Quincy Police Department for nearly 26 years, will be sworn-in by City Clerk Joseph Shea. The ceremony is open to the public.

Mayor James Sheets announced last week that he had selected Frane, 48, to succeed Chief Francis Mullen, who is retiring at the end of this week after 41 years with the police department, including the last seven as chief.

Sheets was on vacation at press time but was expected to be on hand for Friday's ceremony.

The mayor said last week Frane has a "broader base of experience in a numerous category of jobs" than Capt. Terence Kelly, also 48 and his only competition for the chief's position.

In a prepared statement, Sheets said Frane "possesses the temperament, background and interpersonal skills which I am seeking in the next chief." He cited Frane's experience as including "that as a detective sergeant, his role in the Community Services Unit, Bureau of Criminal Investigations, prosecutor, patrol supervisor, desk sergeant, communications sergeant, domestic violence trainer and liaison, director of planning and research, accreditation manager, domestic violence training

School Enrollment Seen 'About Same'

Enrollment for the Quincy Public Schools this year will total around 8,900 students, or about the same as last year, according to Assistant School Supt. Richard DeCristofaro.

Enrollment for the Quincy Public Schools will total around 8,900 students, or about the same as last year, according to Assistant School Supt. Richard DeCristofaro.

DeCristofaro said that as of Tuesday, enrollment figures for the 1997-98 academic year were virtually identical to last year's total of 8,893.

The number will likely remain about the same, he added, although it could go up or down slightly.

"It could be the same as last year, it could be a little more, or it could be a little less," he said. "Oct. 1 is actually the statewide date the school systems submit their enrollment figures, but people pretty much will register by the end of this week. We should have a much clearer picture of what the figures will be by Friday."

DeCristofaro added that the figures are hard to estimate in advance mainly because of kindergarten and Grade 1 enrollees, the students whose numbers are the most difficult to predict.

School bells will ring for Quincy Public Schools students in Grades 1-12 on Wednesday, Sept. 3.

Next Wednesday will be a full day for students in

Mass. Electric Seeks To Connect Two Substations

Massachusetts Electric, a NEES company, announces that its affiliate, New England Power Company, has filed a permit application with the Mass. Energy Facilities Siting Board (EFSB).

The permit would allow the utility to install two new underground cables that will connect Boston Edison's Dewar Street Substation in Dorchester to Massachusetts Electric's North Quincy Substation on Spruce Street.

"This permit filing represents a milestone in the development of the project, which is meant to establish a second source of electric power for Quincy," said Frank Smith, director of the Massachusetts Electric project. "We feel confident that we have developed a practical and considerate plan for installing the new underground cables."

The company plans to recommend that the Dorchester to Squantum route be approved for the construction.

"We held five opening house meetings in July in Dorchester and Quincy and nearly all the comments we received at these meetings were supportive of the approach and the route that Massachusetts Electric will be recommending to the Mass. EFSB," Smith said. "If all goes well with the regulatory review, we would start construction in the fall of 1998 and complete construction by the summer of 2000."

The Mass. EFSB will hold public hearings on the project as part of the review and permitting process.

Massachusetts Electric has been holding informational meetings in both Dorchester and Quincy since the fall of 1995. A preferred route was selected in April 1996 after a careful review with elected officials, regulators, and the affected communities. The preferred route was selected in an effort to minimize disruption to local residents and businesses.

The preferred route begins at Dewar Street Substation and continues along open space next to the MBTA right-of-way and Southeast Expressway right-of-way and along Victory Road. The route then extends under the Neponset River, through open space at Squantum Point, along Commander Shea Boulevard, and ends at North Quincy Substation.

As part of its permit filing with the Mass. EFSB, Massachusetts Electric is required to submit an alternative to its preferred route. The alternative route only would be considered if the preferred route is not approved.

"We have made every effort to keep both communities well-informed about the development of the project, and community feedback made significant contributions to he!ping us refine our plans," Smith said. "We intend to keep both communities informed as the project moves forward, and we will continue to welcome comments and questions from the public on all aspects of our plan."

Smith added that while the Mass. EFSB is considering the permit application before it, Massachusetts Electric will also be pursuing other permits and licenses required for construction from the Commonwealth, the City of Boston, and the City of Quincy.

Massachusetts Electric provides electricity to more than 959,000 customers and 146 communities in Massachusetts, including Quincy.

To read the permit application report, visit the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy or the Boston Public Library branches at Adams Street, Fields Corner or Lower Mills.

For more information, call David Tedone at 491-8010.

Chemicals Likely Caused Fire At Broad Meadows

A fire that caused over $5,000 damage to a chemistry classroom at the Broad Meadows Middle School on Sunday was likely caused by chemicals ignited by the summer heat.

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman said the fire started about 1 a.m. in the bottom drawer of a wooden cabinet in the room. From all indications, he said, there were liquid materials in the drawer that may have combusted because of the hot temperature.

"There was no indication of vandalism," said Gorman. "It was truly an accidental fire--that's what it looks like at this time. The heat could have ignited what was in the drawer."

The chief said the state fire laboratory in Stowe will make an official determination on what caused the fire, which was extinguished by 2:30 a.m., within the next two weeks.

Gorman estimated the damage caused by the fire at between $5,000 and $6,000.

"There's some minor smoke damage and some windows that need to be replaced," he said. "The room has to be repainted."

Assistant School Supt. Richard DeCristofaro said the room already is being worked on and will be ready when classes open for the new academic year next week.

"Our maintenance department is working there presently," said DeCristofaro. "We'll be ready to receive students there on the first day of school (Sept. 3)."

He added that he was pleased with the actions of the fire department and area residents who prevented a bad situation from becoming worse.

"We certainly appreciate the quick response of the Quincy Fire Department and the neighbors who live near the school who alerted the firefighters," he said.

QUINCY'S UNCLE SAM Rounseville campaigned over the weekend on Martha's Vineyard to get a Senate hearing for former Governor William Weld on his nomination for ambassador to Mexico. Rounseville says he plans to take his "Jess Say Yes!" crusade to North Carolina, Senator Jesse Helms' home state. See Sunbeams, Page 4.

'Historic Quincy' Prints Available At Hospital

Prints of "Historic Quincy" are being offered for sale through the Quincy Hospital Health & Education Foundation and proceeds benefit the hospital.

"Historic Quincy" is an original watercolor lithograph by local artist Bill Beyer. Each lithograph is individually signed and numbered by the artist. The painting depicts an array of historic sites in Quincy, such as the USS Salem, Granite Railway, the Adams Birthplace and mansion and many more familiar landmarks. A copy of the framed print is available to view in the Gift Shop located in the main lobby of the hospital.

Prints are available at a cost of $35 unframed, $125 framed. The framed version is available in a choice of two different frames and mats. Proceeds from the sale of prints help to enhance health care services at Quincy Hospital, as the hospital continues to serve the communities south of Boston.

McCauley: No, On Mayor

Frank McCauley keeps bumping into people who think he's running for the city council this year as a springboard back to the mayor's office.

Is he?

"Positively no," he says. "I'm running for city councillor at-large. That's it. Period."

McCAULEY

And, if that's not emphatic enough, just ask his wife, Sandra, if he's going to run for mayor and she will tell you: "Over my dead body."

"No," says McCauley. "I don't want to be mayor again. I had eight good years (four terms) as mayor and that's enough. But I would like to go back to the city council. I think I could be of service there."

McCauley, who is 67, adds: "We have some young people coming up the ladder to run for mayor."

At the present time, he sees Paul Harold and Dan Raymondi as the two strongest mayoral prospects.

HAROLD

RAYMONDI

Mike Cheney, he feels, has taken himself out of the picture--for the time being, anyway--with his decision not to seek re-election to his council at-large seat this year.

And, Tim Cahill, he believes, is sort of in the same boat while he is county treasurer.

But, McCauley acknowledges the present mayoral picture could change in the next two years.

McCauley, if elected this year, would be the sixth Quincy mayor to serve in the city council after leaving the mayor's office.

He would be following in the political footsteps of Russell Sears, Charles Bryant, Joseph Whiton, Thomas Burgin and Joseph LaRaia.

Quincy's first mayor, Charles Porter, served on the school committee, after two years as mayor.

"I've already tied him," McCauley muses.

McCauley is giving up his school committee seat this year to run for councillor at-large. He also served on the school committee and the city council before being elected mayor in 1981.

That was the year he defeated Raymondi after Arthur Tobin decided not to run for a third term as mayor.

McCauley is one of only three Quincy mayors to be re-elected unopposed. Burgin was the first in 1940, McCauley in 1983 and James Sheets who this year is running unopposed for the third time.

But McCauley says he's not thinking of his years as mayor. He's thinking of this year's bid for city councillor at-large.

Period.

UNCLE SAM Rounseville has launched his own campaign to help his good friend, former Gov. William Weld land that ambassadorship to Mexico.

ROUNSEVILLE

Rounseville is distributing 5,000 postcards and 1,000 bumper stickers urging "Jess, Say Yes."

Aimed at, of course, Senator Jesse Helms, the man who is saying, "No, Weld, No."

The bumper stickers are red, white and blue, Sam's favorite colors. The post cards which also proclaim "William Weld deserves a hearing" are addressed to: The Honorable Jesse Helms, U.S. Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510.

Rounseville was on Martha's Vineyard over the weekend hoping to get the attention of the news media army covering President Bill Clinton's vacation.

He had a large "Jess, Say Yes!" poster with Weld's photo with him. But instead of his traditional top hat, he wore a black Mexican sombrero with two American flags on it.

"I hope this will go nationwide," Rounseville says. "This is no gimmick. I'm serious. Bill Weld deserves a Senate hearing. And, I think he deserves being ambassador, too."

Rounseville said he met a number of vacationers on the Vineyard who agreed Weld deserves a hearing.

"They felt like I do," he says. "This is a democracy--not a dictatorship."

Rounseville says he's planning to take his campaign to North Carolina--Helms country.

"I know that's the lion's den," he says. "But I don't care--let Jesse roar."

Rounseville and Weld have been good friends for a while now. Weld was on hand to officiate at the wedding of Rounseville and the former Jean Kenney at the Hatch Memorial Shell on the Esplanade the night before the Fourth of July last year.

Rounseville and Weld were snapped in a prize-winning photo running together in a Columbus Day parade two years ago.

Incidentally, the Rounsevilles recently moved from Adams St. but Uncle Sam still has a connection to the Adamses of Presidential fame. The new address: Abigail Ave.

And, the phone number is still the same: 774-1776.

Right now, if you call that number and a man answers you might get a "Si." As in "Si, Jess, Si!"

HOW DO YOU keep people from swimming in Quincy's dangerous quarries?

Kurt Waring of West Newbury sends along his proposed solution He suggests posting this sign at all the strategic places around the quarries:

"DANGER PIRANHAS"

And that probably wouldn't work either.

Adams Site To Hold Labor Day Program

The National Park Service, Adams National Historic Site in Quincy will hold a special program to celebrate Labor Day.

On Monday, Sept. 1 the Adams Site will invite the public to experience the sights, sounds and food of Victorian times at the Adams "Old House," 135 Adams St. Guests are invited to enjoy a Victorian a cappella harmony provided by The Proper Ladies, a display of magic performed by a Victorian magician, and lawn games with prizes for all. After a day of festivities, participants will enjoy "High Tea" replete with tea sandwiches and sweets.

The program will begin at 10 a.m. with costumed house tours and lawn games, continues with performances by The Proper Ladies and the magician, and concludes with "High Tea" at 3 p.m. for all who have participated. The program is free of charge and has a limited capacity.

Tickets can be obtained on a first come, first serve basis by calling the Adams Site Visitor Center at 770-1175, or depending upon availability, at the "Old House" on the day of the event.

For more information, call the Visitor Center.

Twenty minutes of casual walking uses up about 60 calories.

Agrees With Harold On Shipyard Stand

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Recently, the elected rulers of Quincy and Braintree have granted entrepreneur Sotirios Emmanouil of Greece a five-year moratorium on real estate taxes when and if he begins shipbuilding at the former Fore River shipyard. First, he must persuade Washington officials--hopefully more practical-minded than our local lads--to loan him hundreds of millions of American tax dollars.

With one exception, area politicians involved have given this tax gift to Mr. Emmanouil for what, in my opinion, is a real long shot.

The exception is Quincy City Councillor Paul Harold who has demonstrated, in sharp contrast to the other politicians here, that he is a hard-headed businessman who does not blindly accept golden promises.

Mr. Emmanouil is depending on the "loan" (without collateral!) of over 300 million American tax dollars before he can begin operations at the shipyard. To date, we have only received unsubstantiated assurances from this middle-aged European gentleman who claims he will revive shipbuilding here.

Some questions: If he is such a hot shot, why is he unemployed at this stage of his life? Why is he not building ships in Greece? If we all must suffer financially by his non-payment of taxes for the next five years, how about Mr. Emmanouil making a similar sacrifice and not accepting any salary for these five years or until the shipbuilding proves profitable and not a pipe dream?

Shipbuilding requires specified skills not found in other manufacturing. Where will he obtain draftsmen, loftsmen, riggers and fitters? Other skills, such as burning, welding, pipefitting, etc., can be adapted to ship construction provided the craftsmen are highly skilled. Reportedly long-established shipyards in the British Isles have gone out of business due to much cheaper shipbuilding in Oriental countries.

And this man thinks he can start from scratch and compete worldwide? After all, he has nothing to lose but our money.

Hopefully, someone with intelligence in Washington will check this proposition out logically before our money is wasted.

Older People Living Longer, More Active Than Ever

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Atty. Joel Davidson's querulous letter in The Quincy Sun Aug. 7 about old people suffering ignominiously in nursing homes without any degree of solace is quite perplexing.

He raises questions which perpetuate the many myths about growing old and the aging process.

As one who has visited nursing homes on a regular basis, I feel Mr. Davidson is using the broadbrush approach to criticize the practice of medicine and the delivery of health care in nursing homes and hospitals. There are no easy answers to the problems of dying with dignity.

For many years, state and federal legislation has been in place, guaranteeing the rights of patients in health care facilities.

Just last month, the American Medical Association House of Delegates rejected the Dr. Jack Kevorkian physician-assisted suicide method to end suffering.

Instead, the AMA policymakers urged that all physicians should adopt the Bill of Rights of dying patients being sponsored by the AMA.

Atty. Davidson paints a most negative picture about being old. Statistics prove that older people are living much longer than their ancestors. This is due to a number of technological and scientific advances in medicine and public health. Thus people 85 years of age is the fastest-growing elderly population in the United States.

Atty. Davidson says calling old age "The Golden Years" is a misnomer. That statement needs to be challenged. Older people are not only living longer but they are also more active than ever before. Volunteerism is alive and well, thanks to the thousands of men and women in their 70s, 80s and 90s who give tirelessly and selflessly of their talents.

In Quincy, there are many opportunities for older people to participate in a wide range of activities. The City of Quincy, through its Council on Aging Department of Elder Services, provides varied outreach programs, trans-van transportation, health education seminars, and fitness activities such as the Quincy Senior Olympics.

Neighborhood and community centers, senior housing social services, church organizations, the Quincy-South Shore YMCA, the Quincy Senior Olympics sponsored by the City of Quincy and Beechwood on the Bay, nursing homes and hospitals, HMOs, private and voluntary organizations all offer seniors the opportunity to add golden touches to their golden years.

For the less fortunate older individuals there is the hospice program. For the terminally ill, hospice means a program of caring for the dying, not a place to die.

Some 375,000 Americans or 15 percent of the 2.3 million who died in 1995 chose to enter one of 2,700 hospice programs. Hospice of the South Shore is one such program.

Legal instruments such as the health care proxy and the living will are available as expressions of the terminally ill.

A popular gerontology film entitled "Nobody Ever Died Of Old Age" points out that old age does not cause suffering. What does cause suffering are feelings of isolation and uselessness and non-involvement. Listening to those who carp about growing old and suffering does not help.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, 33.8 million (13 percent) of American individuals were 65 years of age or older in 1996. There were also 56,000 centenarians centenarians or golden agers who reached 100 and older last year.

Invariably, the question is asked of centenarians: to what do you attribute your longevity? Varied answers include good genes, good living, lots of good activity, a good secret recipe, and the good Lord was good to me.

As the saying goes, carpe diem (seize the day) and make the most of your opportunities.

The second annual Quincy Senior Conference sponsored by the Quincy Council on Aging Department of Elder Services and the Quincy Family Commission will be held Sept. 20 at Broad Meadows Middle School. All you seniors, carpe diem.

USS Quincy Battle Flag Presented

Aug. 28-Sept. 3
1957
40 Years Ago

By PAUL HAROLD

In ceremonies at city hall, Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa presented for loan, the battle flag of the USS Quincy to former crew members who were attending the ship's reunion in Boston.

Those attending served on the ship, and were Quincy residents when they began their service. They included, Edward Moore of Teaneck, N.J., a former chief pharmacist, Donald Wool of Boston and former gunner's mate and Howard Beard of Richmond, Vir., also a former gunner's mate.

All three served on the ship in the invasion of Normandy, Cherbourg and southern France, as well as the bombardments of Okinawa and Japan.

JACOBS NEW RABBI AT TEMPLE BETH EL

Rabbi David Jacobs was named as the new rabbi at Temple Beth El, succeeding Rabbi Aaron Shapiro.

Jacobs was the spiritual leader of Shaar Shalom Congregation in Halifax, Nova Scotia where he served for four years. During his time in Halifax, a new synagogue was built.

It was also announced that Uri Zifroni would be the new cantor. He had previously served as cantor at the Yeshurun Synagogue, the cathedral synagogue of Jerusalem.

JUDGE McANARNEY DIES

Quincy Court's special justice for 38 years, Judge Thomas McAnarney died this week. He was appointed in 1919 by Governor Calvin Coolidge.

He was best known for his work as a member of the defense team for the Sacco-Venzetti case, on which he served for four years with Frank Moore. The judge's brother, former Quincy City Solicitor Jeremiah McAnarney, also served on the defense team.

Write Upton Sinclair mentioned the brothers 27 times in his book "Boston."

QUINCY-ISMS

Mayor Della Chiesa nominated granite manufacturer Elmer Fagerlund of Greenleaf St. for one of Governor Foster Furcolo's Good Citizenship awards. The awards were given to sons and daughters of immigrants who had become outstanding citizens. . . A bus strike was averted this week when drivers for the Eastern Mass. Street Railway voted to accept a 15 percent pay raise. While system-wide (EMSR served 73 communities) the plan was adopted, Local president William McNeil said the vote ratio of the 150 Quincy drivers was 4-3 against. In Brockton, the vote was 134-5, and in New Bedford the vote was 111-90, in favor of the agreement. McNeil said there was need for improvement in working conditions, including two new paid holidays: Veterans' Day and Memorial Day. . . The latest "piracy" in the city took place at the Snug Harbor Boat Yard, with the theft of $250 in equipment. It was thought that the thieves traveled by water. . . There was a meeting scheduled with the New Haven railroad concerning a pedestrian overpass at Norfolk Downs. . . The dedication of the steeple at the First Church of Squantum, completed the new building construction, begun in 1949. The church had grown from a tent to a house to a small stone church, most of which was incorporated into the new fellowship hall. . . Dr. Esther Davidson and her husband, Atty. Elliot Davidson of Kemper St. were appointed head of the Ward 5 East for the first United Fund campaign. The appointment was made by Ward 5 Chairman, Harold Crowley of Flagg St. . . Gerald Coletta, Jr. was elected commander of the Nickerson Post at a special meeting. It was also voted to send a telegram to President Eisenhower in support of a cost of living raise for disabled veterans. . . City Clerk Donald Crane and assistant Clerk Allan Cole expressed concern over the lack of nomination papers filed for the municipal elections. With the filing deadline only two weeks away, there were no candidates for three slots on the school committee and only five candidates for the new nine-member city council, including Richard Mula, Francis Skerry and George Fay. Mayor Della Chiesa and former councillor Laurence Curtin were the only candidates for mayor. . Adam Trubiano was bakemaster for the Quincy K of C clambake. . . Some 120 Students were registered for the school at Wollaston Lutheran Church. The school began with nursery school and went up to grade six.

Rita's Tuna Burger

Our daughter Rita gave me today's recipe for tuna burger which she has served successfully in her restaurant in Scituate. Fresh tuna is used for this burger.

Rita's Tuna Burger

1 large russet potato (pierced and cooked in microwave until tender).
1/2 cup nonfat mayonnaise
4 teaspoons Dijon mustard
1 teaspoon white vinegar
salt and pepper to taste
1/2 cup chopped fresh basil
1/4 cup diced pitted black olives
4 teaspoons chopped capers
4 teaspoons minced shallots (or onion)
1 pound skinless boneless fresh tuna steaks, finely chopped
4- pieces of French bread
4 tomato slices
4 lettuce leaves

Peel potato and mash (1/4 cup plus) Add the mayonnaise, mustard, vinegar, salt and pepper, 1/4 cup of the basil, olives, capers and shallots. Add the tuna and combine gently. Shape into four 1 inch thick patties. Mix remaining mayonnaise and basil in small bowl.

Spray both sides of burgers, grill on medium high heat until opaque in center about 4 minutes on each side.

Cut bread pieces and discard centers. Spread basil and mayonnaise on bottom halves. Top with burgers, tomatoes, lettuce and bread tops.(If mixture looks too moist, add more mashed potato and cut down on the mayonnaise).

(Marie D'Olimpio has written a cookbook containing recipes that have been printed in The Quincy Sun.

They are available at the Fruit Basket (near Star Market), Previte's Market on Sumner St., Quincy Point, Nanci's Barbershop, Elm St., Braintree and the Quincy Hospital Gift Shop.

Shopping Day To Benefit Library Oct. 15

Literacy Volunteers of America-Quincy will sell tickets to the Macy's Benefit Shopping Day to be held Wednesday, Oct. 15 from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. at the Macy's store at South Shore Plaza in Braintree.

The event will benefit the building fund of the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center.

Tickets are $5 and are on sale at the library. Only ticket holders will be admitted to the benefit. The ticket includes admission, grand prize ballot, and five discount coupons.

Proceeds from the ticket sales are earmarked for the building fund, specifically the literacy area. In addition, Macy's will make bonus contributions to the top 10 ticket-selling organizations from $500 to $5,000.

Ticket holders will be entitled to special savings throughout Macy's. Entertainment will be featured on all four levels of the store and refreshments will be served. Prize drawings for various trips and shopping sprees will be held.

Our Policy On Engagement Photographs And Wedding Announcements

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish photographs with engagement announcements as it always has.

The Sun will also continue to use in wedding announcements, the names of all members of the wedding party including maid or matron of honor, best man, parents, bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit photos with their announcements, and when submitting their wedding photo, to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos to black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the reminder that The Sun is continuing its policy of publishing engagement photos.

The Sun also publishes articles and photos of wedding anniversaries, beginning with the 25th anniversary.

And, as in the past, there is no charge.

MR. and MRS. STEPHEN GOTLIEB

Erika Goldring Wed To Stephen Gotlieb

A reception at the Inn at Essex followed the recent wedding of Erika Sue Goldring and Stephen Leroy Gotlieb. They were married at the double ring ceremony in St. John Vianney Church in South Burlington, Vt.. by Rev. Francis Ouellette, OMI of the Church of the Immaculate Conception in Lowell, cousin of the groom's maternal grandmother, and Rev. Raymond Giroux.

The bride is the daughter of Mr.. and Mrs. George Goldring of Essex Junction. The groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Alan Gotlieb (Diane Bertoni) of Essex, and the grandson of Exilda Bertoni of Quincy and the late Leroy Bertoni. He is also the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gotlieb, formerly of Quincy.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Leslie Goldring as Maid of Honor. Dale LaCroix, sister of the groom was bridesmaid. Hayley Gotlieb, daughter of the groom was flower girl.

David Gotlieb was Best Man for his brother while another brother Daniel served as usher. Gretchen Gotlieb and John LaCroix recited readings chosen by the bride and groom.

The bride and groom graduated from Essex Junction High School and the University of Vermont. The groom was an Army veteran who served in the Gulf War. Both are employed by IDX Systems Corporation.

After a Caribbean cruise, the couple are living in South Burlington, Vt.

PANTRY SHELF COORDINATOR Bettyanne Muir-Lang (left) received a donation of 210 bags of groceries from St. Ann's Parish in Wollaston collected during a recent summer food drive. Also in photo are parishioners Mike Stracco and Laura Hennessey. The Pantry Shelf, which is operated by the Protestant Social Service Bureau, is currently seeking more donations of food to be distributed to needy families on the South Shore.

PSSB Pantry Shelf Seeks Food Donations

The Pantry Shelf, a community food pantry at the Protestant Social Service Bureau (PSSB), is seeking donations of staple food items to distribute to needy families on the South Shore.

"The summer vacation season leaves our shelves empty, but demand does not let up," said Bettyanne Muir-Lang, Pantry Shelf coordinator.

Items such as peanut butter, spaghetti sauce, cereal, crackers, soup, canned meats and vegetables, tuna, dry milk, pasta, jelly, baked beans, tolietry items and toliet paper are needed.

Food donations may be dropped off at 776 Hancock St., Wollaston, Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Muir-Lang can be reached at 773-6203 to arrange for volunteers to pick up large donations. Regular Pantry Shelf hours are weekdays from 10 to 11:45 a.m.

The Pantry Shelf serves Quincy, Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Holbrook, Hull, Milton, Randolph, Scituate and Weymouth.

For more information about the Pantry Shelf or other PSSB programs, call 773-6203.

NEW HOPE FOR ARTHRITIS

News that there may be a new cure for osteoarthritis has been sweeping the country, with promoters appearing on talk shows and filling stores with their books. At the heart of the "cure" are chondroitin sulfate and glucosamine, substances that have been used in treating arthritic animals for years. The Arthritis Foundation is urging that more research needs to be done to determine whether the supplements might help or hinder people struggling to cope with this crippling disease. Foundation doctors also point out that those promoting the supplements include them as part of an overall program including weight reduction, exercise, and conventional medications — all of which are part of the plan recommended by the Arthritis Foundation.

P.S. One of the side effects of the "cure" is often gastrointestinal upset. Talk to your doctor before trying it.

At our office, we offer comprehensive care to those dealing with chronic conditions. To find out what's new and what's worth pursuing in treatment, come see us. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we specialize in heart disease. Call me or Dr. Lisa Antonelli at 472-2550. Office hours by appointment. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospitals. You find that we care about you and it shows in everything we do.

Following DiPisa's Departure

Hospital Seeks To Hire Director By September

Officials at Quincy Hospital are hoping to hire a new chief executive officer/director by the end of September.

Ralph DiPisa, director of the hospital since 1994, resigned last week to take a job a Shields Health Care, a Brockton-based company that owns six MRI scanner facilities and an oncology center. He will leave Quincy Hospital at the end of next month.

"The past three years at Quincy Hospital have been some of the most exciting and rewarding in my tenure," said DiPisa. "I will miss the outstanding staff at the hospital. The extraordinary talent and dedication that I have witnessed at Quincy made it impossible for me to consider a position at any other hospital in this state. I have chosen to make the transition from hospitals to the private sector because it suits my personal goals."

Officials at the hospital said they would review the candidate list from their search three years ago and were expected to begin interviews by the end of this week. The list was compiled by Quorum Health Resources of Nashville, Tenn., the management firm that operates the city-owned hospital and pays the director's annual salary of $200,000.

The hospital's nine-member Board of Managers will narrow the list down to about five finalists, and subsequently consult with Mayor James Sheets and department heads, before naming the new CEO.

Sheets expressed optimism that a new hospital head will be hired as soon as possible.

"These are difficult times in health care, and this city has benefited from having strong leadership up at the hospital," he said. "I know that the board will be diligent in working with Quorum to locate an individual of the caliber that will take us into the 21st century and beyond."

Board Chairman Louis Mazzini said he thinks the new director should be familiar with city-owned hospitals in the state, which rely on local governments for their funding and are bound by open-government laws. He added that the board is looking for candidates who have had contact with some of the private hospitals that could be potential partners for Quincy Hospital.

The hospital has been seeking a partner with which to merge for some time. Officials had agreed to a merger with Carney Hospital in Dorchester last year, but the deal fell through when Cardinal Bernard Law expressed opposition to Quincy Hospital's policy of offering abortion services.

The hospital was also involved in a controversy last year following an operation that resulted in the removal of the wrong kidney from a patient and a state investigation that found three patients had died in the past three years in risky and unnecessary operations.

Despite the hospital's problems, however, DiPisa and other officials have stressed that there have been several positive developments at the hospital in the past three years--including the creation of an outpatient cardiac rehabilitation program and a cognitive disorder center that works with stroke victims and Alzheimer's patients, among other changes--and that his departure has nothing to do with the delays in finding a partner or the investigation.

Joseph Newton Candidate For Ward 6 Council Seat

Joseph Newton, 51 Glover Ave., formally announced his candidacy for Ward 6 City Council seat before an estimated 200 friends and supporters at a kick off rally recently held at the Adams Inn.

Newton, a full-time purchasing agent at the State Street Bank, is a lifelong resident of Ward 6, and a graduate of Quincy Public Schools. He currently attends Boston College and is pursuing a degree in marketing.

Newton noted he has been an active and involved member of the community with volunteer experience in local political campaigns and maintaining his concern for the residents of his community which he said sparked his interested in running for the City Council.

His primary concern, he said, is that Ward 6 residents should have a voice in the political process affecting their community.

"I believe an elected official's first responsibility is to represent adequately the people of his or her community," Newton said. "I am not afraid to take a stand, or make a decision for the residents of Ward 6."

Newton said he went door-to-door collecting over 400 signatures on his nomination papers. He said he has continued to speak with residents about concerns relating to the repair and improvement of city streets and sidewalks, and the need for a stronger city commitment to solve the ongoing pollution of Wollaston Beach by city drain and sewer lines.

"The people of Ward 6 have issues which have been ignored and need to be addressed," he said. "It's time for the residents' voices to be heard about changes and improvements affecting our quality of life," Newton said.

JOSEPH NEWTON

A top priority for him, he said, is the ongoing renovation and improvements to the North Quincy Business District. He said he is concemed about the "poor planning and the inconveniences to local business owners and patrons as this lengthy prolonged construction continues.

"North Quincy was the last major business area to undergo improvement, and as we finally near completion of this project, I want to ensure that the impact on small business, the backbone of our community is addressed.

"We must be more sensitive and more responsible in fully and adequately planning projects that affected the area."

The relocation of the Atlantic Neighborhood Center and the lack of planning will also be a priority, he said.

"We have known since February that the Neighborhood Center would be losing their facility, and yet it was not until this week that the process to locate a new facility was formally undertaken. The Atlantic Neighborhood Center has provided quality programs and services to the residents of North Quincy for many years and we cannot afford to lose such a valuable community resource for even a few days," he said.

Newton pledged to fight proposals like moving troubled and behavioral students to the North Quincy High School campus.

"The whole idea and proposal to displace one of the most successful community centers in the city with a program for behavioral problem students without first looking at alternative locations or having a new site for the Neighborhood Center appears to represent poor planning and lack of support for a great program," he said.

He said he is concerned about what he said was the lack of planning and need for professional management of the city leased Squantum Gardens Naval housing project.

"The city has committed us to a long term lease of a project which has the potential of costing us upward of $5 million. The plan has ignored much of the community input and completely rejected the notion of finding a professional housing developer who could operate elderly housing at little or no cost to the taxpayer.

"Ward 6 is the only area of the city without any public or non profit housing for our elderly residents who are often forced to move out to find affordable housing. The city is pushing this plan down our throats and priority housing opportunities are being extended to the homeless and the minority community but no preference is being given to local elderly residents," Newton said.

"We must have a more definitive coordinated plan to protect the residents who move into Squantum Gardens and to protect the taxpayers from a financial disaster affecting us for years to come."

NFPA: Fire Deaths Up For Second Straight Year

Reaching the highest death toll since 1990, the number of civilian fire deaths in 1996 increased for the second consecutive year, according to a report released recently by the non-profit National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) in Quincy.

The report also shows that the number of fire deaths in the home, which accounted for approximately 81 percent of all U.S. fire fatalities, rose by nearly 11 percent.

"This is certainly disappointing news, but we're hopeful it doesn't signal a long-term trend," said Dr. John Hall Jr., NFPA assistant vice president for fire analysis and research. "Fire deaths rates have generally declined throughout this century, with about 6,000 deaths a year for most of the 1980s. Now we seem to be locked into roughly 4,700 deaths a year. Whatever else is true, the numbers demonstrate that fire still poses a significant problem in the U.S."

NFPA research shows that most Americans believe they're at minimal risk to fire, especially in their homes. Yet even before the fire death toll climbed to 4,990 in 1996, Americans had the highest fire death rate in the industrialized world outside the Soviet bloc.

"Sadly, fire is not a serious concerns for most Americans, and as long as that attitude persists, so will the thousands of fire deaths that occur in this country each year," said Meri-K Appy, NFPA's vice president for public education.

Property damage from fire also increased. In 1996, fire departments responded to 1,975,000 fires, roughly the same number as the year before, but the total of $9.4 billion in property damage was 5.5 percent more than the total in 1995. Residential properties incurred an estimated $4.9 billion in property loss, up a statistically significant 13.7 percent, while approximately $4.1 billion in property damage occurred in one- and two-family dwellings, also a considerable 14 percent increase over the previous year.

Meanwhile, there were 25,550 civilian injuries reported in 1996, which reflects virtually no change from last year, although these estimates are considered to be low since many civilian injuries are not reported to the fire service. On the other hand, the injury toll sustained the decline of the previous two years, which were the first significant reductions since NFPA's tracking began in 1977.

In addition, the 85,500 arson fires that occurred in 1996 represented a decline of 5.5 percent over the previous year, with property damage from arson totaling $1,405,000,000, a decrease of 14.7 percent.

Check Your Heating System

(NAPS)—If you're like many Americans, you probably haven't had your boiler or furnace serviced lately. Now that the cold weather is moving in, the experts at the National Association of Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors recommend a top to bottom heating system check by a professional plumbing-heating-cooling contractor.

Don't wait for trouble to happen. Schedule a top-to-bottom heating system check-up now.

Remember, a properly functioning heating system not only saves you money on your heating bills, it makes your home safer.

A poorly functioning system means more than just a cold home—it can be dangerous. Gas leaks, fires and poor ventilation are problems you don't want to face. These dangers can be avoided with a yearly check-up.

Whether your heating system is gas, oil, electric, heat pump or boiler the check-up is important. In general it will include:

- Checking the thermostat.
- Cleaning and checking the burner.
- Checking for leaks.
- Conducting an instrumented efficiency test.
- Checking electrical and gas connections.
- Checking the exhaust ventilation and cleaning the flue ways.
- Replacing filters (where applicable).
- Lubricating and adjusting motors and blowers.
- Checking safety valves and controls.

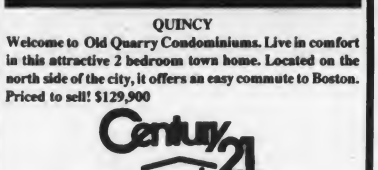
The important thing is not to wait for trouble to happen. For a free brochure on how to hire a professional plumbing-heating-cooling contractor, write to the National Association of Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors, Dept. NAPS, P.O. Box 6808, Falls Church, Virginia 22040, or call 800/533-7694.

SS Habitat Hike To Be Held Sept. 20

Friends of South Shore Habitat for Humanity will hike trails of varying difficulty in an effort to raise money for the non-profit, ecumenical Christian ministry Saturday, Sept. 20 from 9 a.m. to noon.

SSHH is dedicated to building simple, affordable homes with low incomes families on the South Shore. The homes are sold to struggling families at no profit through long-term, interest-free mortgages. Payments are recycled through a Fund for Humanity, which helps to build additional houses.

South Shore Habitat is a volunteer organization that depends on fundraising. Without it, the 13 families the organization has partnered with to build homes may never have been able to own a home of their own.



Hike for Habitat is a way to support Habitat's work and to get involved. To reach its fundraising goal of $15,000, Habitat needs hikers. Hike packets, which include information and a pledge sheet, can be picked up at any Tedeschi's Food Shops along the South Shore or mailed directly by calling 843-9080.

There are three hiking options. Hike A is approximately one and a half miles around Houghton's Pond, which has relatively flat terrain and benches for resting. Hike B is approximately five miles along one of the Scenic Intermediate Trails, which has some inclines, uneven trails and benches further apart. Hike C is approximately seven miles to the top of the Great Blue Hill and back. The last trail has more ups and downs, but at the peak, it has a spectacular view of the Boston skyline.

Each hiker will receive either a Habitat T-shirt or hat after completing the hike. Prizes will be given to the individuals who obtain the most pledges. At the end of the hike, a volunteer appreciation cookout is planned at the site from noon to 4 p.m. All hikers and past Habitat volunteers are welcome to attend. Reservations for the cookout should be made by Sept. 6 at 843-9080.

POLICE CHIEF FRANCIS MULLEN in his office at the Quincy Police Department overlooking Sea Street. Mullen is retiring at the end of this week after 41 years with the department, including the last seven as chief.

Also in photo from left are Officer Robert Costa, academy graduate; Police Chief Francis Finn, Officer Daniel Kennedy, graduate; Capt. manding," with more administrative duties and "a lot more decision making." But that is perhaps the best aspect of the job, he added.

"That's what I'll miss most, the constant activity of the job," he said. "This particular job keeps you busy all the time."

Ask Mullen to name the achievements of which he is proudest, and he again turns the attention away from himself. He will say, however, that he is proud to have played a role in helping to develop efforts such as the department's domestic violence program--which has served as a national model for others--and the community policing program, which started in Germantown and will expand considerably under his successor, Thomas Frane.

FRANCIS MULLEN, then a patrolman, displays a new jacket in March 1960. Mullen, who first joined the department in December 1956, would move up the ranks and eventually become chief of the Quincy Police Department in September 1990.

"PART OF BEING successful is that we have a team effort," Police Chief Francis Mullen says of his department. "With a team effort, you can solve many things."

(Sun photo/Robert Bosworth)

"With both of those programs, you're keeping a track on incidents in a proactive nature," he said. "With community policing, you can see things starting to develop and you can do something about it. With domestic violence, you can keep track of (phone) calls (to the police station) and again, you can do something about it."

Another big improvement, he said, is the reduced crime rate in the city and downtown Quincy in particular.

"We had a part, collectively, in the reduction of crime," he said. "At one point, when I first became chief, there were a lot of behavior problems in Quincy Square. But we increased our frequency of patrols, and we were heavy on crime prevention."

The chief added that the department's Special Operations Unit, which utilizes horses, canines, motorcycles and mountain bikes, has additionally played a major role in keeping crime under control.

Mullen said he is also glad to have helped prepare for the Emergency 911 phone system slated to begin operation in the city next month, a technology he believes will help save lives. Technological advancements, as well as improved training methods, have helped strengthen police departments across the country, he says.

Other duties he enjoyed include serving as a member of the Quincy License Board and as director of Quincy Emergency Management.

Today, the Quincy Police Department--with a new leader about to take the reins, state-of-the-art technology, and various crime-fighting programs--appears well-positioned to move into the next century. And Chief Francis Mullen seems ready to step aside.

He says he does not mind the mandatory retirement, for which he will be honored by his department with a reception Sept. 11 at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

"After 41 years, I think it's time to move on," said Mullen. "We're fortunate that we have a lot of talent in this department. It gives others a chance to move (up)."

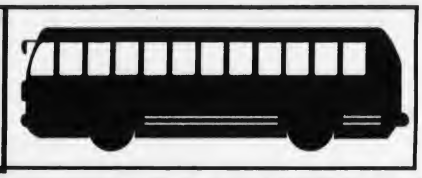
Mullen, a Hingham resident, says he has no specific plans for the future other than to spend more time with his family and do more golfing and running. He and Mary, his wife of 39 years, have three children--Gregory, 38, of Franklin; Elizabeth Holland, 35, of Reading; and Michael, 32, of Marshfield--as well as five grandchildren.

But although he has received numerous congratulatory phone calls and letters--and was treated last week to a retirement breakfast in Dedham hosted by the Norfolk County Police Chiefs Association--Mullen's last days on the force will be without fanfare. When he leaves, it will be with the same quiet dignity with which he conducted himself as a member of the Quincy Police Department.

"I'm grateful for a lot of things," he said. "I'm fortunate to be able to retire healthy. The job has been a big part of my life, but I've never worried about time or the calendar.

"I've met many fine officers over the years and I worked with many fine people. I've met many, many nice people I'll never forget. My door was always open, and I took every complaint seriously.

"It's a special honor to be a police chief in a city of this size. Managing the seventh-largest police department in the Commonwealth is a great challenge. I worked hard, and I studied hard.



"I was up here seven days a week. I took the job very seriously. And now it's time to relax, move along, and see what happens."

A Message From The Superintendent

Improved Buildings, Mandatory State Test For New School Year

Dear Parents:

It is a sincere pleasure for me to welcome you and your children back to school for the 1997-98 school year, which will include an enrollment of about 8,900 students. The summer programs of the Quincy Public Schools have once again been a great success and the enrollment in these programs continues to increase with each passing year. But now it is time to think about the opening of school.

EUGENE CREEDON

Much has been done in our school buildings to prepare for the new school year:

•The wiring that will make our schools technologically accessible for all students is just about completed in the middle and high schools and hopefully the elementary schools will be completed in the early fall.

•The first phase of a window replacement program in a number of our elementary schools has been completed. We expect this program to be ongoing for the next several years until the needs of all our schools have been met.

•The Clifford A. Marshall School is moving along very well and we look forward to its completion some time after the first of the new year.

This school year will be a benchmark year for all schools in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts as we initiate in Grades 4, 8, and 10 the new state test required by the Education Reform Act of 1993. Much more information about this program will be shared with you through your local school as the school year progresses.

Let me conclude by wishing you much joy and happiness in the last few days of summer vacation. Please do not hesitate to contact my office or your principal should you have any questions about the opening of school.

Eugene Creedon
School Superintendent

Orientation Breakfast At NQHS Friday

North Quincy High School will host an Orientation Breakfast on Friday for all students in Grades 9-12 who are entering the school for the first time in September.

The breakfast will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the school cafeteria.

Students will meet the administration, tour the building, meet other students, learn about activities offered, have questions about the school answered and enjoy light refreshments.

New Money For College Scholarships Available

There is now good news for students and their families who need financial assistance to help pay for skyrocketing college education expenses.

Initiatives such as federal tax breaks for families as proposed by President Clinton will start to ease some of the burden but more importantly, there is an interesting number of new scholarship and grant sources available to students who take the time to locate them.

Currently, there are nearly 400,000 independent and private scholarship and grant sources available which do not have to be paid back. More than 80 percent of these scholarships do not depend on family need or exceptional grades but are awarded based on factors such as the student's interests, hobbies, academic focus, age, heritage or parent's work or military service.

Unfortunately, these sources remain largely unknown to most students because they are spread out nationally and not actively promoted. As a result, many students miss out on available scholarship money because they are not aware that it exists and do not apply for it. Students who take the initiative to find out what sources they qualify for are usually successful in funding either part of all of their education.

The U.S. Department of Education and financial experts agree that the sooner families search out financial sources, the more chance they will receive financial aid. It is vitally important for students who are now seniors in high school to start gathering information to identify sources that can assist them.

According to Kalman A. Chaney of Campus Consultants in a recent article in The Wall Street Journal, students "can increase their chances of getting financial

GED Testing Increases Throughout South Shore

More residents of the South Shore completed the tests of General Educational Development (GED tests) in 1996 than in the previous year.

According to a recent report of the American Council on Education (ACE), 1.5 percent more adults completed the GED test in Massachusetts, and 2.0 percent more persons met GED score requirements in 1996 than in the previous year.

Keith Segalla, chief examiner of the Quincy Public Schools, indicates that 395 people completed the GED battery in the Center for Technical Education during 1996. Segalla cites a majority of GED participants who took the test were seeking a GED diploma to qualify for additional education or training as reasons for the increase.

In 1996, more than 758,570 people completed the GED tests in the United States and its territories, and throughout Canada. As a result of testing conducted at nearly 3,500 testing centers, 72 percent of the examinees earned scores that qualified them for a GED diploma.

There was also a 14 percent increase in the number of special test accomodations--such as extended testing time, special reading devices, or answer-marking methods--that were granted to persons with documented disabilities. In addition, the GED tests are administered in Braille, audiocassette, and large print editions for the visually impaired. In 1996, the number of persons taking those special editions decreased by 3 percent.

Sixty-four percent of the candidates tested in the U.S. and territories in 1996 planned further study beyond the high school level. In Canada, 62 percent planned further study.

According to Joan Auchter, interim director of the GED Testing Service in Washington, D.C., "This is good news overall for adult learners. More than one-half million (524,482) adults earned GED credentials last year--the largest number in the history of the program. This now brings the number of adults who have earned a GED diploma to more than 12.6 million since 1949."

The distribution of ages of GED candidates in 1996 was similar to that in 1995. Young adults ages 20 or older accounted for 61 percent of all GED candidates in the U.S. and territories and 91 percent of candidates in Canada. The average age of GED graduates was 25 in the U.S. and territories and 30 in Canada. In 1996, about one of every six high school diplomas issued in the United States was a GED diploma.

GED preparation courses are offered through the Quincy Public Schools Adult and Continuing Education program at the Center for Technical Education. Tests are given monthly through the Quincy Public Schools for applicants who wish to attain a High School Equivalency Certificate.

College Football HOF Taps Former NQ Star

Hall Induction Joe Dudek's Crowning Achievement

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Of all his numerous athletic achievements, one stands out above the rest for Joe Dudek, one of Quincy's most celebrated native sons.

It's not the record he holds for most touchdowns in college football history (79), or the Division III career rushing record (5,570 yards), or being a three-time, first-team All-American (1983-85) at Plymouth (N.H.) State College.

Even his appearance on the cover of Sports Illustrated as the magazine's choice for the Heisman Trophy in 1985 is overshadowed by this accomplishment, as is his one season of professional football with the Denver Broncos in 1987.

So what is this particular accolade that Dudek holds in such high esteem? It's his recent enshrinement into the College Football Hall of Fame in South Bend, Ind., which he termed "the greatest honor I've ever achieved in my lifetime, and I'll be forever grateful."

Dudek, a 1981 graduate of North Quincy High School where he was an All-Scholastic football and track and field participant, also became the first-ever Division III player (and the first from Quincy) inducted into college football's Hall of Fame.

During his acceptance speech, the Quincy native acknowledged the vital role Plymouth South played in his success and how important small colleges are to fulfilling people's aspirations.

"I'd like to thank Plymouth State for giving me the chance to play football for four more years," said Dudek. "They had no scholarships to offer but they did give me a great education in great surroundings."

"I hope that small colleges across the country will continue to keep their football programs alive so they can keep the dreams of people like myself alive."

Dudek, who now lives with his wife, Jodi, in Concord, N.H., enjoyed an outstanding career at Plymouth State, capped by an incredible senior campaign in 1985.

That season, he averaged an astounding 7.7 yards a carry (210 carries for 1,615 yards), earning him a place on the Heisman Trophy ballot. His ninth-place finish was the highest ever by a Division III player.

Dave Burke, who was North Quincy's head coach during Dudek's high school career, watched the induction ceremony on television and was thrilled to see a North Quincy alumnus receive the recognition he deserves.

"I thought it was great," said Burke, North's head coach from 1975 to 1981. "It must have been a thrill for him to be out there with all those other talented players. He looked great and gave an excellent acceptance speech.

"I'm sure North Quincy High School is very proud of him. It's quite a thing for the school, to have someone like him achieve such a high honor. On the field, whenever we needed a big play, we gave the ball to him and he got the job done."

One such instance Burke recalled occurred on Thanksgiving Day, 1981 in the annual showdown against rival Quincy High School.

"It was a scoreless game on an icy field until Joe won it for us with about a 70-yard touchdown run," said Burke. "He somehow kept his balance and raced down the left sideline for the score. We held on to win the game, 7-0."

Ken McPhee, now in his 16th year as North Quincy's head football coach, echoed Burke's sentiments regarding Dudek's induction.

"It's phenomenal," said McPhee, who was a defensive coach at during Dudek's junior and senior years at North. "Any kid from Quincy receiving this honor is great, but Joe is special because he's from North. He made the most of his ability and took his play to another level. It's quite a feat."

A vivid memory that stands out in McPhee's mind is the day Dudek, then a senior Heisman hopeful at Plymouth State, returned to North Quincy to deliver the pep rally speech for the upcoming Thanksgiving Day game against Quincy. (North went on to win the game, 7-6.)

"The day he was on the cover of Sports Illustrated, he came back to be the keynote speaker for us for the Thanksgiving Day game," said McPhee. "I remember he stood out with us in the pouring rain, because we couldn't be inside. That showed a lot about how he felt about the program and the school and what a class act he is; he came back and gave back."

FORMER NORTH QUINCY standout football player Joe Dudek called his recent induction into the College Football Hall of Fame the greatest honor I've ever achieved in my lifetime, and I'll be forever grateful." Dudek, who starred at Plymouth State and holds the record for most touchdowns in college football history with 79, became the first-ever Division III player (and the first player from Quincy) to be inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame.

Quincy, North Football Practice Underway

The North Quincy High School and Quincy High School varsity football teams began preparations for the 1997 season Monday.

North Quincy, led by 16th-year head coach Ken McPhee, commenced practice Monday at Cavanaugh Field, across from the Atlantic Middle School.

Under the direction of third-year head coach Peter Chella, Quincy started practicing Monday behind the high school at Faxon 1 and 2.

The Red Raiders, 7-3 in 1996, open their regular season campaign Friday, Sept. 19 at 7 p.m. against non-league foe Stoughton at Veterans Memorial Stadium. North knocked off Stoughton, 14-7, in last season's opener.

The remainder of North's schedule (all games are Friday at 7 p.m. unless otherwise noted): Sept. 26 vs. Falmouth; Oct. 3 at Plymouth South; Oct. 10 at Barnstable; Oct. 17 vs. Taunton; Oct. 24 vs. Dennis-Yarmouth; Oct. 31, 6 p.m. at Silver Lake; Nov. 7 vs. Bridgewater-Raynham; Saturday, Nov. 15, 1:30 p.m. at Hingham; and Thursday, Nov. 27, 10 a.m. at Quincy.

The Presidents, 4-6 last season, kick off their regular season Friday, Sept. 19 at 7 p.m. against non-league foe Bishop Stang at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Quincy fell to Stang, 24-22, in last season's opener.

The remainder of Quincy's schedule (all games are Friday at 7 p.m. unless otherwise noted): Sept. 19 at Dennis-Yarmouth; Saturday, Sept. 26, 1:30 p.m.; at Bridgewater-Raynham; Oct. 3 vs. Taunton; Oct. 10 vs. Plymouth South; Oct. 24 at Plymouth North; Oct. 31, 6 p.m. vs. Falmouth; Nov. 7 at Silver Lake; Nov. 14 at Barnstable; and Thursday, Nov. 27, 10 a.m. vs. North Quincy.

Youth Baseball, Softball Registration Sept. 6

Quincy 12-Year-Old All-Stars Fall To Somerville In Playoffs

The Quincy 12-year-old All-Stars' run for the Medford Invitational Tournament crown ended in a 7-0 playoff loss to Somerville on Sunday.

Quincy, which committed four errors, fell behind, 3-0, after three innings and managed just three hits against Somerville's Dave Sars (nine strikeouts).

Steve Pizzi, who struck out four in three innings of work for Quincy, also collected a double, as did Brian O'Hanley.

The previous day, Quincy edged Malden, 2-1, to clinch first place in the Columbus Park Division and advance to the playoff semi-finals. The Quincy players received trophies for their first-place finish.

O'Hanley, who struck out six and scattered five hits to pick up the victory, also drove in the winning run for Quincy, breaking a 1-1 tie in the fourth. Quincy's other two hits were singles by Brenden Walsh.

A number of big plays defensively preserved Quincy's lead in a close, hard-fought game. With the bases loaded in the third, a Malden hitter singled to left to score one run, but Steve Pizzi threw home to prevent any further scoring.

On a single to left in the fifth, Pizzi gunned a runner out at the plate for the third out. Excellent plays were also made by Quincy's Paul McAteer, Dennis Thomson and Ryan Hemphill, which ended the game.

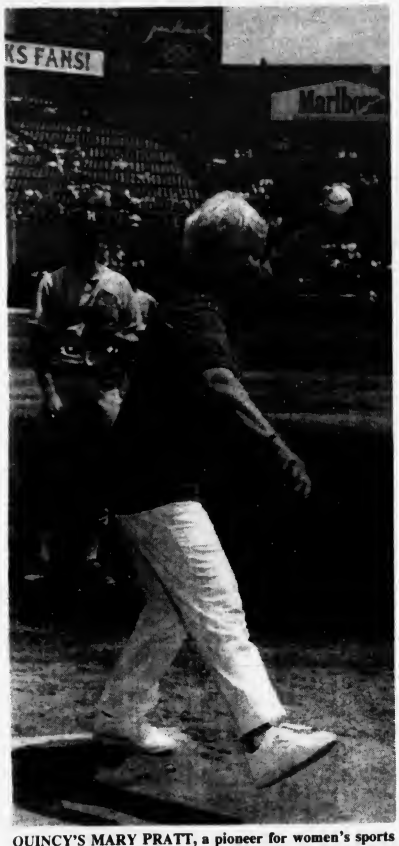
Cited As Women's Sports Pioneer

Mary Pratt Inducted Into National High School Hall Of Fame

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Mary Pratt, a trailblazer in the field of women's sports for more than 60 years and a Quincy resident since her youth, was recently inducted into the National High School Sports Hall of Fame.



Pratt was the only woman out of the 14 inducted into the NHSS Hall of Fame during the 78th annual meeting of the National Federation of State High School Associations in San Antonio, Texas.

"It came as a surprise to me, because when I was nominated, I wasn't that interested," said Pratt, 83. "The list of previous inductees was filled with win-loss records, and I never accumulated that many wins and losses.

"I soon found out, though, that I was inducted as a contributor, as someone who contributed toward the advancement of the role of women in sports, which definitely appealed to me."

The release announcing her induction read: "Mary Pratt made numerous contributions to the development of girls interscholastic athletic programs after a notable athletic career which included a five-year stint with the Rockford (Ill.) Peaches of the All-American Girls Professional Baseball League."

With her induction, Pratt joins just two other members from New England, both from Massachusetts: Edward Burns, former ice hockey coach at Arlington High School, who was inducted in 1992, and Vi Goodnow, former basketball and field hockey coach at Frontier Regional High School in South Deerfield.

QUINCY'S MARY PRATT, a pioneer for women's sports for over six decades, was recently inducted into the National High School Sports Hall of Fame. Here she is shown throwing out the first pitch before a Colorado Bullets women's baseball game at Fenway Park last year.

"I'm in a pretty select group," said Pratt. "Most of the inductees are from the Midwest and the Far West, so it's nice to be included with the two others from Massachusetts."

The induction ceremony was the culmination of a week-long convention at San Antonio's Marriott Rivercenter Hotel.

"It was a nice event, because each inductee was represented by his or her state flag," said Pratt. "My representative was the son of Bill Gaine, the associate director of the MIAA (Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association) in Milford. I've been a member of the Games Officials of the MIAA for eight years, so it was good to see them there representing the state."

Other MIAA attendees included the director of the MIAA, Dick Neil, and Virginia Anderson, who nominated Pratt for the honor.

Also inducted with Pratt were coaches Lou Cvijanovich, Russ Kraai, Bill Krueger, Earl Quigley, Cash Stone, Jerome Van Meter and Keith Williams, officials Robert Hildebrand and Billy Schrivner, sportswriter

5th Annual William F. Degan Road Race Set For Sept. 14

The fifth annual U.S. Marshal William F. Degan Memorial 10K Road Race and 5K Run/Fun Walk will be held Sunday, Sept. 14 in Quincy.

The event is held in honor of Degan, the Quincy native who was killed in the line of duty while serving with the U.S. Federal Marshal Service in August 1992.

The races begin and end at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Starting time is 10 a.m. The race is run on a fast, flat course which includes three miles of beachfront road.

Bill Graney, Degan Road Race committee member and spokesperson, said he is hopeful the race draws 2,000 participants.

"We got 1,500 runners last year, and if all goes well, we'll reach the 2,000 mark this time around," he said.

Graney stressed the fact that those who don't participate in the race itself are encouraged to attend the event and "enjoy the day."

"Even if you don't run, you can come up to the stadium and see what we have to offer," he said. "We'll have free food including muffins, coffee and bagels for breakfast and lunch consisting of hot dogs, hamburgers and ice cream. And it's all free."

"We're also going to have a DJ, Larry Links, who will provide the entertainment in the morning. Raffles and t-shirt sales will be held throughout the day. We're promoting it as a family day that all can enjoy."

In addition to the Degan family, those slated to participate in the race include former Gov. William Weld, acting Gov. Paul Cellucci and Cong. William Delahunt. Quincy mayor James Sheets will start the race.

This year, Children's Charities of Quincy will be the beneficiary of the majority of the race's proceeds, said Graney.

"We want to help the Children's Charities both athletically and educationally," said Graney, who added that $50,000 had been raised to date through the race.

Last year, nearly 1,500 runners helped raise $22,000.

Pre-registration entry fee, which must be received by Sept. 1, is $12. Those who pre-register will receive a free t-shirt. The fee to register the day of the race is $15. Registration the day of the race will be from 8 to 9:30 a.m. at Veterans Stadium.

Prizes will be awarded to all first-place division finishers and others at the conclusion of the race.

The divisions are: 16 and under, high school (5K only), 39 and under (Open), 40-49, 50-59, 60-69, 70 and over, and a wheelchair division.

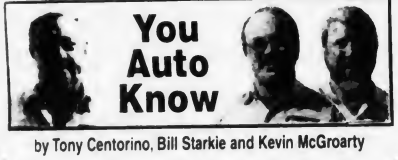
The top male and female finishers in the high school division will each receive an engraved trophy that will be displayed at the winner's school, said Graney.

For more information or to obtain an application, call (617) 576-9860. Mail entrance form and non-refundable check to: The Degan Memorial Fund, P.O. Box 751, 60 Murphy Memorial Drive, Quincy, MA 02269.

Angels Top Panthers, 10-5, In Summer Softball Finale

In the final game of Quincy Girls Softball's first summer league, the Blue Angels erupted offensively and won in impressive fashion over the Pink Panthers.

Alyssa Hawksley paced the Angels, going 5 for 5, including a big home run and scored five runs. Cassie Hurd (3 for 3, home run, four runs), Sheila Cawley (3 for 3, five runs) and Shannon Paine (4 for 4, one run) also contributed offensively. Christine Perry and Emily Bulzarik scored three runs each. Rachel Sorenson scored twice and Nicole Lewis and Maura Donovan also had good games.



Lisa Schifone led the Panther attack, going 2 for 3 and scoring two runs. Julie Rackauskas, Rebi Sorenson, Jen Cannon, Amanda Murphy and Beth Goodrich all contributed to the Panthers' offense. Caroline Dondero, Katelyn Murphy and Julianna Eagles all played well.

The summer league wrapped up Tuesday with a pizza party, award ceremony and a parents and kids softball game.

Recreation Dept. Program At L-H Pool Closed Until Sept. 8

The Quincy Recreation Department announces that its Supervised Recreational Program at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School Pool will be closed beginning tonight (Thursday) at 9 until Monday, Sept. 8 at 6 p.m.

The Quincy Recreation Department's supervised swim program will resume Sept. 8 on the new fall schedule. The school swim program including swim meets and practices will be at their regular schedule during this period.

GETTING INTO A FIX

An owner of an older car that needs repair may be faced with the decision to fix the car and keep it or sell it and buy another. Sentiment aside, anyone faced with a repair bill that approaches the cost of buying another car would likely buy another one. If the repair cost is much less, many find it a good idea to keep a car they are generally happy with. What about the owner who is faced with a moderate repair bill and still desires a new car? Should the car be repaired before purchasing a new one? Usually, it pays to make the repair before selling because the car will command a higher price and appeal to more prospective buyers if it is in good overall condition.

HINT: Cars that are kept free of dings, dents, and chips are more appealing to buyers at the time of their resale.

Faced with the decision to fix or buy? We hope today's column is of help. At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO we want you to be informed about everything in your car or truck. Your safety is our primary concern. Our friendly, ASE Certified professional staff here at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (843-1550) will take care of your car as if it was their own. We're "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." The event was conducted by Sports Specialists Christine Barrett, Steven Barrett, David Bogan, Kerri Connolly, Nicole Manton and Kim Marsden.

Sheriffs Knocked Out Of Yawkey League Playoffs

One win away from advancing to the Yawkey League championship series, the Quincy Sheriffs lost a tough 2-1, 10-inning affair to the Brighton-Lincoln Sox last Tuesday.

The win clinched the best-of-five Stewart Division series for the Sox, which advanced to the league championship to play Somerville. The Sox captured three straight over Quincy after dropping the first two of the series.

"It was a tough, tough loss, especially for the final game," said Quincy manager Al Julian. "The guys were down, but I told them they can hold their heads high, because they had a great season. I couldn't ask for anything more from them. We just couldn't get runners on base in to score."

Quincy, which collected 10 hits, left runners in scoring position in the seventh, eighth, ninth and 10th innings.

The Sox pushed a run across in the bottom of the 10th to break a 1-1 tie and conclude the series.

The loss put a damper on an excellent performance by Quincy's Chris Higgins, who pitched all 10 innings, yielded one earned run on five hits while fanning nine and walking just two.

"It's a shame, because it would've been a nice series against Somerville," said Higgins. "We would've had Adams (Field in Quincy) back for a couple of games in the finals and played in front of the hometown crowd."

Said Julian: "Chris pitched a hell of a game, keeping us in it with a chance to win. It was one of the best performances I've seen in a while."

Quincy broke a scoreless tie in the fourth when Mal Higgins drew a walk, swiped second and crossed the plate on John Gangi's double.

The Sox tied it with an unearned run in the sixth.

City Tennis Championships Application Deadline Friday

The deadline to turn in applications for the 27th annual Quincy Tennis Championships is Friday at the Quincy Recreation Department.

Applications are available at the Recreation Department, the Quincy Municipal Credit Union and City Hall. Fee is $11 for adults, $8 for youths.

The draw will be posted at the Russell Park Voc/Tech Tennis courts Wednesday, Sept. 3 from 5 to 8 p.m. Matches start Thursday, Sept. 4.

Quincy Bay Race Week Winners

BEST DECORATED BOAT during the Quincy Bay Race Week parade of boats last weekend went to Old Mother In A Shoe, owned by Jerry and Wendy Connors. The Connors' boat, like the other three winners, hails from the Quincy Yacht Club, marking the first time in the event's history that one yacht club swept all four prizes.

PLANE, OWNED BY Doug, Michelle and Jesien Loud, captured first prize for most original boat at the Quincy Bay Race Week festivities.

PEGGY O'NEIL'S BOAT, Lady Margaret's Medieval Manor, finished as the first runner-up in the best decorated category.

HEAVEN SENT, OWNED by Mike and Donna Laing, came in as the first runner-up in the most original category.

Bowl-A-Thon Raises $18,000 In Quincy Woman's Memory

More than 250 bowlers participated in the third annual Ann Marie Notarangelo Memorial Bowl-A-Thon at O'Lindy's Bowling Lanes to raise $18,000 for the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Greater Boston.

The event was organized by The Friends of Ann Marie Notarangelo in memory of the Quincy resident who died in 1993 of a brain aneurysm at age 24.

Family members said it was Ann Marie's love for children that helped them to designate the Make-A-Wish Foundation as the charity to benefit from their memorial fund-raiser.

"Just seeing children made Ann Marie's eyes light up," said her sister, Tina Notarangelo. "Keeping Ann Marie's memory alive means so much to my family and doing something positive like this in her name is a tremendous tribute to her."

Ann Marie is also survived by her parents, David and Justine; another sister, Janice; and three brothers, Chris, Steven and Michael.

The day-long event involved 50 teams of bowlers of all ages and skills levels. Following the Bowl-A-Thon, all participants were invited to the Adams Heights Men's Club for an Appreciation Party with food and entertainment. The party also featured a raffle consisting of donated gifts and sports memorabilia along with an award presentation to teams for best scores and best fund-raisers.

"This started out as something we really wanted to do for Ann Marie, and yet it has become so much more. When you see so many people willing to donate their time and their money, it is very moving," said Justine Notarangelo. "People who didn't even know Ann Marie have bowled, donated money and gifts. The support from the community has been unbelievable and we really appreciate it."

Tina Notarangelo acknowledged the great support of many individuals and local businesses who helped bring the event to fruition. In particular, she mentioned some of those who were closest to Ann Marie and were instrumental in supporting the event, including Ann Marie's fiance, Mark Winter, as well as Carol Bowness, Chrissy Loud, Carla Carbonarra, Amy Nevins and Sue Aiello.

Since 1993, the Notarangelos have raised $53,000 to help fulfill the wishes of children who have been diagnosed with life-threatening illnesses. The Make-A-Wish Foundation is the largest and oldest wish-granting organization in the world.

"The Notarangelo family's commitment to raising funds for Make-A-Wish is remarkable," said Carin Townshend Kopp, the foundation's executive director. "It is a special person who is able to make something positive from such a tremendous loss in their life. We feel so fortunate to the beneficiary of their extraordinary efforts."

Mary Pratt: National High School Hall Of Fame Inductee

(Cont'd from Page 20)

Dave Krider, and athletes Curley Culp, Tommy McDonald and Bill Walton.

A high school physical education and coach, Pratt taught physical education for 48 years, including three years at Salem (Mass.) State University. She also coached basketball, softball and soccer at the high school level and softball and tennis at the collegiate level.

Officiating was also of interest to Pratt, who became a certified basketball and softball official in the 1940s and worked tournament games at the high school and college levels.

Before becoming a teacher, coach and official, she was a talented athlete at North Quincy High School, participating in basketball, softball, field hockey and lacrosse. She competed mainly against boys because interscholastic competition was not yet offered to girls.

A few years after she graduated from North Quincy, World War II broke out and a large percentage of major league baseball players were called upon to serve their country in the armed services.

The players' departure of led directly to the inception of the All-American Girls' Professional Baseball League in 1943. That same year, Pratt was selected to play for the Rockford (Ill.) Peaches and also played for the Kenosha (Wisc.) Comets. She played through the 1947 season, while the league remained intact until 1954.

"Those were great times," Pratt recalled. "We enjoyed playing baseball and had so much fun together. We still get together for semi-annual reunions. Our first reunion in Chicago in 1982 drew 400 people, including many former players and a lot of fans who watched us play."

In 1988, a women's baseball display, replete with pictures, memorabilia and other artifacts, was erected at the National Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y. It was there that Pratt was reunited with a former student of hers at Beechwood Knoll School, Quincy native Ted Spencer, the curator of the Hall of Fame.

Four years later, Pratt's professional baseball career was incorporated into the film "A League Of Their Own," which starred Tom Hanks and Geena Davis and was directed by Penny Marshall.

"There had been a rumor years before that a movie was going to be made, but I didn't believe it would happen," said Pratt. "Then I got a call that said it was going to happen. Looking back, so much that was depicted in the movie was actual fact.

"I remember watching the behind-the-scenes of the movie on HBO before it was released and one line Penny Marshall said I'll never forget: 'Let little girls know there is nothing wrong with girls liking to play baseball.' That summed up exactly how I felt about the whole experience."

Quincy Telecommunications Corp. Football Workshops

Quincy Telecommunications Corp., which now handles all aspects of Quincy Access TV Channel 3, has scheduled organizational workshops for local high school football coverage.

The workshops will be held Wednesday, Sept. 3 and Sept. 10 at 7 p.m. in the community room at 100 Southern Artery.

High school football coverage will be co-produced by long-time volunteers George Cappadonna and Bill Earley. They are looking for community people interested in helping to produce the games.

To join the football workshop or for any information on other classes or workshops, call 479-QATV (7288).

Boating, Seamanship Course At Quincy-Town River YC

A basic boating and seamanship course will be held at the Quincy-Town River Yacht Club beginning Wednesday, Sept. 10 at 7 p.m. Registration is at 6:30 p.m. Cost is $29.

The course, which will be held Wednesdays for 12 weeks, is for the power boater and includes lessons in language, trailering, federal and state requirements, courtesy motorboat examinations, rules of the road, aids to navigation, piloting, weather, radio, telephone, sailing, marlinspike seamanship, and more.

The course meets the requirement for children 16 and under to obtain their Massachusetts State Certificate. For more information, call Vera Johnson at (617) 335-4055.

Bill Corcoran Sinks First Hole-In-One

Bill Corcoran of 18 Perkins St., West Quincy, recently scored a hole-in-one on the seventh hole at the Norwood Country Club.

Those who witnessed Corcoran's first-ever ace were Pete White of West Quincy and Lou Marini of South Weymouth.

Corcoran, the pitching coach for the Morrisette American Legion baseball team, recently retired from the Quincy Housing Authority where he was employed for over 20 years.

QHS Girls' Soccer Fundraiser Sept. 7

The Quincy High School girls' soccer team will hold a yard sale, bottle drive and car wash Sunday, Sept. 7 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Central Middle School, Hancock St.

Proceeds of the fundraiser will go to support the QHS girls' soccer team.

MEFA To Forgive College Loan Balances

Officials from the Massachusetts Educational Financing Authority (MEFA), the state's loan authority, announced that approximately 600 parents who took out college loans from MEFA in 1984 will have their college loan balances forgiven, according to state Rep. Stephen Tobin.

The average loan amount is $2,500 for a total of over $1.5 million of loans will be forgiven.

STEPHEN TOBIN

Peter Mazareas, executive director of MEFA, said "The reason MEFA is able to forgive loans is two-fold. First, borrowers are paying on a timely basis and MEFA has one of the lowest default rates in the country of approximately 1 percent. Second, the authority uses tax-exempt bonds and MEFA could lose its tax-exempt status if it earns a higher-than-projected return on its loans. The allowable return is specified under the terms of the bonds as determined by the Internal Revenue Service."

"With this year's loan forgiveness, over 1,600 families with loans totaling approximately $4 million will have been forgiven in the past three years. In 1995, MEFA forgave approximately 1,033 loans issued under Bond A in 1988 with an average balance of $2,400 totaling over $2.5 million," said Mazareas. "MEFA is committed to keeping higher education affordable by providing the lowest loan rates in the country and returning excess revenues to borrowers in good standing."

Mazareas attributes MEFA's success to the strong partnership among the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, MEFA, and the over 75 participating colleges and universities in Massachusetts.

"Forgiveness is a very beneficial aspect of the MassPlan," said Mazareas. "MEFA makes loans from funds obtained through the sale of tax-exempt bonds and uses loan payments to make payments on its bonds and to pay its operating costs. To fund its loans back in 1984, MEFA made assumptions about revenues, expenses, defaults and the number of monthly payments and interest rates needed to pay off Issue B Bonds (loans made in 1984). The repayment experience on Issue B loans has been better than anticipated. Therefore, to reward borrowers for their timely payments and good and current standing, the principal payments outstanding on Issue B educational loans will be forgiven."

The provisions of forgiveness is only applicable to Issue B loans originated in 1984. Families who borrow from MEFA in subsequent years are not guaranteed their loans will be forgiven. Forgiveness is a product of good repayment history and anticipated bond payoff.

The 1997-98 MassPlan loan rates are 7.5 percent (APR of 8.13 percent) with a monthly payment of $9.68 per $1,000 borrowed and the variable loan rate is 6.5 percent (APR 7.18 percent) with a monthly payment of $9.09 per $1,000 borrowed. The MassPlan is a 15-year loan and has no application fees, no federal red tape, and no prepayment penalty charges. The MassPlan is a parent loan which is co-signed by the student.

"The MassPlan program, administered by MEFA, is designed to help families who do not receive enough financial aid from traditional sources and who need assistance financing college costs. The MassPlan is offered to families through a partnership among the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, MEFA, and over 75 participating Massachusetts colleges and universities," said Tobin.

For an application or more information, call MEFA at 261-9760.

Traveling With A Pet Requires Preparation

By LISA APREA

Cats and dogs vacationing with their owners by car is popular. One reason has to do with reports over recent years citing the hazards associated with air travel and animals. Another reason is the growth of the human-animal bond.

More and more, people view their pets as true members of the family. In many instances, pets play the role of surrogate children for working couples who are putting off having traditional families. According to the American Animal Hospital Association, six out of every 10 pet owners take their pet with them on vacation.

Please do not jump in the car and go, plan for the needs of your pet first.

Pre-travel preparations are essential to a safe, happy road trip. You first need to find accomodations that accept pets. Next, have your pet examined by a veterinarian. Not only will you need a health certificate and proof of a rabies inoculation to travel across state lines: but you can also seek advice on issues such as pet car sickness and the need, if any, for pet tranquilizers.

Make sure you have two current ID tags on your pet: one with your name, address and phone number and another with the phone number of a friend or your vacation site phone number, since you won't be home to receive calls. Finally, get your pet used to car rides before the long road trip by taking her on short drives.

The safest way to travel with your pet is by putting him in a carrier or crate with familiar bedding and toys. Make sure you buy or have a carrier that fits securely in your vehicle and is well-ventilated. Other items to pack in general are a gallon of water, ice cubes, enough food for the vacation, water and food bowls, an extra collar with ID tags, a sweater for winter travel, any medications your pet may be taking, grooming supplies you normally use, a pet first aid kit and some current photos of your pet in the event he gets lost. Dog travelers should bring several leashes and a flash light for night walks. Cat travelers should bring litter and a litter pan.

On the day of the trip, cut out all food four to six hours before getting on the road in order to prevent your pet from getting an upset stomach occasionally give your pet an ice cube or some water to quench his thirst.

Make sure the water is either from your tap or store bought bottled water. Also, avoid giving your pet any fast food tidbits when you take a travel break. Both precautions will make the travel experience easier on your pet's digestive system.

Stop occasionally during your car ride at a rest area, so your dog can take a short walk and relieve herself. Be certain that she is on a leash at all times. For long car trips involving a cat, you can place a litter pan in the back seat. With all of the car doors closed, let your cat out of her carrier for 10 minutes or so.

Never leave your pet unattended in the car. Depending on the time of year you travel, heat exhaustion or hypothermia could occur. Also, may pets are stolen each year at rest stops. Most importantly, leaving your pet unattended causes stress and anxiety within the animal.

So, if you are traveling with another person, take turns using the rest room. If you are traveling alone and you must leave your pet unattended, ask the management of the rest area restaurant to watch your car and quickly use the facilities.

Once you arrive at your destination, don't rush into the check-in line at the place you'll be staying. Let your dog go for a brief walk to stretch his legs and relieve himself. Once checked in, relax with your pet in the room and let him investigate his new surroundings.

Date Rape

Rapists aren't always strangers. When someone you know--a date, steady boyfriend, or casual friend--forces you to have sex, it's still rape.

PREVENTING DATE RAPE

As a woman, you can . . .

- Be careful not to let alcohol or other drugs decrease your ability to take care of yourself and make sensible decisions.
- Trust your gut feelings. If a place or the way your date acts make you nervous or uneasy, get out.
- Check out a first date or a blind date with friends. Meet in and go to public places. Carry money for a phone call or taxi, or take your own car.
- Don't leave a social event with someone you've just met or don't know well.
- Do not accept beverages from someone you don't know and trust. Always watch your drink and never leave it unattended.

As a man, you can . . .

- Accept a woman's decision when she says "no." Don't see it as a challenge.
- Ask yourself how sexual stereotypes affect your attitudes and actions toward women.
- Avoid clouding your judgement and understanding of what another person wants by using alcohol and other drugs.
- Realize that forcing a woman to have sex against her will is rape, a violent crime with serious consequences.
- Never be drawn into gang rape.
- Seek counseling or a support group to help you deal with feelings of violence and aggression toward women.

What are 'date rapes' drugs?

Rohyponol ("roofies," "roopies," "circles," "the forget pills") work like a tranquilizer. It causes muscle weakness, fatigue, slurred speech, loss of motor coordination and judgement, and amnesia that lasts up to 24 hours. It looks likes an aspirin--small, white, round.

GHB (also known as "liquid X, "salt water," or "scoop") also causes quick sedation. Its effects are drowsiness, nausea, vomiting, headaches, dizziness, coma, and death. Its most common from is a clear liquid although it can also be a white, grainy powder.

Rohyponol and GHB are called the date rape drugs, because when they are slipped into someone's drink, a sexual assault can take place without the victim being able to remember what happened.

IF DATE RAPE HAPPENS

- Get help. Don't isolate yourself, don't feel guilty, and don't try to ignore it. It is a crime and should be reported.
- Get medical attention as soon as possible. Do not shower, wash, douche, or change your clothes. Valuable evidence could be destroyed.
- Get counseling to deal with the emotional trauma.
- If you think you've been assaulted with under the influence of Rohyponol or GHB, seek help immediately, try not to urinate before proving urine samples, and, if possible, collect any glasses from which you drank.

Your Horoscope
by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) An important family matter requires your attention. However, finances are not the concern this week. This matter deals with inner-family spats.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Your judgment is right on the mark this week. Beware of a jealous coworker, or even worse, someone who could be conniving to ruin your personal life. Justice wins out in the end.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Listen carefully to the advice given you by a close friend. This person really has your best interests at heart. On the home front, family members rally this weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Confidence is the key to dealing with children this week. Loved ones in general are supportive. Your financial picture looks brighter by week's end.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Turbulence early in the week on the home front clears up later on. Some look into redecorating or painting projects. Communication is the key to happiness this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Long-distance romances are a no-no. Be smart and stick with your career and/or studies in school. You must concentrate on your future and the long-term repercussions.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your concern for the children in your family is a bit overdone. However, this resolves itself by week's end. Guard against overspending this weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Monetary success is on the horizon. Gambling is not the answer. Your creativity is. Avoid risky ventures and think things through.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) It is not a good time to consider a career change. Instead, focus on friends and family. Be sure to tend to any unfinished business this weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Your creative skills could be a tad off. However, by midweek, your instinctive creative juices lead to an absolutely stunning revelation. Share this with others.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You are somewhat shy about getting a very important point across to a close friend. However, do speak up. This will enhance that lifelong friendship.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Don't be surprised if there's an error on your banking or credit statements. Look over the invoices carefully. While your financial picture is a mystery, all will be fine.

Choir Members Sought At QP Congregational

Dr. Herman Weiss, music director of Quincy Point Congregational Church, is inviting those who enjoy singing to join the church's Chancel Choir.

The 12-voice adult choir includes volunteer members and friends of the church and four trained part-leaders who also sing as occasional soloists.

The Chancel Choir rehearses Thursdays at 7:45 p.m. in the music room at the church, 444 Washington St. The first rehearsal of the fall season will be Thursday, Sept. 11. The choir provides the music for 10 a.m. Sunday services and begins with a 9:30 a.m. pre-service rehearsal.

Dr. Weiss is chairman of compositional studies at the Longy School of Music in Boston, and his works have been performed internationally. He is a founding member of the Composers in Red Sneakers with occasional performances in Cambridge. His association with the Longy School dates back to 1987, and his activities there extend to both the music theory and history departments as well as composition.

For more information about the church and its music program, call 773-6424.

Three Residents Graduate From Boston Choir School

Three Quincy residents have graduated from the Boston Archdiocesan Choir School in Harvard Square, a full-time day school for musically talented and academically gifted boys in Grades 5-8.

They are:

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought For The Week

How much do we really know? Very little, if the truth were known and frankly stated. During the lifetime of those people who have experienced fifty or more birthdays, the world has experienced many positive transformations. The fastest time President Washington ever made in a trip from Philadelphia was six days. Today a plane hardly gets off a runway in Philadelphia before it is descending on the city of Washington.

This advance, in knowledge is, we believe, a very great advantage. The more we learn, the better we are prepared to face life and handle its problems. But now and again we are confronted with the realization that as a matter of fact we know very little compared with what there is to be known. New discoveries come so quick and fast that we can expect any morning we wake up to find that an utterly new era has been ushered in.

And when it is ushered in (if it ever is) then we can be rest assured that we will still be amazed over the little we know--- What about the possibility of life on other planets? What about the marvelous area known only to those who travel in outer space?

Yes, Indeed, today we live in one of the most interesting ages humanity has ever known . . .

Feodor A. Samodelov, 87
Draftsman; Russian Army Veteran

A funeral Mass for Feodor A. Samodelov, 87, of Quincy, was celebrated Aug. 22 in St. Agatha Church, Milton.

Mr. Samodelov died Aug. 18 at the John Scott Nursing Home in Braintree after suffering a stroke in July.

A retired draftsman, he worked for General Dynamics for 10 years and Stone and Webster for seven years.

He was born on a farm in Siberia and because of his family's status was denied higher education by the Communist government. At the age of 15 he walked across Siberia to the city of Vladivostok where he was unknown, so he was able to attend college and earned a degree in mine engineering and geology.

After graduating at the top of his class, he was selected to become an instructor at the college. When officials discovered his background, he was forced to leave the college. He was forced to search for minerals in the northern regions of Russia. He was assigned as chief engineer and managed a series of gold mines.

In 1937, he, his father and six brothers were arrested and placed in a Soviet concentration camp.

He served with the Russian Army and was captured by the Germans. He spent a year as a prisoner.

After the war he married his first wife, the late Valentina Samodelov, and lived in Austria and Argentina before coming to the United States and settling in the Boston area. He lived in Hanover before moving to Quincy 24 years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Patricia (Coghlan) Samodelov; two sons, Dr. Leonid Samodelov of Cleveland, Ohio, and Patrick Samodelov of Philadelphia, Pa.; two daughters, Alina Dyatchina of Russia and Maria Donaghue of Quincy; nine grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren. Council On Aging To Receive $67,000 In State Grants

State Sen. Michael Morrissey and Reps. Michael Bellotti, Ronald Mariano and Stephen Tobin announce that the Executive Office of Elder Affairs will soon award Formula Grants to 335 Councils on Aging in the Commonwealth and that the Fiscal Year 1998 amount distribution will be greater than anticipated.

Save Gas and Money Shop Locally

The grant increase is due to the Legislature increasing the overall amount allocated to the program. The original formula was based on the Governor's proposed FY98 budget. The Executive Office of Elder Affairs adjusted the grant award formula to reflect the increased funding.

"The Quincy Council on Aging will receive a grant award of $64,036 and will receive an additional $3,659 later in the year because of the Legislature's efforts," said Mariano.

The grant money will be used for a variety to services in the senior community. One of the projects listed is transportation services, including the cost of maintenance. The money will also be used for the Council on Aging's outreach and service programs, including the clerical and administrative costs.

The grant money helps support and expand existing programs and provide for the day-to-day operations at the Council on Aging," said Tobin.

The Executive Office of Elder Affairs award formula is based on the number of seniors in a community. The original formula multiplies the number of persons who are 60 years or older in age by $3.50. The minimum award per municipality is $1,500.

"While no community will be left out from participating in this grant program, those with larger senior populations will receive more money," said Bellotti.

The population figures are based on the 1990 census. In Quincy's case, there are 18,296 persons 60 years of older multiplied by $3.50 with the grant amount $64,036. The new formula increases the amount per person 60 years or older to $3.70 with a minimum award to a municipality to $2,000.

"Given the number of seniors the Quincy Council on Aging services, the difference of 20 cents per senior is substantial," said Morrissey. "The Legislature's increase in this important program reflects our commitment to the senior population.

PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT FROM THE CITY OF QUINCY DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS

EPA, City Officials Concerned About Water Lead Levels

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the City of Quincy Department of Public Works are concerned about lead in your drinking water. Although most homes have very low levels of lead in their drinking water, some homes in the community have lead levels above the EPA action level of 15 parts per billion gallons of water (ppb), or 0.015 milligrams per liter (mg/1). Under Federal law, in conjunction with the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA) we are required to have a program in place to minimize lead in your drinking water.

The program is centered around corrosion control treatment. The MWRA has been adjusting the ph of the water feeding the City of Quincy in order to reduce its corrosivity.

The water leaving the Quabbin Reservoir which feeds the City of Quincy meets all State and Federal drinking water standards. Lead enters drinking water primarily from corrosion of water mains and household plumbing. Remember - not every home has a lead contamination problem. Most people have low levels of-lead in their drinking water. But because you cannot see, taste, or smell lead, testing the water is the only way to know whether you have a problem.

We can Help. In this newsletter, we tell you how and where to get your water tested. We also explain the simple steps you can take to protect yourself and your family by reducing exposure to lead from drinking water.

If you have any questions about how we are carrying out the requirements of the lead regulation, or want more information about what you can do, please call the Sewer, Water and Drain Division at (617) 376-1911.

HEALTH EFFECTS OF LEAD

Lead is a common metal found throughout the environment in leadbased paint, air, soil, household dust, food, certain types of pottery porcelain, pewter, and water. Lead can pose significant risk to your health if too much accumulates in your body.

Lead builds up in the body over many years and can cause damage to the brain, red blood cells, and kidneys. The greatest risk is to young children (especially under the age of 6) and pregnant women. Amounts of lead that won't hurt adults can slow down the normal mental and physical development in the growing bodies of children. In addition, a child at play often comes into contact with sources of lead contamination - like dirt and dust - that rarely affect an adult. It is important, therefore, to wash children's hands and toys often, and try to make sure that they only put food in their mouths.

LEAD IN DRINKING WATER

Lead in drinking water, although rarely the sole cause of lead poisoning, can significantly increase a person's total exposure, particularly the exposure of infants who drink baby formulas and concentrated juices that are mixed with water. The EPA estimates that drinking water can make up 20 percent or more of a person's total exposure to lead.

HOW LEAD ENTERS OUR WATER

Lead is unusual among drinking water contaminants in that it seldom occurs naturally in water supplies such as rivers and lakes. Lead enters drinking water primarily as a result of the corrosion, or wearing away of materials containing lead within the water distribution system and household plumbing. These materials include lead based solder used to join copper pipe, brass, and chrome plated brass faucets. In some cases pipe made of lead connect your house to the water main (service connections). In 1986 Congress banned the use of lead solder containing greater than 0.2% lead, and restricted the lead content of faucets, pipes, and other plumbing materials to 8.0%

When water stands in pipes or plumbing systems which contain lead for several hours or more, the lead may dissolve into your drinking water. This means the first water drawn from the tap in the morning, or later in the afternoon after returning from work or school, can contain fairly high levels of lead.

STEPS YOU CAN TAKE AT HOME TO REDUCE EXPOSURE TO LEAD IN DRINKING WATER

1. Have Your Drinking Water Tested Despite our best efforts mentioned earlier to control water corrosivity and remove lead from the water supply, lead levels in some homes or buildings can be high. To find out whether you need to take action in your home, have your drinking water tested to determine if it contains excessive concentrations of lead. Testing the water is essential because you cannot see, taste, or smell lead in drinking water. Several local laboratories can test drinking water including: Analytical Balance Corp. (508)697-2650

American Environmental Laboratories 1-800-522-0094
Aqua Air Analytical (617) 337-9334

American Environmental Laboratories will have sample bottles including directions at the Quincy Public Works Sewer, Water, and Drain Billing Office at 55 Sea Street, Quincy MA. 02169. The homeowner, (for $15.00), will be able to conduct the test for lead and copper and return the bottles to the Sewer, Water, and Drain Billing Office where the sample will be picked up and analyzed by the laboratory. All results will be forwarded to the homeowner.

2. Flush Your System Flushing tap water is a simple and inexpensive measure you can take to protect your family's health. It usually uses less than one or two gallons of water and costs less than one cent per month.

To flush, let the water run from the tap before using it for drinking or cooking any time the water in a faucet has gone unused for more than six hours. The longer water resides in your home's plumbing, the more lead it may contain. Flushing the tap means running the water until it gets noticeably colder, usually about 15-30 seconds. If your house has a lead service line to the water main. You may have to flush the water for a longer time, perhaps one minute, before drinking. Although toilet flushing or showering flushes water through a portion of your plumbing system, you still need to flush the water in each faucet before using it for drinking or cooking. In order to conserve water, fill a couple of bottles for drinking water after flushing the tap, and whenever possible use the first flush water to wash the dishes or water the plants.

If you live in a high-rise building, letting the water flow before using it may not lessen your risk of exposure from lead. This is because plumbing systems have more, and sometimes larger, pipes than smaller buildings. Ask your landlord for help in locating the source of lead and for advice on reducing the lead level.

3. Use Only Cold Water for Cooking and Drinking Try not to cook with, or drink water form the hot water tap. Hot water can dissolve more lead quicker than cold water. If you need hot water, draw water from the cold tap and heat it on the stove.

4. Remove Loose Lead Solder and Debris from the plumbing materials in newly constructed homes, or homes in which the plumbing has recently been replaced. To do this, remove the faucet strainers from all taps and run the water from 3 to 5 minutes. Thereafter, periodically remove the strainers and flush out any debris that has accumulated over time.

5. Identify and Replace Lead Materials With Lead-Free Ones If your copper pipes are joined with lead solder that has been installed illegally since it was banned in 1986, notify the plumber who did the work and request that he or she replace the lead solder with lead-free solder. Lead solder looks dull gray, and when scratched with a key looks shiny. In addition notify the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection about the violation.

6. Determine if the Service Line That Connects Your Home to the Water Main is Made of Lead The best way to determine if your service connection is made of lead is by either hiring a licensed plumber to inspect the line or by contacting the contractor who installed the line. You can identify the plumbing contractor by checking City records of service installations.

The Quincy Department of Public Works maintains a record of materials located in the distribution system. If the service line that connects your dwelling contributes more than 15 ppb of lead to drinking water after the MWRA's comprehensive treatment program is in place the City will be required to replace the line. If the line is only partially controlled by The Quincy Department of Public Works, we are required to provide you with information on how to replace your portion of the service line, and offer to replace that portion of the line at your expense and take a follow-up tap water sample within 14 days of replacement. Acceptable replacement alternatives include copper, steel, iron and plastic pipes.

7. Have An Electrician Check Your Wiring If grounding wires from the electrical system are attached to your pipes, corrosion may be greater. Check with a licensed electrician or your local electric code to determine if your wiring can be grounded elsewhere. DO NOT attempt to change the wiring yourself because improper grounding can cause electrical shock and fire hazards.

Additional Steps

The steps described above will reduce the lead concentrations in your drinking water. However, if a water test indicates that the drinking water coming from your tap contains lead concentrations in excess of 15 ppb after flushing, or after the MWRA has completed actions to minimize lead levels, you may want to take the following additional measures:

8. Purchase or Lease a Home Treatment Device Home treatment devices are limited because each unit treats only water that flows from the faucet to which it is connected, and all devices require periodic maintenance and replacement. Devices such as a reverse osmosis system or distillers can effectively remove lead from your drinking water. Some activated carbon filters may reduce levels at the tap, however, all lead reduction claims should be investigated. Be sure to check actual performance of a specific home treatment device before and after installing the unit.

9. Purchase Bottled Water for Drinking and Cook

BUSINESS

Patricia Faiella Named SSEDC Executive Director

Patricia A. Faiella has been named executive director of the South Shore Economic Development Corporation (SSEDC), an affiliate of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce in Quincy.

Faiella, a resident of Weymouth, comes to SSEDC with extensive banking experience. At Fleet Bank, she served as assistant vice president of small business lending and of the commercial lending division. Her experience in the small business arena will be invaluable to her new position, where she is responsible for administering the Small Business Administration (SBA) 504 Loan Program.

Prior to her positions at Fleet Bank, she worked for Bank of New England, where she was promoted several times to positions of increasing responsibility, including assistant vice president of private banking.

"Pat has a solid background in commercial lending, and as a Weymouth resident, she is familiar with the lending institutions on the South Shore," said Ronald Zooleck, president and CEO of the South Shore Chamber. Her experience will be instrumental in responding to the growing needs of the prospering local economy."

PATRICIA FAIELLA

SSEDC is a not-for-profit organization which administers the SBA 504 Loan Programs and provides individual small business counseling. The 504 program provides financing for small businesses to purchase a new facility, expand or renovate an existing facility, or to purchase new equipment. It features below-market fixed rate, long-term, with a lower down payment than regular commercial loans.

Companies interested in information about the 504 program can call 479-7066.

Graham Offers New Web Site

Graham Communications has introduced the second generation of its web site.

The site for the public relations and marketing firm was redesigned in June, less than a year after the site was created in August. It has now become more interactive with web browsers, adding new features, links and information about the company, which was founded by President John Graham in 1976.

Graham said the site will continue to be updated periodically.

The remodeled site has a list of improvements and additions geared towards customer convenience. The new site features easier access, improved graphics and even a downloadable demo of software the company is offering.

Browsers can access a list of client testimonials, as well as get a full listing of the services Graham Communications offers. The site indexes all of the company's services, from advertising to public relations to types of promotional materials the company can provide.
